The best advice that can be given in regard to this ailment is to have the adult birds tested in the college veterinary laboratory when they are laying close to 50 per cent in the fall. Be very careful that the source of baby chicks is clean, the flock showing at least a very low percentage of reactors.

Pullorum disease often breaks out as a fire in a dry forest. A pen of chicks suffering from such an outbreak is probably better destroyed. Most of them will die anyway, and those that are left will be a constant menace. Isolate for at least two weeks all birds exhibited at poultry shows after bringing them home.

DUSTING PROVES MORE PRACTICAL THAN SPRAYING

There is an increasing interest beginning in dusting as a substitute for and a supplement to spraying. The ease and rapidity of application, the reduced equipment and labor costs, all raise the question of effectiveness in the control of insects and diseases.

In order to demonstrate the effectiveness of dust, a number of demonstrations have been conducted throughout the state during the past three seasons. A small hand duster was used and the writer visited all such demonstrations by auto for the purpose of making the applications. Optimum conditions for application could not be secured under these conditions but the results are certainly worthy of consideration.

To protect, a fungicide or insecticide must be applied thoroughly and at the right time. Thorough aplication with the liquid spray depends very largely upon the man handling the rod or gun. As he becomes tired, the work suffers no mater how conscientious he be. There will be misses and burning due to not enough or too much material and pressure being used. Any reasonably efficient worker can do a good job of dusting if weather conditions are at all satisfactory. Proper timing of a spray is often prevented by adverse weather conditions. The large orchard cannot be covered quickly enough by the spray equipment. Dusting can be done in from one-quarter to one-third the time required for spraying and therefore can be finished during short periods of good weather. Still air conditions are necessary for dusting, however, and the work generally has to be done early in the morning or at night.

Cost enters into the problem. Carefully kept records show that while the dusting materials cost more, the equipment and labor charges are so reduced that the cost per application is the same or a little less for the dust.

Effectiveness, then, is the next problem. Demonstrations during the 1929 season gave these results. In Providence county, Rhode Island, in a McIntosh orchard, scab on dusted trees 5 per cent; on sprayed trees, 19 per cent; Curculio on dusted trees, 28 per cent; on sprayed trees, 27 per cent. Other pests were so well controlled as not to be important factors. In Westerly on McIntosh; Scab on dusted trees, 8 per cent; on sprayed, 16 per cent; Curculio on dusted trees, 20 per cent; on sprayed, 34 per cent.

These figures indicate that under certain conditions at least, dusting can very effectively control our common pests. An apple with a tiny scab spot or a single curculio sting counted against the fungicide and insecticide in each case.

To Help Market Farm Timber.

To develop a market for farm-timber products a wood-products department has been established by the Farmers Federation of North Carolina, according to reports received by the Forest Service, United States Department of Agriculture. H. Roth has been employed as manager.

Finding a market for all forms of wood produced in the state will eventually mean greatly increased prosperity, it is declared. The farmers have had no regular and satisfactory market for wood products, although somewhat over 50 per cent of the farm area of western North Carolina is classed as woodland. The wood and areas of 1,511,513 acres and about 180,000 idle acres are a potential sorce of wealth.

The work of the wood-products department will also include a reforestation program, it is reported.

Hardwood Ashes.

Gardeners frequently ask is coal and wood ashes make good fertilizer for garden soils. According to the United States department of agriculture, wood ashes from hardwoods contain considerable potash and a little lime, and are valuable fertilizer. Fairy dry uneached hardwood ashes may be applied at the rate of not more than 50 pounds to 1,800 square feet. Wood ashes from softwoods, and hardwood ashes that have been exposed to the weather and have had the potash leached from them, have little fertilizer value. Coal ashes have little value as fertilizer, their use being mainly to loosen the soil and make it more workable. On heavy clay soils, coal ashes tend to lighten the soil.

EASTERN VOLUNTOWN

Visitors at Mr. and Mrs. William's Sunday were Lee Remington and children of Oneco and callers were Henry Wallace and Fred Condis of Lisbon.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshal Bitgood of Middletown visited with their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. William Bitgood, recently. Mr. Bitgood has been quite sick with blood poisoning. He is quite a little better but can't do any work yet. He has one son, a lawyer, in California. Mr. Bitgood is a veterinary in Middletown.

Thomas Lew's fell from a staging and hurt his back quite bad. He is fixing a hen coop for Elmer Tenner at Bailey's pond; he also has a bad cold.

Who were the two men who went through Eastern Voluntown recently looking for a wild cat? They stopped at one man's home and saw a woman's hat hanging on a hook. They took it down and asked if that was all the specimen they had and they said yes so they went on to find the fold cat. Don't know whether they found it or not. All they lack if they find it is some one to climb the tree and fetch him down.

Mrs. Albert Dawley and daughter, Nellie Bitgood and two granddaughters, Lila Bitgood and Amy Gravlin, were at Mrs. Dawley's farm for the night mondty. They went back to Voluntown early Tuesday morning as Mrs. Dawley had to be at her store. While there Mrs. Bitgood talked with Mrs. Dawley on the phone, also with little Lila.

Flora Remington has a bad cold. She is some better at this writing. Her son, Woodrow, is coming down with one, he is quite croupy. They live in Oneco. Mr. and Mrs. William Bitgood's daughter and grandson.

Your correspondent was sorry to hear of the death of Clarence Tyler at Sterling. They are not much acquainted with him but know his wife well. She and all of the family have the sympathy of your correspondent. He leaves two small boys. One 8 years old is in the hospital.

William Bitgood and Jefferson Barber's hired man are working on the road.

Samuel Bitgood has been plowing for Jefferson Barber.

The Lewis Boys and Paul Lybeck of Beach Pond called at William Bitgood's recently.

Mrs. Mason Gray of Campbell Mills picked a nice mess of greens Monday. They were dandelions, nettles and other kinds besides. Mrs. Bitgood had an invitation to go and eat with her. She would have like to gone if she had been able.

Mr. Blazak and Mr. Irkerson were callers at William Bitgood's recently, wanting to buy shingles. Mr. Bitgood doesn't saw any now.

DALLAS LITTLE THEATER AGAIN EYES U. S. TITLE

DALLAS, Tex.—(AP)—The Dallas Little Theater, like Alexander of old, is looking for new worlds to conquer.

The Dallas amateur actors, now housed in an elaborate $100,000 theater, won the Belasco cup in New York in 1924, 1925 and 1926, the last year turning back a pair of British rivals.

The winning because monotonous and the Texas dramatic artists turned to the organization of a state tournament as an outlet for their endeavor. In 1926, 1927 and 1928, they were hosts to the tournoment and therefore did not enter. Last year the competition was conducted at Houston and the Dallas players walked away with first honors in a field of seven.

Now they wonder if they still are the cream of the national field and are contemplating taking part in the Theater Arts magazine tournment at New York in May.

SAFER SEAL HUNTING CHEERS COAST INDIANS

PORT ANGELES, Wash.—(AP)—Discovery of a fur seal on the beach near here for the first time in years has brought cheer to the Indians of this region.

The natives believe that this year they will not have to risk their lives traveling by canoe more than 40 miles offshore to get within harpooning distance of the seal.

They assert that the seal herd has attained such great numbers now that many will come ashore for a sunning and braves are planning to organize beach patrols.

Tailors Almost Run Town

WOLLMESHEIM, Palatinate—(AP)——This village is run 50 per cent by tailors. When ballots were counted during the recent election for members of the village council, it developed that exactly six of the 12 councilmen were master tailors. One of them was even made burgo-master.

May Mark Camp Sherman

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio—(AP)—Camp Sherman, which served as a military post during four wars, may be marked with a monument. Governor Myers Y. Cooper is sponsoring a campaign to obtain the monument. Sherman was a training camp during the war of 1812, Civil, Spanish-American and World wars.

Cause of "Aging" in Rubber

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The bureau of standards has found that one phase of the deterioration or "aging" of rubber is due to the formation of hydrogen sulphide which is caused by the splitting or breaking up of the rubber sulphur compound.

Twenty-two ground-to-plane radio stations are being installed in nine western states.

When the Arbutus Blooms

When the arbutus blooms in the meadows brown and bare,
And the golden daffodils' lifted spears are seen,
When the withered grass on the southern slopes grows green,
We know that April comes and her face is fair.

There's a twitter of mating birds in the sparkling air,
There's a babble of brooks from dawn till the dusk of e'en,
When the arbutus blooms in the meadows brown and bare,
And the golden daffodils' lifted spears are seen,

The sprites that fled when wintry winds blew keen
Now nimbly dance in the bowers of the maidenhair;
Pan flutes again from his rushy river lair,
And Love upsprings in the heart and reigns as queen
When the arbutus blooms in the meadows brown and bare,
And the golden daffodils' lifted spears are seen,

Family doctor's laxative instead of harsh purges; trial bottle Free

Dr. Caldwell's prescription cannot form the cathartic habit. It can be given to the child whose tongue is coated, or whose breath is fetid, or has a little fever. Or to the older people whose bowels are clogged. Its ingredients stimulate muscular action and thus aid the bowels to more normal functioning. The pure senna and laxative herbs in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are good for the system. Don't hesitate to use when there's biliousness, headaches, or any sign of constipation. Your druggist has this world-famous prescription ready in big bottles. Or, write Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, Monticello, Ill., and a free trial bottle will be sent to you, postpaid.

REARRANGE SOCIAL DATES ON WHITE HOUSE CALENDAR

WASHINGTON, April 10—(AP)—Warren Delano Robbins, new master of ceremonies for the white house, is having his hands full rearranging the capitol's social program.

The death of Secretary Good with its period of mourning postponed all official social activities for a time. Just as white house parties got well started President and Mrs. Hoover decided on a much needed rest in Florida.

Thus Mr. Robbins is having a busy vacation from his duties as minister to Salvador since President Hoover asked him to act as master of ceremonies.

It is his duty to set dates for official dinners and receptions. He has decided the white house will forego any state receptions during Lent. The original program continued entertainments after Ash Wednesday.

Big Growth In British Rubber

WASHINGTON—(AP)—British rubber industry is registering considerable expansion. Statistics just released show that deliveries of crude rubber to manufacturers last year almost doubled the amount for 1928.

MONTVILLE

FAREWELL GIFT OF $125 FOR REV. CHARLES SMITH

There was a large attendance at a farewell given Rev. Charles Smith of the Uncasville M. E. church Wednesday evening in the church parlors. The meeting was in charge of Robert Dodds and he addressed the retiring pastor as follows:

Dear Mr. Smith: On behalf of your many friends in the community of Uncasville we take great pleasure in presenting you this gift as a slight testimonial of our esteem and love for you. Your labors here for the past eight years have been most efficient and have inspired a confidence and affection which will always be cherished by us. For every effort we thank you heartily. May much comfort and good health go hand and hand with you down the remaining pathway of life.

Mrs. French read a poem written by David Merritt Carlyle of New London, entitled, "At Parting From Our Pastor." This set forth the appreciation of the people for the devoted service of Rev. Mr. Smith, their regret that he was to leave them and their sincere good wishes for his future success and happiness.

Mr. Smith was presented a chest containing $125 in gold from his friends in Uncasville and from Montville Center, where he supplied the pulpit for a time. Mr. Smith expressed thanks for the gift and the expressions of esteem and stated that he was taking with him many sweet memories of the past eight years.

An eloquent tribute was paid Rev. Mr. Smith in the address of Rev. Myron E. Genter of Norwich, district superintendent. Several hymns were sung by the assembly. After prayer by Rev. Howard Bushnell and benediction by Rev. Mr. Genter a lunch was served by the women of the church, Mrs. Wallace Potter having charge of the very successful arrangements. Rev. Mr. Smith left Uncasville Thursday for South Harwich, Mass.

Robertson Ball Team Elects

At the Robertson's Paper Box Co. baseball meeting held Wednesday, the following officers were elected: Gilbert Costello, captain; A. Rosenlund, treasurer, and George Sisson, manager. Andrew Rosenlund was chosen to represent the team at the meetings of the Industrial league.

John Sackringer has moved from the Bonville home at Pequot to one of the Massassoit Mfg. Co. tenements at Oakdale.

A large number of men were laid off at the Robert Gairs plant, Uncasville, this week.

Mrs. Lawrence Joseph, Mrs. M. J. Pont, Irene and William Pont, of Mystic, Miss Mary Pupilo, of Westerly, R. I., called on Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Pont, Jr., of Pequot, Wednesday.

Michael Curtin, who has been ill for the past few days, has resumed his duties at Palmertown.

Peter S. Gauthier, of Pequot, who gashed his foot Tuesday while cutting wood at Flanders, where he is employed, is showing marked improvement at his home in Pequot avenue.

BAREST BACK YET FOR 1930 SUN GIRL

PARIS, April 10—(AP)—The 1930 summer girl is back—and mostly back in first spring showings of summer beach costumes.

Paris wants every woman to have her place in the sun and to wear a sun suit when she occupies it.

Couturiers are devoting more ingenuity and less material to sun clothes than to any other phase of summer dressmaking.

Results vary from skirt-like trousers which just clear the ground, to the merest shorts and bib bodices, less clothing than the average chorus girl wears before the footlights.

Frankly, it is the sketchiest outdoor apparel ever sponsored by Parisian haute couture.

Stylemakers agree on one point of the sunbathing costume. That is that it must be as nearly backless as possible. How and how far is a problem every designer decides for himself.

Lido pajamas of clinging silk, once considered daring, are mid-Victorian apparel in comparison with the sectional sunsuits put forth this spring.

The top layer, usually consisting of knee-length coat, is made to cover all, if it is a skirt costume. Under the coat goes a wrap-around dress which can be taken off, revealing a backless bathing suit, one-piece beach suit, or shorts and pullover.

Carnival spirit rules the beach. Sunbathing beauties are turned out to look like wandering Arabs, chorus girls in practice suits, Mexican peons, sailors, fishermen and cen- you want, to match your costume, including sandals, beach hat, umbrella, sunburn oilcan, make-up box, rubber jewelry, foldingtable and cocktail kit, moisture-proof playing cards for beach bridge, and a tent and mattress.

One of the sensational beach costumes shown for summer is made of blue and white stripe mattress ticking with huge sun hat to match.

WOMAN'S CLUBS AGAINST ORPHANAGES FOR YOUTHS

WASHINGTON, April 10—(AP)—Normal homes instead of orphanages for normal children will be the aim of the General Federation of Woman's club this year as part of a child welfare program.

"The idea of the adopted home or good boarding home for dependent children is becoming more popular every day," says Mrs. Frank Humphrey, chairman of the child welfare division of the federation. "One expert predicts that in 10 years all normal dependent children will be in good homes and adopted legally, or in good boarding houses supported by the state."

Cincinnati was one of the cities cited by Mrs. Humphrey as having made strides in child welfare.

A large orphanage there was closed last year and the children now are in private homes or approved boarding houses.

MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS DUPLICATE THEIR GOWNS

WASHINGTON, April 10—(AP)—Matching gowns for mother and daughter or for sisters who attend social affairs together is popular this winter in Washington.

If mother wears black taffeta, daughter has a gown of the same material "youthified" a bit.

Two popular sisters with red hair appeared at a white house affair in matching gowns of green. The girl with lightest locks had a gown of nile green velvet with a skirt trimmed with tulle, ruffles. The other, whose hair is darker red, was dressed in green crepe with long train.

RUBBERIZED CREPE SMART IN PARIS

PARIS, April 10—(AP)—Printed waterproof crepe de chine is used for hat, gloves, scarf and handbag to accompany tailored street costumes in one stylemaker's spring collection.

The accessories are made of the same rubberized material as raincoats. The combination of light blue rubberized silk accessories with navy blue wool ensembles is favored.

When Babies CRY

Babies will cry, often for no apparent reason. You may not know what's wrong, but you can always give Castoria. This soon has your little one comforted; if not, you should call a doctor. Don't experiment with medicines intended for the stronger systems of adults! Most of those little upsets are soon soothed away by a little of this pleasant-tasting, gentle-acting children's remedy that children like.

It may be the stomach, or may be the little bowels. Or in the case of older children, a sluggish, constipated condition, Castoria is still the thing to give. It is almost certain to clear up any minor ailment, and could by no possibility do the youngest child the slightest harm. So it's the first thing to think of when a child has a coated tongue; won't play, can't sleep, is fretful or out of sorts. Get the genuine; it always has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the package.

COLORED STITCHING TRIMS NEW FROCKS

PARIS, April 10—(AP)—Machine stitching done with light thread on dark fabrics, or with dark thread on light material, is a favorite way of finishing spring dresses of wool or heavy silk.

Many new dresses have skirt pleats stitched along their outer edge.

Necklines and sleeves have multiple rows of stitching on the tailored type of dress.

PALM BEACH LIKES "MOONLIGHT" GOWNS

PALM BACH, Fla., April 10—(AP)—The Florida moon is taking a hand in fashioning fashionable gowns.

"Moonlight" gowns, usually worn where dancing is enjoyed out doors, are much in demand at Paln Beach. A gown of this type in misty white chiffon, glittering with crystals has been featured recently.

RINGE IS REVIVED FOR EVENING DRESSES

PARIS, April 10—(AP)—A revival of fringe as the trimming for evening dresses is apparent in the new styles. Grecian type draped dresses of white or black frequently have a band of fringe reaching from the knees to the floor. The fringe is incorporated into the cut and silhouette of the dress.

CLOSING PRICES WERE IRREGULAR UNDER HIGHEST LEVELS OF THE DAY

NEW YORK, April 10— (AP) —The stock market was treated to one of the most violent bullish displays in its history in the first half hour of trading today. Although the remainder of the session was somewhat of an anti-climax, favorable industrial developments buttressed the market against heavy profit-taking and a renewal of short selling in individual issues.

Closing prices were somewhat irregular, and on the while substantially under the highest levels of the day, but the index of 90 representative issues showed a net gain of about 1-2 point, recording another 1930 peak. Total sales, swelled by a turnover of more than 1,000,000 shares in the first half hour, aggregated 6,681,370 shares, the second largest of the year.

The news most pleasing to the bull faction came after the close of the market, when the weekly federal reserve brokers' loan compilation disclosed an increase of only $26,000,000. As the market has made substantial progress during the period covered by these figures, they can only indicate that stocks are passing into strong hands, or that pool operators are heavily borrowing from non-reserve member bank sources, and the latter explanation is not regarded as likely. The weekly banking statements indicated continuance of favorable money conditions.

Despite the month-end requirements, New York banks increased their federal reserve borrowings by only $6,000,000. They withdrew $76,000,000 from the call loan market, but this was more than made up by loans of about $80,000,000 from out of town banks and a small increase in loans for "others." Call money remained plentiful, again ranging from 4 to 3 1-2 per cent. Time money was a little easier, the shorter maturities sagging 1-4 of 1 per cent. to 3 3-4 to 4 per cent.

Outstanding developments in the day's business news were the ending of the crude oil price cutting with announcement of an increase by Humble Oil, which initiated the movement in January to force curtailment of production and announcement by U. S. Steel of an increase of about 90,000 tons in unfilled tonnage during March. The steel corporation's total backlog of unfilled business is now the largest in four years. Of course, this business has been permitted to pile up by a moderate rate of operations, compared to this time last year, when mills were running at practical capacity. Less favorable items were first quarter earnings statements by Nash and Underwood Elliott Fisher, showing substantial declines from their quarter of last year. Wall street, however, is prepared to receive many such reports on first quarter operations.

The utility shares displayed the most consuicuous strength, but were joined by several chemicals, food shares, motor and specialties. Oils responded but moderately to the increase in crude prices, and rails were largely neglected. U. S. Steel sold up nearly 3 points on the tonnage report, but lost some of its gain before the close. General Motors sold up moderately to a new 1930 high. J. I. Case mounted 10 points to 308, but closed at 300. Allied Chemical, American Water Works, Freeport Texas, Hershey Chocolate, Penick and Ford, Raybestos, Public Service of N. J., Standard of Kansas, United Carbon, and Warner Quinlan were among issues selling up about 2 to 5 points mostly to new 1930 tops. Soft spots were American Telephone, Eastman Kodak, and United Aircraft, losing about 2 to 3 points. Johns Manville was depressed 5.

Commodities were somewhat irregular. Wheat sold up about 2 cents early in the day, but lost its gain on reports of needed rains in Kansas and the southwest. Corn sagged nearly a cent on bearish weather. Cotton futures were steady, closing 50 cents a bale higher to 10 cents lower.

Foreign exchanges moved sharply upward when the Bank of England failed to announce another cut in its discount rate. Sterling cables rallied 1-4 to $4.86 5-8, and other Europeans were mostly firm.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, April 10—(AP)—Prices on the New York Curb exchange started upward at a brisk pace in one of the heaviest trading sessions of the year today, but ran into heavy realizing in the afternoon, and closed irregularly higher. Uneasiness over the possibility that the market's technical position had been weakened by the rapidity of recent advance, coupled with fears in some quarters of a large increase in brokers' loans, which proved to be unfounded, probably inspired much of the late selling.

On the reactions, the market showed evidence of a strong reserve buying power which was an encouragement to operators for the advance. Public participation in the market has been increasing, particularly in the public utility and oil groups and a few specialties in which favorable developments are believed to be pending.

American Light and Traction (old stock) was the spectacular feature in the public utility group, soaring 25 points to a new high for the year at 318. Last year the stock sold as high as 399, while the low of this year was 225. The new stock jumped 7 1-2 points to 82 and retained all but a fraction of its gain. Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, Hydro Electric and United Light and Power issues also moved into new high ground for the year. Electric Bond and Share closed fractionally higher at 111 1-4 after moving within a range of 2 points. Cities Service closed 1 5-8 points higher.

Oils developed a strong undertone as a result of an increase in Mid-Continent crude prices. Humble Oil & Refining, which originated the advance in prices, closed nearly 2 points higher at 117 1-4 after having touched a new 1930 top at 119. Gulf showed a net gain of 3 3-8 and Cosden 4 3-8. Standard Oils of Indiana and Kentucky held steady.

Aviation issues ran into some selling after the brisk advance in that group earlier in the week. Aviation Corporation of the Americas, Fokker, Irving Air Chute and Western Air Express yielded 1 to nearly 3 points. North American Aviation, a recent feature, was transferred to the big board where trading started today. Fairchild Aviation showed independent strength, touching a new high.

Deere & Co. extended its gain on publication of a government report showing a substantial increase in the demand for farm machinery. Among the many specialties which reached new high ground were Corroon Reynolds, Driver Harris, Guardian Fire Assurance, Morrison Electric, U. S. Finishing and U. S. Radiator.

Amrad and Canadian Marconi divided speculative interests in the radio group, the former jumping more than 9 points to a new high at 32 1-2 and then easing to 30 1-8, while the latter advanced 1 1-4 points to a new high at 9 on a heavy turnover. Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, one of the few rails traded in on the curb, jumped 9 points to a new high at 129.

NEW YORK, April 10—(AP)—Building permits issued in March in 583 leading cities of the country showed a gain of 46 per cent over February, S. W. Straus & Co. reported today. March permits totaled $408,931,092 in value, and February $128,043,217. The normal seasonal increase from February to March is 37 percent.

Stockholders of the Michigan Steel Co. have approved the proposal to increase the capital stock from 225,000 to 500,000 shares.

Reports from the copper trade today stated that buying here and abroad is quiet and that consumers evidently are waiting to see how large the increase in refined stocks will be when the monthly figures are announced a few days hence.

The first unit of the first electric power plant to be built in England with American capital has been completed at Stourport for the Shropshire, Worcestershire and Staffordshire Electric Power Co., a subsidiary of the Utilities Power & Light Corp., of which H. L. Clark, of Chicago, who recently purchased the voting stock of the Fox Film Corp., from William Fox, is president. The plant at Stourport, when completed, will represent an expenditure of about $10,000,000, one-fourth of the amount which the company plans to spend on similar projects in England during the next four years.

Gold movements at the port of New York from April 3, to 9, as reported by the New York Federal Reserve bank, was confined to imports from Latin-America, amounting to only $28,000. There were no exports or net change in the amount of gold earmarked for foreign account.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, April 10—(AP)—Investment bonds made some progress today, despite the fact that the day's new financing reached one of the largest totals of the year, aggregating more than $150,000,000. Short term time money was slightly easier and call funds repeated the 4 per cent to 3 1-2 per cent movement.

Rails displayed the most encouraging tone in several days. Convertibles were highly irregular, with the trend generally downward. Of the United States governments only the first Liberties closed lower, gains in the others ranging from one to ten-thirty seconds. Foreign bonds were firm.

An extension of bank buying pushed numerous carrier liens higher. Santa Fe general 4s, Baltimore & Ohio 4s, Delaware & Hudson 4s, Morris & Essex 3 1-2s, New York Central debenture 4s, Pere Marquette 4 1-2s, and Pennsylvania gold 5s, among other high grade issues, advanced from 1-8 to 1 point. Several secondary bonds showed considerable strength, Chicago and Eastern Illinois 6s rose 3 5-8, and Erie Consolidated 4s, and Mobile & Ohio 4 1-2s each gained a point.

The demand for utilities and industrials was not so board and was rather selective involving several of the higher yield obligations, Hoe & Company 6 1-2s rallied 4 1-2 points to the new high of 90. North States Power 6s rose nearly 2. Tobacco bonds sagged, Liggett & Myers 5s and Lorillard 5 1-2s, easing more than a point. Oils were dull.

In the stock feature group, American Telephone 4 1-2s sold off nearly all day, closing 2 1-4 lower. Amusement bonds followed an uncertain course and the General Theatres 6s and Loew's 6s dipped 3 and 1, respectively. Pathe 7s advanced nearly 2 while Shubert 6s made a new high above 67. Warner Brothers Pictures 6s closed even. American I. G. Chemical 5 1-2s came within a small fraction of their year's peak of 108 1-4. International Telephone 4 1-2s netted half a point higher.

The most active foreign bonds was the Kreuger and Toll 5s, with warrants. The volume in this issue was $400,000 and it attained a new high of 100 3-4. Berlin City Electric 6 1-2s rose 1 1-2. German Republic 7s were firm at 109. Serbian 7s equalled their high of 86 1-2.

Lively inquiry was reported for the $50,000,000 issue of Argentine government short term treasury 5s and the subscription books closed around noon. The largest piece of financing was the Republic Steel corporation's $50,000,000 block of six per cent convertible preferred stock, which likewise found a receptive market.

Treasury Balance

WASHINGTON, April 10 — (AP) — Treasury receipts for April 8 were: $4,102,488.98; expenditures $2,379,153.28; balance $325,900,576.07.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, April 10—(AP)—Wheat prices fluctuated sharply within a narrow range today, and dealings were on a big scale, with market action depending on changes of moisture relief in drought districts. Effects of the government crop report were confined to sudden early bulges which, however, proved transient in the face of heavy profit-taking sales as well as forecasts of showers southwest.

Closing quotations on wheat were irregular, at 1-4 net decline to 3-8 advance, compared with yesterday's finish. Corn closed 3-4 off to 1-8 up, oats a shade lower to 1-8 higher, and provisions varying from 15c setback to a rise of a shade.

Free selling from rural sources weakened the corn market. Farmers were reported as having their spring work unusually far along, a circumstance that appeared to be facilitating an increase of corn marketing, with dry weather improving the quality of offerings. Oats were governed chiefly by changes in prices of wheat and corn.

Provisions were somewhat easier, sympathizing with downturns in the value of hogs.

Closing indemnities: Wheat May 1.12, 1.16 1-2-5-8; July 1.12 3-8-1-2, 1.17 3-4-7-8; September 1.15-1-4, 1.20 1-2-5-8; December (bids) 1.19 1-2. Corn May 83 7-8, 85 3-8; July 86 1-2-5-8; 88-1-8; September 87 1-2-5-8, 89 1-4.

WOMEN FOLLOW EFFORTS TO CUT CHICAGO'S CRIME

CHICAGO, April 10—(AP)—Interested spectators of Chicago's effort to wipe out crime are members of the Chicago Woman's club, which established Chicago's first juvenile court.

The club is 54 years old and has played an active part in civic welfare projects. It maintained the first vocational advisor in the public schools and supported vacation schools for 12 years.

It established and still operates the first nursery school conducted in a public school in the United States and founded the protective agency for women and children.

Seek Most Historic Spot.

WASHINGTON, pril 10—(AP)—The most historic spot in the District of Columbia is the object of a contest by D. A. R. chapters there.

Dispute Family Influence.

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, April 10.—(AP)—The theory that the size of the family affects the college student's work has been folded away. The only child may make Phi Beta Happa, and the youth with 11 brothers and sisters may flunk out of school, or vice versa, a study made at Wittenberg college here, has revealed.

SWANK AIRPORT PROJECT COSTS MANY MILLIONS

WASHINGTON—(AP)—"Nests" for the nation's aerial ships of commerce and war are bringing new construction activity.

Proposed airports reported to the department of commerce total 1,113, a number to be added to the existing nucleus of 1,552 established military and civil fields.

Builders forecast that the modernized airport, where grease and dust are strangers to the passenger, will stretch its influence throughout the country.

The "pasture" field, where a stretch of level land and a shed shelter constituted an airport, is fading before pretentious projects whose total estimated cost soars beyond $500,000,000.

Safety and confort for pilot and passenger, and luxury rivaling railroad terminals of large cities mark new airports now springing up or taking form on blueprints.

Detroit will show the way in the spring when two projects, the municipal and Wayne county airports, will be put into service as "roundhouses" for passenger, mail, and express service.

The municipal field probably will be dedicated April 5 in conjunction with the all-American aircraft show. A new hangar, 1,014 feet long with 200,000 square feet of unobstructed floor space, is the largest of its type in the country.

Five miles from the heart of the city, the field will be augmented by the Wayne county airport, 18 miles distant. A total of $2,300,000 will be spent and the first of a series of hangars will be completed in the spring.

An administration building at Fairfax airport, Kansas City, Kas., will be completed at a cost of $160,000 for probable use this spring. The Kansas City municipal airport has built a smaller central plant at a cost of $70 000.

Among these figuring in futures is Tampa, Fla., where a $741,000 airport bond issue has been voted. A bayfront site will offer accommodations to land and seaplanes.

NEW CAMISOLE CUT DEEPER IN BLACK

PARIS, April 10—(AP)—The new style camisole varies from the prewar article in that it is cut into a deep U or V-shaped back.

The V-back also is incorporated into under slips or foundations of printed chiffon summer dresses.

Sometimes both top and bottom hems of the slip are finished in scallops or points.

All products exported from Spain are to have a national label.

AMERICAN DEVICES GROW IN POPULARITY ABROAD

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Business methods of the world are, more and more, becomming mechanized, by American concerns selling labor saving devices for offices.

Sales of American cash registers and typewriters grew in volume in 1929 as the rest of the world purchased $53,000,000 worth of office appliances from manufacturers.

Exports increased 11 per cent over 1928 to make a 48 per cent increase in the four years since 1925. Europe led the way in adopting American business methods.

ITALIAN AVIATORS TO MAKE TOURING RACE THIS SUMMER

ROME—(AP)—An "aerial circuit of Italy," a race open to touring planes of all nations, will be run off from here next August, starting from the Littorio airport, at which Williams and Yancey beached their "Pathfinder" last summer.

The first stop will be Naples, then Brindisi on the Adriatic, and from there the route will lead up the coast to Trieste.

From that seaport the planes will make for Verona, and thence will fly over Lombardy and Piedmont, returning to Rome by Placenza, Parma, Sarzana, Pisa and Siena. Minister of Aviation Italo Balbo is taking a personal interest in the contest.

SEATTLE'S POWER PROJECT GETS LARGEST GENERATORS

SEATTLE — (AP) — The generators capable of producing 133,400 kilowatts, will operate in the city of Seattle's new Diablo power project on the Skagit river about 75 miles north of the city. The generators, rated at 83,000 horsepower each, are said to exceed by 10,000 horsepower the largest generators in the world now in use.

Tourists Spend Millions

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Foreign tourists will spend $175,000,000 in 1930 in the United States, the American automobile association estimates. Canadian motorists are the principal source of revenue.

FLORIDA WOMAN BUILDS SHOE PAINTING BUSINESS

MIAMI, Fla., April 10—(AP)—A pair of scuffed and discolored shoes were the beginning of a profitable business for Mrs. Frank N. Fleetwood.

Five years ago she used paint to renovate a pair of her shoes. Friends in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., where she lived, liked them and asked her to paint theirs.

Now she colors them for Palm Beach and Miami society, specializing in tints that match costumes. Some of her customers send shoes to her from Europe.

The present annual increase in population of the United States is estimated at 1,500,000.

ALICE STONE BLACKWELL MAY ATTEND CONVENTION

BOSTON, April 10—(AP)—Alice Stone Blackwell, one of the oldest and most venerated of pioneer suffragists, may attend the national convention of the League of Women Voters to be held in Louisville, April 29 to May 5.

Ill health has kept Mrs. Blackwell from conventions in recent years, but because the coming gathering is a celebration of the tenth anniversary of woman's suffrage she will make an effort to go.

Society Woman Is Composer

WASHINGTON, April 10—(AP)—Mrs. Walter Bruce Howe, Washington society woman, composed "Poema Romanesqua," now being played by leading orchestras. It first was played by Barrere's Little Symphony in New York and later by the New York Symphony. Washington's new National Symphony orchestra is now playing it.

WE'RE TALKING ABOUT YOUR FIRST TANKFUL

SHELL

If we can sell you one tankful of SHELL Gasoline by this advertising, we've done all that advertising can hope to do. : : After that it's up to the gasoline. : : Every time you drive out you'll see more Yellow and Red SHELL Service Stations. : :

© S. E. P. P. INC. '30

These aren't new stations. They're established stations—that have changed to SHELL. : : Service station owners don't change their brands unless they can be sure that the change will bring them more business—steady, repeat business—because of the superiority of their new product. That's the only answer. Motorists who change to SHELL keep coming back for more. : : What's the reason? We're perfectly certain you'll find the reason in your first tankful of SHELL. That's the tankful we're talking about.

Now Change to SHELL and feel the difference

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

Creating a sensation that has seldom been equalled in a Norwich theatre, the engagement of lovely Ruth Chatterton in her greatest success, "Sarah & Son," will close with today's showings at the Broadway. Surpassing even her famed "Madame X," Miss Chatterton has added new laurels to her fame with this character of the indomitable Sarah Storm, buffeted alike by fate and mankind, but rising above her trials to success and happiness.

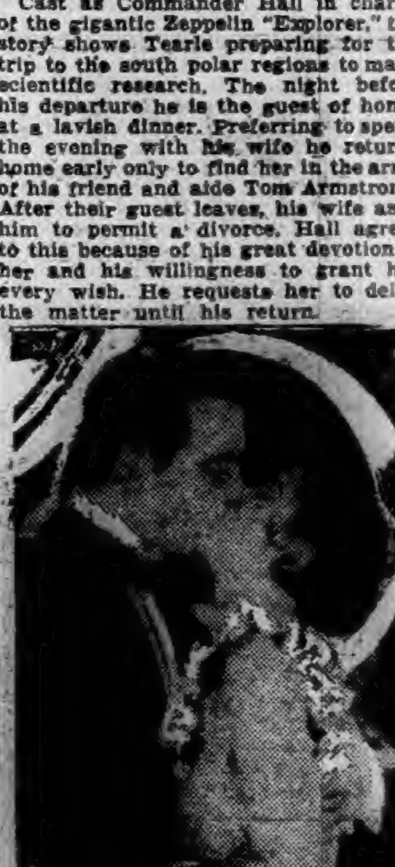
Tomorrow marks the opening of the big New York success, "Lord Byron of Broadway," the scintillating musical comedy-drama of a "tin-pan alley" song writer, a hopeless philanderer who found the inspiration for the songs from the hearts he so ruthlessly toyed with, but who finally and almost disastrously learned the true value of a woman's love, and wrote his greatest success. A wonderful cast portrays the story, with Charles Kaley, of "The Vanities," Ethelind Terry, the star of "Rio Rita," Marion Schilling, Cliff Edwards, Gwen Lee, Benny Rubin, and a talented chorus, including the famous Albertina Rasch girls. Comedy follows drama, with songs, dancing and spectacular scenic sets, their beauty enhanced by the lavish use of technicolor. The musical numbers are from the facile pen of Nacio Herb Brown, who wrote the successes for "Broadway Melody," "The Pagan," "Marianne," and a dozen other hits. "Should I" is already popular and with "A Bundle of Old Love Letters," "Only Love is Real," and the other melodies will be hummed and whistled everywhere. The surrounding bill features Charles Murray in his first feature-comedy "The Duke of Dublin," Bert Roach, Johnny Arthur and Ruth Taylor, the "original blonde whom gentlemen prefer," in "Scrappily Married," the latest Paramount Sound news, and Saturday afternoon the kiddie-special "Tarzan the Tiger."

Palace Theatre

"The Lost Zeppelin," an all-talking production starring Conway Tearle, Virginia Valli and Ricardo Cortez, will be presented tomorrow and will be continued through Tuesday at the Palace theatre. Filled with thrills from start to finish this picture has been received with enthusiasm in all parts of the country and is sure to be favored by patrons of the Palace.

Conway Tearle in one of his first roles as a talking screen star and the flight of a huge Zeppelin in the Antarctic regions are among the features of this unusual movie.

Cast as Commander Hall in charge of the gigantic Zeppelin "Explorer," the story shows Tearle preparing for the trip to the south polar regions to make scientific research. The night before his departure he is the guest of honor at a lavish dinner. Preferring to spend the evening with his wife he returns home early only to find her in the arms of his friend and aide Tom Armstrong. After their guest leaves, his wife asks him to permit a divorce. Hall agrees to this because of his great devotion to her and his willingness to grant her every wish. He requests her to delay the matter until his return.



RICARDO CORTEZ and VIRGINIA VALLI in "THE LOST ZEPPELIN" A Tiffany Production.

The next day, after the voyage has been started Hall tells Armstrong that he will give his wife her freedom when the expedition is over. The ship endures rough and stormy going and is wrecked against a mountain of ice leaving the men at the mercy of the elements with eight days' food supply and only the canvas covering for warmth. Death takes its toll in the cruel climate and soon Hall and Armstrong are the only survivors.

They are sighted by a plane and Hall, believing that his wife's happiness depends on the return of his young assistant, urges Armstrong to fly back with the aviators. There is room for only one passenger and so they return to civilization leaving the commander to face death in the freezing wastes of the mountain. The ending of the story is filled with action and many startling surprises.

"Free and Easy," with its all-star cast and "The Locked Door," starring Rod LaRocque, will be presented at the Palace for the last times today. The cast of "Free and Easy" includes Buster Keaton, Anita Page and many other screen favorites.

PRINTED SILKS WIN 'SPEAKING PART' FOR SUMMER

PARIS, April 10—(AP)—Printed summer fabrics have not taken the back seat many prophesied.

They refuse to be suppressed and play a conspicuous part in spring and summer styles.

Not one of the important style houses but shows print dresses for afternoon and evening.

Plain fabrics have nearly conquered the sport and daytime field although there are exceptions, such as printed tub silk tennis dresses with pleated trouser skirts.

Printed silk materials which manage to get themselves recognized in the street and tailored types of clothes simulate tweeds and tweed-jerseys, both in design and coloring.

There are crepe de chines, and marocains which give the effect of woven woolen fabrics. They are used for dress and coat ensembles.

Many pretty midsummer suits for town wear are of tweed-print silks in brown, black or blue and white.

Printed crepe de chine and georgette for afternoon town wear run to sober colorings and small formalized flower patterns. Many dot and spot patterns are shown.

HERE'S A NEW ONE— IT'S HALF-A-DRESS

PARIS, April 10—(AP)—Buying beach dresses in halves and combining the halves to form a variety of color schemes is the 1930 summer girl's trick.

The new half-a-dress is built like knee length surplice with one half crossing over the other. The halves tie at the hips in Greek style.

The original half dresses are shown in pastel tussore silk, but pastel linen is considered equally suitable.

GREEN SHOES ARE MAYFAIR'S RAGE

LONDON, April 10—(AP)—Colored shoes are coming into vogue again.

London boot shops are showing many new shades of green, red, and bronze. Green seems to have caught the fashionable fancy and Mayfair is already dotted with green-footed fashion followers.

One of the latest leathers is velvet pigskin which is being shown in innumerable new shades.

NO. GROSVENORDALE

The Luther league of North Grosvenordale Lutheran church was invited to attend the meeting held at Auburn Lutheran church Tuesday night, where the program was as follows: Scripture reading, Rev. Fritz Soderberg; business meeting; entertainment given by No. Grosvenordale Luther league; hymn, No. Grosvenordale league; piano solo, Reynold Peterson; vocal duet, Evelyn and Beatrice Johnson; piano solo, Mrs. Fritz Soderberg; vocal duet, Rev. and Mrs. Fritz Soderberg; piano solo, Reynold Peterson; vocal duet, Rev. and Mrs. Soderberg; hymn, Luther league choir of the local church. Refreshments were served by the Auburn Luther league.

The alligator pear is said to have a higher food value in calories than any other fresh fruit except the olive.

MANSFIELD DEPOT

The C. E. society served a supper of baked beans, corned beef, salads, rolls, coffee and cake to about fifty Friday evening, in the chapel. The tables were most attractively decorated with green paper runners, clothes pin doll favors dressed in green, candles and pussy willows. An entertainment of two sketches "Samathy Changes Her Name," by Mrs. Lynch, Miss Sullivan and Miss L. Gordon of Mansfield state hospital, and another, "Sara and the Confidence Man," by Mr. and Mrs. George Bassett and Rev. and rMs. John Howell were much enjoyed as were the musical selections by Rev. John Howell and a solo by Edith Hammerlin. About twelve dollars was added to the treasury.

It looked like winter April second to see the ground covered with snow and each bush and tree laden with snow.

Two grass fires the past week caused considerable excitement and anxiety to property owners. The first one, April 2nd, a very windy day, started in one of the highway hay stacks in Toss meadow and swept clear through to the other road. About a hundred men responded to fight it, including college students, highway road men, Mansfield state hospital attendants and patients, besides local residents. The second fire, which was on Sunday, burned through the meadows next to the river to the south of the village.

Thursday, the church business meeting was held. Mr. Kolar's resignation as treasurer was accepted and Genebon McCollum was elected. Two large flower baskets to be used in decorating the church were presented the church by Mrs. Howell's Sunday school class of girls.

Miss Freda Wilson has returned from visiting friends in Palmer. Miss Marion Wallace returned with her. Mrs. Amos Wilson, Miss Freda Wilson and Miss Marion Wallace attended a dance in Bolton Thursday evening.

The local grammar school was closed Wednesday afternoon on account of a teachers' meeting.

Mrs. E. B. Thompson is able to be up and about the house after two weeks' illness. Callers the past week on Mr. and Mrs. Thompson were: Stewart Brooks, Merritt Thompson and Grace Taylor, of Hartford; Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Smith and twin sons, Fred and Frank, and Mr. and Mrs. Grover Smith, of Palmer; Mrs. Arthur Spicer, of Willington, and Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Storrs and Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Turner, of North Coventry.

Jack Lodge has returned to school in Providence, after a week's vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Nicholson entertained, over the week end, their son Hugh, his wife and Harold Brown, of East Glastonbury.

Misses Lena and Josephine Brennan of Baltic were visitors Sunday at Christopher Brennan's.

Mrs. N. Lorne Greig, Mrs. William Swainson and Greig Swainson motored to Hanover Monday to attend a meeting of the executive board of the Council of Congregational Women of Connecticut, which convened at the home of Mrs. William G. Park.

Charles Franklin and William Swainson visited Jack Franklin Monday at the Day Kimball hospital. They report steady improvement in the patient.

Mrs. Fred W. Burnet has returned to her home on Main street, after several months spent in Portland with her daughter, Mrs. Fred Miller.

PSYCHIATRIST SAYS BRAIN IS COMMUNIST

IOWA CITY —(AP)— Mental communism is an old reason—because it is reason, according to Dr. A. H. Wood, director of the University of Iowa psychopathic hospital.

"The brain is not a kingdom ruled by a monarch," says Dr. Woods. "It is an ideal commune, with a single and complete coordination of all the members. There is no scientific basis for belief in an ego, a reason, a self or a mind pursuing a more or less separate existence within the body."

Insanity, he insists, is merely a state of anarchy in this communistic mental government. It is caused by a lack of cooperation and lack of harmony in the community of cells called the brain.

PARTIAL ECLIPSE OF MOON VISIBLE IN U. S. APRIL 13

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The earth's shadow will cover about 11 per cent of the moon's surface April 13.

The eclipse, according to astronomers, will begin at 12:20 a. m., eastern standard time, and continue an hour and 15 minutes. Its maximum will be reached at 12:53.

Extending over a wide area, the eclipse will be visible to observers in the two Americas, on the Atlantic and Pacific oceans and in southwestern Europe and northwestern Africa.

Road Improvements On Rise

CHICAGO— (AP) —Forty-five states have advised the Chicago Motor club that they will improve 32,582 miles of highway this year, 3,126 more miles than in 1929.

KELLY FIELD FLIERS BREAK MARK UP NEW TIME TOTAL

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—(AP)—A record-breaking total of 48,448 hours of flying time was recorded in 1939 at Kelly field, the air corps advanced flying school.

Permanent and student pilots combined to register the largest aggregate of flying time made by any army field since the close of the World war.

A single ship, capable of continuous flight, would need to be in the air almost six years to equal the record.

Figured in mileage, the airplanes traveled 4,844,700 miles, equivalent of nearly 200 trips around the world.

Ship's officers of the United States merchant marine are now required to know medical first air principles.

How do You Feel on Arising?

Very likely your kidneys control the answer. Fine to awake with a lively, healthy, energetic body. Miserable to drag an aching, tired, weary body from a restless, sleepless bed. Mrs. Jos. Fancher, Little Rock, Ark.: "One bottle of Foley Pills diuretic gave me almost immediate relief, when I was miserable from disturbed kidney action, backache and dull headaches." Endorsed by men and women everywhere. Try them. For sale by Lee & Osgood Co.

WAY TO GET AT A COLD IS THROUGH THE BOWELS

As soon as you catch cold, the pores close; perspiration is checked. Gases and waste can't escape through the skin. That's why your doctor's first advice in case of colds is a mild laxative like cascara. Medical authorities agree it actually strengthens bowel muscles. You get cascara in its most pleasant form in candy Cascarets.

Remember this when you catch cold; whenever breath is bad; tongue coated; or you're headachy, bilious, constipated.

Why resort to harsher things when Cascarets activate the bowels so quickly, so harmlessly and pleasantly—and cost only a dime?

GREENEVILLE

THREE HOURS PASSION SERVICE GOOD FRIDAY

The three hours passion service will be held as usual on Good Friday, April 18, from 12 to 3 p. m. It will be a community service, members of other churches being cordially invited. The following ministers will take part in the service: Revs. A. H. Abbott, United Congregational church; David A. Pitt, D. D., Central Baptist church; Theodore M. Shipherd, D. D., Park Congregational church; Joseph Cooper, Trinity Methodist Episcopal church; Carl Storek, Evangelical Lutheran church; Gurdon F. Bailey, First Congregational church; Percy A. Kilmister, First Baptist church; Charles E. Ricketts, Greeneville Congregational church.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Desmond and daughter Mary, Mrs. Emma Portelance and Teresa Portelance spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Limerick of West Haven, Mrs. Desmond and daughter remaining for the week.

This (Friday) afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, the concluding children's service will be held when the Rev. E. P. Wright of St. Philip's, Putnam, will address the children, and also give the address at the evening devotions at 7:30 p. m.

Francis Fahey, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Bernard Boyle, of Quincy, Mass., are at Mr. Fahey's home here over the week end.

The Ladies' guild of St. Andrews Episcopal church held a very successful food sale Thursday afternoon in the guild room of the church. The successful affair was in charge of Mrs. Anthony J. Bernard, chairman, assisted by Mrs. William Whitechottom and Mrs. William A. Taft. The proceeds of the sale will be added to the guild's treasury.

TAFTVILLE

A meeting of the members of Court Wequonnoc, No. 28, Foresters of America, was held Thursday evening at the courtrooms on Merchants avenue.

The Basketry club held its regular weekly meeting Thursday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building.

A local man brought into Weller's store, one day this week, two United States bills which are probably the oldest to be found in this vicinity. Both bills are dated May 9th, 1776, one being a three dollar denomination, and the other a one dollar denomination. The former bears the serial number 56940, and the latter the number 90064. They are both well preserved and the printing is quite legible.

In size, the bills are approximately 3 by 2 inches, and they bear the wording Continental Currency on the borders. One has a seal with the inscription "Exitus in dubio est." The wording on the notes reads, "This bill entitles the bearer to receive three Spanish milled dollars, or the value thereof in gold or silver, according to a resolution of Congress, passed at Philadelphia, May 9, 1776." The one dollar denomination is signed by B. Braman and Sam Sellers, and the one dollar bill bears the signatures of J. Howard and S. Morris.

On the back of each bill is the wording, "Philadelphia—Printed by Hall & Sellers, 1776." The paper is of good texture and the signatures show up very plainly.

Mr. and Mrs. Cleophas Martin and family of South B street have moved to a house on Norwich avenue.

The members of the Taftville Social and Football club held their regular monthly business meeting Monday evening at their clubrooms at the Ponemah house.

The Misses Eva and Alice Beauchemin have been in Jewett City recently, where they attended a shower in honor of Miss Virginia Guillotte.

A meeting and rehearsal of the Wequonnoc school orchestra was held Thursday afternoon at the school.

Many local people have taken the opportunity to inspect the new home of Branch 98, Polish Workers' Mutual Aid association, on McKay street this week. The rooms were officially opened with a banquet last Sunday.

John Eyberse has begun the erection of a gasoline station at his property on the Old Canterbury turnpike.

Oliver Gagnon is confined to his home because of an injury to his right leg.

Robert Peckham of Springfield, Mass., is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Peckham, this week.

Relief from Gas Stomach Pains Dizziness

The doctors tell us that 90 per cent of all sickness is due to stomach and bowel troubles. You can't be well if your digestion is bad; you are likely to get sick unless you relish food and digest it properly.

Tanlac has a wonderful record as a relief from digestive troubles, even those of years' standing.

Local people, many of whom you know, are highly endorsing Tanlac. For example, Mrs. Ellen White says: "For years I suffered from indigestion. I got no relief from anything until I took Tanlac. After my fourth bottle, I feel like a new person and have a fine appetite."

If you suffer from gas, pains in the stomach or bowels, dizziness, nausea, constipation, or torpid liver; if you have no appetite, can't sleep and are nervous and all run down, you need Tanlac. It is good, pure medicine, made of roots, herbs and bark. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Money back if it doesn't help you. Accept no substitute.

NORWICH TOWN

TO RESUME SERVICES AT M. E. CHURCH SUNDAY

After the closing of the Norwich Town Methodist Episcopal church last Sunday on account of the annual conference, the church will open next Sunday morning with a celebration of the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. The pastor, Rev. George Warren Potter, after being appointed Monday morning by Bishop Frederick Leete to serve the church for the coming year, returned to the parsonage Monday afternoon. During the conference week Rev. Mr. Potter was entertained in the homes of Mrs. Ida Brazaw and Walter Spencer at New London. The pastor will be assisted Sunday morning in the communion service by Rev. Frederick C. Baker, a former pastor of the church, now retired. Rev. Mr. Baker will give the Palm Sunday message. Sunday evening the pastor will deliver a stereopticon lecture on The Life of Abraham Lincoln. The lecture is illustrated with 30 stereopticon pictures. The picture machine will be operated by Ralph Smith. The lecture and the slides were given Rev. Mr. Potter last Christmas by the Wolf Cub Pack of Scouts. The scouts and their parents will be special guests at the service Sunday evening at 7.30. The lecture is public.

The Wolf Cub Pack of Scouts connected with Norwich Town Methodist Episcopal church held a meeting Wednesday afternoon in charge of the cub master, Rev. George Warren Potter. There was an attendance of 20, including visitors. Scribe Edward Eccleston of the Boy Scouts assisted by inspecting the pack, acting as a judge in the inter-den contest and in the game period. Raymond Barber, another visitor, acted also as a judge. The inter-den contest was won by the group in charge of Den Chief Woodruff Sullivan. By a vote the cubs will hold the next meeting at 7 Monday night instead of Monday afternoon. The cubs voted to attend church Sunday evening when the cub master is to use the slides and lecture on Abraham Lincoln which they presented him at Christmas.

COUNTY AGENT CLARK SPEAKS ON CORN BORER

The last in the series of mid-week Lenten meetings, of the First Congregational church was held in the chapel Thursday evening with a good attendance. Walter T. Clark of East Town street, agent of New London County Home and Farm Bureau, gave a most interesting and instructive address on The Corn Borer and its Control, showing many slides along the line of his subject.

Will Hold Union Service

The second special Lenten service at the Congregational church is to be held Monday evening the 14th at 7:30. This is to be a union service with the churches of Norwich co-operating. The sermon will be by Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., pastor of the Central Baptist church.

At the Sacred Heart church this (Friday) evening at 7:30, Lenten devotions will consist of Stations of the Cross, followed by Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament. Palm Sunday at this church, the palms will be blessed and distributed at both the 8:30 and the 10 o'clock masses.

Easter Roll Call

The April meeting of Home Chapter of the King's Daughters is to be held Monday afternoon at the Johnson Home. There will be a roll call, each member being expected to respond with something pertaining to Easter.

The next meeting of the programme committee of the women's department of the League of Service of the Congregational church, is to be held the first Friday afternoon in May. The hostesses are to be Mrs. Philip B. Whaley, Mrs. Harry T. Frazier and Mrs. Lovelock Holm.

Organist's Valuable Aid

During the Mission held all last week at the Sacred Heart church, the faithful and accomplished organist, Mrs. William A. Murphy played at all services, morning and evening each day. The visiting priest, Rev. Father Lucian, brought forceful messages and preached most inspiringly to the parishioners.

County Agent and Mrs. Walter T. Clark have as their guest for a week, Mrs. Clark's mother, Mrs. Elbridge Whiting, of Belmont, Mass.

Fifth Birthday Party

A pretty party was held at the home of Charles Owen Treat of 16 Brown street in honor of his fifth birthday. All kinds of games were enjoyed during the afternoon. The first prize for the peanut hunt went to Barbara Brigham, the consolation going to Arthur Almquist. The prize for pinning the tail on the donkey was won by Harriet Chapman, the consolation going to Beverly Chapman. Sandwiches, cookies, cake and candy were served by Mrs. Charles Treat, assisted by Mrs. Walter Treat, Mrs. Nick Amato, and Mrs. Arthur Almquist. In the center of the table was a large birthday cake and all kinds of favors. As the last attraction ice cream in forms of apples, pears and hearts was served. The children were served by Miss Dorothy Butler. Charles received many gifts. Those present were Charles Owen Treat, Janice Treat, Harriet Chapman, Barbara Brigham, and Junior Almquist of Norwich, and Beverly Chapman, of Putnam.

N. E. O. P. State Convention City

The 1931 state convention of the New England Order of Protection will be held in New London. It was voted at the annual meeting in New Britain, Wednesday. Charles Manwaring of Niantic was elected grand guide of the grand lodge at the meeting.

DESCENDANT OF CAPT. MASON WANTS TO ERECT MARKER AT GRAVE HERE

Just as several groups of patriotic Norwich citizens are endeavoring to get the board of selectmen to make a definite determination and pronouncement upon the location and boundaries of the old "first burial ground" at Norwich Town, word has been received here that a descendant of Capt. John Mason desires to erect a bronze marker on his grave.

Captain Mason was buried in the old "first burial ground" of the town, according to tradition, although knowledge of the exact location of his grave has long ago been lost. A monument to Captain Mason and the founders of Norwich stands on a site adjacent to what is believed by many to be the boundaries of the old cemetery.

Information that a descendant of the famous captain of colonial days was ready to erect a marker on his grave came in a letter which Mrs. Edna Miner Rogers, the well known genealogical authority, received from Mrs. James M. Edsall of Brooklyn, N. Y., registrar-general of the Colonial Daughters of the 17th Century.

Mrs. Edsall wrote as follows:

My Dear Mrs. Rogers:

I am trying on behalf of one of our members of the Colonial Daughters, Mrs. George A. Allin, a descendant of Capt. John Mason, to locate his grave and I am told that you can supply some information. Is he buried in Norwich, Conn.—and to whom should one apply for a permit to place on his grave one of our handsome bronze markers?

I will greatly appreciate any information you can give me.

Very truly yours,
ANNE C. EDSALL.
Brooklyn, N. Y., April 9, 1930.

Mrs. Rogers expects to answer the letter within a day or two.

BANQUET WAS HELD BY POLISH WORKERS' SOCIETY

A successful banquet was recently conducted by the Polish Workers' Mutual Aid society at their new club hall on McKay street, with attendance of members and friends from Taftville, Norwich, Jewett City and vicinity.

At 3 o'clock a dinner was served to approximately 200 people at tables effectively trimmed with cut flowers, laurel and other greens. Marcin Misiazek of Jewett City acted as toastmaster during the meal. The appetizing menu comprised roast chicken, creamed carrots, celery, potato and cabbage salad, rolls, cottage cheese, and several different kinds of cake and cookies. During the dinner an orchestra from Jewett City rendered several pleasing numbers.

The success was due to the untiring efforts of Stephen Stokiosa, president of the society, Mrs. Sophie Osik, chairman of the committee, Mrs. Kathryn Burszta, Mrs. Casmira Bartnicka, Mrs. Mary Borsa, and Mrs. Stasia Fedorczyk, who were ably assisted by the following as waitresses: The Misses Amelia Burszta, Regina Kordek, Amelia and Sophie Borsa, Julia Franaszek and Wanda Osik.

During the afternoon a very attractive program was carried out. The program was as follows: Welcoming speech by Stephen Stokiosa; toast, by Mr. Marcin Misiazek; Polish national anthem, by the orchestra; song, by Mrs. Alice Szymanski, of Norwich, accompanied by Paul Przybys, on the violin; recitation, by Anna Malek, of Jewett City; song, by Bertha Lupa and Stephen Tracz, of Jewett City; recitation, by Jennie Waluslak, of Taftville; song, by Mr. Jaskiewicz, of Norwich; speech by Mr. Pesek, of Norwich; son, by Irene Bartnicka, of Norwich; speech, by Anthony Fidrych, of Norwich; playlet by Mrs. Lupa, Mrs. Malek and Mrs. Koziot, of Jewett City; speech, by John Dombrowski, of Taftville, secretary of the society.

NORWICH ROTARIANS AT NEW LONDON ANNIVERSARY

About 30 members of the Norwich Rotary club were present at the 13th anniversary meeting of the New London club at the Mohican hotel in New London on Thursday noon. The regular meeting of the Norwich club scheduled for Wednesday was postponed so that they might celebrate with the parent club of New London. There were about 100 Rotarians present from various clubs in the eastern part of the state.

Leon A. Sprague, first president of the club, and now of New Britain, presided; and Lester P. Winchinbaug of Boston was the principal speaker. The latter's talk was made in answer to a series of questions asked by members of the club.

Mr. Sprague, who is often called the father of the New London Rotary club, because of his important part in its organization, read the names of the original members and about half of the 30 whose names first went on the charter responded by standing.

J. William Clarke, who completed 13 years as secretary of the club Thursday, was presented a pen and pencil set as token of the esteem in which he is held by the club.

Of the present membership there was practically a 100 per cent representation on hand.

INJURIES TO SCALP WHEN HIT BY AUTO

Dennis J. Sullivan of No. 20 Geer avenue, employed as a teamster by the street department, was hit and injured Thursday night about 8 o'clock on West Thames street by an automobile driven by Stanley Zaremba of No. 30 Yerrington avenue. The accident happened near the West Thames street school house. Mr. Sullivan was taken to the W. W. Backus hospital, where it was found that he is suffering from lacerations of the scalp. He was resting comfortably late Thursday night. The windshield on the automobile, a Ford coupe, was smashed. As the driver had neglected to endorse his driving license, he was summoned to appear in the city court this (Friday) morning.

Simple Remedy For Bad Stomach Gives Swift Relief

No Need of Strong Medicines or Diet. Safe and Simple Home Recipe Keeps Stomach in Fine Condition.

If you are a victim of Stomach Troubles—Gas, Sourness, Pain or Bloating—you may have quick and certain relief by following this simple advice.

Don't take strong medicines, artificial digestants or pull down your system with starvation diets. For within reason most folks may eat what they like if they will keep their stomach free from souring acids that hinder or paralyze the work of digestion.

And the best and easiest way to do this is to follow every meal with a little Bisurated Magnesia—a pleasant, harmless, inexpensive, and handy to use preparation that all reliable druggists can supply in either powder or tablet form. Its use promptly neutralizes acidity and keeps your stomach sweet and clean.

A week's trial of Bisurated Magnesia should quickly convince you that 90 per cent of ordinary stomach distress is absolutely unecessary. Be sure to get Bisurated Magnesia and give it a good trial.

MILK ADVICE GIVEN IN STATE BROADCAST

The following was in part the radio talk given Thursday noon over Station WTIC by F. L. Mickle, director of the state bureau of laboratories, who spoke on "The Milk We Drink":

Milk is our most important food and our best single food. It contains all the essentials of a balanced diet. It is rich in vitamines. Its fat favors growth. Its calcium is readily usable. Its protein is almost equally as valuable as its fat. Milk is palatable, easily digestible and even at the present prices which sometimes seem high to us is one of the cheapest of our ordinary foods. The races of people that have liberally used milk in their diet have attained greater size, lived longer, reared their young more successfully and achieved more in the arts and sciences. There is every reason to believe these achievements are related to nutrition.

Although good milk is the best single food we have to maintain health, bad milk has caused more sickness than probably all other foods combined. Bad milk has carried more infections than any other food. Because disease germs grow better in milk than almost anywhere else many persons become sick from a single lot of infected milk. It is more of a problem to deliver milk in a clean, fresh and safe condition to the user than it is to furnish almost any other food. Milk decomposes as readily as any food offered for sale. These are difficulties that beset the milk producer and dealer.

Because milk may carry disease from sick or careless persons who may handle milk or milk utensils on farms or in dairies, persons handling milk in Connecticut are now required to be examined by a physician to determine if they are free from diphtheria, typhoid and other communicable diseases. In the bureau of laboratories specially trained persons examine blood, body discharges and swabbings taken from the throat and nose of milk handlers to assist in making safe the milk that you or your children drink. The value of such work is shown by the fact that the death rate of milk-borne diseases has decreased in spite of an increase year by year in the use of milk.

My best advice to you is to drink milk. Then drink more milk. But do not drink just milk. Drink only milk that comes from cows shown by tests to be free from tuberculosis and abortion disease, milk that has been produced under clean and sanitary conditions and properly handled until it reaches your refrigerator.

TO NAME COMMITTEE TO HANDLE ROAD RACE

The general committee, recently organized by the chamber of commerce to assist the Duwell A. A., in arranging for the National championship 10 mile race to be held here on Memorial day, May 30, is to meet at the chamber of commerce rooms this (Friday) afternoon at 5 o'clock. At the meeting Selectman William S. Murray, general chairman, will make his committee appointments and the duties of the various committees will be outlined.

Those comprising the general committee are as follows: Honorary chairman, Mayor Lee Roy Robbins; chairman, William S. Murray; treasurer, Patrick F. Sweeney; secretary, James V. Pedace; John Richardson, Frank R. Murdy, William J. Fitzgerald, Herbert M. Lerou, Charles W. Cassidy, Lawrence E. Millea, James P. Sheridan, Daniel Polsky, Charles Coit, Henry E. Congdon, Joseph Pysick, Frank M. Green, Rudolph Henschel, Harold T. Robinson, Weston C. Pullen, John H. Wilson, Earl Mathewson, Joseph C. Worth, Frederick J. Ortman, Eben Learned, Jr., Dr. Charles Solomon, Edward G. McKay, and Edmund W. Perkins.

PREDICTS APPLE TREES WILL BLOSSOM LATE

Connecticut apple trees will blossom late this year. Near Long Island sound and in the Connecticut valley, this will be May 10 or 11, according to calculations of E. M. Stoddard, pomologist of the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment station. In northern sections of the state, the blooming may be a little later.

For the last four years, Mr. Stoddard has foretold the coming of the blooms and he has not been wrong in any instance by more than a day. Last spring he said apple blossoms would appear May 4. They came a day sooner.

LARGE CONFIRMATION CLASS AT CHRIST CHURCH

Rt. Rev. E. Campion, Acheson, D. D., of Middletown, will visit Christ Episcopal church this (Friday) evening to administer the apostolic rite of confirmation. The service will be held at 7:30 o'clock. At this time one of the largest classes in recent years, numbering 21, will be presented to the bishop. The class includes three sets of brothers and a brother and sister.

Following the confirmation service the bishop will deliver an address.

Connecticut Plans Egg Week.

The beginning of one of the greatest egg celebrations ever held in Connecticut is to be on May 1st. Poultrymen, wholesalers, and retailers of eggs, meeting at the office of the state department of agriculture, made preliminary plans for a vigorous campaign during national egg week from May 1 to 7.

National egg week, as the name implies, is national in scope and aims to stimulate the consumption of a most valuable food. It is conducted at a time when eggs are within the reach of every pocketbook.

GARDEN INTERESTS MAKE INTERESTING MEETING TOPIC

The garden department of the Woman's City club met in its rooms in the Wauregan hotel Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock for the last regular meeting of the series. Miss Amy Cogswell presided and introduced Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman, whose paper on Gardening and the Baser Passions combined both wit and wisdom in equal quantities. She also read some delightfully whimsical verses which she called a Rosecale Dream. Mrs. John E. Fanning spoke briefly on some of her gardening experiences, and the paper of Mrs. William Wade was unusually interesting. Mrs. Hugh B. Campbell told about the growing of fine roses.

Announcement was made of the coming meeting to be held in Slater hall annex when an out of town speaker will talk on Dutch bulbs. At its close all attending are invited by Mrs. Robert W. Perkins to visit her garden to see her tulips. Later in the season the garden department assisted by the chamber of commerce hopes to arrange for a plant exchange day.

GREEN DRIVER UPSETS ON TROLLEY TRACKS

Hyman Coblintz and wife, Ida, of Gay Hill, Uncasville, were seriously injured Thursday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock when the car which he was driving toward Norwich on the Montville-Norwich road went out of his control and turned over three times. The car came to rest with the wheels in the air on the trolley tracks, delaying the trolleys for a half hour. Passing motorists carried Mr. and Mrs. Coblintz to the office of Dr. J. J. Donohue in Montville.

The accident happened at Hubbard gate on the straight stretch south of the Johnson Ice Co. pond. Mrs. Coblintz sustained serious injuries to the left side of her head which took several stitches to close. Her foot was also badly crushed. Mr. Coblintz was seriously bruised about both legs. Police Officer Howard Lampeare of Montville, who investigated the accident, arrested Coblintz for reckless driving, driving without license and without registration.

Coblintz was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Oscar E. Church and had his case continued to Monday, April 14, at 11 a. m. Mr. Coblintz claimed that he had just bought the car from a Norwich dealer who was supposed to instruct him in driving but as the instructor did not appear to give him a lesson Mr. Coblintz decided to try it himself.

HUBER CASE CONTINUED TO SECURE COUNSEL

William S. Huber, 32, was presented in the city court Thursday morning on a charge of arson, but the trial of the case was continued until Thursday, April 17th, in order to allow him time in which to secure counsel. Huber appeared in court without counsel.

He is charged with setting fire to the Turner-Stanton mill on Broad street, the night of Jan. 25th, the resulting damage being $30,000. The property is owned by the estate of Maria T. Turner. Huber was arrested Wednesday in New Haven by the state police on a warrant drawn by City Attorney Charles W. Cassidy, as the result of an investigation by State Police Commissioner Robert T. Hurley.

A junior Lenten service will be held this (Friday) evening at 6:30 in the First Evangelical Lutheran church. Pictures of Christ's passion will be shown.

At 7:30 the main Lenten service will be held, the 6th of this series. The class that will be confirmed next Sunday will be publicly examined at this service, which is open to the public.

Oil discoveries near Oklahoma City have brought approximately 8,000 workers to the fields.

GANG OF JUVENILES WRECKED GAS DEPT. HOUSE

Nearly a score of boys rounded up by Police Officer Clifford Crary were presented in juvenile court Thursday morning on charges of damaging a house on White street, owned by the Norwich gas and electric department. There were 17 boys in the gang, ranging in age from 6 to 19 years. Seven were found innocent of the charges against them but the remaining ten were assessed damages, nine being ordered to pay $11.10 each and the other, a 19-year-old boy, leader of the gang, was assessed $50.

The boys were taken in charge on complaint of officials of the gas and electric department. The boys practically wrecked the house, a two-story brick building on land owned by the gas and electric department. Up to last Saturday the house was occupied by a Polish family, who moved out that day.

Since then the boys broke every window in the house, smashed several doors, tore down the chimney, removed a number of bricks from the outer wall, tore away part of the eaves, knocked plaster down and smashed lathing. Supt. C. W. Taggart of the gas and electric department estimated the damage at between $450 and $500. The boys explained their acts by stating that they heard the building was to be torn down. Another excuse they gave was that there was no sign on the premises ordering them not to trespass.

Grace Church Lenten Speaker

The special preacher at the Lenten service at Grace Episcopal church, Yantic, this (Friday) evening at 7:30 o'clock will be Rev. George S. Mackey of Woburn, Mass.

HOOVER GRATIFIED BY THE NAVAL CONFERENCE ACCORD

Says Three Power Agreement Means Total Savings of About $2,500,000,000 to the World — Estimate Based On Amounts Which He Considered the World Was Preparing to Spend On Naval Construction—Ends Fear and Suspicions Which Have Been Engendered By Rival Warship Construction..

WASHINGTON, April 11. — (AP) — Commending the results of the London naval conference, President Hoover today said the total savings to the world would be perhaps $2,500,000,000.

The president based his estimate on amounts which he considered the world was preparing to spend on naval construction. He cited the naval figures which were the basis of discussion at the unsuccessful Geneva parley in 1927, and said that on that basis up to $1,000,000,000 would be saved by the United States in the next six years as a result of the London accord.

Mr. Hoover expressed his views to newspapermen at the regular Friday press conference.

He said the most vital feature of the London meeting's accomplishments for peace was "the final abolition of competition in naval arms between the greatest naval powers and the burial of the fears and suspicions which have been the constant product of rival warship construction."

The complete text of the president's statement was:

"I am greatly pleased with the final success of the naval arms conference in London and I have today telegraphed the delegation expressing my approval of the result achieved and my admiration for their patience and determination in an arduous and difficult negotiation, and I wish to congratulate the delegations of the other governments for their constructive and courageous action.

"The most vital feature of its great accomplishments for peace is the final abolition of competition in naval arms between the greatest naval powers and the burial of the fears and suspicions which have been the constant product of rival warship construction. It will be recalled that prior to the three-power conference at Geneva in 1927, which France and Italy felt obliged to decline attendance, there was naval competition in all craft except battleships with constant international friction. Consequently upon the failure of that conference the rival expansion received even new impulses and resulted in increased international suspicion and ill-will through the world and a steady drift to greatly increased navies.

"When I initiated this negotiation it was after a critical examination of the experience before and after the Geneva conference and a determination that the causes of that failure could be met with adequate preparation and preliminary negotiation. At that time we realized, and have realized at all times since, that the particular setting of the continental nations, because of the inseparable importance of land armies in their bearing upon naval strength, together with the political agreements that reduction of such arms implied, made a five-power agreement extremely improbable, as the United States could not involve itself in such agreements. The French and Italian governments have shown the utmost good will in this conference in endeavor, in the interest of world peace, to support the present solution just as far as they could do so, and they have joined the present agreement in important provisions.

"It is difficult to estimate the precise reductions in war craft tonnage which has been brought about by this agreement because of the factor of normal replacement and additional tonnage authorized but not yet constructed. Nine battleships are to be scrapped of a total of about 230,000 tons, the replacement of 16 or 27 others to be deferred for six years. The various navies in the agreement are to reduce some 300,000 to 400,000 tons of other categories in the next few years as they become obsolete—but some categories of some of them must be increased in order to come up to the standards set. The net balance will be a very considerable decrease in the world's actual tonnage as it stands today.

"The economic importance of the accomplishment can best be measured in terms of the situation developed at the Geneva conference. That conference broke down upon the feeling of the British representatives that it was necessary for them to create or maintain a navy of a total of nearly 1,500,000 tons. Their pre-war navy was much larger than this. The American delegates were not able to agree to this basis, as it implied such a huge amount of naval construction in the United States that it was hopeless to expect public support, and it meant a perpetually inferior navy."

CONFESSION BY "MASTER MIND" OF INSURANCE MURDER PLOT

BENTONVILLE, Ark., April 11—(AP)—Admission that he was the "master mind" in one successful insurance murder plot and was involved in another which was followed by the slaying of William Robert Pearman was made today, according to Sheriff Edgar Fields, in a confession signed by Dr. A. J. Bass, 55, wealthy retired dentist of Columbia, Mo.

Bass is in jail here on a first degree murder charge in the death of Pearman, 47, mechanic, found slain two weeks ago. Bass held an assignment of $200,000 life insurance Pearman took out under the assumed name of William Folta, missing 17 years.

Prior to his confession, Bass released the insurance policies on Pearman's life and admitted, Fields said, the policies were taken out with intent to defraud. He admitted paying the first premium.

Bass' statement revealed how he hired gunmen to kill M. J. Dorsey, Hammond, Ind., head of the Northern States Life Insurance company, in a $100,000 insurance swindle plot. This plot collapsed because one of the gunmen double-crossed him, Bass said, and Dorsey cancelled the insurance before another gunman could execute a contract with Bass.

STATISTICS OF AUTO ACCIDENTS IN THE STATE

HARTFORD, April 11.— (AP)— Although automobile accidents took a toll of seven lives in Connecticut during the week of March 30 to April 5, the number of deaths caused by automobiles to April 5 was 19 less than in the previous year, according to figures made public by the state department of motor vehicles today. The total number of accidents in the state also continued to show a slight decrease.

Seventy-seven persons have lost their lives as a result of automobile accidents in this state so far this year, the report shows, as compared with 96 in the same period in 1929. Bridgeport registered three deaths from automobile accidents during the week, with East Hartford, Norwich, Stamford and Wallingford reporting one fatality each.

The state total of accidents during the week of March 30 to April 5, 1930, was 319 as compared with 317 the week previous, and of these accidents 189 occurred within cities this year as compared with 203 last year. Two fatalities were registered in the week in 1929, as compared with seven this year.

AFFABLE AS THEY WAITED TO ROB CASHIER OF $8,300

NEW YORK, April 11—(AP)—The cashier was the only one who could open the safe, so the two well-dressed and polite young men said they would wait for her.

"We've just got to have this money," one of them explained to Miss Ethel Shaw, the switchboard operator in the offices of William Vogel & Bros., sheet metal goods manufacturers in Brooklyn. "We're only got 6 cents between us."

The visitors were chatting affably when, 15 minutes later, Frederick Gaus, the cashier, returned. Under the persuasion of two guns he offered no objection to opening the safe and handing over the $8,300 payroll which an armored truck had delivered only a few minutes before.

Then the young men departed—with $8,300.04.

JOHNSON TOO BUSY FOR INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, April 11—(AP)—The chests of senatorial candidates was senate's inquiry into the campaign delayed today with the announcement by Senator Johnson, republican, California, that his many other duties would forbid his acceptance of the chairmanship of the investigating committee.

Informed of Senator Johnson's decision, Vice President Curtis deferred selection of a successor and immediately leaders of all factions in the senate called on the Californian to urge that he reconsider.

While Senator Johnson was insisting tonight that his word would have to be final, friends were hopeful that he would yield to their urging. Meanwhile, other members appointed by the vice president were marking time and some intimated that their decision to serve would depend on the selection of a chairman.

Other members appointed to the committee are Senators Goldsborough, Maryland, and Patterson, Missouri, republicans; and Pittman, Nevada, and Wagner, New York, democrats.

Selection of a successor to Johnson is restricted by the limitation in the investigation resolution that no members shall serve on the committee in state a senatorial election will be held this year.

FIVE COMMUNIST LEADERS REMANDED FOR SENTENCE

NEW YORK, April 11—(AP)—After a brief trial in which much of the defense testimony merely corroborated that of state witnesses, five communists arrested in the Union square riots of March 6, were convicted in special sessions court today of unlawful assemblage. They were remanded for a week for sentence.

The verdict by the three judges who presided followed several motions for dismissal by Robert H. Elder, defense attorney, [illegible] the five men were entitled to a jury trial and furthermore that "the assemblage was peaceable and orderly [illegible] for unlawful purposes of protest and petition."

The rioting, in which 100 persons were injured, occurred when the communists started to parade to city hall in defiance of an order of Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen.

William Z. Foster, national communist leader, Robert Minor, editor of the Daily Worker, a communist organ, Israel Amter, local communist organizer, and Joseph Lester and Harry Raymond, two jobless sailors, are those convicted.

HIGH TEMPERATURE, HOT WINDS IN THE SOUTHWEST

KANSAS CITY, April 1—(AP)—The southwest shed its coat and vest again today and spent a good part of the time rubbing dust from its eyes as abnormally high temperatures and blistering winds continued to carry soil from farm and pasture lands already suffering with lack of moisture.

Here and there temporary relief appeared in the form of light showers.

Kansas, southwest Missouri, Oklahoma, and sections of Texas suffered severe punishment today. Light rains were general over South Dakota in the past 24 hours bringing needed moisture to dry topsoil. The precipitation there, however, was not heavy enough to be of much benefit unless [illegible] break in the hot spell occurs soon.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

BURSAJOR, Spain, April 11—(AP)—LaFrancisco Munoz Izquierdo, Roman Catholic patriarch of the West Indies, died here tonight. He was 63 years old.

LONDON, April 11—(AP)—J. E. Fenton, Australia's delegate to the naval conference, said last night: "The London naval conference has achieved a great deal in bringing together the Anglo-Saxon peoples of the world."

CAPE TOWN, Union of South Africa, April 11—(AP)—A bill giving South African women the right to vote was today passed in the assembly on its third reading by a vote of 73 to 34. It will now be sent to the senate.

LONDON, April 11—(AP)—The London naval conference, with its treaty within a treaty built as a new beacon on the road to disarmament, is rapidly nearing its close and may end at the plenary session next Thursday with the signing of the London treaty.

BOMBAY, India, April 11—(AP)—Violations of the Indian government's salt monopoly by the civil disobedience volunteers of Mahatma Gandhi were reported from widely scattered points in India, and were attended with an increasing number of arrests, injuries and severe sentences.

LONDON, April 11—(AP)—London society was greatly interested and somewhat shocked by the published story of the romance and marriage of Vivienne Huntington, 27-year-old New York heiress, and Alfred Cecil Durban, former Folkestone newsboy. The marriage was announced last night.

STOCKHOLM, April 11—(AP)—The Swedish flagship Drottning Victoria, bringing home the body of Queen Victoria of Sweden, who died in Rome last week, anchored outside Stockholm harbor. The queen's body was kept on board, awaiting tomorrow's royal funeral ceremonies. King Gustave and Prince Karl were with it.

JERUSALEM, April 11—(AP)—Elaborate precautions have been taken by the Palestine government and the police to preserve order during the next ten days, the Christian Easter, the Jewish passover and the Moslem festival of Nebi Musa all occurring at approximately the same time. The Moslem festival began today.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR ARTHUR TWINING HADLEY

NEW HAVEN, April 11—(AP)—Yale university bade farewell to its beloved president-emeritus, Arthur Twining Hadley, this afternoon, when after a service in Battell chapel his body was borne to Grove street cemetery close by and laid at rest in the family plot. Dr. Hadley died in Japan last month.

Sons of Yale from many places, fellows of the corporation, officers of the university, faculties, undergraduates, with representatives of the municipality, [illegible] professional and business life, made up the mourners who filled the chapel pews. All who could be accommodated found a place while several hundred persons remained outside.

The service was a simple one from the Episcopal prayer book read by Rev. Dr. Anson Phelps Stokes, canon of Washington cathedral who served as university secretary throughout Dr. Hadley's presidency and he also read the committal services. The university choir sang an anthem which was a favorite of the deceased.

A special train brought a group of alumni from New York city, and the other special train brought New Haven road directors and others.

DAYLIGHT MURDER OF YOUNG WOMAN SOLVED

DARTFORD, Kent, England, April 11—(AP)—Police tonight thought they had solved the daring murder of a young woman in broad daylight this morning by the arrest of Albert Edward Margeram, aged 33, a laborer.

Margeram will be charged in the local police court tomorrow with the murder of 33-year old Edith Baker, stabbed in the back as she was strolling across Dartford common within sight of a heavily traveled road in company of her sister Evelyn.

The murderer jumped from behind a clump of bushes, plunged his knife into Miss Baker's back and vanished as quickly and silently as he had appeared. The girl died in a few minutes.

Three hundred police and crowds of civilians combed the common without avail all afternoon. A check of the register of patients at a nearby lunatic asylum showed that none had escaped, and the murder was not cleared up until the unexpected arrest of Margeram tonight.

BACK IN JAIL FROM WHICH HE ESCAPED TEN YEARS AGO

LITCHFIELD, April 11—(AP)—The arm of the law reached out over a period of ten years and today placed Oscar Miller, alias Henry Johnson, who escaped from the county jail here ten years ago, behind the bars again. Johnson W. Sepples, [illegible] court today, when arraigned before Justice William [illegible] pleaded guilty of jail breaking and was ordered held in bonds of $10,000 pending trial at the next term of the criminal court.

RADIO TELEPHONE SERVICE WITH SPAIN AND CHILE

NEW YORK, April 11—(AP)—New York talked with both Madrid and Santiago, Chile, in connection with the inauguration of radio telephone service between Spain and Chile today.

The Associated Press held conversation with representatives of the Spanish Press association in Madrid and with the Chilean Press in Santiago.

SEC'Y HURLEY SUFFERS FROM INDIGESTION

WASHINGTON, April 1—(AP)—The war department announced tonight that Secretary Hurley was suffering from a recurrence of an old digestive disturbance, but that "although he will be confined to his home for a few days longer, there is no danger of any operation contemplated."

NEW HAVEN MAN KILLED BY TRAIN IN ALBANY

ALBANY, N. Y., April 11—(AP)—John McNamara, 40, of New Haven, Conn., was instantly killed here today, when he lost his grip trying to board a moving freight train and was thrown under the wheels.

Bills To Choke Gun Supply For Gangsters

Would Have State and Local Police Control Shipment of Firearms.

WASHINGTON, April 11—(AP)—Bills designed to make it more difficult for gangsters to get guns were taken under consideration today by a house interstate commerce sub-committee.

Representatives of firearms manufacturers had testified the bills "aim at the crook, and hit the honest citizen."

The proposals would divest firearms shipments of their character as subjects of interstate commerce and make them subject to state and local police powers.

Representative McLeod, republican, Michigan, author of two of the bills, complained that a Detroit gangster, denied purchase of a gun in his home town because of past police record, could write to Chicago and order one sent to him by express. Firearms laws in 46 of the 48 states could not counteract this "loophole in the lax federal laws," he said.

Milton A. Record, representing the National Rifle Association of America, said that the more stringent regulations suggested by the bills would affect only the law-abiding citizen and would be evaded by the criminal. Firearms manufacturers refrained from making any statements as to protect society, he said, since masked shipments were so often stolen by crooks.

SENTENCES EXTENDED FOR ESCAPING FROM PRISON

HARTFORD, April 11—(AP)—Watson Moulthrope and Leo Landry, who, with Roland Lalone, made a bold dash for freedom from the state prison at Wethersfield, January 4, had from 18 to 26 years added to their present sentences by Judge Newell Jennings of superior court this afternoon.

They were taken back, never to emerge from behind the walls, unless some unforeseen circumstance occurs, until they are old men. Lalone was not brought into court because he is serving a life sentence for the murder of a state policeman.

Moulthrope, who is 24 and has twenty-four years more to serve on a charge of burglary, pleaded guilty to escape from prison and theft of a motor vehicle in Rocky Hill in which the trio fled to Massachusetts. On the first count the court imposed a term of eight to ten years, to start at the expiration of the sentence for burglary and on the second count a term of 15 years, to begin at the end of the eight to ten years term. The same penalty was given Landry, who pleaded guilty to similar charges.

Landry is 27 years old and would have been a free man within a year or two, with good behavior. Of the three he is the heaviest loser. At the time he joined Moulthrope and Lalone when he came up on them crawling through a skylight in the prison bakery he was doing a term of from three to four years for burglary.

N. Y. STATE SIDETRACKED MOVEMENT FOR DRY REPEAL

ALBANY, N. Y., April 11—(AP)—The Cuvillier bill, designed to memorialize congress to call a constitutional convention to consider repeal of the 18th amendment, appeared to have failed of passage in the senate tonight after adoption by the assembly. An objection to immediate consideration and vote sent the measure to senate rules committee where it must remain for three days. The legislature was scheduled to adjourn tonight or tomorrow morning, rendering chance of passage of the measure remote.

Leaders of the anti-prohibition forces in the senate were confident they could have mustered enough republican votes to add to the democratic balance for passage of the measure had the measure been put in position for vote. The objection was raised by Senator Thomas C. Brown, republican, of Schenectady, who is [illegible] introducer of the Jenks-Brown state enforcement act. The enforcement act failed to appear from committee.

JAPAN FEELS DEPRESSION IN TRADE AND INDUSTRY

TOKYO, April 11—(AP)—Japan's long period of depression in trade and industry was reflected today in the one day closing of the Tokyo Stock exchange and the strike of 5,000 cotton mill hands in Osaka, Kyoto and Hyogo.

Shares listed on the exchange were said to have declined 30 per cent in value in two years, causing a paper loss of nearly $4,500,000. The strike of mill employes was precipitated by the announcement of the Kanegafuchi Spinning company that it had cut wages of its 60,000 employes 23 per cent.

Other spinning companies followed the lead of the giant Kanegafuchi company by reducing wages. Labor leaders are aligning political and other forces to resist wage decreases despite general depression.

Billion Dollar Steel Meger Ratified

Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co. and the Bethlehem Steel Corp.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, April 11—(AP)—The billion dollar battle of industrial giants reached a climax here late today when Youngstown Sheet & Tube stockholders ratified merger of their company with the Bethlehem Steel corporation.

But opponents of the merger immediately announced that "the fight has just begun."

Announcement of the merger was made by inspectors at a stockholders meeting, which a few minutes before had been thrown into a turmoil when J. M. Woltz, Sheet and Tube safety director, ordered the doors closed on the meeting, holding stockholders, attorneys, company officials and newspaper reporters prisoner.

The vote for the merger was 857,821 shares, 799,741 shares being necessary to assure it. The election inspectors did not indicate how many hares were protested or how many shares were voted against the merger.

Under the terms of the merger agreement, Bethlehem will begin taking over Sheet & Tube immediately. Eugene G. Grace, Bethlehem president, released a statement from his office in New York declaring, however, that "every latitude of time will be allowed on our part to obtain authoritative determination of every legal question involved." Attorneys for the merger proponents have also stated that consummation of the merger bill not be attempted until all litigation is disposed of.

Grace in his statement reiterated this.

The Bethlehem president declared that James A. Campbell, 75-year old chairman of Sheet & Tube, was faced from the start of the merger battle when it started early last month with an "almost impossible situation."

"He found, at the outset," Grace said, "approximately 250,000 shares against him for reasons having no relationship to the merits of the merger but because the parties owning and controlling them had other plans and ambitions.

"In order to approve the merger, it was necessary to secure 800,000 votes out of a total of 960,000 remaining. That he (Campbell) should attempt to do so is evidence of his courage and confidence in the wisdom of his action."

Ye olde knights used to fight to protect the fair fame of the devices emblazoned on their shields. And the knight without escutcheon was looked upon askance. He had no name to protect. He could live fairly or unfairly, as his whims directed.

Modern knights of industry have devices—the advertised trademarks of their products. They must safeguard the reputation of these trademarks to keep them worthwhile.

Advertising throws a powerful light on a trademark. If it proves worthy, it gains popularity and confidence. If it is shown to be unworthy, it quickly fails.

POSSES SEARCHING FOR GANG OF BANK ROBBERS

PIQUA, Ohio, Apirl 11—(AP)—Posses tonight pushed their search for members of a bandit gang that held up the City National Bank and Trust company this morning, robbed it of approximately $6,000 in currency, and escaped after they had slain one man and wounded three others.

The bank announced the offer of a reward of $1,000 for the capture of the thieves, and Miami county commissioners supplemented this with $5,000 more.

The robbers, who riddled the downtown section with hundreds of rounds red from machine guns and rifles, were pursued by a hastily organized posse, headed by Chief of Police Frank Gekle of Piqua, and Sheriff Frank Mathews.

They drove north from Piqua on the Dixie highway, running the gauntlet of gun fire from citizens along their route. The posses followed them as far as Sidney, Ohio, but lost the trail at Fort Loramie when an overheated motor set fire to the sheriff's automobile and destroyed it.

TEMPERATURE DROPS 36 DEGREES IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, April 11.—(AP) —Sudden atmospheric changes late today brought swift relief to sweltering Chicagoans.

The mercury which yesterday shattered all records for April with a mark of 90 again climbed to that height today, hovered there from 2 o'clock to 3:05 o'clock and then plunged in 20 minutes to 63 and in another 15 minutes, to 53.

OBITUARY

Lord Dewar

EAST GRINSTED, Sussex, England, April 11—(AP)—Lord Dewar, head of the famous whiskey distilling firm of John Dewar and Sons, Ltd., died today at the Homestall, his residence here.

Lord Dewar, who was 66 years old, had been confined to the house for some days with a chill, but his condition was not regarded as serious.

Although head of one of the world's great whiskey producing companies, Lord Dewar himself was a teetotaler. He was famed for his wit and was in especial demand as an after dinner speaker. His epigrams were widely quoted.

One time, it is related, Lord Dewar sat beside a young woman at an athletic event. She was very proud of her hyphennated name.

"My name is Smythe-Smythe, with a hyphen," she said.

"Oh," said Lord Dewar, "mine is Dewar Dewar, with a siphon."

INCREASED PROTECTION FOR THE WOOL INDUSTRY

Agreement Reached By Conferees On the Tariff Bill—The Principal Increases Accepted Were On Wool Waste of All Kinds and Wool Rags—Latter Commodity Is Used In the Manufacture of Cheap Grade Woolen Articles, Including Clothing—Entire Schedule Provides Increased Protection For Growers and Manufacturers.

WASHINGTON, April 11.— (AP) — After agreeing upon the senate duty of 7 cents a pound on long staple cotton, now on the free list, the congressional conferees on the tariff bill today reached an accord on the entire wool schedule providing increased protection for growers and manufacturers.

While both senate and house bills carried higher duties on raw and processed wool all down the line, including clothing, the senate raised the house rates in many instances. In general the conferees accepted the senate changes.

However, a new sub-section was added to the clothing wool paragraph providing for lower duties than now in force on raw wool not finer than 44's. These are the coarser wools that go into the manufacture of cheap clothing and sometimes into carpets and rugs when the lower grades are scarce. Heretofore, coarse wools between 40's and 44's have taken the same rate as finer clothing wools.

The 3-cent a pound increase in the existing 31 cents a pound tariff on raw clothing wool of the finer variety was not in dispute in conference, both houses having provided for this raise.

One of the victories won by the house placed a rate of 40 cents a pound and 75 per cent on wool felt hat bodies and a 25 cents an article addition to these rates on blocked or trimmed bodies and finished felt hats. The senate had made the rate on all 33 cents a pound and 50 per cent.

The principal senate increases accepted were on wool waste of all kinds and wool rags. The latter commodity, chiefly the type imported from abroad, is used to a large extent in the manufacture of cheap grade woolen articles, including clothing. It was given a rate of 18 cents a pound as against 8 cents in the house bill.

The senate conferees receded and allowed house provisions to go in to permit importers of coarse wools to bring in up to 10 per cent of wools not finer than 44's in each bale or package of wools not finer than 40's, and up to 10 per cent of wools not finer than 46's in each bale or package of wools not finer than 44's.

The carpet wool section was broadened to provide refunding of duties if within three years from date of importation proof is furnished that the wool has been used in the manufacture of carpets, press cloth, camel's hair belting and knit or felt boots or heavy fuller lumbermen's socks.

Another important dispute was settled with the placing of a duty of 20 cents a pound and 40 per cent on mixed fabrics containing 17 per cent or more in weight of wool. This is an increase. Under the present law such goods are dutiable at the rate on the article of chief value in the mixed cloth.

Before taking up the wool schedule the conferees returned to the agriculture section and cleared up two differences which failed of settlement yesterday. One was the senate duty on long staple cotton, which was accepted.

The cotton schedule itself, embracing rates on manufactured articles, was passed over today as was the tobacco schedule carrying higher house duties on wrapper tobacco.

The other farm tariff controversy was settled with the elimination of the senate increases on frozen and dried eggs. The present and house rate of 18 cents a pound on dried whole eggs, dried egg yolk, and dried egg albumen was accepted in place of senate duties of 36, 30 and 60 cents, respectively.

The house rate of 8 cents a pound on frozen eggs also was agreed to. The present duty of 6 cents was raised to 11 cents by the senate.

OLGA EDIE EDWARDS TELLS OF RELATIONS WITH AMSTER

NEW YORK, April 11.—(AP)— Olga Edie Edwards, on trial charged with extorting money from Nathan L. Amster, today told a general session's jury of her early relations with the elderly millionaire traction magnate.

Miss Edwards said she first met Amster, whom she alleges is the father of her six-year-old son, in October, 1927, after she came to New York from San Francisco to follow a theatrical career.

She was told Amster was connected with the theatre, she testified, and could find her an engagement. Amster made "passionate love" to her on that first meeting, she continued, and asked to see her again later that night.

Her relations with Amster on the second meeting were of an "intimate nature," she said, and he promised to help her get a position.

"After that, when did you see him again," James D. C. Murray, her attorney asked.

"He stayed around New York several days after, then he told me he lived in Boston and had to return home," she answered. When he next visited New York, she added, he telephoned her and she met him again.

At this point the court ordered an adjournment until next Tuesday.

PICTURED PLANE MORE DEADLY THAN SUBMARINE

LONDON, April 12. (Saturday)—(AP)—The Daily Mail this morning states that "the most appalling weapon of war ever devised by man, defying all deefnse and raining merciless death from the skies" is now being forged in secret in England.

The new war terror, according to the Mail, is a giant airplane torpedo operating without a crew, its engine and course controlled by clockwork and its hull a mere receptacle for bombs.

The clockwork control is set beforehand to operate at a certain moment and a specific place. On arriving at the appointed moment, the engine stops and the whole machine with its deadly load crashes to the earth.

SUIT AGAINST RECEIVERS OF CENTRAL VERMONT ROAD

RUTLAND, Vt., April 11—(AP)—Walter G. Peacock, of Nashua, N. H., today brought a negligence suit in the United States district court of Vermont against George A. Gaston and John W. Redmond, of St. Albans, as receivers of the Central Vermont Railway company and against the Boston and Maine railroad, to recover $300,000. Peacock was injured Decemebr 10, 1929, when the Dartmouth special train struck his automobile at Brattleboro. His chauffeur, Howard D. Dewey, of Meriden, Conn., who was also injured, has filed suit for $5,000.

DEFENSE RESTS IN TRIAL OF FORMER BANKER BURNHAM

MIDDLETOWN, April 11—(AP)—The defense rested its case today in the trial of Clark W. Burnham, resigned executive vice president of the East Hampton Bank and Trust company, charged with embezzling $53,000 and falsifying bank records.

The trial will be resumed Tuesday when argument will be presented.

Burnham was on the stand during the greater part of today's session. He denied any attempt "to conspire to defraud" the bank.

INDICTED FOR MURDER OF FRED OESTERREICH

LOS ANGELES, April 11.—(AP)—Otto Sanhuber, confessed slayer of Fred Oesterreich, wealthy Milwaukee, Wis., manufacturer and admitted clandestine lover of Mrs. Walburga Oesterreich, was indicted by the county grand jury today for murder of the man eight years ago

LORENZ PLEADED NOT GUILTY OF MURDR OF ANDERSON

HARTFORD, April 11—(AP)—Indicted for murder in the first degree by the grand jury for the shooting of Nils E. Anderson in Wethersfield, March 31, Henry O. Lorenz, 25 years old confessed slayer, pleaded not guilty and elected trial by the court when presented before Judge Newell Jennings of superior court late this afternoon and was remanded to jail until April 23, when his trial will begin.

Two other judges will be selected by Chief Justice George W. Wheeler to sit with Judge Jennings, who will preside. Because of the speed with which this procedure usually moves, selection of a jury being dispensed with, Lorenz will probably know his fate within a month of the crime with which he is charged.

It took the grand jury only two hours to find a true bill against the tall, dark eyed youth whose story is that, hard pressed by many creditors, among them Anderson, to whom he owed $300, he attempted a desperate solution by slaying his friend and then fleeing the country.

SANTA FE TRAIN KILLED 19 PASSENGERS ON BUS

ISLETA, N. M., April 1—(AP)—A fast Santa Fe mail train today crushed a Pickwick Greyhound motor stage, killing nineteen persons, all passengers on the bus.

The accident was the worst in the history of western bus transportation. The train sideswiped the stage as the driver tried frantically to swing it clear of the oncoming locomotive and the terrific impact so mangled the bodies of the victims that late today identification of three had not been made. Eight persons were injured seriously.

Two survivors said the driver slowed up but failed to stop at the crossing.

Demolished by the collision, the bus was ignited by flames which licked over it from the gasoline tank and the bodies of the victims were robbed of clothing by the fire which, in some instances, charred the flesh itself.

Two bodies and parts of the bus were carried half a mile by the speeding train, which was able to stop a mile and a half past the crossing.

RUTH HANNA M'CORMICK CONFERRED WITH HOOVER

WASHINGTON, April 11—(AP)—Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, republican candidate for senator from Illinois said after a conference with President Hoover today that she had "always been dry and there is no reason to change."

The woman candidate's word was in response to questions concerning the anti-prohibition stand of her democratic opponents, former Senator J. Hamilton Lewis.

"The campaign starts in September and during September and October we'll have plenty to say."

She repeated with emphasis "plenty to say!"

"I am entirely with President Hoover on his law enforcement program," Mrs. McCormick added.

TOOK OATH AS MAYOR ON BED IN HOSPITAL

NEW BRITAIN, April 11—(AP)—Lying on a bed at the New Britain hospital where he is ill with pneumonia, Mayor-elect George A. Quigley today was administered the oath of office. He is scheduled to begin his term as mayor next Tuesday.

The oath was administered by Town Clerk Alfred L. Thompson in the presence of physicians, a nurse, and several newspapermen and photographers.

Mayor-elect Quigley, who was taken to the hospital last Monday, the eve of his election, was weak, but he appeared bright and cheerful when the oath was administered. Although physicians believe that his recovery is certain, he is not expected to leave the hospital for some time.

She was born in Mansfield, August 24, 1876, a daughter of John Dean. Surviving are six children: Mrs. Harriet Blair of Castile, N. Y., William of this city, Mrs. Ida Kelley of Stafford, Louis Allen of this city, Mrs. Gladys Legace and Miss Doris Allen, also of this city; one brother, John Dean of Ashford; three sisters, Miss Ida Dean of Ashford, Mrs. Sarah Spinks of Merrow and Mrs. Mable Popple of this city; and nine grandchildren.

Cooperation with the general committee on the Community Reunion week next June and with the local G. A. R. post during the state convention of that organization to be held here next month, was voted at the regular meeting of James J. Shea post, No. 19, American Legion, held in the rooms on Jackson street, Thursday night. The new uniform officially adopted by the state department for use in parades and other gatherings was exhibited by Harry Cohen, and it was indicated that several members would purchase these uniforms. Announcement was made by Commander Abraham Sussman that the legion now has a membership of 168 and an effort will be made to bring the total to 200. Commander Sussman and Adjutant Walter W. Taylor are to have charge of the decoration of World war veterans' graves prior to Memorial day.

FUNERALS

Jeremiah F. Young

In South Coventry, the funeral of Jeremiah F. Young was held this morning with a solemn requiem high mass in St. Mary's church of that town at 9 o'clock. Rev. Dennis F. Moran was celebrant; Rev. Michael J. Thompson, deacon and Rev. Francis A. Duch, sub-deacon, the latter two of St. Joseph's church, this city. Rev. Felix O'Neill of Stafford Springs was seated in the sanctuary. Solos were by Arthur Roy and Mrs. Henry J. Mathieu of this city and Miss Lillian Carpenter of South Coventry, accompanied by the organist, Raymond O'Brien. Burial was in the family plot of St. Mary's cemetery where Rev. Father Moran conducted a committal service. The bearers were J. V. Quinlan, F. W. Quinlan, J. F. Affleck, N. D. O'Connell, William O'Brien and James Donovan. Arrangements were in charge of Killourey Brothers.

Mrs. Mary E. Mason

Services for Mrs. Mary E. Mason were held at the home of her son, Dr. Louis I. Mason of Fairview Heights at 2 o'clock this afternoon with Rev. Frederick C. Williams of St. Paul's Episcopal church officiating. Burial was in the Nathan Hale cemetery at South Coventry. The bearers were Frank Hull, C. E. Hoxie, L. A. Kingsbury and DeWitt Kingsbury. Avery and VanZandt had charge of the arrangements.

The annual senior play of Windham high school, Friendly Enemies, was presented at the school auditorium tonight before a large audience. The play, which was well coached by Miss Veronica McQuillan of the faculty, was roundly applauded as its scenes successfully unfolded an intricate plot of a situation in the United States at the time of the World war. Karl Pfieffer and Henry Block, two Germans, had come to America in their youth and had reached maturity when called upon by the United States to do their bit in the war. Alfred Saba and James Timmins, as the two Germans, met with merited approval in their interpretation of these parts. Helen Pollard, as Mrs. Pfeiffer, was excellent in the role of the loving and faithful housewife and William Lennon was the mystery man as the German spy. Ruth Carey, as the charming and attractive little maid was important in Americanising the household. Edmund Viner and Russell Potter were real sleuths as the U. S. secret service men. The romance in the play centers about June and Billy, contributing characters played by Dorothy White and Harry Larkin.

COLCHESTER

FIREMEN TO PROVIDE NEEDED EQUIPMENT

Colchester Fire Co, held a well-attended meeting in the fire house Thursday evening, Chief Brown presiding. Plans were discussed regarding the coming Easter dance to be held in Grange hall, the proceeds to be spent for such needed equipment as raincoats, smoke masks and additional hose. Samuel Freedman, H. C. Freedman, Augustus Gregory, James W. O'Brien, Herman Conrad and H. F. Brown are the committee in charge of arrangements for the affair. The firemen are generously making this effort to raise funds for needed fire fighting equipment which should really be furnished by the borough.

I. Cohen and Chief Brown were appointed a committee to investigate the advisability of elevating the fire siren so that it can be heard a greater distance from the fire house. Several of the firemen have complained of not being able to hear the siren at their homes a half-mile away, when the wind is blowing in the opposite direction. It is thought that the siren should be elevated to a point at least six feet higher than its present location in order to receive full benefit from it. The committee is empowered to expend not to exceed fifty dollars to have the work done.

It was also voted to cooperate with the borough officials in keeping order about the center of the village on the night before the Fourth of July. In accordance with custom, it is thought that the Fire Co. will again this year arrange for the usual night before the Fourth bonfire on the center park and the members of the Fire Co. will patrol the streets to keep order among the younger element during the celebration. Last year, Chief Brown and assistants furnished a monster fireworks display on the center park the evening of the Fourth. The event proved so successful that plans are underway to hold a similar affair this year. Chief Brown expects to start a public subscription for the project about the middle of June.

The names of Nelson Stern and Joseph Ezekiel Falk were proposed for membership in the company and will be voted on at the May meeting. Eugene Palmer Beebe, Nathan Berman, Rudolph Fedus, Roy Trailer and John H. Conrad were voted accepted as new members.

Mrs. Charles L. Strong

Mrs. Ella Crandall Palmer Strong, 81, wife of Charles L. Strong, died at her home on Hayward avenue, Friday morning after a long illness. She had been twice married, her first husband, William Pitt Palmer, having died a number of years ago. Her second husband, Charles L. Strong, survives her. Mrs. Strong had been an active member of the old Colchester Methodist church for many years and when a number of years ago the Methodist church was torn down, she became a faithful attendant at the local Congregational church as long as her health would permit and always took an interest in the progress of the church and the community. She had a cordial, cheery manner which won her a large circle of friends in Colchester, Norwich and surrounding towns.

Rev. Edward P. Ayer, chaplain of the state senate, is to preach at the morning service of the Congregational church Sunday, Palm Sunday. Rev. Mr. Ayer has many friends among the residents of Colchester and vicinity, where he is visiting for a few days. The special music will include "The Palms." The Young People's society will be in charge of the president, Elmer H. Foote, leader for the evening.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Daniel W. Williams

(Contributed)

March 28, 1930, Mrs. Martha L. Williams, 78, died at the home of her son, Daniel W. Williams, in Wallingford, Conn. Monday, at 12 o'clock, a brief service of prayer was held in Wallingford; then her body was taken to the church in Colchester where many friends attended the service. The floral tokens attested to the place she held in the affections of many. The casket was covered by a pall of pink roses.

Mrs. Williams was the widow of Daniel Webster Williams, who died June 12, 1920. He was born in Salem, Conn., and was a brother of Miss Eleanor C. Williams and Charles T. Williams, now residing in Colchester. Mrs. Williams was born in Pennsylvania and as a young lady attended Music Vale seminary, Salem. It was while a student here that she met the man who was to become her husband. Another brother also married a young lady who was a student at Music Vale. Four sons were born to Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Williams — Warren W. of Milldale, Conn., Charles F. of Belmont, Mass., Earle T. of Castleton, N. Y., and Daniel W. of Wallingford. All the sons are living and there are nine grandchildren.

Mrs. Williams was buried in the family plot in Colchester.

FUNERAL

Homer Barrows.

News have been received of the death of Homer Barrows, a former respected resident here, of late living with his son, Alfred C. Barrows of Hughesdale, R. I. The funeral was held Thursday morning at that place; burial was in Willimantic cemetery where his first wife is buried. After his marriage with Miss Abby Green of Canterbury, his second wife, Mr. Barrows lived here for many years, their home being what is now the Nelson place, west of the village. Mr. Barrows was a veteran of the Civil war and was born in Sutton, Mass., Feb. 4, 1846. Through accidents at different times he lost the sight of both eyes and was blind the latter years of his life. While in Canterbury he was a faithful member of the Grange and had always retained his membership in that order.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

New thrills and a tale of surprising adventure await the patrons of the Palace theatre today in the opening of the all-talking production "The Lost Zeppelin," which stars Conway Tearle, Virginia Valli and Ricardo Cortez. Its distinctive features are: Conway Tearle in one of his first appearances as a talking screen star and the flight of a huge Zeppelin over the Antarctic regions.

Tearle is cast as Commander Hall of the Zeppelin "Explorer," about to make a flight to the south pole for scientific research. The night before the departure the commander is the guest of honor at a banquet. Preferring to spend the evening at home with his charming wife, Miriam, he returns early to find her in the arms of his young friend Tom Armstrong who he asked to accompany him as his aide. Hall says nothing. After Tom leaves Miriam tells her husband of her love for the naval officer and asks for a divorce. He advises her to wait until the flight is completed.

Gigantic storms of wind and sleet prevail and the ship, overcome by the gales is dashed to pieces against a mountain of ice. Supplied with food enough for only eight days the survivors battle for their lives in the merciless climate. Starvation and cold gradually take all of the men and Hall and Armstrong are the survivors.

A radio message sent just before the crash of the Zeppelin brings a plane in answer to the distress signal. There is room in the plane for only one passenger and Hall orders Tom to return to Miriam.

Many surprises await Tom on his glorious return, and the audience will be thrilled by the events which become one man's victory and another man's loss. Virginia Valli as Miriam is excellent in her part and Tom Armstrong is well characterized by Rod LaRoque.

"The Lost Zeppelin" will be shown at the Palace through Tuesday of next week. Also there is a great bill of added features, 3 Vitaphone Specials and a comedy with a thousand laughs by that famous pair Buck & Bubbles in their latest comedy, "High Toned," also Metrotone news. In all this looks like a very fine bill so don't miss it.

Broadway Theatre

Popular songs—theme songs—love songs—where do they all come from? Most of 'em originate in the heart of "Tin-Pan Alley," right in back of the scintillating lights of Broadway, where the hack-writers sit and pound out melodies on their tin-pan pianos in the hope that some day they'll get a real inspiration and "knock 'em cold." "Lord Byron of Broadway," opening at the Broadway today, is the thrill story of Roy Erskine, pianist in a cheap cabaret who had his "moments" too, when the one inspiration seemed just beyond his reach, but the little cashier gave him his first real break, and "Just a Bundle of Old Loveletters" became an overnight hit. Success turned his head, however, as it does many, and as "Lord Byron of Broadway," he was too big a shot" to bother with that cafe dame. Life went fast with "Lord Byron," but there was something lacking, and he found out that his inspiration was gone. He needed Nancy to spur him on and in the end, after a series of harrowing adventures, the lovers are re-united under the blaze of the Times Square mazdas and happiness reigns supreme. The cast of "Lord Byron" is superb, with Charles Kaley of Earl Carroll's "Vanities." Ethelind Terry, the original "Rio Rita," the famous Cliff Edwards and little Marion Schilling, with Gwen Lee and Benny Rubin and a large beauty chorus, including the famed Albertina Rasch ballet. The various musical numbers are presented in a typically lavish New York manner. "Should I," "Just a Bundle of Old Love Letters," "Only Love Is Real," and "The Old Woman in the Shoe," being the most popular and the latter an exceptionally spectacular number. The generous use of technicolor adds greatly to the beauty of the production. In addition, Charlie Murray makes his first comedy-starring appearance in "The Duke of Dublin." Bert Roach and Johnny Arthur have a hectic time with Ruth Taylor, that "blonde gentlemen prefer," in "Scrappily Married," and the latest Paramount Sound news completes a snappy program. The children have their innings this afternoon with their own special attraction, "Tarzan the Tiger," a sound and dialogue serial.

Moving Pictures at Y. M. C. A.

At 4 o'clock on Sunday afternoon in the large gymnasium of the Norwich Y. M. C. A. the seven reel moving picture titled "Timothy's Quest" will be shown.

Here are all the characters of Kate Douglas Wiggin's most cherished story—Timothy and Rags, Lady Gay, Vildy, Samanthy, Hatty Tarbox and Jake—all come to life upon the silver sheet.

The wonderfully heart-warming story of the two valiant little beings, who, wanting a mother, wandered into Maine and there laid seige to an embittered spinster's heart.

This picture story is one that has a very definite appeal to the sympathy of all who see it; the story emphasizes the lesson of how even a little child can influence others and how by their tender appeal they can touch deeply even the hardest heart.

To this service the adult public is specially invited, and youth from eleven to fifteen may attend if accompanied by their parents.

DESIGNED PROGRESSIVELY BUILT FAITHFULLY

REGARDLESS of price, quality in materials, or workmanship, a motor car must be given the initial advantage of correct design if it is to prove satisfactory in the hands of owners.

That is why Olds Motor Works has brought together a most capable engineering staff. That is why Olds Motor Works has given these men the finest of equipment and the most complete of laboratories in which to work. That is why Olds Motor Works places emphasis first of all, and always, upon progressive design in Oldsmobile and Viking.

It is evident that in order to obtain full advantages from this advanced and basically sound design, workmanship must be of the highest character. It must be uniform and consistent in quality. It must be faithful to the point of idealism. That is why Oldsmobile-Viking workers follow the rule expressed by this pledge, "Anything short of my best is not acceptable."

Any Oldsmobile or Viking owner will tell you what these things mean when interpreted in terms of performance, comfort, dependability, and long life.

If you are interested in a car in any but the very lowest or the highest price classes, come and judge Oldsmobile and Viking. Drive them over roads of your own choosing. You will then know the advantages that inevitably result from progressive design and faithful manufacture.

DANIELSON

JENCKS' CONFESSION CLEARS UP CHICKEN THEFTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, April 11.—A confession by one William Jencks of Apponaug would appear to be the means of fixing the responsibility for much of the chicken thieving that has been going on in towns in this section of eastern Windham county for some time past, as well as other such stealing in Rhode Island and Massachusetts towns.

Jencks is now locked up at Apponaug. He was picked up by Lieutenant Ledoux of the Warwick police on suspicion of complicity in chicken stealing and after questioning admitted his guilt and implicated others of a gang with which he has been traveling.

As a result of the revelations by Jencks the arrests of Joseph Burgess of Pontiac and Earl Thomas of Apponaug by Warwick police followed, and Louis Kinnecom was arrested by a Rhode Island state trooper as a member of the band of thieves. Kinnecom lives in Layette, R. I. The police also are seeking after one Vito Becessare, for questioning.

Jencks has confessed that he and Burgess were responsible for the raid on the coops of Lucy Pratt, resident near Moosup pond, two weeks ago. He also charges that Burgess and Thomas recently stole chickens at Oneco. He further related that other raids for poultry in this territory were planned for the present week end.

The plan the gang followed, according to Jencks, was to proceed to Providence, hire an automobile such as can be rented by the hour in that city, and start for whatever destination had been selected. As had been suspected, the gang worked early in the evening, as soon after dark as possible, and generally they had returned the hired car by 10 p. m. The stolen birds were sold in Providence or Apponaug. There is the chance that a "fence" worked with them and that his arrest will be a subsequent development of the case.

Sergeant G. L. Gardner of the Danielson barracks is cooperating with the Rhode Island officers in checking up on the case.

Illegally Speared Fish

Clifford L. Wild, resident near the southern border of the town of Killingly, near the state highway leading to Wauregan, was before Deputy Judge Charles S. Francis in the town court this morning, charged with illegally spearing fish, he having no license to do so. He was fined $5 and costs, a total of $10.50. He was ordered into court by County Game Warden Thomas Daniels of Plainfield. A section of the fish and game laws of the state provides that only eels and suckers may be legally taken with spears and that those engaged in spearing, unless it be on property owned by the person or leased by him, must have an angler's license. Warden Daniels also pointed out this morning that spearing within 500 feet of a dam is illegal.

Looking For Factory Site

Walter Anderson, one of Danielson's manufacturers and a former warden of the borough, was seeking this morning for a small factory suitable for the uses of a manufacturing concern that desires to locate in Danielson if it can get suitable quarters. While there are several buildings that might prove suitable, some of them are unavailable, though idle, and others not of proper size or condition. Mr. Anderson said he would confer with a representative of the concern over the week end, and meanwhile anyone who has suggestions relative to buildings that might be acceptable may communicate with Mr. Anderson relative to them.

Blackwell's brook, along the miles that the state has stocked it so heavily within the past few weeks in the towns of Canterbury and Brooklyn, will be invaded by a throng of fishermen next Tuesday morning, anxious for the trout they long for on the first day of the open fishing season. They should do exceptionally well over there. The state has been generous in its stocking operations and fish up to ten inches in length have been released in the stream.

As a state-leased brook it can only be fished within the regulations set forth by the state fish and game commission and fully explained in notices that have been erected along the route of the stream. It will be under daily patrol right through the season, and regulations are to be strictly enforced.

Blackwell's is one of the very finest trout streams in eastern Connecticut.

Miss Emelia Ouimette of Dyer street has returned to her home, after having been operated upon for appendicitis at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam.

The first registered shoot of the season under the auspices of the Danielson Rod and Gun club is scheduled for Sunday, starting at 11 a. m., at the club's grounds on the Wauregan road. There are to be three events—100 16-yard targets, distance handicap and doubles.

Nearly 100 fishing licenses will have been issued in Killingly, it is estimated, by the end of the present week. A heavy demand for licenses is anticipated Monday, the day before the opening of the fishing season.

A consignment of quail supplied by the state fish and game commission has been released in this territory, County Game Warden Daniels said while here today.

Incident to the observance of Palm Sunday in the churches of Danielson there will be special music and in some instances distribution of palms, significant of Christ's triumphal entry into Jerusalem.

This afternoon the Ladies' Sewing society of St. Alban's church held the annual Easter sale of food, fancy work, candy and aprons at the parish house and many were in attendance. Tea was served from 4 to 6:30.

Killingly high school's baseball team will open its season next Wednesday, playing Norwich Free Academy, at Norwich. This year's squad numbers in excess of a score of players.

Next Tuesday afternoon, the Ladies' Prayer circle is to meet with Mrs. Albert Abbott at the Methodist parsonage on Broad street.

Terrace Farm pure milk and cream delivered daily. Call 204-4 or 59-5: also heavy cream at Evergates' restaurant. —adv.

While next week, being Holy week, will be a period of complete renunciation of social activities for a great many residents of Danielson, plans already are being made for the post-Lenten dances and other such affairs.

Monday brings the annual borough meeting. For years past no more than 5 per cent of the qualified voters of the borough have taken the trouble to vote, but the hope is that a large number will be sufficiently interested to vote this year.

At St. Alban's church there will be Holy Week services on Thursday at 10 a. m. and at 7:30 p. m., and on Good Friday at 10 a. m., and from 1:30 to 3 p. m. There will also be a service at Trinity church, Brooklyn, Good Friday evening.

Six college graduates filed applications when it was announced that Ft. Worth, Tex., would add three women to its police force

PUTNAM

LOCAL MAN BEFORE COURT ON NON-SUPPORT CHARGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, April 11.—Leonard Wolfenden, a former resident of Pomfret, was before Judge M. H. Geissler in city court this morning on a charge of non-support. After a lengthy hearing in which family discords were brought out in testimony by Wolfenden and his wife, Mrs. Valerie Wolfenden of Bridge street, this city, whose complaint caused the arrest of her husband, Judge Geissler ordered the case continued for a month with the promise of the defendant that he will contribute to the support of his two children. Wolfenden is now a resident of Rockville, Conn. The case was prosecuted by Attorney Johnson, who was assisted by Attorney Irving H. Miron.

ELKS PLAN FOR OBSERVANCE OF 30TH ANNIVERSARY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, April 11.—A committee appointed by Frank M. Bedard, exalted ruler of the lodge, is now at work formulating elaborate plans for the observance of the 30th anniversary of the institution of the Putnam lodge of Elks. The committee is headed by John H. Bulger, a past exalted ruler, and consists of the following members: Ralph E. Thurston, George Lewis, Jr., Fred Gagne and James H. Rafferty. The event will be observed early in June. The committee will make an effort to engage the services of several men prominent in state and fraternal circles, who will address the gathering that is expected to assemble for the celebration.

Putnam lodge, No. 574, was founded in June, 1900. The institution ceremonies were held in Odd Fellows hall on Pomfret street. The charter membership list of the lodge consisted of 50 members, four of whom are now living. They are George Bradley of Grove street, Andrew V. Frost of Sunnyside avenue, Byron D. Bugbee of Grove street and Archibald Macdonald, Sr., of George street. All are past exalted rules of the lodge. The late Stephen H. Cole was installed as the first exalted ruler. Since its institution the organization's growth has been remarkable. The meagre membership list of 1900 grew by leaps and bounds until today more than 550 members are enrolled in Elkdom in Putnam. The lodge has since acquired one of the large business blocks on Main street and the second and third floors of the building have been converted into palatial quarters, constituting one of the finest fraternal homes in the state.

Although brooks and streams in the countryside are overflowing their banks because of recent rains, trout fishermen are hopeful that with continued dry weather the waters will recede in time for the opening of the season next Tuesday.

Provided the voters of the municipality at a special city meeting to be held in June, express approval of extra appropriations voted by the common council at the April meeting, many of the streets in the north and south end of the city will be beautified with the construction of sidewalks and gutters.

A four alarm of fire received at 8:02 o'clock this morning was for a chimney fire in a tenement house on Bullock street. Chief Thurston and the hook and ladder and pumper companies responded to the call, extinguishing the blaze before property damage was created. The call this morning was the 34th alarm of the year.

Fruit growers in the Pomfrets and Woodstocks expect a late apple blossom time this year, it was reported today and if calculations prove true, this means that the growers will also have a late crop this season. Apples are grown extensively in Woodstock and in Pomfret. Cultivators are at work now in treating the trees for apple scab, a disease to which this fruit tree is highly susceptible.

Complaints of street lights in the east side of the city being broken by boys continue to come to the attention of the police, who are making a determined effort to put a stop to this vandalism.

In order to improve service and efficiency, officials of the New Haven division of the New Haven railroad have removed freight offices to quarters in the freight houses on Buck street. The offices were formerly located in the company house on Buck street.

A post near the gateman's house at the lower crossing was on fire during Thursday night but the telegraph operator at the railroad station discovered it and brought water to extinguish the blaze.

Complaints are being made about shooting of birds. It is dangerous to go in the woods as the boys are firing air rifles.

Miss Priscilla Burgess of Norwich is visiting Miss Margaret Weaver.

Charles Peterson of Providence, formerly a resident here, called on local friends Friday.

NO. GROSVENORDALE

The following program was given at the last meeting of Quinnatisset grange: Monolog, Mrs. Bernklow; reading, Mrs. Leon Robbins; humorous selections, Walter Whitely, Helen Kinander, Mrs. Morrison and Miss Helen Law; piano solo, Mrs. E. Joslin; song, Marion Bates, Helen Kinander and Evelyn Robbins. At the next meeting, April 15, a play, "Mrs. Flinn's Lodgers," will be given by the members. Quinnatisset grange has been invited to attend neighbors' night to be held at Oxford, April 22. A program is being prepared for that event.

The Grosvenordale company baseball team, formerly known as the North Grosvenordale Giants, will hold the first practice of the season today (Saturday). Manager Leo Bernard will given everyone presenting himself at the field a try-out. If all of last year's players show up for practice, Mr. Bernard feels certain that he will have a good fielding and hard hitting nine. The team is financially backed by Agent John F. Reardon.

The Grosvenordale company nine has joined the baseball league in which teams from the following towns are numbered: Putnam, Webster, Dudley, Southbridge and North Grosvenordale. The Intervale company team of Quinebaug has been refused admittance. A meeting will be held to decide the fate of the Quinebaugians. The Intervale mills team won the league championship game against the Slater company of Webster, last year.

Mrs. Hannah Bates is caring for a patient in Windham, Conn.

The school board held its meeting at Tourtellotte Memorial, Thursday night.

The C. E. society will attend the conference to be held in Leominster today (Saturday).

The Crafty Workers' club held a meeting Friday with Mrs. Alexander Maitland. Miss May Whitney was elected delegate to the round-up. Plans for raising money for the junior short course were discussed. The next meeting of the club will be held Thursday, April 17.

Following is the result of the bowling match between the Over-the-Top and St. John teams for the $25. purse. The Over-the-Top team won by a 24 pin margin.

DIGGING UP ANCESTORS IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, April 11—(AP)—Washington is busy digging up its ancestors.

Not with a spade, but with the camera. There is a revival this winter of the old daguerreotype fad, made bigger and better than ever by modern photography.

Washington, possibly more than any city, puts a permium on ancestors. The need for background, once one becomes a resident of the capital city, is most apparent.

Great-grandfather, who fought at Bull Run hides his light under a bushel when his bearded face is between the black leather covers of a "tintype" case. But let the camera preproduce great grandfather's sword, whiskers and all into a photograph and he's good for the mantel any day.

Lucky the matron who finds a colonial governor in her ancestry and his picture in the attic. He's background personified.

One good ancestor is enough to put a family in right. One pair of sideburns provides dignity. A hero or a higher-up who carried a sword rates like a royal flush in a poker game.

COLORED GLOVES TO MATCH FROCKS

PARIS, April 11—(AP)—Colored lace gloves are shown in Paris as accessories for spring and summer frocks

Colored silk gloves of elbow length also are suggested. One dealer shows silk gloves with stiff little frills of organdy around the top and down the side to accompany organdy hats for summer wear.

JEWETT CITY

BOY'S LEG BADLY SCRAPED BY CONTRACTOR'S TRUCK

The eleven-year old son of William Casher, of 20 Dime street, was injured by one of the M. A. Gammino Construction company's trucks, Friday, when the wheel scraped the flesh from the boy's leg, leaving the bone bare for a considerable area. The lad was taken to the office of Dr. F. E. Rainville, who rushed the boy to the Backus hospital in Norwich, in his automobile. It is believed that the driver of the truck is in no way responsible for the accident.

WOLENDA WOMAN PAYS FINE OF $200 AND COSTS

In Griswold town court Friday morning, Judge John T. Barry gave a fine of $100 and costs on each of two counts, keeping with intent to sell and actual sale, to Mrs. Nellie Wolenda, which she paid.

Wild Geese Excite Speculation

Telephone calls from several parts of the town directed attention to the peculiar performances of a flock of geese which appeared above the borough in mid-forenoon Friday. When first seen by Mrs. F. H. Gilbert, they were in a long straight line, flying south, and not in the usual V formation. When about a mile below the borough the line swung sharply to the eastward. After holding a due easterly course for two or three minutes, the birds lined up again, finally disappearing off to the north of the town, only a point or two west of the direction whence they came. It being very unusual to note a south-bound flock in April, it is also an uncommon sight to see geese holding to a straight line.

Engine No. 1 and Chemical No. 1, responded to a call from Station 52 at 8:40 Friday morning. A grass fire off Pleasant View street, threatened damage to nearby buildings. The firemen made short work of the trouble without the use of either engine or hydrant pressure.

Business Established in '85

The business formerly handled by Fred S. Leonard, of the firm of J. E. Leonard and Son has been taken over by Edward Blanchard. Mr. Leonard, who is a patient at Backus hospital, Norwich, had been thinking for some time previous to his illness, of retiring from active work. Joseph E. Leonard established this business in 1885. His son has been presented a meritorious award, which sets forth the fact that F. S. Leonard holds the record for the personal writing of insurance risks, during a period of 45 years.

Receives Gift of Gold

A stag party was held at the home of George Guillotte Thursday evening in honor of Leo Lariviere, of Jewett City, formerly of Worcester. He was presented fifteen dollars in gold. During the evening games were played and songs were sung by the entire group, accompanied on the ukelele by George Guillotte. Louis Cyr and Charles Saunders sang specialty numbers. Later in the evening refreshments were served. Others present were Louis Guillotte, Theodore Boule, Wilfred Proulx, Theodore Guillotte, William Guillotte, Fred Lefevre, Wilfred Fontaine, Ed. Guillotte, Philamon Guillotte, Charles Donahue, Homer Fontaine and Joseph Cyr.

During the second day of the welcome dash of summer which visited this section Friday, the mercury rose to 66.

The program given Friday afternoon in the auditorium of Riverside school was in charge of Mrs. Blake's class. It consisted of musical numbers and talks pertaining to the science of things about us, illustrated by experiments, stereopticon views and photographs. It included: Piano duet, Rosalie DesJardin and Marjorie MacLean; The Willow Nook and By the Firelight, girls' chorus; The Telegraph, Lewis Gill; The Dynamo, Harold Frink; The Conduction Machine, James Wakely; Ways of Measuring Time, Lynwood Mills; The Telephone, Rose Samboy; The Planets, Percy Katz; The Windmill, Raymond Cathcart; Tricks, Rollin Tripp; piano solo, Hungarian Rhapsodie, Mignonne, by Rollin Tripp; Preserving Our Forest, William Chickan; The Useful Rubber Tree, Genevieve Miss; From Forests to Coal Bin, Josephine Sella; From Cotton Field to Factory, Charlotte Albertine; piano solo, Crimson Blushes, Rosalie DesJardins. The assembly leader was Etta Shea and the class reporter is Rose Samboy.

Two girls came into the postoffice Friday, one of whom found a slip in her box, which read "Call at the Window." There she was informed that three cents were due on a letter being held for postage. The letter being undeliverable had been returned, and stamped across its face in red ink, were the words—Division of Dead Letters, New York. When the girl received it, spying the official notation, she turned to her companion, saying with much evident concern, "Oh My! I wonder who's dead now!"

Miss Doris Myott will sing The Palms as an offertory solo at the Sunday morning service at the Congregational church.

Local stores received 900 boxes of strawberries Friday for the week end trade. With this comes the assurance that every purchaser is going to keep a sharp eye lifting for the nice little billet-doux that may be hidden beneath the fruit in the bottom of the box. Last spring, the tens of thousands of boxes that were sold in local markets were extra fine and sweet, and that goes for the notes that were found by only a few. One old married young home town chap, answered the note which his wife found in a box from Tennessee. A fine letter telling all about southern berry conditions was received from the 16-year old picker, also her photograph, together with a set of souvenir cards, showing berry fields and cotton picking scenes. A young and eligible clerk in one of the stores also wrote to one of the strawberry box addresses. The letter he received in reply was something wonderful to read, with a hint, now and then, throughout the epistle that there might be some consideration of matrimony, if it would mean a home where one wouldn't have to pick berries for three cents a box.

A union service is to be held at 7 p. m. Sunday in the Baptist church. The Deliverance, a six reel motion picture to be shown is based on Irving Fisher's book on prohibition, Prof. Fisher is of Yale. The production, sponsored by the Anti-Saloon league is produced by Robert E. Corradini for educational purposes.

The second fire alarm for Friday came in at 5:55 p. m. from Station 42 for a grass fire north of the borough line, off Brown avenue and East Main street. Several houses and outbuildings were threatened. The engine and chemical responded. 700 feet of hose was laid from a Brown avenue hydrant.

The records at the engine house Friday evening showed a greater number of calls for grass and brush fires, than during any preceeding spring period since the company was organized.

WAUREGAN

The Men's class of the Congregational church held Ladies' night Thursday. The program was in the hands of the following committee: Arthur Mott, Robert Bethel, Addison Tracy, Chas. Robinson. Turkey, mashed potatoes and all the extras was enjoyed; the supper committee being in charge of George Downes. Serving were, Howard Mann, John Noble, Stanley Stones, Herman Girsch, Fred Yates, Wallace Burns, Albert Johnson, Earl Leach, David William, Addison Tracy and Arthur Mott. Over 80 sat at the tables. A brief business meeting followed, in charge of the class president, W. T. Burns, who transferred the evening's entertainment over to Robert Bethel. The far-famed Leach's orchestra rendered several selections; a clarinet solo by Elmer Johnson was encored; solo by Jehu Downes was of excellent standard. Rev. Giles F. Goodenough addressed the gathering in his inimitable way; another group of solos by Mr. Downes, and selections by the orchestra completed the program. A group of ladies and their gentlemen, gave an exhibition of folk-dances, several new and inspiring features adding to the regular dance movements.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Thompson and children, Russell, Leslie and Beattie, of Willimantic, were recent callers at the home of Mrs. Thompson's mother, Mrs. C. Eaton. The many friends of Mrs. Eaton are glad to note her recovery from a recent accident.

Dr. F. Erwin Tracy, of the New Haven hospital, spent this week with his mother, Mrs. Gertrude Tracy, following a week spent in Washington, D. C. His friends in the village are pleased at his progress in his chosen profession.

The sympathy of all has been extended to Mrs. Mary Moffitt in the death of her son, in Providence. He was a Wauregan boy, and his brothers, William and Myron, still live here.

Rev. W. Williams attended the meeting of the Windham Ministers' union at Plainfield, Monday. The pastor, Rev. W. C. Prentiss, had prepared an excellent program, with lunch at the La Fayette Inn.

Mrs. C. H. Robinson, Mrs. W. T. Burns, Mr. and Mrs. Williams, attended the Six-Church conference at Central Village, Tuesday.

The younger folks are giving a hearty welcome to Michael and Myrtice Campbell, of Providence, this week.

New hymnals presented by the Earnest Workers, were used for the first time last Sunday, and earned praise from the worshippers.

Palm Sunday Services.

The customary impressive services will be held at the Sacred Heart church Sunday; also the great festival of Easter is to be observed with the usual ceremonies.

Smart Outfit for Travel

PARIS, April 11—(AP)—An exclusive couturiere shows traveling ensembles which include silk pajamas, silk sheets and pillow cases, short jacket, and long robes of printed satine.

HERE'S ONE COSTUME PARIS HAS SHORTENED

PARIS, April 11—(AP)—There is no back and very little front in the 1930 sunsuit for summer.

Unsophisticated cotton stripe materials promise to be smartest for sun and beach suits. The costume includes abbreviated shorts, a broad belt and insignificant bib front held in place with suspenders which fasten to the belt in back, or supported by a string around the neck.

ANCIENT GREEKS SWAY DINNER DRESS STYLE

PARIS, April 11—(AP)—Grecian sandals, sometimes heelless and toeless, are the correct footwear with Grecian dinner dresses launched by a well known couturier for spring.

The Greek costumes are black satin. Sandals are also of black satin with gold or silver soles. White crystal balliff chains and bracelets complete the Grecian ensemble.

IMPROVE TALMAN STREET

Norwich finds it necessary to make changes in its traffic regulations from time to time. Increased traffic means more congestion, more confusion and, in the search for relief, changes are inevitable.

Within a few days we shall have an opportunity to see whether the making of part of Shetucket street a one-way street is going to accomplish all that is desired or whether it is simply going to shift the congestion from Shannon corner to the junction of Main and Market, Market and Water and Water street, combined with the awkwardness of getting to the military highway. Still there is nothing like trying out such efforts for relief in order to determine what the actual rather than the speculative result will be.

In this connection there cannot fail to be brought to attention the importance, sooner or later, of undertaking the development of Talman street. There is a street if put in the proper condition which would take much traffic from the west and south and send it on its way without adding to the congestion at Shannon corner or through Main street eastward. The need of that relief is apparent. Streets are jammed because there is no other decent way to go and each year finds the situation getting worse.

Permitting right hand traffic from Shetucket street into Main to go along at all times without restriction, except such as the traffic officer may direct in order to give the pedestrians a chance, would do much in the way of relief, but there is likewise need of relieving the Franklin square situation many times during the day and the chance to use a good highway through Talman street would be improved by many. It might be a bit longer but it would not be subject to delays.

Talman street would also be the means of escaping the congested center of the city for all traffic coming from the Greeneville section and the Westerly highway and destined for the Laurel Hill section or the military highway, and as time goes on it is more and more being recognized that alternate routes are of great importance in relieving traffic conditions and leaving the much used streets for that traffic which cannot go elsewhere. It is time to improve Talman street and make it fit for increased use, make it good enough so it will invite traffic.

MR. COOLIDGE SPEAKS

There has never been any good reason for believing that Mr. Coolidge did not mean what he said. Because of the manner in which he made the declaration "I do not choose to run" there were those who harbored the idea that he was concealing his real attitude. They thought he ought to have used words which they would have chosen if he really meant what he said. They were anxious to retain his services and desired to draft him for an additional term in the white house, but they found out there was a finality to his words.

Since that time there have been those who have liked to speculate upon the future political possibilities of the ex-president. They have advanced the view that he was certain to be available for this, that or the other office, that he was even waiting until he could be chosen to the senate or even step back into the presidency.

They were far-fetched and unwarranted views. They were based upon the idea that all things are possible. They gave the impression that they knew Mr. Coolidge, but the latest statement by the former president put them all in the discard. What he has set forth is simply in keeping with the attitude he has taken all along. Considering that he has rendered his service to the country, he is out of politics. He makes that flat assertion and it jibes with what he said upon being relieved of his duties of the presidency. His object is not to prove embarrassing to the administration but to help it. He has full confidence in it. He has no idea of letting any political activity create the wrong impression. He is enjoying being out of public life once more and his purpose is to remain there. There can be no mistaking what he has said.

Knowing Mr. Coolidge as the country has during his office-holding in Massachusetts and during his service as president, it is no more than was to be expected. He has given those who were disposed to twist and distort his words on other occasions an opportunity to understand that he means what he says. It should put an end to the speculation in political possibilities in that direction, but there is no assurance that it will. Whether they have been annoying to the former president, he felt the need of nailing them. He has done it.

THE CUSTOMS GRAFTERS

It makes little difference where it exists, if there is graft, if the public is mulcted for the benefit of the pocketbooks of those who have them at their mercy, it is time that action was taken that would clear out the scoundrels, with such penalty in addition to dismissal as they deserve, and a fair deal insured to the public. Because the public is helpless in many instances doesn't mean that they should be subjected to the extortion which underhanded officials may individually or collectively think they can practice.

Announcement has been made that there is to be a checking up in the graft that is exacted by customs inspectors at the port of New York. It is a good thing. It is pointed out, however, that such things have been done before and the grafters have been cleared out without much being known about it. They have been located and removed, sometimes they have been indicted. In the present effort the purpose is to protect the public. It is entirely possible that there might be too much publicity, an effort to make a mountain out of a molehill. There is no need for anything of that kind, but it may not be entirely for the benefit of the service or the public that too much stress should be laid upon covering up the wrong doings. It is always well to let it be known that there is a determination to stamp out such conduct. There is no reason why the grafters should have their acts covered up and their record smoothed over. It simply operates to create the impression upon others that it is possible by a bit slicker scheme to carry on such acts if they can only be clever enough to keep it under cover.

The light of publicity has its good results. It can be overdone. The situation can be distorted. The picture can be magnified. A greater alarm and distrust can be created than is actually justified. In New York it is apparently the purpose not to keep the house-cleaning effort under a bushel but to treat it in a manner which will proclaim to the customs inspectors as well as to the public that grafters can expect no quarter. Through such a wholesome treatment of the situation there should be beneficial results accruing to the public, but no more than they deserve.

STATE PARK ROADS

Hammonassett beach is the most popular of the state parks. Its popularity indicates that it meets requirements, that the people find there just what they are looking for.

According to the plans of the state highway department it is its purpose to build a new road to the shore resort, a road that will serve an additional number and provide an improved route. It is inevitable that attention should be given to this public requirement. It is desirable and important that fit roads should be provided for all the state parks. With these historical and natural beauty spots set aside for the benefit of the public, now and in the future, it is to be expected that proper means of getting there should be developed. Otherwise they are not going to be as freely visited as they should and those for whom they are intended will know only in limited numbers what has been set aside for them.

Better roads to Hammonassett beach will mean easier access and increased use. It will do the same at the Devil's hopyard. It will encourage the public to take a peek at what has been acquired for their use at Fort Shantok park. There isn't much that serves to popularize such places beyond their natural attractions much more than good roads. Some will go no matter what the condition. Not so with the rank and file. The uninviting road is enough to discourage those who would otherwise be anxious to go to state parks. Even if it doesn't block an initial visit, because of a willingness to take a chance on any road just once, it too often means that there will be no further interest and effort. The bad road, the uneven, rocky, rutty road to a state park is the greatest obstacle to the knowledge of such property. It creates a situation just the opposite to what should exist.

CHILD HEALTH DAY

May first is nearly three weeks away but to awaken the proper amount of interest in the observance of that day as a health day for children throughout the country President Hoover has issued his proclamation designating it Child Health day.

As he invites all the agencies interested in boys and girls and all the people to make this day the time for organization and coordinating interest in child health, he sets forth what will get hearty endorsement, and that is that "Our children have the right to be born in health, to be well throughout babyhood and the pre-school years; to be surrounded by moral and spiritual inspiration; to work and to play through primary school with well minds based on well bodies; to enjoy and to profit to the utmost by their higher schooling because of wholesome habits of thought and deed; thence to graduate into adult life strong in body and inculcated with the sense of fair play and of responsibility for the rights of others."

Because it is their right doesn't always mean that they experience it. There has been much done for the betterment of child health. Organized efforts have accomplished a great deal in that direction, but there remains plenty to be done. There is the opportunity for education, the chance to do constructive work, the need of breaking down prejudice against new ideas, the necessity for cooperation.

Health day, or any one day on which such an effort is made, will not be sufficient to do all that is desired. The situation calls for constant effort, but there is an excellent opportunity for stirring up interest and enthusiasm and a recognition of the need for such work through such a special effort. Increased effort through increased interest is bound to mean increased results and a closer approach to the desired goal.

EDITORIAL NOTES

There will be no objection if the London conference nears the end, provided it is successful.

It is about time that someone was startling the countryside with the announcement, "Peas in blossom!"

If April were to be guided by the applause it gets it would insist on being itself and not trying to ape March.

If there are drys who are refusing to participate in the Digest poll, it is quite evident that the Kansas drys are not responding to any such notion.

There were too many angles to that primary contest in Illinois to suppose that the country is going to accept the outcome there as a national verdict on the world court.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

When this paragraph was written we were in the midst of high prevailing winds from the southwest. It was that variety of searching wind that was successful in finding the thin spots of one's clothing, and it made one more uncomfortable than in calm zero weather. Now these raw winds serve humanity an important purpose, and that is they purify the air; and that means also that they purify our clothing. This was forcibly brought to the writer's notice on one occasion. On a very windy day he passed a certain house where the good woman had hung out her husband's apparel to air, and you believe me if there had been any germs in the clothing, within a half hour they were all floating over Voluntown headed straight for the Atlantic. The thought came to the writer how fine it would be if some husbands could be hung out on a line in a strong gale to get all the kinks and germs out of him and send them straight to the Atlantic. The plan is not feasible, because there are not enough clothes lines.

Are there not some other qualities of these high winds? Of course hanging out men on a clothes line for health purposes wouldn't make them look pretty, nor improve the appearance of the premises, but not might keep them alive till the time of their annual bath. But there are other good things to be said of these strong gales, and that is the tonicity they give to the pedestrian. Strike out into one of those strong gales, with head erect, shoulders thrown back, mouth closed, (if that is possible for awhile) taking long regular strides for several miles, and then you will begin to feel that you can do even the impossible, like settling the tariff. Think of Edward Payson Weston, on his 72d birthday walking 72 miles without fatigue! It gives one pain to see young fellows dependent on automobile and trolleys.

In our childhood days we were familiar with this bit of poetry: "Tall oaks from little acorns grow." With much propriety these words apply to that somewhat modern part of our Sunday school instruction known as the "cradle roll department." For awhile it was an experiment, but for a long while it has ceased to be such. We have long since learned to regard it just as much an organic part of the Sunday school structure as the kindergarten is of the public school system. This is true to the extent that no Sunday school that functions properly would for an instant think of its discontinuance. It works with accepted approval in two ways, first it becomes the natural feeder of the school in which the parents, especially the mother, takes great interest. It is a sort of recruiting function, and, secondly, it creates an interest among the young in the primary department.

Are there not many phases of mature life to which the words-quoted above-apply? There is hardly a situation in active life that is not a reminder that "tall oaks from little acorns grow." From the physical standpoint many a discouraged boy has keenly realized what a "small acorn" he was, but had grit enough to persevere along the lines of bodily training until he became strong. Babe Ruth did not make home runs at first. It required time, patience and grit. He was inspired by the consciousness that he was slowly getting there. It seems to border upon the miraculous how much may be accomplished where there is a dogged disposition to succeed. It is just as true in getting a strong mind as it is in building up and an preserving a strong body. It applies also to the grim determination to break away from bad habits. To such a will outside strength will be given.

The word "reciprocity" has loomed up big in the history of human activity. It has been used largely in treaties between nations that have involved trade relations. One nation because of the peculiarity of its soil and its climate can produce certain things that a remote nation cannot. And visa versa that other nation can produce commodities that the first cannot. Hence it is perfectly natural that they should exchange their productions. More recently this idea has very profitably been carried into the intellectual field. This is easily explainable because there is a law applying to what we think as well as to what we do. Take the Williams College foundation which provided for the great scholars of the old world to come here and give their ideas on political subjects. Also our scholars go to Oxford for a similar purpose. It helps all around.

Tomorrow is a day that America ought not to allow to pass into oblivion, but judging from the trend in recent years, it seems that ere long it will cease to be recognized. It seems to the writer that some action ought to be taken to save April 13 from the political scrapheap. Probably little attention will be given to the day this year along political lines because it falls on Palm Sunday. But some attention ought to be given to it every year because for the American people it has been immortalized as the birthday of Thomas Jefferson, who easily stands next to Washington for services rendered that put the United States of America upon the map as "a free and independent nation." The Constitution was largely the work of his hand and brain. No other man of that day was so well qualified to give a consensus of the thought and feeling of his co-patriots as Jefferson.

Population of All Windham and Tolland County Towns in All Censuses Since 1756

The subjoined tables give the population of all towns in Windham and Tolland counties for all official censuses up to the one now being taken.

In many cases, apparent losses are explained by the setting off of new towns out of the old ones. The towns set off since 1756, with the dates of their incorporation and the names of the towns they were taken from, are as follows:

In Windham county—Brooklyn, 1786, from Pomfret and Canterbury; Chaplin, 1822, from Windham, Mansfield and Hampton; Eastford, 1847, from Ashford; Hampton, 1786, from Windham, Pomfret, Brooklyn, Canterbury and Mansfield; Putnam, 1855, from Thompson, Pomfret, and Killingly; Scotland, 1857, from Windham; Sterling, 1794, from Voluntown; Thompson, 1785, from Killingly.

In Tolland county—Andover, 1848, from Hebron and Coventry; Columbia, 1804, from Lebanon; Ellington, 1786, from East Windsor; Vernon, 1808, from Bolton.

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

The Reproach of Christ.

Let us go forth therefore unto Him without the camp, bearing His reproach, Hebrew, 13:13.

The people to whom this epistle was written were as is clearly seen by even a cursory reading of the book in great affliction and persecution.

The writers two great objects were to comfort them in their trouble and to restrain them from apostacy, and as concerning the latter he urges upon them the necessity of an out and out Christian life; an open confession of the Christ they serve and willingness to be cast out and suffer reproach and affliction for the name of Christ.

Let use see what is the nature of the reproach to be born for His name. What does the word itself mean; to the average ear, it is not a pleasant word, for as it has passed down from generation to generation as a bit of the language which is our mother tongue, associations and memories have gathered it, which cause its utterance to bring to many of us a sense of shame and derision and scorn.

But to those who are saved this cannot be its true meaning. There are reproaches, the reproach of Christ and the reproach of sin. The reproach of sin is that which comes from within and puts to shame the conscience of man because his moral sense of right and wrong have been outraged and the moral laws of God broken.

Such was Adam's reproach when the poisonous venom of that old serpent, Devil, had entered into his life and he cried out: "I was afraid because I was naked!" for now that the knowledge of good and evil had entered into him, well did he know that his heart as well as his body was naked before God.

But the reproach of Christ is that which comes from without. It is sin scoffing at righteousness, Satan wreaking his vengence upon the saint. In the life of the Saviour it came to a climax of which that terrible night in the guardhouse of the Hall of Anna and Caiphas was the beginning and the crucifixion the ending.

There in the dim hall, lit only by the wavering light of the soldiers' torches, stood our Lord. He whosep urity was as the untrod snows of the mountain top gleaming in the morning's sun, beside which even the fairest seem dark and soiled. There He stood surrrounded by dark faced orientals, men filled with the narrow prejudices of their race in whose faces seemed incarnate.

The mockings, derision and abuse which they heaped upon Him became His reproach. This was the reproach from without and which though he suffered, yet was not ashamed; this is the reproach which to the children of God is a joy to share with their Saviour and thus the word in this sense became to us a glorious reproach.

This reproach, however, serves a purpose in our own lives. It shows us our own standing. So many times we sing, "My Jesus I Love Thee," and true we do, but is that love always as deep as we imagine. We feel that the physical energy expended in the work of the church is a sign of it, but is not even that sometimes a hinderance to the exercising of our spiritual selves. Are we daily drawing nearer to the Lord Jesus and doing good works because we are created unto them, or are we so active outwardly that we do not feel His presence inwardly.

Jesus meant every word when He said: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God, with all thy heart and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind, and thy neighbor as thy self." Not one word can be left out without making it incomplete yet we are so prone to serve Him only with the strength, the heart, soul and mind God wants. "I gave my life for thee, what hast thou done for me?" What are we as followers of Him who has suffered so much for us; what are we doing for Him?

THE GARDEN

The Vegetable Garden

Since writing concerning the federal quarantine, the federal agent has been to inspect and advise as to the steps necessary for shipment of aster, chrysanthemum, cosmos, dahlia, gladiolus, hollyhock, zinnia and such farm products as corn, shelled corn, broom corn, beans, beets, celery, rhubarb, oat and rye straw, sorghums and Sudan grass. The New England quarantine area extends from the southern counties of Maine over the greater part of southern New Hampshire, all of Massachusetts as far west as and including Worcester county, all of Rhode Island; and of Connecticut, the counties of Windham, New London, Tolland, Middlesex and small portions of Hartford and New Haven. Shipments from the area under quarantine will not be permitted unless accompanied by a certificate issued by the United States department of agriculture. Shipments into one quarantined area from another quarantined area are not subject to federal inspection. Cleaned shelled corn in packages of 25 pounds or less may be shipped without certification. The agent of the U. S. department of agriculture, corn borer control, is located at 22 Elizabeth street, South Norwalk, Conn.

But let us talk of your vegetable garden. Everybody knows how to grow vegetables. Nothing can take the place of good wholesome vegetables, and every successful gardener realizes the importance of planting for a complete supply of fresh, luscious vegetables from early spring until late fall. In this month you have sown radishes, lettuce, and planted beet seed and peas, and by the end of the month you will have planted bush beans, and onion seed. You should sow celery from now on until the 1st of May, parsnips from May 1 to May 15, salsify May 1-15, Brussels sprouts May 15 to June 10 and cabbage from April 15 to June 30, carrots from June 20 to June 30, kale July 1 to 15, rutabaga July 1-15, late beets from July 15-31, turnips July 4 to Aug. 10 and winter radishes Aug. 1-15. You can grow a few hills of cucumbers very early by starting them in paper boxes in the house and, after punching holes in the boxes, set the box directly in the place where you want to grow them. A trellis is a fine thing to grow the cucumbers on. Musk melons can be started in the same way, as can water melons also. Any place where cucumbers can be grown, water melons can be grown. Some of the finest water melons grown anywhere are grown in New England. Tom Watson flourishes anywhere if given a half chance. If you are looking for real success in musk melon growing, follow these directions: Dig your hills about two feet deep and about three feet in diameter; fill the hills with about 18 inches of well-rolled cow manure; fill the hill level with earth, plant a liberal supply of seed and thin to about eight plants to the hill. If you give plenty of water when needed, you can have all the melons you need from a few hills. I shipped to Tourtellotte commission house in Providence in 1912 one barrel of Irondequoit musk melons. There were 31 melons weighing 156 pounds, all grown from one hill three feet deep and four feet in diameter. The financial returns from this shipment of fruit were to the effect that cartage, expressage and commission on sale was 66 cents in excess of price of fruit. Since then, when I have grown extra fine melons, I give them away to save expense. Most every season the boys or young men of the community have saved me any trouble or worry about marketing the Tom Watsons or Coles Early or Kleckley Swetts.

Only twice in a long life time have boys or men despoiled my melon gardens. Once a young doctor led a party of young men. They not only took the fruit, but destroyed the vines, a piece of vandalism which I found hard to overlook.

That brings me back to flowers. A few years ago a man visited my tulip garden and carried away a good many dollars worth of blooms. That was strange, because people who love flowers seldom steal. There is a refining influence about flowers that cultivates all that is best in man, and helps him to live his life on a higher plane than he would otherwise live it.

A Washington Bystander
By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 11—Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio seemed to get a great "kick" out of the National Press Club's "congress vs. press gallery" spellin' bee.

Probably that was the most widely heard tangle with the vagaries of English as she is spelled ever known.

Goodness knows how many thousands or millions of folks listened in on the broadcast to hear senators, representatives and reporters trip up over the spelling of words all use almost every day.

And Professor Fess enjoyed his role as schoolmaster. He has been charged with playing that in the senate at times. He likes to lecture that body on its ways. And had he only addressed his scholars at the spellin' bee as "master" instead of "senator," "congressman" and "Mister," his would have been a perfect reversion to schoolmaster type.

Spilled

Incidentally, Representative Luce of Massachusetts proudly bore Harvard's colors to the last ditch. He tripped on "kimono," spelling it with a final "a" instead of "o." Fess pronounced it that way, "kiMONa." The schoolmaster himself was wrong on two pronunciation counts. The Japanese pronounce it with no accented syllable at all, "kim-o-no."

But the funniest part of the spellin' bee did not get on the air at all.

It came during the attempt to recruit a team of congressional spellers equally divided between senators and representatives as to number.

Press club committeemen labored long and unsuccessfully with senatorial heavyweights to shy their tiles into the spelling ring and take a chance.

Not the senators. They were very tired, they pleaded, what with seven months of tariff debates and one thing and another.

Connally and Barkley, recent house graduates, were the only senators who could be induced to join the fun. It is doubtful that even Professor Fess would have joined up as a contestant despite his long record of professorships and other college jobs such as president or vice president.

Exploring this mysterious senatorial aversion to publicity on a nation wide scale, the reporters found it had its real basis in most cases in a fear of being made to look ridiculous to the huge radio audience. What price senatorial dignity if a senator crashed on spelling of an easy word, as anybody might do?

Spelling V-o-t-e-s

It was altogether different as to house members. Two or three full teams of ambitious spellers could have been recruited from house membership. The representatives are all up against their usual two-year necessity of vote getting this fall.

And what should a house member care about the political effect of a spelling flop. It would just be an added "human" touch to the sort of folks who cast most of the votes.

That attempt to "humanize" themselves to their constituents accounts for the back-slapping, hand-shaking and baby-kissing among politicians not touched with senatorial dignity.

"Immortal Money"

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse: "This poor widow cast in more than they all" (Mark 12:43).

Read: Mark 12:41-44.

MEDITATION: This poor woman's gift was great because it represented so much of herself. We in America are often accused of thinking too much of money. Rather the reverse is true. If we thought more of it we should spend it for more august purposes. Money represents life; it is life; it is life and labor done up in convenient packages to store and use. As a man holds his wages in his hand he may well say—"This is a part of me." Spending money, then, becomes as august a matter as spending life. We often say that a person cannot take his money with him when he dies. Why not? One cannot, of course, carry coin with him when he departs, but he can so invest that coin in the souls of men that it will be as immortal as they. Wether we shall take our money with us depends upon how we use it.

PRAYER: Give unto us such a right notion and esteem of all earthly privileges and enjoyments that we may never be brought under the power of any of them, but may constantly use them to Thy glory. Amen.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Gratifying Improvement on Hamilton Avenue

Mr Editor: There was a time when even a blind driver could discern his arrival upon Hamilton avenue, particularly upon the easterly end of that thoroughfare. That teeth-chattering time has past; for Street Commissioner Wightman and his aides have made almost a boulevard of the long street. About everybody driving over it expresses commendation for this pronounced improvement, while the promised completion of a work well begun thrills all who ride that way. Moreover, the expense of the work cannot have been as much as a genuine macadam road would have required, while the result is sure to be very enduring and gratifying.

Padlocked

Little Mary on her first trip to the country had become greatly interested in the cows. She watched them closely for a while, especially the cow around whose neck a bell was tied.

"Mother," she said finally, "look at that cow with the padlock around her neck!"

Basketball Influence

The influence of basketball as played by some teams is extending to other fields. A young woman had made a bid of one in a bridge game. After the game had proceeded a short time she found herself with four tricks to her opponent's three, but with all hope of taking any more gone.

She moved her cards together and failed to play for about a minute.

"What's the matter?" inquired an opponent.

"I've gone into a stall. Try and make me play," she replied.

THERE'S OVERPRODUCTION IN GUINEA PIG MARKET

NEW YORK—(AP)—The guinea pig is suffering from overproduction.

He became so valuable that too many breeders went into the business. The little fellow is used in remedies for three major human ills, preparing diphtheria antitoxin, detecting tuberculosis and in the Wasserman test.

Margery McCullough of Flushing, Long Island, who raises animals for scientific and medical research, says: "Guinea pigs are bred by individuals around the states of New York and Pennsylvania for the most part. During the past two years guinea pigs have been a drug on the market because of overproduction, and many small breeders have gone out of business."

Boy Scouts picked up 50,000 tacks and other metal bits in an antipuncture campaign in Douglas, Ariz.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

The Maderate Paper Box Company, Winsted.

The Maderite Paper Box company of Winsted, was organized on September 1, 1926, as the result of a consolidation of the Winsted Paper Box company which was organized by the New England Pin company in 1882 and the paper box department of The Strong Manufacturing company. The latter started in the box business as a consumers plant over 50 years ago and later manufactured paper boxes for the local trade.

The Maderite Paper Box company occupies the two upper floors of The Strong Manufacturing company on Main street. The success of this company in the manufacture of set up boxes of every description is the result of specializing on quality and workmanship, and aiming to have every box stand on its merits.

Mr. L. L. Chase is in charge of the office and sales of the Maderite Paper Box company and he was for 23 years associated with the New England Pin company. The manufacturing is in charge of W. C. Kemp who was in the employ of The Strong Manufacturing company for a period of 35 years.

The company has added and improved equipment during the past two years and its business has increased to such an extent that storage for stock has been provided in another building near by.

The officers and directors of the company are W. C. Kemp, president; L. L. Chase, secretary and treasurer; Norman F. Thompson, Jr., Dwight E. Tiffany, Homer D. Strong, Luther L. Chase, W. C. Kemp, directors.

4-H POULTRY CLUB BOY WINS NATIONAL TRIP

County Club Agent R. W. Whaples announced Friday that Paul Holdridge, seventeen year old Ledyard boy, had been selected as one of the two boys from the state to represent Connecticut at the fourth annual national 4-H club camp to be held at Washington, June 18-24 inclusive.

Paul Holdridge has been in club work for the past three years and has made an enviable record with his poultry. Starting in 1927 with thirty Rhode Island Red pullets that returned him only $1.57 above feed cost per bird he has steadily increased and improved his flock. In 1928-29 he owned 110 pullets that returned him $3.38 per bird. His 1929-30 record is not complete as yet but it seems safe to predict that his birds will do even better this year. Paul started this year with 377 Rhode Island Red pullets and this spring purchased 500 Rhode Island chicks and 500 White Leghorn chicks. Starting with a piano box for his poultry house, even before he joined the 4-H club, young Holdridge has added to and improved his equipment until at the present time he owns besides his chickens four brooder houses, and a laying house bringing his inventory close to $1,300.

Besides taking care of his poultry Paul has found time to help his father with his fruit and vegetable growing business, attend junior short course, which is held at the state college each summer for rural boys and girls; while there he was elected to the position of judge of the student council, the short course governing body. He also was selected as a member of the county poultry judging team competing in the state contest where he placed sixth among the leading 4-H poultry club judges. At the end of the 1929 club year Holdridge was judged the most outstanding poultry club boy in the county, and was the recipient of a beautiful silver loving cup.

This young club member believes in passing on any knowledge he has gained through 4-H club work so acts as local leader for the Laymour Poultry club and the Busy Buddies Handicraft club. He has learned the value of cooperation and is a member of the Eastern Connecticut Poultry Producers association, being this organization's youngest member.

Every 4-H club member is proud of Paul Holdridge and New London county feel fortunate in being able to send him to the great national gathering.

VIRGINIA WILL LISTEN TO NORWICH BROADCAST

Secretary John Richardson of the chamber of commerce has received a letter from an old friend, Andrew Bell, secretary of the chamber of commerce of Winchester and Frederick county, Va., who is to listen in when the Norwich broadcast is on the air next Friday night.

In part the letter says: I am delighted to receive your letter of April 8 and note that you are to broadcast at WTIC commencing April 18. I often get your station at night and have listened in frequently on Station WTIC, and will be sure to listen in and hear what you have to say about your section of country. We have broadcast since Feb. 1 at Station WJSV, Mt. Vernon Hills, each Saturday afternoon between the hours of 5 and 6. If you will listen in Saturday, you will hear our programme at WJSV, and the following Saturday, April 19, you will hear full announcement of the apple blossom festival. It would be a pleasure to have you visit us during the Shenandoah apple blossom festival.

DRIVER ARRESTED AFTER CAR HITS TWO PEOPLE

After the machine he was driving had struck and injured a man and woman at Occum, Alphonse Pellerin of Willimantic was arrested Friday night by Constable Filliger on a charge of reckless driving. Pellerin's bonds were set at $200 at police headquarters. Up to a late hour last night he had not secured a bondsman. The accident happened about 10:30 o'clock.

The machine, bearing the registration number XJ-830, ploughed into the Occum mill fence after it had knocked down the couple. The W. W. Backus hospital ambulance responded to an emergency call, as it was thought that the man and woman were seriously injured. When the ambulance reached Occum the injured persons were gone, having been taken away in a passing machine. The injured persons are brother and sister by the name of Pelletier.

MILLBROOK WOOLEN CO. IN RHODE ISLAND

The Millbrook Woolen corporation has been chartered in Rhode Island with a capital stock of 625 shares of no par value to operate a mill. Charles V. James of this city, Henry Harris and John F. Gallagher, of Westerly, are the incorporators.

It is understood this is one of the Kaplan woolen enterprises and the mill to be operated is at Allenton, R. I.

MISS LUCILLE L. HOWARD TO SING OFFERTORY SOLO

Preceding The Crucifixion, which is to be given Sunday evening at the Central Baptist church, the offertory selection is to be sung by Miss Lucille L. Howard, of Lincoln avenue. Miss Louise Fuller will be at the organ.

PLAIN HILL WOMAN THROWS HERSELF INTO MILL POND AT NORWICH TOWN

When Mrs. Lucy Geer Chesebro, 62, who lived with her niece, Mrs. King, on Plain Hill, Norwich Town, did not return home at the expected time Friday afternoon, Constable Lucius Fenton was notified and his search resulted in finding her body in the pond near the Glen Woolen mill. Medical Examiner C. C. Gildersleeve returned a verdict of suicidal death by drowning.

Mrs. Chesebro, who was the widow of Amos T. Chesebro, had left the house in the afternoon to come to the city to see a doctor, having been brought to Peck's corner by automobile in order to take a trolley car. When the time came for her to be home and she was not there, it was discovered that she had left a note saying that if she were not home by 7:30 o'clock she would be feeding the fishes.

Constable Fenton was appealed to in order to locate the missing woman and he learned from Dwight L. Underwood that Mrs. Chesebro had come up from the city in the same car with Mr. Underwood in the afternoon, but that she did not get off at Peck's corner, where she could be met by her relative with an automobile, but she stayed on the car and got off at the Adams tavern stop.

The constable followed up this clue and found a man who had seen Mrs. Chesebro about 6 o'clock, near the pond at the woolen mill. Her handbag was found near the water by the constable and he finally caught sight of her body in the water opposite the only spot on the stream by which access could be had to the water. With the help of a boy, the son of William Stott, the constable was able to get the body ashore after considerable effort, with the use of an improvised grappling hook on a pole.

Medical Examiner Gildersleeve gave Undertaker George G. Grant permission to take charge of the body.

Mrs. Chesebro is survived by a brother, Adelbert E. Geer, of Scotland road, Norwich Town. She had been a resident of this city for many years and up to about a year ago had been employed as assistant matron in a maternity home here.

GAVE INSTRUCTIVE TALK ON IMMIGRANT ADJUSTMENTS

The third in the series of studies on the "Immigrant and His Children" was held in the Osgood Memorial Friday afternoon under the auspices of the Women's Federation, Park Congregational church.

Charles Chakerian, a student at Hartford Theological seminary, spoke to an open meeting on "The Immigrant Adjustment Problems and the Church." Immigrants are influenced to come to America, he said, by letters from old friends and relatives who have preceded them; by steamship companies advertising to make money, and largely by quiet missionaries who tell of the wonders of America, who from love of home and long absence from it paint the picture in more brilliant colors, perhaps, than seem real to the stranger when he arrives, expecting Utopia, but in reality meeting many difficulties.

During the eight and ten physical examinations at Ellis Island, everything possible is done for him in an unsympathetic manner.

Most immigrants are raised on a farm, so after some years in New York, which usually lowers his position, he again seeks the country only to be met by the wiles of the real estate dealer.

His difficulties now are: First, economic, his savings gone; second, this prevents the education of his children; third, the social problem, perhaps the greatest of all. While the children meet in school they are separated by religion.

Colchester is a good example of the situation; Bacon Academy is meeting a great need there, the speaker said. Thirty million immigrants in America create a situation full of danger; the immigrant necessarily must change most, but the American must also change his attitude. There is danger in lack of co-ordination among so many different Protestant faiths.

The talk was illuminating and gave room for much thought. It was suggested that the word "missionary" should be forever dropped, and the word "fellowship" used instead.

The talk was preceded by a responsive prayer service and concluded by a short business meeting.

Preparations are being made for a large attendance at the second annual meeting of the Council of Congregational Women of Connecticut on the last Tuesday of April in Hartford.

BOY SCOUT TROOP INSTITUTED AT COLUMBIA

(Special to The Bulletin.)

COLUMBIA, April 11.—One of the most impressive ceremonies ever witnessed in Columbia occurred tonight in the town hall when Scouts David Hunt, Jasper Woodward, Westcott Rice, Joe Szegda, Carlton Hutchins, Clayton Hunt, Frederick Macht, Gustave Emerech, Raymond Cobb, George Lahonte, Spencer Macht and one other scout received their tenderfoot badges at the hands of Scoutmaster Luther Buell and three scouts from Norwich, Eagle Scout Nicholas Tarrant, Life Scout Edward Lichenstein and Second Class Scout James Coughlin. Following assembly, America The Beautiful was sung by an audience of a hundred persons, Clayton Hunt and Spencer Fecht demonstrated knots, Douglass Young and Gustave Emerich demonstrated bandaging, George Labonte gave the history of the flag and Westcott Rice told about the badge.

The candle lighting ceremony and the presentation of the troop charter by Scout Executive Sallman was most impressive, the boys repeating the oath and law while the scouts from Norwich witnessed. Eagle Scout Nicholas Tarrant was then introduced and gave an interesting talk on "What a Scout May Be," following which John R. Tarrant spoke on "A Dad Looks At His Scout." Both talks were well received. Presentation of badges then followed, Scoutmaster Luther Buell receiving at the hands of Scoutmaster John Hill, of Norwich, the scoutmaster's pin and in turn presenting assistant scoutmaster's pins to Donald E. Woodard and Frederick Hunt.

The orchestra and the music selections were highly praised by the visitors from Norwich, Rev. John Howell, who has been mainly responsible for starting the troop gave an inspiring talk on "And How!" declaring that the hope of 12 boys had at last been realized and that Columbia had a Boy Scout troop. The meeting closed with the Star Spangled Banner.

ARRANGING ONE-WAY SIGNS FOR SHETUCKET STREET

Mayor Lee Roy Robbins and Alderman Frederick J. Ortmann, chairman of the board of police commissioners, are arranging for the erection of signs at Shetucket street, signifying that it is a one-way street from Laurel Hill bridge corner to Main street, and prohibiting parking on the westerly side of the street. The mayor stated Friday that the new ordinance will not be put into effect until sometime next week. Direction signs are to be placed soon on the new traffic beacons at Franklin square.

Gym Exhibition Repeated

The annual gymnastic exhibition of the Y. M. C. A. was repeated Friday evening in the Y gym with juniors and seniors in both the girls' and the boys' classes providing an excellent programme. Leaders from the Hartford association joined with the Norwich leaders in furnishing some of the special work and features were contributed by the senior girls in pyramids and tap dance a group of eight appearing in the latter in pink and blue checked gingham rompers.

The programme opened with a grand march, which brought in all the participants. It was under the direction of Physical Director J. H. Demarest.

The rapid growth of finance and business in Finland has created a market for small American safes.

DESCRIBES WORK OF CATHOLIC WOMEN'S COUNCIL

The activities of the Connecticut Council of Catholic Women and how it functions through the Diocesan Bureau of Social service made the topic of an interesting address delivered Friday evening by Mrs. John Reilly of Willimantic, chairman of the C. C. of C. W. for Windham county, at an open meeting of the local council in the assembly hall of the Catholic Ladies of Columbus in the T. A. B. building on Broadway. Miss Jane D. Mahoney of Hartford, the first president of the local council, was also heard in interesting remarks concerning the support that the local bureau needs from the local organization.

Miss Mary H. Maloney, the chairman, opened the meeting shortly after 8:15 o'clock and turned it over to Rt. Rev. Msgr. Michael H. May, rector of St. Patrick's church, who, after explaining the sacrifices that are expected from the women as members of the local organization in assisting the needy, urged them to greater efforts, which would receive their reward. His brief but interesting remarks were followed by two pleasing vocal selections, O Promise Me and Winter Lullaby, by Roderick F. Sullivan, and two numbers, Morning and Still as the Night, by Miss Sadie A. Driscoll, who was in fine voice. The vocalists were ably accompanied by Miss Ruth Dreschler.

Mrs. Reilly was then introduced by Monsignor May and in her opening remarks pointed out that volunteer workers of the local council may accomplish a great deal in handling social problems, but that they are not able to cope with many tasks that confront them as they are not always free to give the required time in solving them. She stressed the importance of trained workers, such as are sent out by the diocesan bureau, in meeting these problems that arise from time to time. The service rendered by the diocesan bureau, she explained, called for the expenditure of much money and for that reason 50 per cent of the membership fees of the local council, an auxiliary to the bureau, are turned over to the diocesan bureau. The local council is also called upon to make an annual contribution to the service school in Washington, D. C., she said. She congratulated New London county for exceeding its quota of the endowment fund to the service school, remarking that it was the first county to reach the quota.

Mrs. Reilly also touched upon the accomplishments of social workers that have attended the service school in Washington and then went on to give a very interesting report on the national convention of the council held at Washington, at which more than 800 delegates were in attendance. One of the highlights of the convention was a trip to the white house, where they had an opportunity to hear President Herbert Hoover in brief remarks. She declared that an intense interest prevailed among the women throughout the convention's dates.

Miss Mahoney, formerly of Norwich, who is now teaching school in Hartford, briefly addressed the gathering, recalling the splendid cooperation of the members when she was president of the organization in its first year. She urged them to greater and consistent effort than was accorded her. She said that they were fortunate in having a social bureau located here, which needs their support and encouragement. She cited the increased number of bureaus established in Connecticut since the first one was instituted 12 years ago in Bridgeport. At the present time, with the unemployment situation so serious there is great need for social work, she said, and then spoke of instances of charitable cases at Hartford. The Connecticut council has made rapid strides and has accomplished great things, she concluded.

Before the meeting closed Miss Maloney thanked all those who had taken part in the programme and the members who attended, concluding her remarks with "we ought to get behind the local bureau and boost it."

GRANT APPLICATION FOR GAS STATION LOCATION

After a brief hearing Friday morning the city and town zoning board granted the application of The Texas Co., for a permit to conduct a gasoline station with four pumps on the site at No. 495 North Main street. The premises are owned by Mrs. Emily Toszko, et. al., and are leased to the Texas Co. An old house nearby, at the corner of Eighth and North Main streets, has been torn down to provide additional room for the station.

WILLIMANTIC PLAYERS GAVE COMEDY HERE

Under the auspices of the C. L. class of Trinity Methodist church, the dramatic club of the Willimantic Methodist church staged, Friday night, a three act comedy, The Big Cheese, in the social rooms of the church. There was a good sized audience and the comedy was finely given. The cast was as follows:

Ted Spratt, a telegraph messenger, Albert Cone; Mabel Hogan, "The voice with the smile", May Bromley; Samuel Brewster, president of the Brewster Cheese Co., Walter Parkhurst; Bob Brewster, son of Samuel Brewster, with offices next door to the Brewster Cheese Co., John Wrana; Wallie Larkin, who pretends to be a mighty captain of industry, Walfrid Noppa; Betty Brewster, Samuel Brewster's fifteen-year-old daughter, Anna Mae Anderson; Doris Bancroft, whose coming to town creates consternation, Nellie Dainton; Verna Callaway, who can find romance even in cheese, Muriel Cone.

Between the acts homemade candy was sold by Miss Nancy Colberg, Edith Duro and Miss Agnes Fenton. Mrs. Vivian Ide and Miss Eleanor Fenton were the committee in charge of the arrangements for the entertainment.

SETS HEARING DATE IN ALBERICO CLAIMS

Judge Nelson J. Ayling of the probate court has set Wednesday, April 16, as the date for a hearing on the applications of Michael D'Atri of this city, administrator of the estate of Raffaele Alberico, late of this city, and Mary Alberico, guardian of Gloria Alberico, for permission to settle disputed claims in favor of the estates.

As the result of injuries received when he was struck by an automobile December 21st, last, on North Main street, Raffaele Alberico died January 3rd. The child Gloria was injured in the accident. The machine which struck the man and child was a taxi-cab operated by Clarence Gwiazdowski, alias Clarence Starr.

According to the petitions before the probate court, Gwiazdowski has offered to settle the civil claims for damages. The terms of the proferred settlement are said to be $2,725.91 for the death of Mr. Alberico and $371.75 for the injuries sustained by the child.

PROGRAMME ON PHILIPPINES FOR WOMAN'S LEAGUE

A programme upon the Philippines was carried out in an entertaining way at the meeting of the Woman's league of the Central Baptist church Friday evening, when Mrs. David A. Pitt gave an instructive talk upon the Philippines and the girls of Miss Signe Seaberg's class told stories of their studies and of the good will chest of stories which they have filled. Because the chest is now filled to overflowing the Woman's league presented the girls another chest.

Mrs. Henry A. Jatkowski, president of the league, presided, and solos were rendered by Mrs. Olive A. Potter, who was in excellent voice. Reports of officers and committees were received and recommendations from the executive board were passed. Announcement was made that the annual meeting on May 2 is to be in the form of a banquet.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

REDECORATING CHURCH FOR SILVER ANNIVERSARY

St. Joseph's Polish church on Cliff street, is being redecorated under the direction of Rev. S. A. Iciek, the pastor. Father Icick has issued a general invitation to his friends, clerical and lay, to inspect the work which is being done to mark the twenty-fifth anniversary of the foundation of the church. The parishioners are cooperatng zealously in the task of ornamenting the edifice and all the necessary church equipment is being given by them.

Hike For Junior Classes

The two junior classes of the Young Men's Christian association will enjoy a hike to one of the lakes in this section today (Saturday). A hot dog roast will be a feature of the hike, the members to leave the "Y" association building on Main street at 9:30 o'clock.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

The meeting of Norwich Round Table was held this week with Dr. and Mrs. Charles C. Gildersleeve, of Lincoln avenue.

Miss Barbara Agnes Tingley, daughter of Mrs. Tingley and the late Dr. Witter K. Tingley, of Broad street, has been honored by election to the presidency of the Junior class at Mt. St. Joseph academy, Hamilton Heights, Hartford.

Mrs. Tyler Marshall, who has visited for a week with her mother, Mrs. Augustus C. Tyler, at The Pequot, New London, has returned to her home, Stanley Farms, Abington, Penn.

SPRING STYLES FOR THE EVENING HOURS

PARIS, April 11—(AP)—Paris spring styles for evening hours strike the ladies-be-gay note.

"If," says Paris, "life is real and life is earnest, put on your feminine frippery at night and forget it!"

Feminine frippery naturally suggests frailty. Chiffon lace and tulle are in ascendancy with rich stained-metal brocaded chiffon and gay printed taffeta much in evidence. Ankles are definitely in eclipse. Even toes disappear occasionally behind swirls of wide chiffon panels which trail and hemlines which only manage to clear the floor by a whisper.

Spring evening silhouettes are straighter than those of winter, with soft draping around the waistline or softening capes of boleros which make normal waistlines less difficult to wear.

ance and dinner dresses continue to continue to show exaggerated decollettes, some of te prettiest being literally backless to the waistline except for miniature shoulder capes which split up the center.

There are decollette evening wraps as well, with adjustable collars which can be worn exposing bare shoulders or draped around the neck.

Evening wraps nearly all are hip length. Evening ensembles of printed chiffon, with fur lined cape-jackets to match, are new. The same idea is carried out in lace or satin. Colored long gloves are widely shown and dressmakers place insistence on jewelry.

COLORS CONTRAST IN NEW ENSEMBLES

PARIS, April 11—(AP)—Dresses of plain color with collar, cuffs and belt of multi-color tweed corresponding to the coat of the ensemble are shown for spring by one sport clothes designer.

Contrasting colors also are used for trimming touches, as a dress and jacket of dark green wool jersey with maroon red crepe de chine scarf and belt. Pea green and brown also is a smart combination.

Two shades of blue combined for afternoon wear promise to replace black and white somewhat.

TRADE SIDELIGHTS

Continued expansion of the British rubber industry principally through outside capital was noted in 1929.

Japanese dealers in cotton upholstery and curtain materials have turned to foreign markets because domestic mills are not equipped with proper machinery for manufacture.

American metal furniture is popular in Latin Amercia, the best market for these products.

The Chinese have adopted the American custom of greeting cards. Individual printers make them in the open air with crude equipment.

Importation of rubber from northern Sumatra by the United States increased 50 per cent in 1929 over 1928.

British shipbuilding industry reported the best year since the war, save for 1927, in 1929.

Greater industrial freedom is expected in Spain through annulment of government decree of 1926 which regulated production.

Finland is reported to have made remarkable economic progress in 12 years of independence.

ACADEMY CLASHES WITH ALUMNI TEAM AT CAMPUS TODAY IN THIRD GAME

Probable Lineups

N. F. A.	Alumni
Arico, 1b	c, Burns
Reardon, 2b	p, Green
Gibbs, ss	1b, Burke
Fontaine, c	2b, Hamil
Crowell, rf	3b, Cummings
Pepin, cf	ss, Kampf
Breen, 3b	lf, Tombari
Weisgraber, lf	cf, Fagan
Berghinzo, lf
Greene, p	rf, Wilcox

Game starts at 2:30 p. m.

The Academy's pitching staff, which is expected to be the backbone of the Wildcat bid for the state title this year, will get a real test this afternoon at the campus in facing a strong Alumni team, numbering many of the stars of teams of recent years. The game starts at 2:30 o'clock and with a break from the weatherman, a large crowd should be out for the renewal of this annual affair.

Coach Brigham expects to use Boots Greene and Butsy Weisgraber, his pitching twins, for a good part of the time today and when it is taken into consideration that they will be facing such hitters as Hal Cummings, Anzo Tombari, Red Fagan, etc., the outcome should be interesting. And there will be also Kirk Wilcox to contend with.

Friday's practice was devoted to polishing up on hitting and the workout lasted well over two hours. Every one of the pitchers had a turn on the mound while the day's doings were concluded with an infield practice. Walter Navick alternated with Mickey Breen at third and Jerry Fitzgerald and Speed Reardon covered second with Capt. Gibbs at short and Alec Arico at first. In the outfield Coach Brigham had Berghinzo, Weisgraber, Pepin, Flather and Crowell.

Louie Green, the southpaw on last year's pitching staff will start today's game for the Alumni and if he shows the stuff that he did at times in 1929, should give the students a busy time of it. Green was invincible on certain occasions last season and was credited in turning in the best pitched game when he blanked Westerly with one hit. Jab Burns will do the catching.

Hank Morin and Johnny Murphy will umpire.

HOMANS AND SOMERVILLE REACH N-S FINALS

PINEHURST, N. C., April 11.—(AP)—C. Ross Somerville, of London, Ont., Canadian champion, and Eugene Homans, of Englewood, N. J., today stroked their way to the final round of the North and South amateur tournament.

Somerville beat George Voight, champion, with a birdie on the nineteenth hole.

Homans had less difficulty in winning from James T. Hunter, of North Adams, Mass., 3 and 2.

The second nine found Voigt hopping into an early lead by winning the tenth and 11th with birdies, but Somerville calmly retorted by taking the 12th and 13th, the 12th with a birdie three.

Voigt produced par figures on the 14th to again take the lead when Somerville hit into a trap.

On the next, a short par three hole, each of them had birdie twos. Then Voight faltered on the 17th, while Somerville was shooting in par figures.

Voight staged a remarkable comeback on the 18th, hoeing a 35-foot putt to win with a birdie three, but Somerville, on the first extra hole of play retaliated with a spectacular birdie three to take the match.

Hunter's first hole lead was short-lived. Homans took the second, fourth, six, seventh and eighth holes in quick order, to give him a four-up lead after eight holes. His fourth hole was won with an eagle three.

Hunter, however, staged a comeback to take the ninth, tenth, twelfth and thirteenth holes while the best Homans could do was to win the eleventh. At this stage Homans was only one up.

Putting on steam, Homans won the 14th and 15th and halved the sixteenth to give him the match.

KAYE DON GIVES UP ATTEMPT TO BREAK RECORD

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., April 11—(AP)—Indefinitely postponing his attempt to break the world's automobile speed record of 231 miles an hour, Kaye Done, British racing champion, will leave here for New York tomorrow, it was learned today.

Don would not discuss his plans nor would he say whether the trial was definitely off for this year.

Don's Silver Bullet machine, will remain here for several days. Upon his arrival in New York, Don plans to hold a conference with Louis Coatalen, French designer of the car.

Don has admitted he is anxious to return home as soon as possible, and it is known he has arranged for passage on the liner Aquitania, sailing from New York to Southampton, England, next Wednesday.

It is understood that Don, after making numerous runs is of the belief the car is not capable of breaking the existing record.

HERRERA FLATTENS HARRIS IN THE THIRD ROUND

ERIE, Pa., April 11—(AP)—Tony Herrera, Chicago, knocked out Sammy Harris, Akron, Ohio, Negro, tonight in the third round of a ten round bout.

Russell Bradford, Pontiac Mich., outpointed Mickey Genera, Barberton, Ohio, in six rounds. Jimmie Dean, Erie Negro, gained the decision over Press Johnson, Akron, Ohio, in six. Dutch Henderson, Akron, Ohio, won over Dick Anthony, Meadville, Pa., in four. Johnny Zack, Erie, outpointed Jackie Taylor, Akron, Ohio, in four.

ORSATTI LAID UP WITH BROKEN ANKLE

ST. LOUIS, April 11—(AP)—On the eve of the opening of a two-game series with the Browns, the Cards today got bad news aplenty.

First, Dr. Robert F. Hyland, the club surgeon reported that Outfielder Ernest Orsatti, injured recently in Florida, would be out of action for several weeks. X-ray photographs revealed Orsatti is suffering from a fractured ankle.

Later it was learned that Outfielder Homer Peel is suffering from mumps and will be confined to bed for several days.

Haines or Johnson is scheduled to start against the Browns tomorrow while Crowder probably will draw the mound assignment for the American leaguers.

PLAINFIELD CAN CLINCH SOCCER TITLE SUNDAY

Sunday afternoon at the Plainfield grounds the Plainfield team clashes with the J. B. Martin club in a soccer league tilt. A win for Plainfield will clinch the title for the season, they having won the first round and are now out in front in the second round. Plainfield is bubbling over with confidence that they can take the Velvetmen into camp as Plainfield has found easy victories against teams that have beaten the Velvetmen. Plainfield will use the following lineup: Korab, g; Allard, rfb; Mette, lfb; Lyons, rhb; T. Heys, chb; Mercier, lhb; J. Barrett, or; Wilkison, ir; Fenton, cf; J. Heys, ol; Lang il.

The Velvetmen will pick their team from the following players, F. Orcutt, F. Thompson, E. Eccleston, A. Headon, G. Edmonds, H. Seidel, J. Houston, G. Roched, J. Alexander, I. Archibald and B. Labenski.

The other game in the league will be between New London and Putnam at New London.

ORIOLES FALL SHORT OF BEATING SENATORS

BALTIMORE, April 11—(AP)—The Baltimore Orioles rapped Ad Liska for 10 hits here today, but could not stop his team mates and the Nationals ended the game with the long end of a 7 to 6 score.

Lloyd Brown relieved Liska in the sixth inning and he allowed but one hit to the Orioles from that point on. Wertz and Hern, on the mound for the Baltimoreans, were touched for 11 bingles by the Senators, including a home run by Bluege.

Score:

Washington	022 030 000	7	11	2
Baltimore	000 330 000	6	11	2

Liska, Brown and Phelps Tate; Wertz, Hearn and Linton, Danning.

WHITE SOX MAKE IT FIVE STRAIGHT OVER GIANTS

TOLEDO, Ohio, April 11—(AP)—The Chicago White Sox made it five straight over the New York Giants today, winning an old fashioned slugfest 13 to 9.

The American leaguers blasted Hubbell, Lucas, Benton and Heving for a total of 20 hits to every section of the park. The Giants retaliated with a six-run rally in the third that knocked Thomas out of the box but thereafter Pat Caraway, a rookie, held the New Yorkers at bay.

Score by innings:

Chicago	103 034 100	13	20	2
New York	106 001 100	9	17	1

Thomas, Caraway and Riddle; Hubbell, Benton, Lucas, Heving and Hogan.

SHIKAT THROWS O'SHOCKER IN DEFENSE OF TITLE

PHILADELPHIA, April 11—(AP)—Richard Shikat, recognized by the New York and Pennsylvania boxing commissions as world's champion wrestler, successfully defended his title at the Arena tonight by downing Pat O'Shocker, Philadelphia, in 43 minutes, 26 seconds. Shikat waited until the challenger had spent his strength and then threw him with comparative ease with a series of body slams.

Ray Steele, California, threw George Manish, New York, in 30 minutes, 37 seconds. Rudy Dusek, Omaha, Neb., defeated Moose Norbeck, Canada, in 18 minutes 53 seconds and Matros Kirilenko, New York, threw Ned Maguire, Boston, in 7 minutes, 42 seconds.

Mostil Returned to Toledo

TOLEDO, O., April 11—(AP)—Johnny Mostil, former Chicago White Sox outfielder, was returned today to the Toledo American association club by the New York Giants. He was sent to Toledo by the White Sox last year. The Giants obtained him from the Mud Hens when Ed Roush became a holdout, but he suffered from a weak ankle all through the training season and failed to fill the hole in the New York outfield.

Reds Practice At Home

CINCINNATI, April 11.—(AP)—The Reds' first work on their home grounds today was a routine drill and was held in much warmer weather than that experienced on most of the Florida training trip. Jakie May is scheduled to pitch against Cleveland tomorrow.

Red Sox Down Dodgers

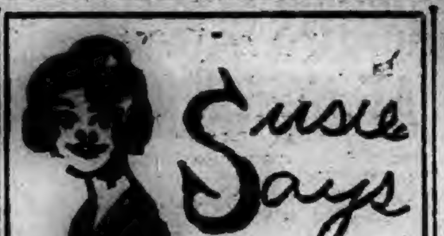
NEW YORK, April 11—(AP)—The Boston Red Sox gained an even break in their two game series with the Brooklyn Dodgers, winning today's encounter, 3 to 2. Score:

Boston	010 100 100	3	8	1
Brooklyn	000 020 000	2	8	1

Smith, Bayne and Heving; Phelps, Faulkner, Moss and Picinich.

Accept Challenge

The B. S. A. C. Juniors accept the challenge of the Versailles A. C. for a game to be played Saturday at 2:30 at Sayles Field, Baltic.



There's a lotta tough breaks in this life but what's tougher than having your girl give you the "you're out" sign when you least expect it.

And especially if you are a traveling man. Here you are just come into town for a two-day stay and you're planning a nice quiet little tete tete with the one and only. That is, the one and only in that town.

You meet her all pepped up and with a big smile and a "Didja miss me, Baby, when I was away." And then have her look you over like you was a perfect stranger and say, "Why no, I didn't miss you, have you been away?"

Wow, what a fine reception that is. You was all set to suggest that you and she take in a movie and then take her home with the chance that she'd ask you in to meet the folks. But she gives you the cold shoulder.

And just when you are talking to her the phone rings and you hear her say "Hel-lo, dearie, how are you? Oh, yes, I was right here waiting for you to call. No, I'm not doing a thing tonight. Of course I'll go, you know I haven't seen you since you was here last time."

And then you know that she's been two-timing you. But the great shock is when you find out she's been going out with the representative of a rival firm. Don't that burn you up?

You wouldn't mind so much if it was somebody in a different line, but a competitor, gosh, that's terrible. And then you remember all about those little business confidences and you know darned well she's poured 'em into the ears of your rival.

Well, it's a tough break but you remember you got a date with a blonde in another town tomorrow night and besides a little extra sleep won't hurt you.

Yeah, it's just as well 'cause you gotta touch of spring fever.

INTER-CLASS MEET AT ACADEMY NEXT THURSDAY

As the first move in getting the outdoor track season underway at the Academy, Coach Murphy will hold an inter-class meet next Thursday after school in which everybody is invited to enter. By this means, the coach expects to uncover much promising material that is in school and which has not yet reported for the team.

The outlook for the locals shapes up as very promising to date. In the workouts several of the boys have been turning in great time, including 10 3-5 seconds by Capt. Berkman and Rooles for the 100 and under 25 in the 220 for Berkman.

There is a meet ostentatively booked with Plainfield for next week to open the season but in case this falls through the Red and Whitesters will get away the following week against Stonington at the campus.

PRINCETON AND WILLIAMS PLAY TO 10 TO 10 TIE

PRINCETON, N. J., April 11.—(AP)—Princeton and Williams tied at 10 to 10 today in the second contest of their three-game baseball series. The game was called at the end of the ninth inning because of darkness.

Both teams hit hard and often, Princeton getting 18 blows off the delivery of Alexander, who pitched the entire game for Williams. Mike Archer started on the mound for Princeton but was relieved when Williams nicked him for five hits and four runs. Blackwell and Hendey completed the game.

Score by innings:

Williams	104 011 300	10
Princeton	300 311 020	10

Alexander and Fincke; Archer, Blackwell, Hendey and Howson.

CUBS WIN SECOND GAME FROM KANSAS CITY

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 11.—(AP)—The hitting of the Chicago Cubs was not so impressive today, but the pitching of Guy Bush and Pat Malone was of such excellence that the National league champions won their second straight from the Kansas City Blues 6 to 1.

Bush and Malone gave but four hits, three off Bush in five innings, while Tom Sheehan, Maley and Pearidge Day held the Cubs to five safeties. The Cubs' blows, however, were bunched with bases on balls in the final three innings for all their runs. Score:

Chicago (N)	000 000 123	6	5	1
Kansas City (AA)	000 000 010	1	4	1

Bush, Malone and Hartnett; Sheehan, Maley, Day and Peters.

INDIANS COMPLETE TRAINING WITH EASY VICTORY

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 11.—(AP)—With an 11 to 3 win over the Birmingham Barons, the Cleveland Indians wound up their exhibition series here today and moved on to Cincinnati to open the annual All-Ohio series with the Reds.

Cleveland chalked up two home runs, a triple and two doubles. Bob Falk got both of the home runs.

Pinky Shoffner, one of three hurlers, held the Barons to one hit in three innings.

Cleveland (A)	303 003 011	11	11	0
Birmingham (SA)	101 010 000	3	7	2

Holloway, Brown, Shoffner and L. Sewell, Myatt; Ludolph and Gibson.

TORONTO TURNS TABLE ON DETROIT TEAM

DETROIT, April 11.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers went down to defeat before the Toronto Maple Leafs today, 5 to 4. It was Detroit's first 1930 appearance on Navin field.

George Uhle, veteran right hander who is slated to take the mound for the season's opener against the St. Louis Browns next Tuesday, pitched the first seven innings for Detroit. He allowed six hits which netted four runs. Score:

Toronto	010 000 301	5	8	0
Detroit	010 020 100	4	13	0

Barnes, Cantrell and O'Neill; Uhle, Sullivan and Hargrave.

GAMMAS PLAY SECOND GAME AT HARTFORD TONIGHT

The Gamma club, local Church league champs, will play the second and last game of their series in the Church league state title competition tonight with the Hartford Central Baptist five at Hartford. The locals will leave the Y at 5:30.

Firpo Kayoes Wilson

CAMDEN, N. J., April 11—(AP)—Young Firpo, Pennsgrove, N. J., slugger knocked out Tommy Wilson, of Philadelphia, in the third round of the 8-round main event at Convention Hall tonight. Firpo weighed 135; Wilson 132.

EXPERTS PICK ATHLETICS TO WIN FLAG IN AMERICAN; YANKS FOR SECOND

By ALAN J. GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, April 11—(AP)—For the fourth consecutive year, the boys who peer intently at the proceedings through the wire screens have set forth the pre-season baseball verdict. There is just one answer so far as the American league is concerned—that the Philadelphia Athletics will win again and probably do it hands down.

Exactly sixty of the 65 major league baseball writers and sports editors, who gave the Associated Press their opinions, have selected the Athletics. The remaining five named the Yankees.

Last year, 53 of 65 picked the Yankees to win and later regretted it. In 1928, the New Yorkers were the choice of 42 of 49 critics.

This is the first time the Athletics have been favorites since 1927 when Connie Mack's colorful assembly of Cobb, Speaker and Wheat failed to produce the expected results.

This is the order of finish that the baseball experts look for this year in the American league.

Philadelphia, New York, Cleveland, Detroit, St. Louis, Chicago, Washington and Boston.

The Detroit Tigers and Chicago White Sox are regarded as long shot contenders by the critics. Nevertheless the majority opinion is that the Yankees and Cleveland Indians, finishing second and third last year, will furnish the world's champions the keenest opposition.

"Any club with such pitchers as Grove, Earnshaw and Walberg, plus hitters like Foxx, Simmons, Cochrane, Miller, Haas and Dykes, will be tough to beat any day in the week," observed one of the experts. This seems to represent the majority opinion. In other words, the A's are "set" with a championship club, whereas every other outfit in the circuit has a number of "ifs" and question marks connected with its pennant prospects.

The wide range of opinion on the probable finish reflects this uncertainty. The Yankees possess tremendous attacking power but if Babe Ruth should have another collapse and the pitching staff also go into a decline, the New Yorkers conceiveably might skid several notches down the list.

Cleveland and St. Louis have some great pitching, but the Indians have flaws in their defense and the Browns a weakness at bat. Detroit, on the other hand, has remarkable hitting strength but the Tiger pitching staff is not quite all that could be desired.

The impression made by the White Sox in training, plus the way they have manhandled the New York Giants, is shown by a strong inclination in the late balloting to regard Donie Bush's men very highly. The Chicago club has developed the typical Bush fighting spirit.

The Washington Senators, in spite of improvement failed to muster sufficient support to escape a seventh place rating. Their opening day opponents, the Red Sox, were conceded last place by exactly the same ratio as the A's were picked to win—60 out of 65.

HOW THE EXPERTS VOTED

NEW YORK, April 11—(AP)—The "box score" on the American league pennant consensus for 1930, compiled by the Associated Press and indicating how the opinions of the 65 contributing experts are distributed:

Clubs	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	Pts.
Ath.	60	5	—	—	—	—	—	—	515
N. Y.	5	46	12	2	—	—	—	—	404

YANKEES CLOSE EXHIBITION SEASON WITH VICTORY

CHARLOTTE, April 11—(AP)—The New York Yankees closed their barnstorming trip through the south today with a 12 to 3 victory over the Charlotte Hornets of the Sally league. Manager Shawkey leads his team into New York tomorrow to begin a week end series at the stadium with Brooklyn.

Score:

New York	082 001 010	12	13	1
Charlotte	000 300 000	3	13	2

Zachary, Wells and Dickey; Petty, Veach, Eastman, W. Wells and Leubbe, Hargraves.

Umpire Assignments

CHICAGO, April 11—(AP)—President Ernest Barnard today made the following umpire assignments for the opening day's engagements in the American league:

April 14—Boston at Washington—Thomas Connolly, William McGowan and Roy Van Graflan.

April 15—Cleveland at Chicago—George Hildebrand, Emmet Ormsby and William Guthrie.

St. Louis at Detroit—Wm. Dinneen, R. F. Nallin and Harry Geisel.

New York at Philadelphia—Connolly, McGowan and Van Graflan.

Washington at Boston—C. E. Owens, George Moriarty and William Campbell.

KOZIOL WINS FROM EMARD ON A FOUL

PROVIDENCE, April 11—(AP)—Young Montreal, Providence, won from Young Datto, Cleveland, in a ten round bout here tonight. They are featherweights.

Al Koziol, Norwich, Conn., won from Jerry Emard, Holyoke, on a foul.

Miller Wins on T. K. O.

DETROIT, April 11—(AP)—Ray Miller, Chicago left hook artist, won on a technical knockout from Eddie Koppy, Detroit lightweight, in the fourth round of a scheduled 10 round bout here tonight. Miller weighed 133 1-3; Koppy 133 3-4.

Portney Kayoes Blake

ALLENTOWN, Pa., April 11—(AP)—Jack Portney, of Baltimore, kayoed Mickey Blake of Allentown here tonight in the third of a ten round bout.

Horton Smith Leaves For Home

NEW YORK, April 11—(AP)—Horton Smith left tonight for Detroit, following which he will visit his home in Joplin, Mo., before departing, probably on April 26, on his second quest of European golfing honors. Leo Diegel, who plans to join Smith in a bid for the British open title, besides competing in professional events, expects to leave in company with Bobby Jones' walker cup team of amateurs, April 30.

SOUTHERN'S HOMER WINS FOR PHILLIES IN NINTH

PHILADELPHIA, April 11.—(AP)—A home run into left bleachers by Denny Southern, with Don Hurst on base in the ninth, enabled the Phillies to nose out the Athletics, 3 to 2, in an exciting finish of today's city series game.

The victory deadlocked the series at two-all and tomorrow the deciding game will be played at the Phillies' park.

Two long distance home runs by Jimmy Foxx scored both of the Athletics' runs. Score:

Athletics	010 100 000	2	4	3
Phillies	000 000 003	3	7	0

Grove, Earnshaw and Schang, Cochrane; Willoughby, Speece and Davis.

HORNSBY TO REPORT TO CUBS TODAY

ST. LOUIS, April 11—(AP)—Rogers Hornsby will rejoin the Chicago Cubs at Kansas City tomorrow after leaving the squad in training on the Pacific coast to report to Chicago for an examination of his right heel which was operated upon last winter.

The star second baseman stopped off here for another examination by Dr. Robert F. Hyland, who originally treated him.

Hornsby will be able to play tomorrow, the physician said.

CONN. AGGIES CLASH WITH CADETS TODAY

STORRS, April 11—(AP)—The Connecticut Aggies baseball squad of 14 mean, left today for West Point, where the Aggies will start their season tomorrow against the Army.

Kolb or Roever will be on the mound for the Aggies, while Yuskavich or Tourville will catch. The rest of the lineup will probably have Ryan at first, Levanti at second, Darrow at third, Tombari at shortstop, and Endee, McCombe, and Goebel, in the outfield.

YDE LOSES GAME WITHOUT PITCHING BALL

OAKLAND, Calif., April 11—(AP)—Emil Yde, Hollywood pitcher, formerly of the Pittsburgh Pirates, lost to Oakland, 9 to 8, today although he never pitched a ball.

Yde, called to take Page's place in the box in the 11th inning, with the bases filled prepared to throw and then hesitated when the combined Oakland team let out a vociferous shout. The umpire called a balk on Yde and Martin walked in from third base to give Oakland its freak victory.

WHITNEY SUFFERING FROM ATTACK OF APPENDICITIS

PHILADELPHIA, April 11—(AP)—Arthur C. "Pinkie" Whitney, star third baseman of the Philadelphia National league team, is not expected to be in the lineup when the Phillies open the season in Brooklyn, next Tuesday. This was the opinion of the club physician today. Whitney is suffering from an attack of appendicitis. The physician said he was improved today and that he did not believe an operation necessary but that the player needed a good rest.

Browns Win

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., April 11—(AP)—Bunching hits in the second inning for nine runs, the St. Louis Browns closed their exhibition tour here today with a 14 to 2 victory over the local Western association team. Schulte, Manush and Ferrell hit home runs for the Browns. Score:

Springfield	000 002 000	2	4	3
St. Louis	190 000 04x	14	16	2

Stelly and Ferrell, Hungling, Seibold; Bell, Gray, Kimberlin and Weaver.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Mrs. Quack Holds Her Breath

For courage that will stand the test,
See Mother Bird upon her nest.
—Old Mother Nature.

Mrs. Quack the Mallard Duck was very happy. To begin with, she had a most comfortable nest. She had made it of dead bulrushes, grass and some leaves. Then she had taken great pains with the lining. That lining was of feathers—the softest, nicest feathers you can imagine. She had pulled them from her own breast. Yes, sir, Mrs. Quack had pulled all those feathers from her own breast. So you see it was a very nice nest.

Then, as I have already told you, that nest was very well hidden. Mrs. Quack had looked all up and down the Laughing Brook and all through the little alder swamp before she had decided on this particular spot. She had even gone down to the Big River and looked along the bank there. Nowhere had she found quite such a perfect spot for a nest. It seemed as if Old Mother Nature had caused the bushes and the skunk cabbage plants to grow just where they did for the special purpose of hiding a Duck's nest. It was only a little way to the Smiling Pool; it was only a few steps to the Laughing Brook. A better situation couldn't have been made to order. Anyway, that is what Mrs. Quack thought. So she was very happy there.

But Mrs. Quack was not free from worries. No, indeed! No one is free from worries. This is especially true of a mother bird on her nest. She knows full well that there is always the chance that some sharp eyes will find that nest. There is always the chance that some one will accidentally stumble over it, as Peter Rabbit had.

It was on the night following the laying of her tenth and last egg that Mrs. Quack had her first real scare. Mrs. Quack had had a nap that afternoon and she was very much awake. You see, now that she had all her eggs, she was settling down to the work of brooding them. She felt very proud of those eggs. They were to her the most important things in all the Great World. She dreamed of the Ducklings that would come from those precious eggs. You see, there wasn't anything else to do but dream. But while she dreamed she was alert every instant. She was always listening, always watching for possible danger.

The Black Shadows crept all through the little alder swamp. Later, Mistress Moon poured down a flood of silvery light. It got into the little swamp in patches. Right where Mrs. Quack was, however, lay the blackest of Black Shadows. Just beyond her was quite a broad patch of moonlight. She happened to be looking at this patch of moonlight when her bright eyes caught a movement in the shadows just beyond. Instantly, she fixed her eyes on that spot. A moment later there shuffled out into the moonlight the last person in the world whom she wanted to see around there. It was Bobby Coon. Yes, sir, it was Bobby Coon!

Bobby was hunting for something to eat. There was no doubt of that. Mrs. Quack shivered when she thought of those ten eggs under her and how Bobby Coon would like to get them. Bobby was headed straight toward her. In the middle of the moonlit space he stopped for a moment or two. He turned and looked straight at Mrs. Quack. She held her breath. It seemed as if he must see her. But he didn't. No, sir, Bobby didn't see her at all. He began muttering to himself. "Which way shall I go?" said he. "Shall I go up the Laughing Brook fishing, or shall I go down the Laughing Brook to the Smiling Pool frogging? I believe I'll go frogging. Frogs are easier to catch than fish and they are just as good eating."

Bobby disappeared in the Black Shadows.

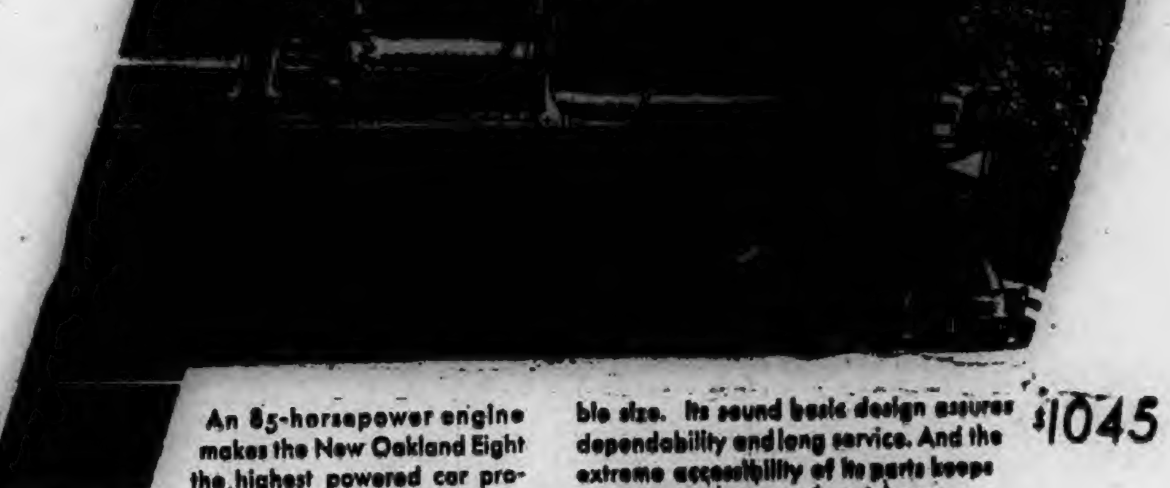
High in power—moderate in weight—and therefore SUPERIOR in PERFORMANCE



An 85-horsepower engine makes the New Oakland Eight the highest powered car produced for its weight and size, only racing cars excepted. Because it develops one horsepower to 37 pounds of car weight, few cars can match the New Oakland's speed, pick-up and power. This ratio of power to weight accounts for its superior performance. . . . Furthermore, the inherent eight-cylinder smoothness of the power plant is intensified by a complete down-draft fuel system—new type cylinder heads—a short, very rigid crankshaft—and laminated steel spring and rubber engine supports. . . . The New Oakland Eight is also very economical to own. Its gasoline mileage equals that of many sixes of comparable size. Its sound basic design assures dependability and long service. And the extreme accessibility of its parts keeps maintenance costs at the minimum. . . . Come in and see this car with smartly tailored bodies by Fisher. It will convince you that you can now own an exceptionally fine eight at a very moderate price.

The New Oakland Eight, $1045 and up, f. o. b. Pontiac, Michigan, plus delivery charges. Lovejoy Hydraulic Shock Absorbers included in list prices. Bumpers, rear fender guards and spring covers extra. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

Consider the delivered price as well as the list (f. o. b.) price when comparing automobile values. Oakland delivered prices include only authorized charges for freight and delivery and the charge for any additional accessories or financing desired.

WESTERLY

SERRUTO IS BOUND OVER— BAIL CONTINUED AT $20,000

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., April 11—In the Third District court Friday morning the hearing was held in the violent assault case with intent to kill, in which Joseph Serruto of Stillman avenue, Pawcatuck, is charged with the shooting of Epiro Epifanio, of 134 Canal street.

Town Solicitor John Ferguson represented the state and the defendant's attorney was James H. Hagen, Jr., of Providence. Dr. Michael H. Scanlon, Westerly medical examiner the first witness called by the state, testified to visiting the house at 134 Canal street at 1 a. m., March 24th, with Officer Robert M. Kessel of Westerly. Among the four people in the house at the time were Epifanio whom he found with a perforating bullet wound on the right side of the left chest, bleeding profusely, and suffering great pain. When taken to Westerly hospital the X-ray showed the bullet to be lodged in the breast bone and down to the tip of it. The other man at the house at the time was a boarder, Joseph Sylvestre.

The wounded man, Epifanio, on the witness stand, testified to living six years in Westerly and twenty years in the United States. He had been four times to Italy where he had a wife and four children. On the Sunday evening of the shooting he had gone to the home of Paul Piscatello on Stillman avenue and later there came Joseph Serruto, his son-in-law, Rosario Dolce, and Mrs. Serruto. The evening was passed in eating spaghetti and drinking light wine. All the guests left the house at the same time, shortly before 1 a. m. When Epifanio started for his boarding place Serruto and Dolce accompanied him without saying anything until the Stillmanville bridge was reached. Here Serruto pulled a revolver and said, "I'm going to shoot you because you do such things to my wife three and one-half years ago!" Witness started to run before the second shot was fired.

On cross examination, Epifanio testified to his receiving a letter from a lawyer and had stopped visiting the Serruto home, he had only been there on masquerade day and on the evening of the shooting, when a friend had come from Hartford. At the Piscatello home the witness said that he had spoken about Serruto's eating meat and he had given him some without any argument. He said he had known Serruto ever since he was a kid. His occupation was that of painter and he had painted the Serruto tenement in 1925.

Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown testified to the shooting as having occurred on the Stillmanville bridge, one foot over the Connecticut-Rhode Island line on the Westerly side of the river.

Judge Williams found the defendant probably guilty and bound him over to await the action of the grand jury in Washington county superior court at Kingston, April 21st. Attorney Hagen argued for a reduction in bail but Judge Williams continued the amount in $20,000.

Rosario Dolce, on the recommendation of Prosecutor Ferguson was placed under bonds as a material witness. Joseph Castagna who has been held as a witness, was allowed to depart without bail.

New London Driver Fined

A. Denison Smith, 29, 284 Crystal street, New London, was before the court on the complaint of State Trooper Howard C. Lewis of the Hope Valley barracks charged, April 7th, with operating an automobile on the Nooseneck Hill road without proper brakes. He pleaded guilty. He was fined $10 and costs.

Joseph Ameral, Broad street, Waterford, was charged by Trooper Lewis with operating an automobile April 7th in Hopkinton, R. I., without proper brakes. The trooper said it took 70 feet to stop with the foot brake and 100 feet with the hand. He pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs.

Dexter Carrol Whitney did not respond when his name was called and the case was continued.

In the court room during the trial of Serruto besides Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell there were present Deputy Sheriffs Fred W. Bull of Kingston and Elmer E. Edwards of Wickford, Westerly police officers Lieut. George H. Champlin, Robert M. Kessel, LeRoy H. Norman and Charles E. Button.

New writs entered before the calling of the docket—John O. Mills, Inc., vs. Herbert Eleser, Dr. John E. Ruist vs. Governor Angus, alias. Both cases were continued two weeks.

By agreement of council the civil case of Herman Wright vs. A. L. Castritius was continued to May 2nd. Midwood Sons, Inc. vs. Joseph Manfredi. Oil Service Company vs. Alfred Rich, each continued one week.

In mesne process, Roy Rawlings, Inc. vs. William H. Girard continued one week and that of Rawlings, Inc., vs Charles H. Girard continued two weeks.

Brush and Grass Fire

An out-of-Westerly Fire district No. 32 alarm was sounded on the fire whistle of the Union street headquarters building in response to a telephone call received at 11:30 a. m., Friday. The Seagraves motor pumper with Fire Chief Hager responded for a brush and grass fire on the Westerly-Bradford road, on lands to the southeast of the Waite farm. The firemen laid a line of hose from the booster tank to fight the flames, in the path of which an old shed caught fire and burned. In the several acres of land burned over near McGowan's corners, on the farm of Mrs. Eva D. Casey, a chicken coop was partially burned. It was over an hour before the firemen returned to Westerly.

"Faith is the Victory," by Elsie Duncan Yale will be the pageant to be presented at Grace Methodist church Sunday evening. The organist is W. Porter Hoxie and the soloist will be Miss Evelyn Rook. Miss Grace Walton will direct the pageant.

At the annual church meeting at Pawcatuck Seventh-day Baptist church Sunday evening. Samuel H. Davis, a former pastor of the church, will describe his recent visit with the Seventh-day Baptists in England and Holland. The annual church supper will be held in the vestry at 6:30.

W. W. Tagley, owner of the summer cottage, "Casa Loma," at Watch Hill, has returned to Springfield, Mass., after being in Westerly to attend the funeral of Charles H. Gavitt.

MYSTIC

CAR CRASHED INTO THEATRE— WOMAN DRIVER CONFUSED

A Pontiac coupe supposedly owned by George E. Reynolds, of Sayre, Pa., and operated by Mrs. H. K. Craig of the same place, crashed through the doors and into the lobby of the Strand theatre in the village about 7:20 Wednesday evening. The couple were headed for New York, in some way got off the main highway and went around back streets and in coming out of Cottrell street to the main highway again, Mrs. Craig apparently became confused when she saw a car coming toward her from across the bridge. Instead of putting on the brake, she stepped on the accelerator. The car apparently leaped forward with such force that, as she turned the wheel to the left to get back in the road again, the machine was going at such a high rate of speed that it darted across the street again and into the theatre. Incidentally it had to jump a curbing about 6 to 8 inches high before it crashed. There were no persons nearby. The patrons of the theatre rushed out by exits to see what was the commotion. As the tower of Babel was falling in the picture, the crash came on the outside, making things very realistic. The man and woman were taken to the police barracks, where further investigation will be made, as the man gave two different names, could produce no registration for the car and had no operator's license. The damage to the theatre will be about $300.

HARD-SOFT LARGE-SMALL CORNS

Out To Stay Out—Roots and All After Plasters, Worthless Liquids Dangerous Cutting Have Failed!

No matter how many corns you have or how painful they are—soak your feet for 15 minutes in a delightfully soothing and revitalizing Radox footbath for 3 or 4 nights—then lift corns and callouses right out—roots and all and they won't come back either unless you wear shoes again which aggravate your feet.

No cutting or digging is required because Radox liberates oxygen which softens hard outer layers of corns, each night penetrating the pores farther and further, carrying the salts right to roots of corns which are, so loosened they can be lifted out bodily.

Your feet are made strong—healthy—vigorous—hard skin on heels and toes go also.

Lee and Osgood Co. and all good drugstores are stocked with Radox—if they aren't insist upon them ordering it if you want to experience great foot-joy and comfort—60 cents a package.

COMPARE the delivered price as well as the list price in considering automobile values. Chevrolet's prices include only reasonable charges for delivery and financing. Easy G. M. A. C. Terms.

There is one sure way to get greater value in a low-priced car today—choose a Six!

This greater value is instantly obvious when you drive a Chevrolet Six. You notice first of all its greater smoothness. There is no tremor in the steering wheel—no rattle in the floor boards—no drumming in the body.

In addition to the finer performance of its six-cylinder motor, the new Chevrolet gives you truly remarkable economy.

Its six-cylinder smoothness saves the entire car from the strain and wear of vibration. This, of course, lowers the cost of maintenance and assures a longer-lasting automobile.

From the standpoint of operating expense, Chevrolet is equally economical. No automobile uses less gasoline and oil. No car shows a lower expense for tires. And no car costs less for service.

Because of its modern engineering, Chevrolet also assures a high re-sale value—for its entire design is just as advanced as its six-cylinder engine.

Chevrolet gives you fully-enclosed, weather-proof, 4-wheel brakes. It gives you a modern fuel system—with the gasoline tank mounted in the rear outside the body. It gives you four long semi-elliptic springs mounted lengthwise in the direction of car travel. It gives you beautiful Fisher bodies built of combination hardwood-and-steel. It gives you a full ball bearing steering mechanism, an adjustable driver's seat, a Fisher VV non-glare windshield, and tilting beam headlights, operated by a foot-controlled button.

Before you decide on any car in the low-price field, see and drive the Chevrolet Six. The more thoroughly you investigate, the more certain you are to conclude that it's wise to choose a Six—for value, for performance and for economical transportation!

POETRY

Heaven

(MINE?)—(YOURS?)

I would not always dwell among
  Sweet lights and loves and flowers,
Where only happy songs are sung,
  And no cloud ever lowers;
Forever in a land as fair
  As fabled Eldorado
I think I'd sometimes crave a care,
  And long to see a shadow.

If I could never feel a pain,
  And nothing know of sorrows!
Mid hours where joy could never wane
  I glimpsed but glad to-morrows;
If Memory could not recall
  Some dear and vanished faces—
To me that place would be of all
  The dreariest of places.

So picture not a heaven for me
  As limned by many worthies,
For mine I do not wish to be Too far from what the earth is.
I would not play a harp alway
  Bright-crowned with fadeless posies.
If roses never shattered lay—
  I'd weary of all roses.

—Samuel Minturn Peck.

Is There A Land?

Is there a land where rivers
  Flow full with honey pure,
Where all is joy in living,
  And every wish is sure?

Is there a land where music
  Rides on the wings of wind,
And every soul is happy,
  And not a one has sinned?

Is there a land where loving
  Comprises all our work,
And hearts are tenfold stronger
  That we may never shirk?

Is there a land where maidens
  Come ask a man to wed,
And give him all their money,
  And breakfast, too, in bed?

Is there a land where living
  A round of pleasure seems?
There is that land, my brothers,
  There is! But just in dreams.

—Daniel Gregory O'Connel in The Detroit News.

WOMAN CURATOR URGES MUSEUMS FOR CHILDREN

NEW YORK, April 11—(AP)—Children's museums in every community is an ambition of Anna Billings Gallup, curator of the Brooklyn Children's Museum, which was the first of its kind in the world.

The movement has spread until now a number of cities have children's museums. Bombay, India, too, has one patterned after the Brooklyn museum.

Last year 400,000 children took advantage of the courses in biology, astronomy and science as well as field trips for demonstration of what has been learned in the class room.

Miss Gallup has been with the museum 28 years. She has seen many little boys who used to frequent its rooms grow up into successful artists and mining engineers. W. Langdon Kihn, whose portraits of Indians have been exhibited in New York, received his first inspiration in the Brooklyn Children's Museum.

March sales of the 233 W. T. Grant Co. department stores totaled $4,862,218, compared with $5,141,436 reported from the 222 stores in operation on March 31, 1929.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY

Home

Home's not merely four square walls,
Though with pictures hung and gilded;
Home is where affection calls—
Filled with shrines the heart hath builded!

Home! Go watch the faithful dove
Sailing 'neath the heaven above us;
Home is where there's one to love!
Home is where there's one to love us!

Home's not merely roof and room—
It needs something to endear it;
Home is where the heart can bloom,
Where there's some kind lip to cheer it!

What is home with none to meet,
None to welcome, none to greet us?
Home is sweet, and only sweet,
When there's one who loves to meet us!

FLOWERS FOR THE SICK

Dear Editor and Sisters: I surely was surprised and I do thank you very much for the prize. As I am a great lover of flowers, I have decided the best use was for extra flowers to be used for sick and shut-ins and the unfortunate ones who are not able to enjoy them while growing. I notice when we go in the hospital the eyes all turn to the door and many an unfortunate person either too far from friends or their relatives to bring flowers all like a visit even if they do not know you. It's very hard to be a patient and alone. A few kind words and a sunny smile helps one over many a rough road.

Did you ever notice if you are blue and some one comes in and has a cheery word and smile how much lighter your heart is for it or if the visitor is blue she will be sure to also leave the clouded sky with you. So please try to for a week and see how it goes just to spread the sunshine and help the clouds.

When you are making jelly and marmalades just put up a few in small jars and when the holidays come or birthdays just slip over with one and it is the unexpected that brings the most happiness. Soon we will be in the woods looking for flowers and watching to see how soon we will have violets and lily-of-the-valley and the many other favorites. I am planting dwarf peas this year as well as the fine tall ones as I am told they will bloom much earlier. The pinks are another favorite of mine. I have an old fashioned garden of many old flowers while they ramble where they please. To me they are a pleasing mixture.

Do you let the children each have a little garden to plant just as they want and where and what they want to? You will be surprised the care and pride they take in it. One little boy I know has a small tin pan in the kitchen with corn, beans, lettuce and radishes and a pumpkin. As they come up many a time they are pulled out to see the roots. It is amusing to them and fine training. Best wishes to all as ever

GREEN HOLLOW.

OLD AS YOU FEEL

Dear Editor and Social Cornerites: It has taken me a long time to acknowledge the yellow slip and send my thanks for the same. That doesn't signify that it has taken me all this time to spend it.

I, too, am interested in this middle-aged discussion. Thirty years ago I might have thought it meant me, but now—oh no! Don't think I am past it—by no means! I am now beginning to wonder how long it will be before I begin to feel that way. So please don't set that age—just let us remain as old as we feel and set no bounds to our youth, and I feel sure most of us will never reach middle-age.

I have just finished a centerpiece in crochet, using ten colors of thread. It is the basket of flowers in March Comfort and is very pretty when finished. Have also been quilt-making and have one surprisingly pretty one made from pieces left from plisse crepe left over from undie-making. I used a large sized lining block of old cotton and put the pieces on in modernistic style—it used to be called crazy but if you saw my quilt, I'm sure you, too, would use the more modern and artistic word. The soft colors of crepe arranged in the hit and miss way, are really much prettier than I imagined it could be. Am to line it with sugar bags, (10-lb. size), tintexed pink and with one layer of wadding, stitched on the machine, will be a most serviceable summer quilt which can be washed and not need ironing.

I will send the recipe for the Chili corn cairn which I took to one of the club meetings. I have several times been asked for the recipe. It's Mexican or Spanish.

Chili corn cairn: Fry or steam together 1 lb. hamburg and 2 to 4 onions, depending on how much the flavor of onion is liked; when this is cooked, add salt, 1 can of red kidney beans and 1 can tomato soup. Stir well and heat thoroughly. This seems to be generally liked as the meat content for a hearty meal and will be eaten even by those who do not generally like the kidney beans.

FLOWERS AND BIRDS

Dear Social Corner Editor: Thanks for that be-yoot-i-full yellow slip; it will be used to buy a row of asparagus to go in my flower bed. I am always running short of foliage in the late summer and this will supply it. The hotbeds are planted now and are overflowing with flower seeds, so I ought to have a lot of plants—if they come up—and you see I will need a great deal of green things to go with my posies when I pick them for bouquets.

There is a nice, fat daffodil bud out in the row that promises to burst into bloom at almost any time and there are many of its brothers and sisters that will bloom just a little later. The tulips are rushing to get ahead of the hyacinths but the latter will open first, just as they always do. The tulips rival them for beauty, however. One of the most colorful scenes ever to meet my eyes was the sight of a Baltimore oriole looking for insects in the cup of scarlet Darwin tulip.

Speaking of birds reminds me that I wanted to ask the members about the European starlings. Do you like them? Have they caused any damage to garden crops in your vicinity? Do you think that they drive other birds away? A letter from Washington tells of efforts to drive them from the city. A stuffed owl was placed under the eaves of one building which they used as a roost, but they soon became accustomed to seeing it and were no longer afraid of it. Where they become thick they are a terrible nuisance. It is estimated that in the city of Washington alone there are tens of thousands of them! And these are all the descendants of a few pairs brought into this country in 1890 to aid in driving out the English sparrow. How many will we have ten years from now if they are allowed to increase at the present rate?

Back to flowers again. Do you know, I actually saw a bed of early bulbs the other day that had not had any of their leaf blankets removed. Of course it isn't wise to uncover the beds too suddenly lest the buds chill, but the covering should be removed gradually. It seems too bad to make the plants force their way up through the heavy smothering covers without any aid at all.

Three nuthatches out in the tree eating suet and a lone robin in the drive picking up worms. Seems a pity to scare them away but I must get this letter into the mail and they will soon come back.

CARE MAKES US THOUGHTFUL

Dear Social Corner Members: I have been greatly interested in the article of middle life and enjoyed all the letters on the subject. I am in middle life myself so can appreciate the thoughts of others. Youth is a wonderful period of our life when we are strong, hopeful and fearless to do and dare. But as one reaches middle life, with its cares and trials that some have to contend with, it makes us better because we stop and think more about life and its meaning. Care makes us more thoughtful, grief and trouble makes us more charitable towards others, for every one has their share of heartaches and sunshine, and I have often heard people lament about growing old, and gray hair and so forth. I have gray hair and am very fond of it. As for getting old in years, why bemoan that, it is only the body that changes, the spirit or real self never grows old. I often say, if I can only keep pleasant and agreeable, folks will be glad to see me. Because of a happy spirit, the young folks will be glad to have the middle-age and old folks around.

But now it is a sad affair to think there is no place for the aged, no one wants them and after all how dependent we all are of one another. We are all getting older, every day brings us nearer our heavenly home and those that have passed on, than we have ever been before. When the time comes for us to lay our burdens down and pass on to the great beyond, may we have lived so that there will be kind things said about us and that we will be missed in many ways and that we have not lived in vain. A little verse comes to my mind which is very true:

Life has a burden for every ones shoulders,
None can escape from its trouble and care,
Miss it in youth, it will come when your older,
And fit you as close as the garments you wear.

Oh, the sacredness of the word home. But it is not just a house with roof and rooms and furnished in elegant style. No, that does not make home.

Home is where the heart is; where there is harmony, sympathy, one with the other; where love is, yea, where the sacredness of love abideth; where we can be with those we love and who love us in return, who love to see us coming, to hear our voice, to greet us with out-stretched arms and draw us close in their embrace in the most tender and loving way. Home is quietness where one is shielded from the care and turmoil of the every day walks of life.

Home—guard it with the sacredness of heaven on earth for there in abideth angels in mortal form.

A CANDY PULL

Dear Social Corner Friends: How many fine letters were in the paper last week. I always read every one, and I feel as if I shall know all of you some day. I want to tell you of our candy pull. Maybe you who are older do not care for taffy or any candy, but we always have the young about us. We want to please them, so the will come again.

Last week was vacation, so I had some of my boys' friends in, and what fun. At the age of 13, I find most boys do not care about girls. At least these boys would not come if girls were to be there. I laughed at them for I knew in a year or two they would not come unless girls were to be there.

I will give you one recipe this week we used. Try it, for it is good.

Chocolate Taffy: 1 cup granulated sugar, 2 cups corn syrup, 4 level tablespoonfuls cocoa, 1 teaspoonful vanilla. That is all. Now do it this way: Mix the cocoa with the sugar, add the syrup and boil until it is brittle when dropped into cold water (270 degrees F.) Add the flavoring. Pour while hot into buttered platters and pull when cool enough to handle.

I gave them some ginger ale and crackers and saw that they did not eat too much candy. We love our children, but must be careful of what they eat. Their future depends on their youthful days. In closing, just a last verse of a spring poem that I do not remember who wrote.

"Perhaps a gray old gardener,
Looks down from paradise,
And sees his roses from below,
With fondly yearning eyes;
And some kind angel freights a cloud,
With roses starred with dew,
And sends it sailing up to him,
Across the gulf of blue."

JANE OF R. I.

FRIENDLY MEETING

Dear Social Corner Members: March is "breeze month", but is past and still the breeze is here. There have been many nice letters to fill the Social Corner column during the winter I did not write. Now that the housewives are busy with spring cleaning there may be space. On March 12th, I attended the Social Corner anniversary, which was also my birthday, while visiting in Willimantic. The gathering was large and I was met with friendly greeting by many new and also old friends whom I had not seen for a number of years. Quite a program was carried out, consisting of singing and a little play. A pleasant time was spent and I hope to meet with them all again.

Snow pudding: To one pint of boiling water, add three tablespoonfuls of corn starch, moisten with cold water, and two thirds cup of sugar. Beat three egg whites very stiff and fold in when this has thickened. Then take one pint of milk, four tablespoons of sugar, one tablespoon of corn starch, the yolks of three eggs beaten and cook in double boiler. Flavor with vanilla. Serve in dishes with yellow in center and white around. Garnish with cherries or jelly.

BREEZE.

DRIVING EXPERIENCES

Dear Social Members: Let's start a new subject for our letters. As I know that a great many of the club members drive their own cars, why not some of them write in and tell some of their experiences. Some of them I know would be very amusing.

I have had a driver's license for nearly seven years and during that time have had some very funny things happen to me, and some not so funny, I assure you. I have turned completely around on the ice and headed back the way I came from; been stuck in the mud, (until I learned to carry a couple of burlap bags to throw under the wheels to get out); Had all the wiring catch on fire and had to move pretty fast to get out and throw sand on it to put it out; have had a Mack truck hook on to my fender and tear it off and nearly turn me over, and have put my head through the windshield so that it took fourteen stitches to patch me up. At this last time, however, I was not the driver, nevertheless I got the experience.

I hope you won't all think that I am a "Smart Alec," driver, I'm not considered so. My mother-in-law says she feels safer riding with me than with any one else she knows. Now, isn't that a good recommendation?

I have always been crazy about cars and driving. In fact I talk cars so much that I know some of my friends are "bored to tears," when I start the subject. I love the sound of the moter and the feel of the wheel in my hands and I like to get on a good road that seems to stretch out like a ribbon before me.

When I first learned to drive, I wanted a car. My husband didn't drive at that time, so we didn't have one. He bought me a second-hand Ford coupe and I was as proud of it as if it had been a Cadillac. I spent hours polishing it and yes, if the truth was known, hours changing tires. I had seven flat tires in three days the first week I had it, so I got all my tire-changing experience at once. I guess I kept the tires too hot that first summer; I went to Springfield, New Haven, Providence, Fall River, everywhere within a good day's drive before I had had the car more than a month.

It's quite amusing to see the different drivers on the road; some are as much of a gentleman in their cars as you would find them in their homes, and some are anything but gentlemen. These kind act as if they thought women hadn't sense enough to drive anyway and if you are kind enough to give them three quarters of the road they will demand the other quarter and crowd you into the gutter.

Won't some one else tell some of their experiences with cars?

FIREFLY.

TRIBUTE TO COMMUTER

Dear Social Corner Members: It is with sadness I have to say that another of our members has passed on. Commuter, whose real name was Mrs. Fred Coon, joined Club 6 about three years ago and was a very active member until a year and a half later she moved to Preble, N. Y. She still kept up her interest in the Corner by sending letters occasionally and last fall she was back with us for the October meeting and her plans were to come back each fall, but she was stricken with an incurable disease and after several weeks in the hospital the end came. The body was brought to Westerly and the burial took place in River Bend cemetery last Saturday and the sympathy of her many friends go to the husband and three sons who survive her. On Sunday, I attended the funeral of Fannie M. K., who was Mrs. Henry Kendall of Newent. I had met her at several of the meetings and it was a pleasure to know her. I extend my sympathy to the bereaved family.

On Tuesday, April 15, Club 6 will hold its meeting at the Grange hall at North Stonington. Cosmos is to be the hostess and Prairie Chicken has charge of the program. They are hoping to see a large number present. I hope that those four members who were ill last month will be able to be with us this time.

CLEANING SPIRAL SPRINGS.

Dear Social Corner Members: Isn't April giving us a taste of weather. Such winds and rains, makes it almost too cold to house-clean. Yet I think we are all trying to do a little at a time so that when good weather does come we can get outside more. Won't it seem nice to have the doors and windows all open once again? I, for one, am looking forward to that time.

I believe you will all agree with with me that there is no better bed-spring than a spiral as far as sleeping goes, also likely you will agree that there is nothing harder to clean. In times past I've tried almost everything to clean them. This last week I used a ten-cent bottle brush and it worked fine. I could get right down to the bottom of spring and a few turns of brush, all the dust was out and best of all, my arms were not all scratched as they usually are when I use a cloth.

Club 6 has lost a devoted member in the death of Commuter. She was a very fine woman and will be much missed. Her family has my sincere sympathy.

IS PLANTING THE GARDEN

Dear Social Corner Friends: I think it about time to say a few words. I suppose every one is cleaning house or else through. I have started but can't say when I shall finish as I go slow, but hope to get through before it gets too warm. We have our garden spaded and it will be time for lettuce, radishes and spinach, for I like to watch for them to come up.

Pallie: Did you get the message all right? Mother has gone to the city again. I wanted to see you all, but didn't get to it.

Silent Partner: I hope you are getting stronger. I miss you on wash day and will be pleased to see you well again. I hope you have a few cards from the Corner to cheer you along.

Sis of Saratoga: Why don't you say something?

Eva P.: You will know me now. Come down and get the good wind. I hope it don't push me over. Best wishes it all.

AURALEE.

A "THANK YOU" LETTER

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I am writing just a short letter to thank all the members of the Corner for their help in so many ways in making the meeting of last Tuesday so enjoyable. To the waitresses for their untiring efforts to serve the dinner, and all others who helped, to those who brought food, so generously and to those who helped in the entertainment after dinner. I express my deep appreciation to you all.

ISADORE.

A TRIBUTE TO COMMUTER.

Dear Corner Editor: Our Corner sister Commuter, passed away at the Cortland, N. Y., hospital on April 2.

To Commuter—The best woman; the truest Christian; the most wonderful friend I have ever known in my life. She never failed a friend; she met every test with sympathy, love and complete understanding, always. Her friend,

AMERICAN GIRL.

AN INTERESTING POMONA MEETING

Dear Editor and Sisters: This is no kind of weather to clean house but I have one room papered and hope another week will see them all done. Of course if I should have a chance to go somewhere I wouldn't worry about the papering or cleaning. Tuesday, Pomona grange met at Westerly and Milky Way, Beers and I had to help serve. And, O boy! maybe there wasn't some dishes to do after the dinner. Beers had to give the address of welcome. Prof. Roy Jones gave a talk on chicken raising. County Agent Clark was with him and we were glad to see them at Westerly grange.

All those having birthdays since the last Pomona meeting were seated at a special table decorated with yellow candles in silver candlesticks, a birthday cake in a nest of green with tiny chickens and a favor for each one. Of course each one having a birthday is supposed to place pennies corresponding to their age in a box for the purpose. Last year $86 was put in the box during the year.

After dinner there was an open session and the first thing was a hat parade. Each one was supposed to bring a hat that they had worn in the long gone past. Some of them, it didn't seem possible they could have been stylish, were certainly freaks. After this Judge John W. Sweeny gave a talk on "Our Courts." During the noon hour there was an exchange of bulbs. Soma and Winter Robin who have been back sliding of late were there. I believe New London county Pomona meets at Groton next week, so they will probably be absent at the next meeting.

I was in Dorothy Bradford's house the other day and I wish you plant lovers could see her lovely plants. About three weeks ago I put a sweet potato in a jar of water and hung it in a sunny window. It was nearly two weeks before it showed any signs of life but when it did start it is making up for lost time. The jar is nearly full of roots and the green shoots are sprouting out everywhere.

Gerry: Where is that letter?

Hope to see you all at North Stonington next week.

SUMAC (No. 6)

APPRECIATED MEMBERS' KINDNESS

Dear Social Corner Editor and Members: I wish to thank all who sent me cards when I was sick and also for my birthday. I certainly appreciated such kind thoughts.

My husband also wishes me to thank E. L. M., Sumac, Milky Way, Ruthina and Rebe for cards sent him during his illness. I am very glad to say he is gaing every day.

E. L. M.: Tell Mr. E. L. M. I said thank you for the message. I enjoyed them both.

I was sorry to have had to miss Club 6 anniversary. I know by reports that I have heard that everything was just lovely. So sorry Sumac had such luck with her program. But I heard the one she did give was good. Of course I was one of the ones that helped to flop the first program she had planned.

Lee, Pippin, Trixie and Ophelia Pulse: Will it be summer before I see you four again? The next meeting of Club 6 is to be held at North Stonington Grange hall, April 15th. Maybe you can come down. Cosmos is to be hostess.

I was sorry to hear of the death of Commuter. I believe the last meeting of Club 6 that she attended was at North Stonington last fall when I was hostess.

Sumac: We have had sickness for the last six weeks. First one and then the other. Daughter's other ear broke last Saturday, so now I have both ears to wash three times a day. Thanks for the letter you sent when I was sick.

Everyone was so kind when we were sick. When one is sick they realize or rather find just how many friends they have.

Hope all sick members are improving as we are at present.

RAVENA, Club 6.

EASTER TABLE CENTERPIECE

Dear Editor and Friends: Perhaps some of you would like to read about a novel center piece for your Easter table. A friend of mine expected to entertain company on Easter day and she wondered what she could have for a center piece. Her little daughter had a very lovely doll carriage which was not in use as the child had damaged it. I said, "Let's dress up the doll perambulator for the occasion." After brushing it clean, the frame was wound with pink crepe paper cut in convenient width and ruffled here and there to take off the plain look. Rosettes of the paper and artificial apple blossoms were fastened by invisible thread here and there upon the frame; the body part being basket, made a splendid recepacle for botted plants (in this case a fern and vines of inch plant). Ruffled streamers of the crepe paper ran to corners of the table from the center piece and hard boiled eggs of bright hues, were found hidden in the center piece. A bunny or any pressed paper animal might be placed in the carriage also.

The same idea could be carried out for any occasion. Another friend used a doll carriage as described but decorated with different color paper and flowers. Two dolls were dressed in costume and fruit was in carriage instead of eggs. If carriage is too large for dining table, place it on a side table.

Am regretting the loss of another Social Corner sister, Mrs. Fanny M. Kendall, pen name "Fanny M. K.," of Lisbon. My sympathy to her family.

I wish to thank all the kind friends who remembered me on my birthday. So many surprises and coming just in time for Palm Sunday.

Daisy Dean: Where and when does Club 4 hold another meeting?

Primrose and My Neighbor: Sorry I could not get to Putnam. Was in Norwich that day.

Jane of R. I.: In answer to your query, will say I think the study of astrology is interesting and explains many things we need to know. It is not any more fantastic than some other beliefs. Astrology is supposed to be a science mathematically correct and is founded on natural laws of vibration.

ARIES

WE'RE SORRY, ROSALIND

Dear Social Corner Friends: I have just been looking over the Social Corner pages that I have kept for a year. I found one Corner page that looked though I had dropped a piece of pumpkin pie on it. The first part of my last week's letter made me think of a pumpkin pie upside down. But whoever's fault it was, it was for the good of the Corner.

Things get twisted once in a while in the best of families. I find it is better to keep still than say too much. I have heard it said you might make a bad matter worse, but never have heard it said "a good thing getting goodest."

Maybeldo: Can you help me out in this affair by sending in one of your nice salad recipes?

ROSALIND.

APPRECIATES MEMBER'S LETTERS

Dear Social Corner: Winter is around all the corners. No use to shed the silk gowns and sheer stockings for we will wear them for awhile yet.

I appreciate the beautiful letter that Capricon and 1926 sent me. You, 1926, knew H very well for you two were school mates.

To Roseland I send thanks and Fan Tan by her comforting presence helped me so much. We miss them in many ways their coming in and going out. The voice that is still and the vacant chair.

GOOD THINGS FOUND IN CORNER

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: I think we have had some especially nice interesting letters of recent date. It affords us a pleasure to be reminded of earlier days of our life and I enjoyed The Little Spinster's account of her first attending the district school, which was similar to my own experience. I look back to that year when I was six years old, how I used to go along with two older girls, quite a walk to a white school house that stood in the fork of the road. Across the street was a row of evergreen trees which attracted my attention always as being very beautiful. They were quite large trees and there were many cones on the ground beneath them and I often picked up some of them and carried them home. My teacher's first name was Rose and I thought she was just as nice and sweet, as the beautiful flower whose name she bore. Affectionate impressions in the childish mind never grows cold.

Sister Hope Cobweb asks what is the meaning of "home." I fully agree with sister Sassy, "it's just another word for Mother," which means "love" also. We do not realize the value of these things of life, until we are deprived of them and so it will continue into each generation. We can only be responsible for our own acts and deeds, duty to mother and duty as a mother to our children.

"And when my task on earth is done,
Then by Thy grace, the victory's won."

Our sister L. T. H. contributed a wonderful inspiring letter last week Sister Omaha Bee is showing a helpful interest in the Social Corner and I enjoy her suggestions. She calls attention to the quotation always found on the Corner page, which surely ought to furnish at all times a topic for letter writing. Last week regarding the strength of cheerfulness, its power of endurance. How cold and dismal this world would be if no sunshine or good cheer was given us. Those who have opportunity (some have more than others) let your light shine into sad hearts and He that seeth in secret shall reward you openly. We can all find many things to be grateful for, surely the return of springtime, the beauty of the unfolding buds on tree and shrub and gradually the development of flowers and amid the green fields, nature's perfect gifts.

Kind wishes to each and everyone that the ill and shut-ins may be given patience and comfort from the Source of all healing power.

LEAVING SPACE FOR NEW MEMBERS

Dear Readers of the Social Corner: I have nothing of interest to write about this week so will leave a nice long space for our many new members. I would like to inform the readers that the rearranging of words in my last letter was to me very humiliating. The letter was not printed as I wrote it.

It is quite like spring today and we are all looking forward for a similar day the 15th, as that is the date of our next meeting, which will be held at the Grange hall, North Stonington. We anticipate an extra large crowd, as at present the roads are in good condition, and at this time of the year we are looking for a fine day.

Will bring this to a close with a quotation from my calendar:

"Avoid exaggeration, be loyal to truth always."

PRAIRIE CHICKEN.

COSMOS TO BE HOSTESS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: The Social Corner Club No. 6 will meet in the Grange hall at North Stonington on Tuesday, April 15. Cosmos is to be hostess and Prairie Chicken has charge of the program and an unusual one is looked for.

It is hoped sisters from other clubs will be present. Bring dishes and something good to eat.

Ravena: Hope you are all better.

E. L. M.: Suppose you are busy at it, same as I am.

Sumac: Was sorry not to see you the 28th, but am glad the women won. Thanks for the Judges.

COSMOS.

SETTING OUT PLANTS

Dear Social Corner: April is in one of her undecided moods today. I have been setting out plants, but had to come in to warm my feet. The plants were some a neighbor was kind enough to give me. It is a fine thing to have a good neighbor.

Am planning on attending the S. C. meeting in Willimantic tomorrow, and hope for a pleasant day.

Eveline Burr: Did you find a name for your flower? I thought it might be Winter Aconite. Do you have "The Garden, Month by Month" in your town library? I think that is fine in which to look up unknown plants.

Canterbury Bell: Will you be home in May? Please let me know.

BETSY BOBBETT.

JOINS THE CORNER

Dear Editor Social Corner: As there has lately been discovered a new planet, "Planet X," and as I am applying for a membership also new, I think I will take for my pen name

PLANET X.

Sweet William Plants Offered

Dear Social Corner and Editor: I attended the last meeting of Club 4 and had a nice time and hope to go again. Thanks, Mr. Editor for the yellow slip.

I am writing this morning to tell the Social Corner friends I have a great quantity of Sweet William plants to give away. Come soon before my husband plows the nup. If planted now they will bloom this year.

Best wishes to the Corner friends.

AUNTY JANE. (Club 4).

Mrs. Nellie Tuttle of Hartford and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Tuttle of Andover were guests Sunday of Mrs. Tuttle's sister, Mrs. Karl F. Bishop.

The League of Women Voters invited the Parent-Teacher association to unite with them Tuesday evening at the L. M. high school to listen to an address by Miss Margaret Bridges, visiting teacher of Norwich. About 60 were present and found much interest in Miss Bridges' helpful talk. The meeting opened with a few old time songs, sung by all. After Miss Bridges' talk, questions pertaining to school problems were answered by her. The meeting closed with singing America, after which sandwiches and cocoa was served. A short business meeting of the Parent-Teacher association was held at which time plans were discussed to raise money. Ten new members were added to the association which now numbers 26.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Fifty years ago this week, the 40th annual session of the Providence conference of the Methodist church, now known as the New England Southern conference, was held in this city. There were over 200 clergymen in attendance at the conference, and one of the congregations numbered over 1,000 persons. The conference was held in the Central M. E. church. Norwich Hose Co., No. 4, one of the old time volunteer fire companies, elected officers that week, for the ensuing year, selecting J. M. Duchette, Jr., as foreman, and John Coffiin, as first assistant foreman. Interesting extracts taken from the file of The Norwich Bulletin of April, 1880, are as follows:

Monday, April 5, 1880—The Central M. E. church was crowded last evening, the occasion being a review of three years of labor by the pastor. Throughout the discourse the pastor evinced a great deal of feeling and sobs were heard in different parts of the large congregation as he dwelt upon the severance of the ties which have grown stronger with each year of his service to the Central M. E. church.

Cork Hill was terribly stirred up by two intoxicated residents yesterday. The neighbors in the vicinity are considering the organization of a vigilance committee to rid the hill of its only nuisances.

The manufacturing boom in New England is creating an exodus among the French Canadians. The trains out of Worcester, Friday night, were overcrowded with them. They were enroute for mill villages along the line.

Tuesday, April 6, 1880—The gross receipts of the Otis library reading for the benefit of the book fund, Friday night, amounted to $18.

A kerosene lamp exploded on the Boston boat train baggage car, Saturday morning, between New London and this city, damaging it to such extent that it was left here for repairs.

The Methodist clergy began to arrive in the city yesterday to attend the 40th annual session of the Providence conference. Provisions have been made for the entertainment of 222 ministers of that persuasion in the city the coming week. The remainder will probably arrive today.

Wednesday, April 7, 1880—Mrs. Hugh Montgomery was surprised by the ladies of her Bible class at her residence on Thames street, Monday evening, and Mrs. John Reynolds in an appropriate address presented her in behalf of the class with a heavy gold ring with the word "class" handsomely engraved inside it.

The scarcity of prisoners led to the discharge of the underkeeper at the jail, a little over a year ago, but the present number, 27, with the probabilities in favor of a large increase, when the per diem is brought to fifty cents, suggest that an increase of force at that institution will soon be necessary.

The Norwich Literary society enjoyed a rare treat last evening in the recitations of Katie Cornell of New London, a little miss of four years, who rendered "Taking Grandmother's Place." She was heartily encored and responded with "Good Night."

Thursday, April 8, 1880—In the absence of Rt. Rev. Bishop Bowman, the Providence conference was called to order by the Rev. M. J. Talbot of Providence at 9 o'clock a. m. yesterday. A president pro-tem was balloted for and the Rev. Frederick Upham, D. D., was chosen on the second ballot and took the chair.

M. J. Talbot, D. D., was chosen secretary for the 21st time; W. F. Whitcher, J. H. James, G. M. Hamlin and E. M. Anthony were made assistant secretaries. The roll of the conference was then called and 102 members answered to their names.

At the annual meeting of Norwich Hose Co., No. 4, held last evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: J. M. Duchette, Jr., Foreman; John Coffin, first assistant; William G. Tripp, second assistant; G. H. Wilbur, secretary; Wm. Noss, treasurer.

The Callahan property, 16, 18 and 20 Water street, was sold yesterday to J. B. Doyle on private terms, by Nicholas Tarrant.

Friday, April 9, 1880—Daniel M. Lester of this city has recently obtained two valuable patents for improvements in envelope machines, which the firm of Lester and Wasley, of which he is a member, are building. The firm has orders for a large number of machines and as they have not the room to increase their facilities here are about to make arrangements with out of town parties to build them, under their supervision, so that they may be able, at short notice, to fill all their orders.

The Second National bank put a splendid Herring safe of the latest improved pattern into the vault of their new banking house on Shetucket street, yesterday. It weighs over 8,000 pounds and has the best burglar proof locks of the period.

The Tony Denier Pantomime Co., is to appear at Breed hall, this evening. They will introduce a number of new tricks and illusions and the first appearance of a diminutive donkey with a wonderful amount of good nature is to be made. The variety part of the entertainment is said to be good.

Saturday, April 10, 1880—The eminent and favorite comedian, F. S. Chanfrau, supported by an excellent company, will apear in his renowned drama, Kit, the Arkansas Traveler, illustrating life and adventures in the southwest, next Friday evening, at Breed hall. He will be remembered. He has been here before. He will be welcomed now.

The anniversary celebration of the Sunday school of Park church, with a sermon by the pastor, and anthems and carols by choir and school, will take place tomorrow morning. The "Singing of Birds" will be repeated from Easter services.

Out to lunch. One of the boys asked Bill where he got me, as he, too, wanted a good blue suit.

8:30 P. M.

To theatre and was admired by the young lady. I would have blushed, but of course I'm color-fast. Only a Blue Suit, I thought to myself, could be in good taste for any occasion.

And only a SMITHSON, like myself, could continue to look like a thoroughbred throughout a busy day!

The Snake in Sidonie's Paradise

By SARA J. WARDEL

THE GREEN-EYED MONSTER REARS ITS UGLY HEAD AND THREATENS TO DESTROY THE NEWLY-WEDS' DOMESTIC PEACE

WHEN Sidonie fell in love with Bamby and married him after a whirlwind courtship of three brief days, the matter of his models never entered her head. They went off on an ecstatic honeymoon in a rattle-trap, tumble-down car and Bamby left his art locked up in the shabby old studio on Prince street. For the first time in his life he worshiped a flesh-and-blood girl instead of the intangible dream at whose shrine he had served for his entire twenty-seven years. Sidonie, the wife, preoccupied him entirely. Art, the mistress, languished at home.

Bamby was Sidonie's love name for him. His real name was Ernest Rupert Richardson, and when he was christened his mother had thought she was having a future Bishop of the church baptized. That was before he was old enough to hold a pencil in his hand and cover every available white space with sketches of trees and people and animals.

To celebrate his 4th birthday, Ernest Rupert Richardson had his picture taken. It was supposed to show him smirking around the corner of the enormous white tie under his chin. But none of the photographer's promises about the little birdie behind the camera availed. The child wriggled and climbed until his mother was reduced to tears. Finally inspiration seized her. She gave him a slate and a crayon. The picture was finally taken of a disheveled little boy, his bow twisted over his left ear, lying on his stomach, drawing a very lifelike cow!

In school Ernest Rupert Richardson's textbooks were covered with caricatures of the professors instead of neat sums in multiplication and long division.

Eventually they carried him from the conventional little Mid-Western town into the heart of Bohemian New York. There he studied, suffered and slaved for the sake of his work, often going without food to buy a canvas and paint.

Then along came Sidonie. She was a dream, a star, an answer to a problem he had not known existed. Once he had been unconscious of the fact that he was lonely. Talking to her the first day over the hum of tongues and the soft clatter of silver spoons against eggshell cups at Rosemary's studio tea party, he knew that without her he was just an eating, sleeping biped. He told her so over the second cup of tea.

Sidonie was Rosemary's cousin and this was her first visit to New York. She was a country minister's daughter and her early training had been so thoroughly orthodox that for a moment she was inclined to mistrust the flash of joy that flamed in her heart when his eyes spoke to her. But she was as honest as the wholesome sun and winds with which she had grown up. So she accepted another sandwich because she was hungry and considered Ernest Rupert Richardson seriously in spite of his terrible purple necktie, because she was already in love with him.

Three days later she married him and the story begins where most stories are supposed to leave off.

June along the rambling roads of New England and a ramshackle little flivver, exploring its delights. Days when Sidonie and Bamby sat side by side as they roared through tiny villages, wind whistling in their hair, silent from the pure joy of being alive and together!

They wore old clothes, fished for their meals in brooks where the silver trout leaped high and often slipped, at twilight, into the pale purple shadows of the lake for a swim. Under the warm, relaxing influence of love, Sidonie became a little pagan. She would jump up and down, pelting Bamby with handfuls of water and collapsing, weak from laughter, in his arms when he managed to catch her.

"Is it really us?" she would gasp sometimes, catching her breath sharply as she lay in his arms under some sleepy elm tree where night lingered all day in the topmost branches, "and is it going to last?"

"Forever and ever," he always assured her solemnly.

THEN suddenly there came the realization there was just money enough left to take them home. August—and he had left New York in June! Two months without a tap of work done. Bamby woke with a start. Sidonie, dreaming and singing at his side along the return journey, was still happy. It would be hot in New York, but they had had their never-to-be-forgotten Garden of Eden. She reminded Bamby of it.

"Sure," he grinned, "even Adam and Eve had to be kicked out of paradise and made to go to work!"

"Oh, but it isn't a bit like that," she protested. "There was a snake in their paradise. We haven't run across one of those animals yet!"

But the snake was waiting for them back in New York. Bamby made the first casual reference to it a few days after they had settled down on the top floor of the old Prince street brownstone house, where Sidonie was attempting to furnish a new paradise with odd scraps of cretonne from the "five and ten."

"I'm going to have to get a model in on this picture," he frowned, squinting at the girl on the canvas. He had no more idea than Sidonie that he was dragging in the inevitable snake. "It isn't going just right. I hate like the deuce to spend the money for one right now when we're so broke, but this thing has to be a lot more convincing before Brooks will buy it."

"Well, why not?" hummed Sidonie happily as she flicked a paint brush over the surface of an old footstool. "We'll have crackers and milk for supper instead of steak. It's better for us anyway in hot weather. Look, darling, isn't this going to be gay?"

BAMBY stared at the spot of Chinese red decorative art without really seeing it. He was still glowering at a muddy section of his picture.

"Um-huh," he said, unenthusiastically. Sidonie, still wrapped in her dream of Paradise, did not detect the discordant note. She dipped her brush in the can of lacquer and went on smiling to herself.

"Oh, heck!" exclaimed Bamby half an hour later, tripping over a rug to reach the telephone. "I'll get Christine for tomorrow morning. It's too late to accomplish much more tonight."

"What's she like?" asked Sidonie uninterestedly as they were going to bed.

"What's who like?" Bamby was fumbling with the knot in his shoestring.

"Christine."

"Oh, I don't know." He pulled off the couch cover and opened the collapsible bed. "She's just a model. No brains but a nice form—long and lanky."

Sidonie looked down at her own short self, tiny and brown as an elf. She said nothing. But after the lights were out she lay awake a long time, wondering.

In the morning Sidonie set the breakfast table in the coolest window, while Bamby laid out his brushes and dripped puddles of paint on the palette. It was going to be a scorching hot day. Already there was a breathless calm about the air that made Sidonie's hair stick to her forehead. It would be best not to venture out for marketing, she thought. There was plenty on the pantry shelves to hold them over. Maybe if she just sat quietly in the corner with her sewing she could manage to keep cool. Poor Bamby! She felt sorry for him. Standing up at the easel all day was strenuous business. Later in the morning she would make them all a pitcher of ice-cold lemonade.

"By the way," said Bamby, pulling out his chair and attacking the cereal, "can't you spend the day with Rosemary? You've scarcely seen her since we got back."

"Why, Rosemary's gone home for her vacation. Had you forgotten, darling?"

Sidonie laughed, making loving allowances for him. The snake was coiled under her feet, yet she did not see it.

"Well, then, what about a morning in the park? The library is a good cool place on this kind of a day, too."

"But why?"

She was frankly puzzled.

"The model's coming, silly. I'm going to be as busy as a one-armed paperhanger. I won't have a moment to spare."

"What difference does that make, darling? I'm going to curl up in a corner with my sewing and I won't make a single peep. It will be fun just to watch you. I've never seen a real live model before."

"That's just the trouble. Don't you see? It might fuss her to have you hanging around staring at her."

Ah, the snake had reared its head now! Its sharp little tongue lashed in and out, ready to strike.

"Well, I like that," Sidonie laughed a little unpleasantly. "A girl that poses all over New York for any man that will pay her a few dollars and you think a member of her own sex will embarrass her. Too bad about her. Your logic is poor, my dear. Think up a better one!"

"If you don't want me to consider her, please remember that I may also be considering you. I should hardly think you'd want her to be laughing at you for a jealous wife, afraid to trust your husband alone with her."

"I don't care what she thinks. It's a hot day and I'm not going to roam the streets just because you've got a model coming here."

"Don't be crude, Sidonie. We have only one room here. It bothers me to have any one else standing around, distracting me from my work."

"Any one else," he had called her. And only a few weeks ago he had been kissing her fingertips and calling her his dearest, preciousest, ownest beloved. Tears smarted near the danger line of Sidonie's eyes.

"I DON'T see why it's necessary to paint her in the nude anyway," said Sidonie coldly, trying to control the quaver in her voice. "It's for a ginger-ale poster, isn't it? And the girl in the sketch is all dressed up in a nile-green sports ensemble —!"

This last triumphantly.

"But it's for the proper drafting," he groaned. "All artists paint the figures in outline first, my dear. The foundation has to be correct. Then it's a simple matter to drape the figures in a few clothes. If you don't believe me, look at the work of any illustrator that amounts to anything—"

He went in search of magazines to prove his point. Grimly Sidonie cleared the table of the breakfast dishes. Of course, when it came to answering statements about what other artists did, she was at a loss. She knew nothing about the background of art. She had been brought up in a simple world of trees and flowers and sunshine. Now she wished that she were back there once more. When he showed her the illustrations in the magazine she curled her lip and said nothing. The girls looked adequately enough dressed. They wore as much as any of the women she saw about her on the street every day. It seemed perfectly possible to paint them that way. But she made one more weak protest.

"Why can't I pose for you? I'm perfectly willing and it would save money."

He made a gesture of impatience. Time was passing and his tools were not yet all assembled for the day's work.

"I wouldn't let you, Sidonie. It's too hard work for you. The hardest work in the world. You'd be exhausted."

"Oh!" She pushed away from him, her eyes blazing. "I can cook for you, wash dishes for you, scrub floors for you. But you'd hire some one else to model for you in order to spare me hard work! I don't suppose you even know you're being funny!"

He caught at her arm and held her close.

"You don't understand, darling. I've got to be impersonal when I'm painting and I'm not impersonal about you. You wouldn't want me to be, I hope. Great heavens, girl, I love you! I couldn't paint you to save my life. This model is like a piece of furniture to me. I don't even see the woman behind her. I'm concentrating all the time on bones and muscles and ligaments, the poise of a head, the slant of an arm. She's like a stove to a cook or a patient to a doctor."

He tossed back his unruly black hair and went on excitedly:

"You don't suppose for a minute that an artist goes around being thrilled about his model, do you? If he falls in love with her, she's out. He couldn't paint her any longer. Besides, he never does. You've been reading silly stories, darling. Forget them. They tell the public what it wants to believe about artists, not what they're really like."

He took her in his arms and she rested there supinely and without response. After a moment she slipped away. He heard her rattling the dishes and this morning there was no burst of song from the little kitchenette. Bamby sighed.

He was busy blocking in the rough shape of the picture when a knock at the door announced Christine's arrival. He waited for a moment, half expecting Sidonie to scamper through the hall and let her in. But she did not come, and when he hunted for her she was gone. He must have been so busy that he failed to hear her leave. Poor kid! He knew vaguely that he had not made her understand him. Tonight he would take her in his arms and make her understand. But this was daytime, worktime. And an artist is primarily a worker! He turned to the canvas. Christine was a good model. Already she had posed according to the lines of the sketch.

SIDONIE walked the burning August streets, hatless and coatless. Once or twice she started to sit down on a park bench, but some restless urge within her demanded motion. It drove her on and on, around corners and down dirty little alleys she had never seen before. Driven from her paradise, she had taken the snake with her. It was a green snake and it lay buried at the center of a frozen red heart.

Her clever little head was sensible enough to realize that Bamby needed models. She was actually hurting his work by being so foolish. And, after all, he was doing it all for her. On their honeymoon, lying on a carpet of grass under the moon, he had dreamed aloud about the great things he was going to accomplish now that he had a new incentive for which to work. Filmy dresses for Sidonie with rare import labels, a larger studio apartment uptown somewhere near the park—"where you can wheel the baby carriage"—he added, tweaking her ear.

Easy enough to be reasonable if only her emotions did not have a way of bursting out and spoiling everything. A fortune-teller had once said that her heart would always rule her head. Right now it was reminding her that she was a wretched little bride, cast out on the street because the man who had sworn in poetry, song and the prose of legal phraseology to love her "till death did them part" was preoccupied with his model! Sidonie could just see her, poised against the black velvet folds of the model stand like some rare jewel on display in a shop window. At this very moment he was claiming all that intimate beauty for his own, capturing it there imperishably on the canvas. And she, who had thought to dwell forever in his heart, was only an outsider after all, an alien where his art was concerned.

PASSERS-BY stared at Sidonie curiously. Tears streamed down her cheeks and she made no effort to wipe them away. She cried with the simple unrestraint of a child. But the snake has its way of whispering revenge.

"You are not," it said to Sidonie now, "a namby-pamby little idiot for him to walk over. You must show him that. You must make him feel as badly as he is making you feel. Look around you—somewhere there is an opportunity."

So Sidonie looked. And what she saw, through a blur of tears, was a sign hanging from a red-brick building. It read in huge black letters, "One to Five Room Studio Apartments—Northlight Skylights."

If it was a studio building, artists lived there. And all artists, according to Bamby, needed models. He had further implied that she was being crude in over-emphasizing the physical aspect of the human body. To an artist it was only a symbol. Would he still feel that way, thought Sidonie grimly, if she posed for another artist?

"What's sauce for the gander is sauce for the goose," whispered the snake. "Why don't you test the theory, anyway?"

Resolutely Sidonie marched across the street and into the foyer of the building. But she paused more irresolutely along the dark corridors upstairs. It was going to be hard to shed her fundamental modesty, hard even to summon the words that would frame the proposition. Perhaps it was running risks with her love. After all, she did love Bamby. Suppose some of these others were like the storybook artists who were invariably unscrupulous about their models? She could never go back to Bamby then. And it would be all her fault. She turned and scrambled down the third-floor flight of stairs. But the snake raised glittering eyes in the darkness of the hall.

"Don't be silly. At this moment he's not even thinking of you. You must hurt him, stab him, make him realize that you, Sidonie, are the reality—not the shadows that he paints on canvas."

She doubled her hand into a tight little fist and rapped soundly on the door at her right. Inside there was a little rasp as of some one clearing his throat. A chair was pushed back and the door opened to reveal a tall man in a green smock.

"Pardon me, but do you happen to need a model?" quavered Sidonie. "I'm looking for work."

"Come in," he said kindly. "Sit over there by the window where I can look at you. This is rare good luck. I'm making a series of illustrations for a child's book. I can use some one just about your size for the elves and fairies. Suppose you slip off your things and I'll start to paint."

"It's not yet too late," she thought. "I could say that I feel faint. I do, too. My head is dizzy."

"Don't be a quitter," hissed the snake. "It's the only way you can wake him up. Jealousy sharpens a man's feelings. It will make him realize that he loves you."

"I'm ready now," announced Sidonie in a weak little voice and walked out from behind the screen. To her surprise, he did not even look up from the drafting table, where he was tacking down a fresh sheet of illustration board. She stood there awkwardly, first on one foot and then on the other.

"Over here, please," he said shortly, arranging a few cushions on the model stand. When he looked at her it was not consciously. He seemed to see through and beyond her. It was not the personal appraisal of her charms that she had expected. She felt like an inanimate object. Why, that was exactly what Bamby had said!

"A model is like a piece of furniture * * *"

For a moment Sidonie was baffled. Expecting confidently to prove him wrong, she was finding him right instead. It was a little annoying. Worse, it hurt one's pride.

She was tired out before the artist arranged the pose to satisfy himself. Her arms ached and a dull pain bored into the back of her neck. The position was a difficult one to hold, standing on tiptoes, hands raised over her head as if she were just about to fly. Sidonie had not realized how hard it was just to stand still without moving so much as a single finger. Scrubbing, house-cleaning, window-washing—anything was preferable. Guiltily she thought of Bamby's phrase: "The hardest work in the world." And she had not believed him!

Pins and needles jabbed sharp points into her protesting flesh. A hot flash seared along the path of her shoulder. Was this, then, the life of an artist's model? A sort of willing submission to crucifixion? An utter renunciation of personal comfort and identity for the sake of the idea the artist was working out with his pencil? A merging of oneself with art even though it hurt every nerve and muscle involved in the pose?

In the room beyond the studio some one moved. Dishes were rattled, footsteps marched back and forth across the floor. Sidonie was suddenly once more aware of herself. The artist, by his impersonality, had made her forget it. Now she shivered and huddled her shoulders together as if to hide. Heavens, if some one should come in and see her like this! His wife, perhaps! It was different with the artist. But any one else would be a spectator. That was not quite the same somehow. The footsteps passed, quiet reigned again in the adjoining room and Sidonie relaxed her tension.

Sidonie suddenly realized that a model was not just a hard-boiled wanton of a girl who posed casually. She could pose for years and still retain a certain essential modesty where the business of art was not concerned. Art reverenced its votaries. Having eyes only for the pure, it saw only beauty in the alabaster gleam of the human form. It made saints and not sinners out of its disciples.

Out of the corners of her eyes she watched the artist. He was totally unaware of her. Bathed now in the full flood of his work, he was like an unconscious medium for the operation of powers higher than himself.

Bamby got that way sometimes and Sidonie always resented it. Rapt, lost to a sense of time or space, caught up into some fourth-dimensional region where ordinary mortals could not follow him. Then she would climb on his lap and tease him with her kisses until the faraway look faded from his eyes and he came back to be her lover again.

Fear struck at her and she shivered. The artist threw down his brush.

"You're tired," he said. "Forgive me. I'm apt to forget. You must rest for awhile."

He seemed inclined to talk now that the picture had taken rough shape and could not elude him by slipping off into the nothingness from which it came.

"It's a strange cult—art," he sighed. "Sometimes I wonder why we are fools enough to pursue it all our days. Then I start work on a new picture—and I understand. But I'm terribly sorry for the women who tie up to us. They get a rotten deal—unless they're big people with oversized hearts. It's no job for a girl with a small soul. She's got to have love enough to spill over and bless the bigger thing that our work stands for. Most women can love only their man. But an artist's wife has got to love the whole world or else she lives in Hades—and puts him there, too. Here, I don't know why I'm talking to you like this. Probably boring you to death. Let's get a kneeling pose this time so I can block in the other figure."

The rest of the day the work went more easily. Sidonie was so busy thinking that she was not conscious of her cramped and unhappy body. Was this man talking out of his own experience? Did the woman who walked back and forth beyond the closed door represent the oversized heart which alone made fit companionship for an artist? Or was she, like Sidonie, small-souled?

Later she knew. Summer dusk had fallen before he flipped his brush gurglingly through the water jar and tossed it aside with definite finality. Sidonie, slipping behind the screen, saw him stand up and stretch like a weary schoolboy, bent too long over his lessons. A strange, glad, tired joy flared in his eyes. He opened the closed door.

In the rosy circle of a welcoming lamp he took a woman in his arms. She was a small woman, all in white, but the light on her face, glimpsed over his shoulder, told its own story of a man come home to the heart of a woman who understands.

"The work went well, Mary," he said.

"Of course, my dear. Now you must eat and tell me all about it."

Sidonie felt suddenly cold and chilled. It was the second time today that she had been an outsider. This morning a model had made her an alien. Now it was a wife. But the morning was already a thousand years past. She had learned a lot about models since then. She had grown up into a wife!

BAMBY was waiting for her outside the brownstone house on Prince street, pacing the hot pavements, searching every hurrying figure from under the slouched brim of his hat.

"Sidonie, darling, I've been worried to death. Where have you been all day?"

His eyes were hot and fearful. She had meant not to tell him. It had been silly of her and it was bound to hurt him, even as the snake had wanted it to. A simple matter to laugh now and deceive him. But somehow, caught up frantically against his heart here in the stuffy little hallway, she could not do it.

"I posed for an artist, Bamby."

In the darkness she felt him stiffen. For just a second, anger, hate and jealousy, that ugly trio, pounded their evil tattoo in his temples. Then slowly he relaxed. If a man was worth anything he was consistent, whether it concerned his own wife or not. He held her little white face under the thin flare of the electric-light bulb. Purple shadows washed the hollows of her cheeks. Moist tendrils of hair slung damply to her forehead. But the eyes were deep and clean, filled with a comprehension he had never seen there before. He loosened his grip on her shoulder.

"Poor darling," he said contritely. "You must be dog-tired. Modeling is the hardest job in the world. Come upstairs and lie down while I cook you some supper."

"You can call me Pat," whispered Sidonie, her head on his shoulder as they walked up the long flights to the top, "short for St. Patrick! Only I've driven all the snakes out of paradise instead!"

DAYVILLE

The Tuesday Night Bridge club was entertained by Mrs. William Douglas. The prizes were won by Mrs. N. Lorne Greig, Mrs. Herman Steinbough, and Miss Bernice Cogswell.

Palm Sunday will be observed at the Congregational church. In addition to the Junior choir, a special choir will render the anthems. At the evening service the pastor will discuss further fundamentals of Christian Faith.

Joseph Miller is making steady progress in recovery from his recent injury.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Monroe was thrown open Thursday night for the entertainment of a whist party given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society. The affair was a great success, 73 guests being present, including many from Putnam, Danielson and other nearby localities. Delicious refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Alvord were guests at a bridge party Monday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hughes, of Putnam.

The young people of the Congregational church are engaged in the preparation of a concert to be given Easter Sunday afternoon.

STAFFORD

Mrs. Sherman Hope and son, of Springfield, were guests of the former's mother, Mrs. Edward E. Eno, Monday.

Palm Sunday will be observed at the Baptist church Sunday by a special sermon and special music.

The Boy Scouts had a very interesting meeting last Friday evening.

Miss Esther Warren has returned to Winsted after spending the vacation at her home.

There was a large attendance at the union meeting of the W. C. T. U. and the Missionary society, last Thursday afternoon at the Baptist church. Mrs. E. E. Eno, president of the Missionary society and Mrs. C. L. Chism had charge of the meeting. A very interesting program was given.

MARKET WAS SOMEWHAT UNSETTLED WITH UTILITIES FEATURE OF SESSION

NEW YORK, April 11—(AP)—The stock market was somewhat unsettled today, although speculation for the rise was pushed forward with increasing vigor in the utilities. Trading continued at a rapid pace, total sales again exceeding 5,600,000 shares.

The market opened with a bullish flourish in response to the small increase in brokers loans, but the feeling persists in conservative quarters that the market has well discounted early business prospects, and around midday bears took advantage of the adverse psychological effects of the news of the closing of the Tokio Stock exchange to launch effective attacks against popular trading shares. In the late afternoon, however, the market made irregular recovery under leadership of the utilities. The price index of 90 leading shares showed a loss for the day of 6-10 of a point.

Important speculative circles however, were unperturbed by the conditions in Japan, feeling that the situation in the Tokio exchange was but a reflection of an unsatisfactory economic state of affairs that has existed in Nippon for some time, and which will have negligible repercussions in world conditions generally.

Bears made the most of the situation, however, and rumors were circulated that a prominent floor trader had suddenly reversed his position on the market by turning bearish, although he belied this talk by stepping in and buying blocks of 10,000 shares of U. S. Steel and General Electric.

The weekly trade and mercantile reviews remained mildly optimistic, reporting that warmer weather had given a slight impetus to retail trade, and that industrial activity and employment were showing further gains. Warner Bros. strengthened its position abroad by acquiring an interest in German talking picture patents, and Johns-Manville was unofficially reported to be negotiating for Raybestos Manhattan. Although rumors of a merger of United Gas Improvement and Public Service of New Jersey were officially denied, Wall street still toys with the idea of a consolidation of these companies, as control of both is held by the same groups. Concurrent strength of American Water Works and Standard Gas revived talk of a merger of these companies. Call money was slightly firmer, holding at 4 per cent all day, presumably in reflecting of week-end banking requirements.

Allied Chemical was a buoyant feature, selling up nearly 16 points to a new 1930 top and closing near its best level. International Harvester, Commercial Solvents, International Hydro Electric, McKeesport Tinplate, National Air Transport, National Bellas Hess, Raybestos Manhattan, Remington Rand, Warner Quinlan, and Southern California Edison were among shares moving up about 1 to 4 points to new highs for the year. American Water Works and Standard Gas were pushed up about 4 and 7 points respectively, and closed near the top, but Public Service of N. J., and United Gas Improvement, and United Corp., which is heavily interested in both, all reacted on denial of the merger report, after reaching new tops for the movement.

Coppers were heavy, as uneasiness over maintaining current copper prices grows. Calumet and Arizona and Kennecott stagged moderately to new low levels for the year. Eastman Kodak, Coca Cola, Gulf States Steel, Hershey Chocolate, U. S. Steel, Lambert and Vanadium were among shares losing 2 to 3 points, American Telephone sold up about 3 points, then reacted 4.

Commodities generally eased. May wheat lost 1 1-4 cents, and the later positions were barely steady, reflecting further bearish weather reports. Corn also sagged. Cotton closed 35 to 80 cents a bale lower, reflecting a sag in the Liverpool market, which was affected by unsettlement in the Bombay and Tokio markets. Coffee was depressed by reports that the proposed Brazilian stabilization loan would require liquidation of accumulated stocks.

Foreign exchanges eased a little. Sterling cables ruled 1-8 lower at $4.86 1-2. While Japanese exchange was highly unsettled by conditions in Tokio, the rate was quoted at 49.35 cents off only 05. of a cent.

COTTON

NEW YORK, April 11—(AP)—Cotton futures closed barely steady, 7 to 17 points lower. Spot steady; middling 16.55.

NEW YORK, April 11—(AP)—A further improvement, although not as great as that observed last week, marked the country's insolvency record for this week. Business failures reported to R. G. Dun & Co. totaled 494, and compare with 503 last week and 533 two weeks ago, and were only 19 more than the 475 defaults reported for the corresponding week of 1929.

A group of New York bankers specializing in securities of investment trusts which would occupy a position in that field similar to the American Bankers association in the banking field. It was pointed out that at present there are about 600 investment companies with combined assets of more than $2,000,000,000 operating in the country.

Stockholders of Austin-Nichols Co. have approved plans for recapitalization of the company's capital structure providing for an exchange of the present preferred stock for new prior "A" stock and an increase in the authorized common stock.

The March gross income of the Southern Railway, according to preliminary estimates, will show a decrease of around $1,200,000, or about 10 per cent, from that of March, 1929.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, April 11—(AP)—Irregular price movements developed in today's curb market, but the main tendency again appeared to be upward. The market was strong at the opening but heavy week-end profit-taking and the flurry of selling created by the closing of the Tokio Stock exchange impeded operations for the advance although there was a brisk rally in some sections of the list in the final hour. Total sales of 1,632,800 shares only have been exceeded a few times this year.

American Light & Traction was again the spectacular feature in the public utility group, soaring 21 1-2 points to a new high at 339 1-2 on top of a gain of 28 points yesterday. American Superpower, which had been lagging behind some of the other utilities, came to life and crossed 36 to a new 1930 high. Electric Bond & Share closed 1 1-2 points lower at 109 3-4, after having sold as high as 112 1-2. Northern States Power "A" and Standard Power & Light (new) jumped 6 points and the United Light & Power issues moved into new high ground on a heavy turnover. Despite the denial of reports that United Gas Improvement was planning to take over Public Service of New Jersey, Wall street believes that several important utility mergers are in the making and will be completed within the next few months.

Oils ran into some profit-taking after their recent advance, Gulf dropping nearly 3 points, but losses in most of the other active issues were held to fractions. Penn Mex Fuel touched a new high at 32. The Standard Oil Co. of Indiana and other companies announced an increase in gasoline prices in middle western territory.

Bullish operations were again conducted in a wide assortment of specialties. Aluminum Co. of America and Aluminum Limited moved to new high ground on optimistic earnings forecasts. Duval Texas Sulphur, which is controlled by the Seagraves-Moody interests which recently won a fight for control of Freeport, Texas, ran up 4 points to a new high at 21, and retained all but a fraction of the gain. Deere & Co. issues made further recovery, the old stock jumping 10 points, in response to the publication of optimistic earnings estimates. American Colortype, National Rubber Machinery, Oscar Nebel, and Schulte-United preferred also moved into new high ground with buying in most cases influenced by reports of favorable earnings, merger or other developments.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, April 11—(AP)—Some moisture relief and indications of more tonight for drought stricken grain fields southwest made wheat prices average lower today, especially toward the last. Besides, holders of the May wheat delivery, representing wheat already available for use, were persistent sellers today, and export buying of wheat from North America was small. However, there was increasing concern over lack of sub-soil moisture for spring wheat northwest, particularly in Canada.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous, 1-4 a 1 3-8 a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 3-8 to 3-4c down, oats unchanged to 1-4c off, and provisions at a shade to 5c advance.

Despite early downturns of Chicago wheat values because of scattered rains in western Nebraska and western Kansas together with sharp price breaks at Liverpool, active buying for leading commission houses brought about quick rallies, and the market had a pronounced two-sided character during the rest of the day. No general rain was expected and reports indicated further abnormal hot dry windy weather would bring about material increased crop damage. Meanwhile, Kansas and Oklahoma authorities were quoted as admitting general deterioration of corps with some places reporting all vegetation perishing and many fields of wheat being plowed under.

A feature which attracted special notice among traders was a statement from a Chicago market leader that reports indicated a much smaller snowfall in the Rockies the past winter than usual. He said such a circumstance almost always presaged a dry season southwest and in the plains states west, and that although April was a month of showers it would require more than showers to allay apprehension as to the domestic winter wheat crop. Another development was an authoritative unofficial summary showing that spring wheat acreage in Montana, North and South Dakota and Minnesota apparently would be decreased 10 to 15 per cent.

Corn and oats prices were inclined to sag on account of fine weather for field work in the corn belt.

Provisions although easy at the start, turned firm later in response to higher holding prices.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, May 1.09 7-8 at 1.10, 1.14 1-2. July 1.11 1-4 at 1-2, 1.16 3-4 at 7-8. Sept 1.14 at 1-8, 1.19 3-8. Dec. 1.19 1-2, 1.23 1-2. Corn, May .83 1-4 at 3-8, .84 5-8 July .86, .87 1-4. Sept. .87 1-8, .88 1-4. Dec. (bids) 89 1-8.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, April 11—(AP)—Bonds failed to develop a definite trend today in the dullest market of the week. The bulk of the trading was in a comparatively few issues, which moved indecisively.

Industrials received the best attention in some time, but offerings just about balanced the demand and net changes were unimpressive. Steel and oil company obligations turned over freely, with unusually large volume in Youngstown Sheet & Tube 5s, Wheeling Steel 5 1-2s, Shell Oil issues and Sinclair Crude Oil 5 1-2s, Standard of New Jersey 5s equalled their year's high at 103 3-4. Goodyear Tire 5s failed to move on sales aggregating about $75,000 par value.

There was a slight firming in the money markets. Demand loans held at 4 per cent all day, while short term funds brought slightly higher rates. United States governments held steady in the face of this tightening, but were very dull.

The more active rails included Atchison general 4s, Erie 5s, Louisville & Nashville 4 1-2s, Nickel Plate "A" 5 1-2s, Pennsylvania 4 1-2s of 1970, and United Pacific first 4s, all unchanged to about 1-4 higher. In numerous instances the rail market showed thinness. Baltimore & Ohio Gold 4s lost yesterday's one point gain on a minor scale, Chicago & Northwestern general 3 1-2s sagged a point, Morris & Essex 5s rose one, and Atlantic Coast Line first 4s advanced 3 5-8, also on unimportant transactions.

International Telephone 4 1-2s, rising to the new 1930 high of 127 1-4, Ametrican I. G. Chemical 5 1-2s touching 108 1-2, also a year's top, and Remington Rand 5 1-2s, with warrants, were among the few stock option bonds that finished the day in higher ground. American Telephone 4 1-2s, trading in a 5 point range, closed fractionally lower. Amusements bonds lost their speculative following and eased from one to three points.

Foreign obligations of both government and corporation descriptions were firm throughout most of the day, but developed slight irregularity toward the close. Berlin City Electric 6 1-2s, Deutsche Bank 6s and Bremen State 7s rose 3-4 to 1 1-2. Oriental Development 5 1-2s lost a point, Montevideo City 6s made a new high at 96 1-4. Kreuger & Toll 5s eased.

A Canadian syndicate was awarded a $4,250,000 province of New Brunswick loan in 4 3-4s. The bid was 97.351.

MONEY

NEW YORK, April 11—(AP)—Call money firmer; four per cent all day, time loans firmer; 30-60 days 4; 90-120 days 4 1-4; 5-6 months 4 1-4 at 4 1-2. Prime commercial commercial paper 3 3-4 at 4. Bankers' acceptances unchanged.

Treasury Balance

WASHINGTON, April 11—(AP)—Treasury receipts for April 9 were $5,826,966.91; expenditures $35,357,509.35; balance $296,370,033.63.

SEN. BINGHAM OPPOSES IMMIGRATION RESTRICTIONS

WASHINGTON, April 11—(AP)—Proposals to place immigration restrictions on the Central and South American countries and on the Philippines held the attention today of the senate and a house committee.

After a day of argument, the senate failed to reach a vote on the bill by Senator Harris, democrat, Georgia, to apply the quota limitations now imposed upon European countries to the nations of Central and South America.

The war department voiced its protest against the Welch bill restricting Philippine immigration.

Meanwhile, the senate territories committee awaited the return of Secretaries Stimson and Adams from the London naval parley to get their views on pending legislation for Philippine independence.

In the senate, Senator Bingham voiced objection to the Harris bill on the ground that it would not "affect our labor problem one millionth of one per cent," and that its only result with respect to 18 South American republics would be to produce "hard feelings."

RUMOR THAT UNTERMYER RECEIVED $1,000,000 AS FEE

NEW YORK, April 11—(AP)—Commenting upon reports that his father, Samuel Untermyer, had received $1,000,000 as his fee for acting as counsel for William Fox in the litigation over control and financing of the Fox Film and Theatre corporations, Alvin Untermyer today said: "We never discuss our fees, so one guess is as good as another."

"The work is still unfinished and no bill has yet been rendered," he said. Samuel Untermyer is in Atlantic City for the week end.

"I admire determination in a man, don't you?"

"That depends. If it brings success, I praise it as splendid perseverance; if failure, I denounce it as confounded obstinacy."—Boston Transcript.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOM

JUNIOR AMERICAN MECHANICS

Buckingham council, No. 14, held its regular meeting Wednesday evening, Councilor Jerry Angell presiding. The business of the evening was put through in the regular routine. There was a delegation from Stonington council, No. 5, bringing with them two harmonica soloists who furnished the council with plenty of harmony.

Vice-Councilor Walter F. Krohn won the 60-day membership drive and was presented with a box of cigars donated to the cause by Bro. Earnest F. Whitte.

The meeting was closed with an unusually large attendance. Degree work will be given on the last Wednesday of April.

WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS

The regular meeting of Sedgwick Woman's Relief corps, No. 16, was held in Buckingham Memorial Friday afternoon with the president, Mrs. Iola Bjurstrom, in the chair. Ten members signified their intention of accepting the invitation of Williams corps of Mystic on April 15. It was voted to give the usual amount to the convention fund.

Patriotic Instructor Mrs. Grace Fowler gave instructions on the proper display of the American flag on all occasions. The meeting closed with the salute to the flag.

LADIES AUXILIARY, A. O. H.

The regular meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary, A. O. H., No. 54, was held Wednesday evening with the vice president, Mrs. Julia Breen, presiding, in the absence of the president, who was ill.

About 15 tables were played at the recent whist and pinochle of which Mrs. Annie Brooks was chairman. The winners of the whist prizes were Mrs. Nellie O'Neil and Miss I. Shelly, Edward Sullivan and John Magner. The prizes at pinochle were taken by Mrs. Julia Breen, 8660, Miss Margaret Shelly, 8000, James Kane, 8930 and Francis Connell, 8840. The pinochle was in charge of Miss Mary Fallen and Miss Catherine Sullivan. The scorers for whist were Miss Nellie Nagle and Miss Margaret Dwyer.

FORESTERS OF AMERICA

Details pertaining to Past Chief Rangers night claimed the attention of the members at the regular meeting of Court City of Norwich, No. 63, Foresters of America, presided over by Chief Ranger M. J. Duggan.

Communications have been received from Supreme Chief Ranger John J. Mack and Grand Chief Ranger P. J. Cooke that both will be in attendance as well as the majority of the officers of the grand court. Invitations have been extended to all of the courts in eastern Connecticut to send delegations as this will be the only official visitation of the supreme chief ranger in this part of the state.

On this night all of the officers will be past chief rangers and in their honor the charter has been opened to candidates between the ages of 18 and 45 years. A class of 15 candidates is now ready and it is expected that this number will be materially increased before April 22nd, the date of this honor class.

Routine and convention matters were discussed and after the meeting the degree team met for weekly practice.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

John Barry assembly, fourth degree, Knights of Columbus, of New Haven, has been honored by being named host of the coming state exemplification of the fourth degree, which is to be held Sunday, May 25. The degree will be exemplified in Moose hall, which is in the center of New Haven. Following the degree, there will be a parade through the principal streets. The parade will terminate at the Hotel Taft, where a banquet will be held for the new and old members. There will be three well known speakers, the names to be announced later. The committee in charge of local arrangements is headed by Arthur T. Gilhuly, general chairman.

PYTHIAN SISTERS

Clover temple, No. 8, held its regular meeting Monday evening in the Buckingham Memorial with the most excellent chief, Mildred Wilson, in the chair. Reports were read and accepted. One sister was reported ill. It was voted to hold a card party in the near future. Past Chief Charlotte Fowler received the mystery package and after the meeting a musical program was enjoyed by all.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

In response to the demand for a state-wide gathering of all the representatives of the local rural road improvement associations of the various towns in the state, L. G. Tolles, master of the state grange has issued a call for such a meeting in Hartford April 25, at 11 a. m., at the capitol in the house of representatives chamber, for the purpose of perfecting a state-wide organization.

In the call, Master Tolles says:

"It is most important that the chairman of every local rural road organization be present together with as many others as possible who are interested in the betterment of rural roads. If you have not already perfected your local organization will you please do so at your earliest convenience so that no time may be lost in forwarding this movement. From the sentiment expressed in all parts of the state it is apparent that there is a very keen interest in the rural road problem and it is expected that this meeting will be of such a nature as to bring together a very large attendance. We want you all, Grange Masters members and those who are not, from all corners of the state, come, bring your car full, join the greatest movement for better rural roads that has ever been launched in Connecticut."

MOOSEHEART LEGION

Women of Mooseheart Legion, No. 124, held their regular meeting Thursday evening in Moose Home with Senior Regent Margaret Comire presiding.

After the meeting a surprise party was held in honor of the birthday of the senior regent, Margaret Comire, and Recorder Nellie Dorr. A delicious supper was prepared and served by the five active past regents, namely, Emma Beaven, Rose Carter, Mary Hunter, Ethel Healey and Teresa Watters. Covers were laid for 20. The tables were very prettily decorated in yellow and white. At each place were yellow snap bon-bons containing caps and fortunes, which when read aloud caused much merriment. Janquils filled with tiny Easter eggs were favors for each one and with yellow candles made a very pleasing sight.

A beautifully decorated birthday cake was made and presented to the senior regent and recorder by Chaplain Irene Burns, who also asked the blessing. The menu was as follows: Potato salad, boiled ham, pickles, rolls, fancy cookies and coffee.

On behalf of the members, Past Regent Teresa Watters presented the senior regent and recorder each a beautiful tapestry bag.

The degree team is to meet Tuesday night in Moose Home for drill at 7:45, sharp.

COMPANIONS OF THE FOREST

Nevins-Carver circle, No. 1230, held its regular meeting Monday evening in Foresters hall with Chief Companion Nellie Dorr presiding. A whist and pinochle held in Foresters hall Friday evening by Nevins-Carver circle was very successful. The winners were as follows: On whist, ladies' first, Mrs. Richards, house dress, donated by Mrs. Rose Kennedy; second, Mrs. Mary Lasch, set of mixing bowls, donated by Mrs. Nellie Dorr; gentlemen's first, Harry Collins, belt, donated by Mrs. Ruth Holmes; second, Charles Lasch, socks, donated by Mrs. Flora Gilchrist.

On pinochle, ladies' first, Mrs. King, 7,370, bath mat, donated by Mrs. Marion Bjork; second, Mrs. Irene Burns, 7,260, set of bowls, donated by Mrs. Nellie Dorr; gentlemen's first, George Lawless, belt, donated by Mrs. Margaret Comire; second, Mrs. J. Duggan, socks. The committee in charge was: Chairman, Mrs. Helen Ericson; Nellie Dorr, Teresa Watters, Irene Burns. Scorer for the evening, Miss Mildred Healey.

FIVE ENUMERATORS BACK OUT IN CENSUS JOB

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, April 11.—Although there was a wide scramble for the post of census enumerators when the time drew near for the enumeration of New London residents, the task has proven undesirable, and as a result five of the original enumerators have tendered their resignations to Assistant Superintendent Benjamin L. Mull of Mystic. Those who refuse to longer perform the work are Benjamin H. Lee, Robert McKelvie, Robert L. Tate, Robert D. Gorton and Joseph Smithline. The resignations have caused a delay in the taking of the census and Superintendent Mull announced today that no further resignations would be accepted unless the enumerators could advance a legitimate excuse for no further performance of the work.

A New London-Norwich trolley car struck a truck of John H. Ross on Main street yesterday afternoon, but the damage was of little consequence.

Mrs. Emanuel A. Henkle of Ocean avenue is spending a few days in New York.

Caryl Griswold of Poquonoc road, Groton, is at Daytona, Fla., where he will remain several weeks.

James F. O'Leary, proprietor of O'Leary's hotel, who has been confined to his apartment at the hotel for several days, ill with grip, is on the road to recovery.

CROOKS IN NEW LONDON SWINDLE GROTON CLERGYMAN OUT OF $11,000

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, April 11.—The state police of Groton barracks are on the trail of swindlers who managed to obtain $11,600 from a retired clergyman in Groton. The money represented the savings of a life-time, for clergymen are not paid the salaries that other professional men receive. The name of the clergyman is not given out and will not be, until such time as all the swindlers are in custody. Three of them are now in the grasp of the law and others probably will be in a few days. The state police are working with the American Bond & Mortgage Co. in trying to run down the swindlers. The men in custody give the names of George F. Williams, a youth of 22; Prentice Brown, who says he is 48, and William Sagar, also under 30. The securities sold were those representing to be of the Page & Shaw Co., Boston candy manufacturers. The clergyman accepted the statements made to him as being true and parted with his money. He has been shown photos of several alleged crooks by the state police and has identified one of the men as a fellow who called upon him and with whom he dealt. The crooks registered at a local hotel and there made liberal use of the telephone to make appointments. Where they could not induce a "prospect" to call at the hotel, the crooks went to the homes or places of business of the intended victims and endeavored to consummate a sale. Two pounds of candy, Page & Shaw chocolates, were given as a bait to induce the "suckers" to bite. The swindlers traveled in pairs so that they might have corroborating evidence of what was said and done. A dividend was promised to the buyer of the stock and it was paid in postage stamps. One buyer in New London, who has the stock sold to him, was notified that a dividend awaited him and would be paid any time the stockholder would call at a given address in Boston. The stockholder never called for the dividend. How the swindlers became possessed of the certificates of stock of the Page & Shaw Co. has not been disclosed. The fellow who called on people here is understood to have given the name of Sager, or a name similar to it.

MICHAEL SULLIVAN STRUCK BY HEAVY TIMBER END

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, April 11.—Michael Sullivan, 35, employed as laborer by the F. H. & A. H. Chappell Coal Co., and residing at 71 Blackhall street, was painfully injured this afternoon and he is now a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, suffering from an abdominal injury, the exact extent of which has not been determined and will not be for a day or two. Sullivan was in a gang of workers unloading a freight car of lumber. It was desired to move the car and a timber was placed against the car while the other end was placed against the head-end of a five-ton truck. When the truck was started the timber snapped and one section of it struck Sullivan in the abdomen. He was rendered unconscious and was rushed to the hospital. At the institution tonight it was said that the injured man's condition was as comfortable as could be expected.

Groton Borough Ticket

The citizens' party caucus of the borough of Groton, held last night in the district hall, was attended by a large number of voters. The call was read by Giacomo Andriola. Herbert F. White was elected chairman and Irving H. Poppe was the choice for secretary. James P. Gillogly introduced a resolution calling for the nomination of the present warden and board of burgesses on one ballot. Charles H. Willard objected to this procedure and nominated C. Tyler Lanphere for the office of warden. Mr. Gillogly then nominated George R. Hempstead, present holder of the office. George Coe, George Clark and Clarence Fogg were elected tellers. The ballot resulted in Mr. Hempstead being nominated, for he received 66 votes against 12 for Mr. Lanphere. The clerk was instructed to cast one ballot for George Marquardt, Horace Newbury, J. Albert Thompson, William A. Clinton, S. W. Welt and A. A. Greenleaf for the office of burgess and the names as offered were nominated. The same procedure was followed in nominating Milton M. Baker for treasurer and Leo W. Brogan for clerk. A caucus committee, H. P. White, R. Orlandi and A. E. Joel, was selected and empowered to fill any vacancy that may arise. The annual borough election will be held Monday, May 5.

PAIR IN MYSTIC THEATRE CRASH PROVE GOOD CATCH

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, April 11.—The state police have in custody a man who is much wanted for a series of robberies. With him is a woman, but not much is known of the latter. The man, George E. Reynolds, 44, alias George Fletcher, alias William J. Shelby, [Liv]erpool, Eng., and Washington, D. C., [i]s charged with being a fugitive from justice and this afternoon in the Stonington town court at a special session Reynolds was held in $15,000 bail pending the issuance of extradition papers that will insure Reynolds' return to Washington. He is also wanted in California and Colorado.

The arrest of Reynolds and the woman, Mrs. H. K. Craig, 49, of Sayre, Pa., was the result of an unlucky experience of the man and woman. They were enroute from Boston to Miami, Fla., Wednesday night, and in passing through Mystic the automobile, which was being driven by the woman, crashed through the entrance of the Strand theatre. State Police Officer William Elmer MacKenzie was assigned to investigate the accident and could find no act of violation of the state motor vehicle law having been committed. The actions of Reynolds, however, who was polite and suave in the extreme, aroused MacKenzie's suspicion that the man and woman, one or both, had been implicated in some crime. Reynolds and Mrs. Craig were escorted to the Hotel Mohican for the night and the following day Reynolds informed the officer that the former would go to the state police barracks and make out a report of the accident. Believing that Reynolds and the woman would slip from the city Thursday, the officer requested the hotel clerk to notify him in the event that the couple checked out. This is exactly what happened and MacKenzie, being informed that Reynolds and the woman had left the hotel, the officer hastened to New London and found Reynolds and Mrs. Craig on State street. When Reynolds and Mrs. Craig entered an automobile, MacKenzie followed to a point in Waterford, where the driver was held up. He said he had been requested to assist Reynolds and the woman to reach New York. The trip was interrupted for Reynolds and his companion were escorted to the state police barracks. Among the effects of Reynolds was found a bank book issued by a Washington bank in the name of William J. Shelby. A telegram was sent to the bank for the purpose of making inquiry as to the depositor's business and a reply brought the information that Shelby was a much wanted man. Later the Washington police notified Sergeant George Webber that Shelby was wanted on a charge of grand larceny, requesting that the prisoner be held. Developments revealed that Reynolds was wanted in other cities. Reynolds is an ex-service man, but so far as could be determined, he was never stationed in New London.

Intends To Collect Taxes

Tax Collector Hull Manwaring is soon to start a drive on the collection of back taxes. At present about $99,000 back taxes are due the city. A considerable amount of this sum is uncollectable at present because of legal and other entanglements, but so much of the taxes as can be collected will be secured by process of law. Collector Manwaring has not made a drive on delinquent taxpayers since he succeeded Hibbard N. Alexander in office.

SPROW, KNIFE WIELDER, UNABLE TO SECURE BAIL

Edward Sprow, Negro, with a long police record, was in the police court this morning, charged with felonious assault. Probable cause was found and Sprow was held for trial at the next term of the superior court. In default of a surety on his bond, Sprow was remanded to jail.

Sprow went to the restaurant of George Tashash, Main street, last night and purchased a meal, but when he finished eating, the Negro refused to pay for it. Sprow's act aroused the ire of the restaurant proprietor and a quarrel resulted. During the brawl, Sprow seized a knife and attacked Tashash, inflicting an ugly wound on the upper lip, which required two stitches to close. Sprow was arrested by Patrolman Dennis Murphy.

A. M. E. ZION CHURCH SOLD FOR FILLING STATION SITE

Another gasoline filling station is to be erected in New London. Today two pieces of realty, one of them a church, were sold to the Beacon Oil Co. Inc., of Boston. One of the properties is the A. M. E. Zion church, Bank street, the property being sold through the church trustees, William P. Frost, Lemuel Payne, Cyril A. Hamilton, William W. Connover, Wayman Allison and John A. Lomba, of this city, and Thomas H. Rose, of Waterford. Property adjoining the church property at the corner of Bank street and Ocean avenue was also sold to the oil company by Charles H. Williams and David N. Alter. The oil company will start immediately razing the properties which adjoin and the work completed, will have a mammoth station erected so that it can be ready to do business early in the summer.

The mother of Florence Main, 19, of 27 Ruskin road, Mattapan, Mass., who was arrested in New London early yesterday by Automobile Patrol Officer Augustus Ray, charged with being a runaway, came to New London this afternoon and took charge of the wayward girl, returning to Mattapan with her at 4:10 o'clock.

The Washington express that passed through New London this morning at 11:40, en route from Boston, was operated in two sections in order to accommodate delegates to the annual Woman's Relief corps convention that will open in Washington tomorrow.

Miss Sybil Elion, 85 Thames street; Mrs. Eugene Marker and infant daughter, Quaker Hill; Mrs. Russell H. Corcoran and infant son, 126 Squire street; Miss Aime Jackson, Gardner avenue; Mrs. Fredericka Brown, 21 Hempstead street; John Pierson, 21 High street; Harold White, 21 Hill street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Ray T. Pugh has filed a trade name certificate of the Trinity Fine Art company at the office of the city clerk. The company will deal in portraits and frames.

JOSEPH C. ELY DIES SUDDENLY AT OLD LYME

Joseph C. Ely, 75, prominent farmer, died yesterday afternoon at his residence at Laysville, Old Lyme. Death was sudden and was caused by a weakened condition of the heart, aggravated by an attack of grip. He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. S. G. Brown and Mrs. Harold Friars and by two sons, Edwin and Samuel Ely. Mr. Ely was born in Baltimore, Md., and when a youth moved to Old Lyme where he resided with his uncle, William N. Ely and continued his residence in that township until his death. Mr. Ely suffered a severe cold a fortnight ago and grip resulted. While seated in a chair yesterday afternoon and when it was believed he was well on the road to recovery, Mr. Ely suffered the heart attack and expired almost immediately.

ABOUT 600 C. G. OFFICERS AND MEN TO LEAVE BASE

The exit of the 600 officers and members of the United States Coast Guard from the local base to Boston and New York, which was ordered a week ago, has not started, but will begin within a few days. With the departure of the personnel of 600 men, there will still remain at the state pier 1,200 officers and men. When the transfer has been completed, but two destroyers will be stationed at the state pier.

Patrolman Edward Riordan is absent from duty by illness, not believed to be of a serious nature.

CLAIM ROBERT BURCHARD VIOLATED AUTO LAW

Robert Burchard, Montville, was arrested today charged with driving while under the influence of liquor and will be given a hearing in Waterford town court next Monday. Burchard was driving his automobile on the New London-Norwich highway last Wednesday night and a short distance north of Gallows lane the car collided with a machine driven by Albert Smith, 47 Dell avenue, New London, which was proceeding in the opposite direction. Both cars were damaged. State Police Officer Donald Brown investigated the accident and decided that Burchard was intoxicated. Burchard sustained serious injuries about a year ago when he was a passenger in an automobile that collided with a trolley car and a parked auto on Bank street. At the time, Burchard was a patient at Lawrence Memorial hospital for several weeks and for a week it was not thought that he would recover.

NORWICH MAN BNYS STOCK AT HAT SHOP AUCTION

The bankrupt stock of Jack's Hat shop, Bank street, was sold today by United States District Court Auctioneer Blakeslee, of New Haven, to Louis Pollock of Norwich and Louis Itzkowits, of this city. The price paid was $1660. The sale was consummated within five minutes after it started. All of the stock and fixtures excepting a cash register, were included in the sale.

At the annual meeting of Quaker Hill fire department Thursday evening the election resulted as follows: Foreman, Thomas B. Woodworth; first assistant foreman, Benjamin Hoy; second assistant foreman, Thomas Turner; recording secretary, Guy Putnam; financial secretary, Henry W. Churchhill; treasurer, Roger Bullard; trustee for three years, William Henderson; steward, Walter Scott. Executive committee, Frederick Schofield, M. Lawrence Eldredge, William Kent, Sterry A. Weaver and Theodore Pearson.

Inquiry into the campaign expenditures of senatorial candidates in this year's contests was virtually assured yesterday when the senate election committee unanimously reported to the senate the Norris investigation resolution.

GREENEVILLE

PUTNAM PREACHER FOR LENTEN SERVICES

The regular Lenten services were held Friday evening at St. Andrew's Episcopal church. The services were conducted by the rector, Rev. E. J. Norris. The musical program was in charge of Mrs. Charles Erwin. The special Lenten speaker was Rev. E. P. Wright, of St. Phillip's church, Putnam, who delivered a thoughtful sermon upon the parable of the prodigal son.

The Community Workers held their April meeting with Miss Ellen Hayes, of Fourth street, when the reports of the secretary and the work supervisor were made and another quilt pieced and made ready to tie. A social hour was spent after which Miss Hayes invited the ladies to the dining room where a delicious lunch was served, the hostess being assisted by Mrs. William Brown. Easter decorations and favors made attractive decorations for the dining room. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Charles F. Sears on Prospect street, which will be a May basket meeting and many shut-ins will be remembered.

The St. Mary's Memorial Girls' club met in the assembly hall of the church and regular business was transacted. Several new members were added. After the business meeting refreshments were served by the entertainment committee.

The Greeneville N. M. Sewing circle was entertained Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Harry Richmond on Boswell avenue. The usual work was accomplished and refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Harold Wickham and Mrs. Helgo Ericson. The dining room was decorated in red and white. Easter lilies and potted flowers were also placed about the room. The class will be entertained next Thursday evening by Mrs. William Day on Boswell avenue.

TAFTVILLE

It has been announced that at the next meeting of the Men's club of the Taftville Congregational church, which is to be held on April 25th, the speaker is to be Rev. Kenneth Gestnor of Waltham, Mass., who is to speak on "Travels Abroad." The members are to enjoy a supper, the committee in charge being President Albert Airey, Robert E. Cooper, Allan Bogle, Adam Heinrich, Albert J. Aberg, Gustave Hedler and Robert B. Schmidt.

Miss Catherine Fontaine of the Willimantic State Normal school arrived Friday to spend a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Fontaine and family of upper Merchants avenue.

At Sacred Heart church Friday evening the Lenten devotions consisted of Stations of the Cross and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

The members of the Overseers and Foremen's club held an oyster supper at their rooms in the Ponemah Community building Friday evening. The affair was under the direction of the house committee, George N. Beardow, John F. Greene, Robert E. Cooper, Alfred Linderson and Christopher Troeger.

Mrs. Thomas Perkins Sears entertained at a subscription bridge of ten tables Friday evening at her home on North Fifth avenue, for the benefit of the 8 and 40.

FUNERAL

Albert Germain

Funeral services for Albert Germain were held at his late home on South A street Friday morning at 8:30 o'clock followed by a high mass of requiem sung at Sacred Heart church by Rev. Omer T. Mandler at 9 o'clock. There was a large attendance and there were many beautiful floral forms. The bearers were Gerard Lamothe, Armand Fontaine, Narcisse Cadorette Albert Lebreque, Paul Frechette and Edward Plante. Burial was in the Sacred Heart cemetery on the Old Canterbury turnpike, where Rev. Mr. Mandler read the committal prayers. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker George G. Grant.

REGION CHIEF COMPLIMENTS NORWICH ON DELEGATION

The delegation of Boy Scout representatives from Norwich who attended the council training sessions held in Springfield, Thursday afternoon and the annual regional banquet Thursday night made a favorable impression upon the conference according to Scout Executive Sellman, who was told by the regional chief to convey his appreciation to the men of Norwich for the fine turn out. Led by Cheer Leader John Richardson, chairman of the Norwich chamber of commerce, the Norwich group rose and gave a cheer for "The Rose of New England," while over 500 men from all over New England listened. Edwin W. Jewett and Arthur L. Peale, chairmen of the "On To Springfield" group were responsible for the delegation. Those who went were: Ex-Mayor H. M. Lerou, Harry F. Powers, Charles Colt, C. B. Gilbert, Mr. Jewett, F. Russell Smith, Earl Taggart, John Richardson, Walter Weidman, Jean Keiffer, John Boldrigihini, of Norwich and Dr. Bean and Mr. Sewanda of Stafford Springs, a part of this council.

Both Mortimer Schiff and Dr. George J. Fisher gave inspiring addresses and the men returned well pleased with the conference. Of particular interest were the afternoon training group sessions where council president met with council president and commissioner met with commissioner. There were 13 of these conferences in all.

At the court of honor session Scout on the "Scout Advancement Scheme—Executive Sellman presented a paper Why And How It Works." Mr. Sellman's paper was well received and in addition 50 copies being distributed at the meeting he was asked to send 25 copies to the regional office in Boston for further distribution to court of honor chairmen who were not at the meeting.

One of the large groups at the meeting was the delegation from New London totalling 28 council members and scoutmasters. The men who attended the meeting were so enthusiastic and saw so many values growing out of more council participations, that the group next year plans to try to have 30 men attend from Norwich.

NORWICH TOWN

LATE MRS. C. L. STRONG FORMER LOCAL RESIDENT

Norwich Town friends were saddened upon learning of the death Friday of Mrs Charles L. Strong of Colchester. Mrs. Strong was twice married. Her first husband, William Palmer, has several relatives residing in Norwich, among them Mrs. Charles R. Butts and Miss Minnie L. Palmer, of Washington street. Mrs. Strong, before her marriage was Ella Crandall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Crandall of Colchester. As a young woman in her native town of Colchester, she taught school for a number of years. She was a member of Colchester Congregational church and for a lengthy period was president of the Ladies' Aid society, being associated with Mrs. George A. Peck of Norwich Town, then a resident of Colchester, who served as vice-president. About ten years ago she was united in marriage with Charles L. Strong, also a resident of Colchester, who survives her. There also is a cousin, Mrs. Nellie Reed Thomas, of Meriden. From July 1, 1922, to July 1, 1923, Mr. and Mrs. Strong occupied the lower apartment in Dr. Charles H. Lamb's residence at 15 Town street; Norwich Town. They attended the First Congregational church. When leaving Norwich Town in the summer of 1923, Mr. and Mrs. Strong purchased a fine home on Haywood avenue, Colchester, where their hospitality was extended to their friends at all times. Mrs. Strong had not been in good health for a number of months. She was a true Christian woman, loyal friend and kind neighbor. Mrs. Strong's step-son is Stanley Strong, one of the executives in the office of a big railroad company in Washington, D. C., where he and his wife reside. Mrs. Belle Worthington of Norwich is a step-sister by Mrs. Strong's first marriage and her daughter, Mrs. George Miner of Norwich, is a niece.

Delay Census Taker

During the past week, the census takers for Norwich Town have been at work in various sections. Theodule Snow of Taftville, who was assigned to a part of the Norwich Town district, has completed his canvass of East Town and West Town streets. Mr. Snow, who is now to canvass Scotland road and many of the outlying sections of the town, has made the suggestion that residents be in readiness for him when he calls and giving their answers promptly to save time. A call is often made at a house when no one is at home, therefore it compels the census taker to make a second call. This especially applies to those in the farming territory. In other cases, people have been approached who did not even understand the purpose of the caller. Assisting Mr. Snow in the Norwich Town section was a Mr. Jackson.

Crosley Peck, a student at Bryant-Stratton college, Providence, is to spend the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Peck.

NORWICH Y. M. C. A. MEN ORGANIZED FOR ONE-DAY FINANCIAL CAMPAIGN

The Young Men's Christian association's one-day campaign for $10,000 to meet the annual budget was set in motion Friday night with a supper at the association building at which the team workers took their assignments, prepared to put a lot of intensive effort into the time between now and Monday so that the entire campaign can be cleaned up when the reports are made at breakfast, luncheon and supper meetings Monday.

Judge Allyn L. Brown is campaign manager and 40 men are enlisted under him to put the drive across in one day.

At the supper hour Friday night, when the supper was provided and served by the women of the Central Baptist church, with ice cream contributed by Charles C. Treat, President H. B. Cary presided at the opening of the meeting and after spirited remarks turned the meeting over to Campaign Manager Brown. Judge Brown in turn called upon Rev. Alexander H. Abbott of the United Congregational church to address the workers.

Rev. Mr. Abbott spoke earnestly and enthusiastically of the value of the work and influence which the "Y" exerts in the community and mentioned that his brother is president of the Boston Y. M. C. A., which put on a campaign for $146,000 with 300 men on the teams. The speaker contrasted the Norwich campaign for $10,000 with 40 campaign workers and said that this was not merely a matter of raising the money but an opportunity to do an important service for the work of the Y. M. C. A. here. This work he said was of a character that interferes with the work of no other organization, but is a substantial contribution to better things in the community in the lines of character formation. At the present time, he said, when there are so many inbuences pulling the other way, this is an opportune time to help this work and there is no better time than this to make an investment to preserve the moral tone of the community.

He urged the team members to approach the work with confidence in the cause and the enthusiasm that will crown their efforts with success on Monday.

The first reports will be made at a breakfast at 8:15 on Monday morning, there will be further reports at the luncheon at 12:15 and the final at supper at 6 o'clock.

The campaign team formation is as follows:

Team A—James L. Case, captain; W. G. Park, Judge Brown, Philip A. Johnson, S. B. Palmer, Edwin Hill.

Team B—H. B. Cary, captain; W. F. Lester, Archibald Mitchell, 4th, C. A. Saxton, E. O. Rodier, H. M. Lerou, Earle W. Stamm, H. D. Larrabee, C. M. Gallup.

Team C—Henry S. Lyon, captain; F. L. Arnold, C. E. Carpenter, C. E. Taylor, E. W. Jewett, B. H. Palmer, Jr., F. Russell Smith, A. G. Bliven.

Team D—H. D. Johnson, captain; W. S. Williams, H. E. Robbins, C. Edward Smith, W. C. Pullen, W. E. Gilbert, J. M. Swahn, A. L. Peale, C. W. Taggart, C. S. Eaton, E. A. Prentice.

Team E—E. A. Smith, captain; J. H. Demarest, E. Y. Messinger, J. H. Evans, B. C. Pullen, C. I. Smith, W. M. Wyman, J. L. Sellman, J. H. Barnes, R. W. Whaples, E. L. Duff, Willard Haugh, W. N. Block, J. H. Bell, Carl Berkoff, M. C. Leith, V. O. Tongren, E. B. Taylor, E. I. Browning, L. Goffe Briggs.

Team F—N. Eugene Smith, captain; E. H. Davis, H. H. Pettis, W. Forschler, J. H. Perkins, Theo. Sage, Fred J. Maples, E. G. Taggart, W. S. Spencer, Clarence Sholes, Harry Kromer, E. Learned, Jr., Frank Skinner, W. P. Hill, Edwin Hill, J. W. Jackson, George Phillips, J. N. Carlevale.

SPOKE IN SIXTH OF Y. M. C. A. LENTEN SERIES

A fine group of business men attended the sixth in the noon Lenten series by Dr. J. Romeyn Danforth at the Norwich Y. M. C. A. Friday. After luncheon the service was called to order by Edmund A. Prentice who presided. The opening hymn was "I Need Thee Every Hour," after which Rev. Joseph Cooper of Trinity Methodist church offered a most fervent prayer. The topic of the address was "Tho Beggars", and Dr. Danforth spoke in part as follows:

"We speak sometimes of 'business and professional men.' Schools of experience and professional schools have prepared them. And nobody knows how many kinds there are on either side. But we also speak of 'professional beggars', and they are legion. It is said that in Egypt and Palestine the babies are born with their fingers bent to hold coin, and that their first word is backsheesh, the sign and the word of a beggar.

"The physical handicap is the asset of the mendicant. They are economic parasites, and their appeal is to the charity and superstitution of all who pass by. We know the breed here in our own towns. The tramp at your kitchen door. The man who is always looking for work and carefully failing to find it. The man who wants his fare paid to another town, and probably some dweller in another town has paid his fare to yours. We know them.

"Christ knew them too. When he found anyone overburdened with money he advised giving that money to the poor. And He told us we would have the poor always with us. And we do. But He himself did more and better than that. He laid the foundation for our modern charity which finds the cause of the trouble and removes it.

"One man begged because he was blind. He opened His eyes and then the man could work. Others were lame and He healed them. Those lepers who were the outcasts of disease, He restored to health and to society. Our modern miracles follow the same line, restoring the unfit to power, to self-respect and to society. When that is beyond our power there is the care of an institution as a last resort.

"With those who were willing to accept His help, Christ never failed. And to each one He brought a larger life. He opened up new realms of power and experience to them. Into their spirits He poured his own. His boundless personality touched their limitations. The beggars became givers. The lumps of unclean flesh became real men. For Christ came that we might have life and have it more abundantly. To the poor prisoners of circumstance he opened the wide doors of life."

The closing hymn was "Jesus Lover of My Soul," and Dr. Danforth pronounced the benediction.

Next Friday the closing talk of the series will be given, and the topic will be "Kings."

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA HAS CONCERT COMMITTEES NAMED

After the rehearsal on Thursday at the Arcanum club rooms, the Norwich Symphony orchestra held a meeting and decided that the spring concert of the symphony shall be held during May. The members of the symphony were highly elated by the announcement made by Dr. Frank Drago that Henry La Fontaine will be the soloist at the concert. There was a unanimous belief that the popularity and following of Mr. La Fontaine will greatly contribute to the success of the concert.

At a recent meeting of the orchestra a complete working organization had been formed with committees to carry out the project of the coming concert. Walter W. Lang was made chairman pro. tem. Dr. Frank Drago, chairman of concert committee, assisted by George Helmboldt, Tyler Gilbert, Arthur McNamara, and Theodore Sterry. Richard Kyle was selected chairman of the membership committee, assisted by John M. Swahn, Guy Webb, William Malone, and Edgar Tanguay.

The orchestra committees and likewise the entire organization are very earnestly striving with unbounded enthusiasm to give to Norwich music lovers a concert which will be appreciated and remembered.

The orchestra rehearsals have been conducted every Thursday evening since the concert held last December, and the organization has made splendid progress as a result of their enthusiastic devotion to the idea of having a symphony orchestra composed of musicians residing in Norwich and vicinity.

Will Meet In Hanover

The executive committee of the Norwich Christian Endeavor Union is to hold its next meeting at the church in Hanover on Monday evening.

MISSION CIRCLE HAD PROGRAMME ON CHINA

The Missionary circle of the First Baptist church met with Mrs. Frank Tyler on Tuesday afternoon of this week. The vice president, Mrs. Louis A. Wheeler, opened the meeting with reading the Scripture and prayer. After the business part of the meeting was concluded, Miss Janet Cowan sang a solo, which was well received, her mother accompanying at the piano. Mrs. Tyler had charge of the programme for the afternoon, the subject being China.

Mrs. Herbert Willey read a paper on A New Day For The Women Of China. Mrs. Larue Bliven read Chinese Work in San Francisco. The remainder of the programme was literature from the Chinese mission in Boston, the only Chinese mission in New England, and was read by Miss Katie Willey, Mrs. Louis Wheeler, Mrs. Demarest and Mrs. Cowan. Mrs. Beebe read two short poems, "Not what we gain but what we give measures the worth of the life we live." A collection was taken, the meeting closing with the Mizpah benediction.

CHRISTOPHER THURBER'S NEAR EAST RELIEF WORK PRAISED

The work of three former residents of Connecticut has been commended in the annual report of Near East Relief recently submitted to congress. Those so commended are Joseph W. Beach of Southington, manager of the work in the four Caucasian republics of Armenia, Georgia, Azerbaijan and Abkasia; Miss Janet McKay of New Haven, director of child welfare among 22,000 orphans outplaced in Transcaucasia, and Christopher C. Thurber, formerly of this city, managing director in Greece.

Mr. Thurber's work in Athens is described in the report as an "outstanding demonstration of social service." Mr. Thurber was an orphanage director in Turkey during the deportations, where in addition to his responsibility for thousands of children he had many exciting and distressing experiences, including suffering the tortures of the bastinado. Later, in Constantinople, he was in charge of relief work among 10,000 refugees herded in the Selemeh barracks, where Florence Nightingale once nursed the wounded victims of the Crimean war. Here he conducted his work from a wheel chair while suffering from typhus in company with most of his charges. For seven years he has assisted in the liquidation of some 18,000 children from the orphanages of Near East elief in Greece and helped them in their adjustment to home and industrial life outside of the institutions. He has charge of eight working boys' and girls' homes and night schools, training for the deaf and blind, a vocational school on the island of Syra and social welfare in the refugee camps of Athens.

ZAREMBA UNDER BONDS ON MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

Following the death of Dennis J. Sullivan, 56, at the W. W. Backus hospital, early Friday morning, Stanley Zaremba of No. 3 Yerrington avenue, was held by the police on a charge of manslaughter. Pending the result of an investigation by Coroner Edward G. McKay, trial of the case was continued until April 24th and Zaremba was released on bonds of $2,500.

Mr. Sullivan was struck on West Thames street, near the school house, shortly after 7:30 o'clock Thursday night, by Zaremba's machine, and was taken to the hospital in the ambulance. It was not thought that his injuries were serious at the time. An examination at the time showed that he was suffering from lacerations of the scalp but death was caused by a fractured skull.

Mr. Zaremba swerved his machine sharply to the left in an effort to avoid hitting Mr. Sullivan, who it is said, walked into the path of the machine.

For some years Mr. Sullivan, who lived at 20 Geer avenue, had been employed as a teamster by the street department. He was born in Ireland, April 10, 1874, the son of John and Ellen Sullivan. He came to this country when a young man and located in this city. October 25, 1893, he was united in marriage with Ellen Mahoney at St. John's church in Fitchville. He was a devout member of St. Patrick's parish. Prior to entering the employ of the street department Mr. Sullivan was employed by the Norwich gas and electric department.

He is survived by a daughter, Loretta Sullivan, three brothers, Michael Sullivan of this city, Jeremiah Sullivan of West Warren, Mass., and Timothy Sullivan of Quincy, Mass., and two sisters, Mrs. Margaret Healy of Warren, Mass., and Mrs. James Stanton of Springfield, Mass. He was well known by many Norwich people who extend heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family in their sudden and great loss.

FINED FOR IMPEDING WATER STREET TRAFFIC

Found guilty of holding up traffic, Augustine Divoado, 20, local truck driver, was fined $10 and costs in the city court Friday morning. He was arrested Thursday afternoon for parking his truck in such a position on Water street that traffic was held up for nearly 10 minutes during his absence from the machine. A line of traffic reaching back as far as Washington square was held up.

Norwich Round Table Met

The regular meeting of the Norwich Round Table was held this week with Dr. and Mrs. C. Child Gildersleeve at their home, 29 Lincoln avenue. The paper, Our City Government, was read by Miss Mary A. C. Avery. Refreshments were served at intermission and the roll call, a patriotic quotation, closed an enjoyable meeting.

C. E. Union Orchestra Played

The Norwich Christian Endeavor Union orchestra of eight pieces furnished music at the lenten service at the Norwich Town chapel Thursday evening when Walter T. Clark of the New London County Farm Bureau gave a moving picture exhibition of methods for the control of the corn borer. Rev. Howard Bushnell of Goshen had a part in the devotional service of the evening.

DEBENTURE PLAN IN TARIFF BILL ASSAILED BY TILSON

Republican Leader of the House Asserted That the Plan Reflects Democratic Inconsistency In Tariff Matters—Declared That Should the Debenture Scheme Be Put Into Force By the U. S. Government Retaliatory Measures Unquestionably Would Be Taken By Foreign Governments.

WASHINGTON, April 13—(AP)—The debenture plan and the hide tariff were assailed by republicans today as a democratic conferee on the tariff bill raised the contention that the rates in the measure could not be expected to help agriculture.

Representative Tilson of Connecticut, the majority leader, said in a statement that support by the democrats of the debenture plan illustrated their "inconsistency in tariff matters." He characterized the proposal as a "wholly impractical and uneconomic scheme."

In a statement issued through the democratic national committee, Representative Collier of Mississippi, a minority house conferee, said the majority senate and house conferees had adopted the higher rates voted by both houses "in nearly every instance" and that the duties on articles farmers have to purchase were raised to a higher proportionate degree than those of agriculture.

Representative McFadden, republican, Pennsylvania, charged in a statement that a ten per cent levy on cattle hides would benefit only the big packers "who are able to provide themselves with an ample supply of cattle hides from their own meat operations without having to import them."

"The packer tanner would therefore be able to avoid any tariff placed upon cattle hides," the Pennsylvanian said, "on the other hand, hundreds of thousands of dollars would be added to the cost of the raw material used by the independent tanners if a 10 per cent duty were alone to be imposed."

Tilson said that the debenture plan "is a provision re-enacting the present law proposing either high tariff penalties or embargoes against imports from countries which undertake to do precisely what the democrats propose the American government shall do in the case of the major agricultural crops—export the surplus for sale abroad at any price under a direct subsidy from the federal treasury."

"Should the debenture scheme be put into force by the American government, retaliatory measures unquestionably would be taken by other governments with far reaching results to the American farmer as well as to general industry and commerce," Tilson said.

Representative Collier said that a careful analysis of the rates already agreed on by the conferees would show that in nearly every instance "where the senate had a rate higher than the house rate, the house receded and the high rate was adopted."

"On the other hand," the Mississippian continued, "in nearly every instance where the rate in the house was higher than that in the senate, the senate receded. To sum up, in nearly every instance the highest rate in both house and senate was adopted."

Tilson said that France recently undertook to carry out a plan similar to the debenture plan with respect to wheat and "every European country went on strike against that grain."

"American farm products exported under a government bounty would be subjected to a very high import tax in Austria, Belgium, Czecho-Slovakia, France, Poland, Portugal, Spain, Switzerland, Japan, Australia, New Zealand, the Union of South Africa and the Argentine," Tilson said, adding that this would nullify the subsidy given by the American government.

Declaring no other country importing hides in commercial quantities maintained a tariff on them and that American independent tanners were compelled to import large quantities from South America because the United States produced only from 30 to 40 per cent of the domestic requirements, Representative McFadden asserted:

"To take cattle hides from the free list, where they have been for many years, would therefore not only be economically wrong, but would be a serious political mistake."

JUSTIFIES RESENTMENT AGAINST 18TH AMENDMENT

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP)—Revolt against the eighteenth amendment "involves no disrespect to the constitution of the fathers," Representative Beck, republican, Pennsylvania, declared tonight at a celebration of the 187th birthday anniversary of Thomas Jefferson.

The former solicitor general of the United States and a prominent constitutional authority told an audience at Carnegie hall that the way to "escape from the intolerable conditions in which the country now finds itself" is to elect men to congress who would repeal the Volstead law. The amendment, he said, does not have to be enforced.

If the eighteenth amendment must remain in the constitution, it can, as a 'death's head' or memento mori, serve as a perpetual warning to future generations not to allow moral fanatics to tamper with that great and noble compact of government."

Beck said his purpose was to convince the audience that they could revolt against the amendment without disrespect to the constitution and added that in the spirit of Thomas Jefferson "we assert tonight that the eighteenth amendment is not only an affront to self-respecting Americans, but that it attempts to subject them, in their private lives, to a form of moral slavery that is unworthy of a free people."

For a decade, he said, the American people had been in revolt against the law, millions of them among the best citizens having refused to obey the dry act.

LONDON NAVAL CONFERENCE PRONOUNCED A SUCCESS

LONDON, April 13—(AP)—Broadcasting to America today, Colonel Henry L. Stimson, America's secretary of state and chief of the United States delegation to the naval conference, today proclaimed the success of the conference to his fellow countrymen.

The secretary outlined the moral and material advantages achieved by the five delegations, concluding with a special tribute to his own colleagues, Senator David A. Reed, Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams, Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow and Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson.

Of the work that the conference as a whole has accomplished, Mr. Stimson spoke with restrained enthusiasm. He still holds to the principle he announced at the first conference meeting, last January, that naval limitation is a continuous process, and disarmament a goal to be reached by successive steps, frequent revision and far-sighted improvement.

CLASH OF COMMUNISTS AND NATIONAL SOCIALISTS

BERLIN, April 13.—(AP)—Communists and national socialists clashed in Magdeburg this evening during a demonstration by the latter. Revolvers and stones were freely used by both sides, and there were several casualties.

Police who rushed to the scene got a hot welcome. They were received with revolver shots and retaliated with their own weapons. Several national socialists were arrested.

HEART ATTACK FATAL AT RELIGIOUS MEETING

NEW BRITAIN, April 13.—(AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Brown, 63, of 50 Main avenue, Hartford, was stricken with a heart attack and died at a religious meeting here today. She arrived here this morning and sold religious pamphlets, later going to a meeting of Bible students. She leaves a sister.

DECREE SIGNED FORMING NEW COLOMBIAN CABINET

BOGOTA, Colombia, April 13.—(AP)—After a series of conferences between Colombian political leaders and President Abadia Mendez today, a decree was signed forming a new cabinet.

The members are:

Minister of government—Alejandro Cazbal Pombo, conservative congressman.

Minister of foreign relations—Francisco Samper Madrid, liberal attorney.

Minister of finance—Eduardo Vallejo, antioquian capitalist.

Minister of war—General Morales Olaya, former soldier.

Minister of industries—Francisco Jose Chaux, liberal attorney.

Minister of education—Congressman Eliseo Arango.

Minister of communications—Ismael Enrique Arciniega, journalist.

Minister of public works—German Uribe Hoyos, engineer.

The new cabinet will meet tomorrow to seek a solution of the financial crisis. The executive secretary yesterday signed another decree conceding important exemptions in the railroad rates.

SOCIETY GIRL ELOPED WITH PLAYWRIGHT STURGES

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP)—Miss Eleanor P. Hutton, Park avenue society girl, and Preston Sturges, playwright, have eloped.

The wedding is believed to have taken place somewhere in Connecticut and the honeymoon couple today were said to be in New England but no other details were available.

The bride is 20 and was one of eight society women presented at the court of St. James' two years ago. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Hutton. Mr. Hutton today confirmed reports that the family had been opposed to the marriage.

Three Deaths Result Of Plane Accident

Man and Boy Were Killed By Electricity Following a Stream of Chemical Mixture.

YPSILANTI, Mich., April 13.—(AP)—Three persons died as the result of an airplane accident at Ypsilanti airport this afternoon. Only one w[as] in the plane.

Levi Keppler, 24, teller in the F[arm]ers and Mechanics bank of Ann [Ar]bor, Mich., was killed instantly a[s] the plane in which he and Leon Hanselmann, also of Ann Arbor, were riding struck a pole during an attempted landing. The plane became entangled in a high tension cable. It burst into flames as it struck the ground.

Harry Walters, a small boy, ran to the plane with a fire extinguisher and turned a stream of a chemical mixture on the fire. According to witnesses, an electric current followed the stream of liquid and killed the boy. An unidentified man attempted to lift the boy away from the wreck and also was killed instantly.

Hanselmann, who was piloting the plan, was only slightly injured.

LIPTON'S SHAMROCK V TO BE LAUNCHED TODAY

PORTSMOUTH, England, April 13.—(AP)—Starting another struggle to return America's cup to Great Britain, Sir Thomas Lipton's latest challenger for the historic international yachting trophy, Shamrock V, is to be launched tomorrow.

An impressive ceremony has been arranged for the launching. The Countess of Shaftesbury will christen the yacht as it slides down the ways. A military band will play during the ceremony and the mayor and corporation of Gosport, which adjoins Portsmouth, have arranged that the town be decorated and a gala day celebrated.

The newest Shamrock is the first British challenger for America's cup to be launched publicly and the event is creating the highest interest in this district. Crowds try daily to get a glimpse of the yacht as it lies in the building shed and a number of yachtsmen are coming to Gosport especially to see her take the water.

Harvard Man Jumped From Window to Death

Body of Dudley Davis Jr., Was [illegible]ound In Courtyard In [illegible] York By His F[illegible]

[illegible] YORK, April 13. —(AP)—The [illegible] Dudley Davis, Jr., 20-year-old [illegible]rd junior and member of a [illegible]hy New York family, was found [illegible] a. m. today beneath an open window o fhis parents' sixth floor Park avenue apartment. Although police in their first report did not list the death as a suicide, the youth's father, Major Dudley Davis, life insurance attorney, expressed the belief that the young man had taken his own life.

Davis' funeral will take place from St. James church here at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning. Burial will be in the family plot in Swanspoint cemetery, Providence, R. I.

The father, who found the body in a courtyard, said he could give no reason for his son's act.

"We all have depressive moments in our youth," he said, "but most of us get over it successfull. He apparently did not."

Young Davis was sharing his room with George Bullock, 70 Cedar street, Worcester, Mass., also a Harvard junior. Major Davis told the police his son came home about 1 a. m. A short time later Mrs. Davis, who is the former Alice M. Grosvenor of Providence, R. I., became disturbed by noises in her son's room.

Maj. Davis investigated, found a window in his son's room open, went downstairs and discovered the body in the courtyard.

Bullock said they had had supper together at the Harvard club, where they met several friends. There was some drinking, he said, and they returned to the apartment.

AWARDS OF NAUMBERG MUSICAL FOUNDATION

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP)—The Walter W. Naumberg Musical foundation announced tonight that a singer, two pianists and a violoncellist have won its sixth annual series of competitive auditions.

The winners, each of whom has been awarded a New York debut recital with all expenses paid, are Louise Bernhardt, mezzo-contralto, of Boston; Ruth Culbertson, pianist, of Boston; Helen Calvert McGraw, pianist, of Baltimore, and Mila Wellerson, violoncellist, New York.

The recitals awarded the four will be given next season. The successful candidates were selected from 169 applicants by the foundation's judges, who were Walter Spalding, of Harvard university; Wallace Goodrich, dean of the New England Conservatory of Music; Bruce Simonds, of Yale university, and Adolfo Betti, of the Flonzaley quartet.

TO INVESTIGATE WHETHER WOMAN WAS BURIED ALIVE

GRAYSON, Ky., April 13.—(AP)—A story that Mrs. Susie Vickers, 63, may have been buried alive two weeks ago, without the services of an undertaker, is to be investigated by a grand jury here tomorrow.

On the assertions of two women, who said they formerly employed her, that Mrs. Vickers was subject to fainting spells and would remain in a state of coma for hours, Circuit Judge G. W. Wolfford of Carter county announced he would convene a grand jury to make an investigation.

Mrs. Vickers was stricken apparently with a heart attack while preparing the evening meal in her home at Denton, Ky., near here, on March 27. She was pronounced dead and brought here March 29. Funeral services were held here the same day at the Baptist church and interment followed.

17 BODIES TAKEN FROM THE CARBONADO MINE

TACOMA, Wash., April 13.—(AP)—The last of 17 bodies, victims of an explosion in the Carbonado mine of the Pacific Coast Coal Co., was taken from the mine today and placed in a temporary morgue.

Wives and families of the miners, who had pressed against a rope barrier about the mine entrance, maintained their vigil until the work was complete.

Then they went to their homes, indifferent to the investigation which started immediately to determine the cause of the blast.

BUENOS AIRES, April 13.—(AP)—Infuriated by failure in his final examinations in medicine, a student named Robles, at Cordoba university, today shot and critically wounded Dr. Antenor Tey, one of his examiners.

Officials said Robles was confident he had passed the examinations taken yesterday, and blamed Dr. Antenor Tey when he learned he had failed.

PANIC AVERTED IN THEATRE AFIRE BY COURAGE AND COOLNESS OF BOY

WOBURN, Mass., April 13.—(AP)—The courage and cool headedness of a 17 year old high school boy, saved 300 children from a fire which swept the Strand moving picture theatre here latetoday. As it was, 15 persons were slightly cut or burned and the theatre damaged to the extent of $50,000.

Five minutes before the curtain was to go up, Jerome Lynch, 17, an usher and student, noticed a flickering back of the screen. He went with a janitor to investigate and found the curtain afire. Walking back calmly to the middle of the auditorium, he announced that there was a slight fire back of the stage and asked the audience, with few exceptions children, to walk ou quietly.

The manager, George Patten, of Cambridge, and Lynch, directed the children down the aisles to the exits, but as they did so flames shot up the curtain and curled along the roof. Some of the children screamed and pushed and a panic threatened to develop as the flames raced with amazing rapidity toward the front, Lynch and Patten, however, succeeded in getting all those in the auditorium out.

The two ran back through dense smoke to be sure none was left and then escaped outside just as an exit was blocked by flames. As Lynch reached the street he heard screams coming apparently from the second floor rest rooms reached by a wooden stair which was cut off by the fire. He climbed a telephone pole and jumped across to the roof upon which windows from the rest room faced. Aided by Joseph Cohen, the moving picture operator, who escaped from his projection booth via the roof, he broke the windows and helped six girls one of whom had fainted, to safety. Meanwhile four boys in the men's room broke through adjoining windows.

Firemen arrived and helped those on the roof to the street. Apparatus was called from Woburn and nearby Winchester.

The fire shot through the roof in half a dozen places, destroyed the stage and burned the interior walls.

Anxious parents gathered outside the theatre awaiting impatiently for firemen to penetrate the interior to be sure none of the children were caught, but all had escaped.

BRITISH BUDGET EXPECTED TO EXCEED $4,000,000,000

Will Be Presented to the House of Commons Today—Chancellor of the Exchequer Snowden Will Concentrate On Direct Taxation—Will Deal With Unemployment and Widespread Reaction to the Stock Market Slump That Started In New York.

LONDON, April 13.—(AP)—The budget of the MacDonald labor government, one of the greatest mysteries in recent years, will be given to the house of commons tomorrow afternoon. It is expected to run to more than four billion dollars.

At 4 o'clock, a lame little man, son of a Yorkshire weaver, who possesses one of the most powerful financial minds in England, will rise in the house to disclose the secret of Britain's welfare in the financial way for the coming year.

It is generally felt that Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, will concentrate on direct taxation, though there has been little advance information available about his budget proposals, which are not likely to please the rich.

He will deal with the increase in unemployment in Great Britain, widespread reaction to the stock market slump that started in New York, fraud revelations in the collapse of the Hatry companies, which involved millions of pounds, and the new Australian tariff.

These factors have all acted upon the potential revenue that must feed the exchequer, and Mr. Snowden is faced with terrific problems. He has to deal with a budget estimated at more than $4,300,000,000, which is $200,000,000 more than that of his conservative predecessor, Winston Churchill.

Those who have made forecasts about its nature take into account the fact that the chancellor is by principle a free trader, a teetotaller and a socialist. They think he will raise the tax on incomes of $7,500 annually and over, and many proposed taxes on gasoline and tobacco, and possibly on undeveloped land.

The only boon the taxpayers have been encouraged to look for is the abolition of the coffee tax. Mr. Snowden belongs to the "free breakfast table" school of economic thought.

DEPT. OF JUSTICE DEFENDS JUDGE JOHN J. PARKER

WASHINGTON, April 13. —(AP)—With new opposition developing in the senate to confirmation of Judge John J. Parker, of North Carolina, as an associate justice of the supreme court, the department of justice today issued a memorandum defending his decision in the injunction proceedings against the United Mine Workers.

This decision by Parker as a circuit court judge is under attack by the American Federation of Labor. The justice department memorandum asserted that to refuse confirmation of the nominee because of his decision "will amount to refusing to confirm him because he followed and binding effect to the decisions of the supreme court of the United States."

At the same time, Chairman Norris of the senate judiciary committee which will consider the nomination tomorrow announced today that he would oppose Judge Parker. While Senator Norris indicated he was ready for committee action, there were signs that efforts would be made to keep the nomination within the committee for awhile.

"HUNCH" RESULTED IN CAPTURE OF RUM SHIP

NEW YORK, April 13—(AP)—A "hunch" which came to Deputy Surveyor John H. McGill, head of the customs enforcement bureau, while he was playing his radio Saturday night, resulted in the capture early today of the $25,000 sub-chaser Junior Annapolis, with a cargo of 2,000 sacks of high grade liquors, valued at about $200,000, and the arrest of her crew of seven.

The hunch, McGill said, came to him in the form of a song, "Three O'Clock in the Morning," which he heard over the radio, and was strengthened by a dream in which he saw a sub-chaser "passing a long, projected point of land". As a result he dispatched a coast guard boat to Rockaway Point at 3 a. m., and the capture was effected.

HELD IN CONNECTION WITH DEATH OF BROTHER

NEW HAVEN, April 13—(AP)—Michael Perrillo, 25, died early today from a bullet wound in his abdomen, self-inflicted, according to his own statement.

Police, however, are holding his brother, Patsy, 23, because they were unable to find the revolver used in the shooting. A search of the home, revealed two other revolvers and two rifles, none of which had recently been fired.

Michael was the father of three children. He had been talking with his brother in their father's home. Patsy said he heard a shot and saw his brother fall. That was all, he said, that he knew about the affair.

COMMERCE CHAMBER HAS MANY THINGS UNDER CONSIDERATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, April 13—The Easter season finds the Willimantic chamber of commerce occupied with many problems and plans which the directors hope to carry to successful conclusion within the next few months. The chamber of directors are giving consideration to the part the chamber will play in the Community Reunion week to be staged here June 16 to 21, during the school commencement. The general program for the week has been endorsed by the directors. Word has been received that former residents, pupils and teachers are coming from as far as St. Louis and Chicago, and probably a small group from California, to attend the event and renew old acquaintances. The chamber directors have expressed appreciation to the local lodge of Elks for the splendid co-operation of the lodge in offering freely the use of the lodge home and extensive park grounds and furnishing committeemen to assist the general committee.

Under the heading of industrial affairs the chamber of commerce is looking forward to the establishment of a manufacturers' bureau in the near future. The industrial committee has been occupied for some months in an inspection of industries in the city and surrounding towns. This is done to ascertain what, if any, co-operation and assistance the chamber might be able to render in orde rthat these industries will operate successfully and under inviting conditions. Another phase of this work is a proposed traffic bureau planned so that service and co-operation with existing industries can be consummated.

The efforts of the chamber to interest new industries to locate here continue whenever a likely prospect enters the field. The directors have encountered much competition from other cities in attempting to secure new and worthy industries. Probably the keenest competition of this kind comes from chambers of commerce of the majority of large cities, which maintain full-time industrial departments, some of which maintain offices in cosmopolitan centers. The total expenditure in this form of competition among cities is estimated to be 10 million dollars per year. The local chamber recently communicated with a Massachusetts concern seeking a location in Connecticut for the manufacture of a new safety razor device. The concern contemplated at the outset to employ about 150 to 200 people and wanted approximately 60,000 square feet of factory floor space. It required no financial assistance in the promotion of this project. Photographs and area figures of No. 3 mill of the former Quidnick - Windham Manufacturing company, as well as railway and highway maps indicating Willimantic as a central distribution point to all metropolitan cities in New England, were forwarded this concern. The reply from this concern, which clearly indicates difficulties arising in securing new industries, stated that the real needs of the manufacturer were expert tool makers and female help skilled in operating light presses. Such help, the letter stated, was found plentiful in such centers as Hartford, New Haven, Waterbury and Bridgeport. The letter concluded: "We are not inclined to locate in a city where we must educate our operators. Thank you for your interest but your city will hardly do." While the chamber directors do not regard this as in any way indicating that Willimantic has not as much, if not more, to offer than many towns of its size, the reply in this instance is regarded as showing clearly why new industries cannot be secured at wish.

WORDING OF MOTION MAY BE CAUSE FOR TOWN MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, April 13—An alleged technicality has arisen in the wording of the motion for an audit of the town books with the result that there existed the possibility today that another special town meeting might become necessary to clarify the matter. The question is as to whether Dr. George E. Wilcox, energetic leader of the Taxpayers' Protective association of Windham actually made a motion that confined the audit only to the books of the selectmen or stated what he meant to state, this being that the audit be of all town books, including those of the town clerk and treasurer.

Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton, who, pursuant to custom, acted as clerk of the special town meeting held last Wednesday, discloses that according to the minutes of the meeting as he recorded them, Dr. Wilcox's motion, which came as an amendment to a resolution introduced by Town Counsel Arthur T. Kelley, did not specify an audit of any books but those of the selectmen.

While the intent of the taxpayers' leader in making the motion is fully recognized as meaning all town books, this intention is not at present recorded in the minutes. Town Clerk Fenton, Dr. Wilcox and Attorney William A. Arnold, who was moderator of the meeting conferred on the matter Saturday but arrived at no decision. Dr. Wilcox claims that his amendment was based entirely on the clause as inserted in the warning as petitioned for.

Town Counsel Kelley's motion was that the selectmen be authorized to cause an audit of the town books at a cost not to exceed $10,000. Dr. Wilcox arose to state that he was opposed to giving the selectmen authority in the matter inasmuch as he did not think it proper for them to name the accountants who would examine their own (the selectmen's) books. His amendment was to remove the phrase "that the selectmen be authorized," on the above grounds. The motion as amended prevailed and by subsequent motion the voters elected Dr Wilcox, Attorney Arnold and Henry A. Bugbee as a committee with authority to name the certified public accountants to do the work. According to the minutes recorded by Town Clerk Fenton, it is apparent that somewhere in the making of the amendment the original intent of the motion to have an audit of town books under a general heading, became stranded, with the result that an audit of the selectmen's books is all that can now be done if the minutes of the meeting are to be complied with. The question is one that has aroused much interest and definite action is generally expected in the near future.

PROMINENT WARRENVILLE MAN DIES IN HOSPITAL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, April 13.—Burt H. Gardner, 63, of Warrenville, died in the Johnson Memorial hospital at Stafford Springs about 6 o'clock tonight. He was one of the best known residents of the town of Ashford having served several terms as selectman up to six years ago, representing the town in the general assembly of 1913 and holding several minor offices, including that of assessor. He was a democrat. The deceased was born in Ashford, a son of William and Phila Reynolds Gardner. He is survived by one son, Leon R. Gardner, and three grandchildren, of Warrenville. Mr. Gardner, who had been ill but a short time, conducted a blacksmith shop and wood-working business in the town for many years. He was one of the first members of the Ashford grange and served as its master for several years. He was also affiliated with Uriel lodge, No. 24, A. F. and A. M. of Merrow.

FUNERAL

Herman J. Lariviere

Leaving from the home, 12 Spruce street, the funeral of Herman J. Lariviere was held Saturday morning with a requiem high mass in St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. Rev. H. C. Belec was celebrant and Mrs. Joseph F. Gaudreau presided at the organ. Burial was in the family plot of St. Joseph's cemetery where Rev. Father Belec conducted a committal service. The bearers were, Victor Chasse, Arthur Bertrand, Alphonse Chagnon, Arthur Robitaille and Albert Cloutier. Killourey Brothers had charge of the arrangements.

A brougham driven by Delos J. Willis, 54, under instruction of his wife, Mrs. Flora Willis, both of Rocky Hill struck and injured Charles Popple, 79, of 47 Winter street, at the corner of Main and High streets shortly after 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Popple was picked up by Officer William Hurley and rushed to St. Joseph's hospital where Dr. E. J. Ottenheimer found the man suffering from a severe fracture of the knee and skin abrasions. Willis was turning from Main into High as the elderly man stepped from the curbing to cross High street. The police report showed that Willis had brought the car to a sudden stop.

OBITUARY

George England

George England, 63, of Chaplin, died in the Mercy hospital at Springfield, Mass., Saturday afternoon. He was born December 16, 1866, in Sussex, England, a son of Thomas and Mary Mays England. Besides his wife, Emma England England, he is survived by one son, William H. England of San Diego, Calif.; two daughters Cecilia M. England of New York city and Mrs. Hobart J. Shanley of Holyoke, Mass.; five brothers, Henry of Florida, William and Fred of South Manchester, John and Jonathan England of Ireland and one married sister residing in Great Britain. The deceased has followed the occupation of farmer in Chaplin for a number of years.

Miss Evelyn M. Wallen was tendered a shower at her home in North Windham Friday night in honor of her approaching marriage to John A. Irons. Present were: Mrs. Myron Lyon, Miss Pearl Lyon, Mrs. Elmer Lamphere, Mrs. Richard Wright, Mrs. George Chamberlin, Miss Fawn Jewett, Miss Elizabeth Bennett, Miss Gertrude Bray, Mrs. Ariel Green, Mrs. Henry Generous, Jr., Mrs. John Bennett, Mrs. Fred Chapman, Mrs. Fred Bray, Mrs. Wilbur Stevens and Mrs. William Ackerman. Miss Wallen was the recipient of many gifts.

The first of the eight census enumerators in this city to make his final returns to Chief Clerk Edward L. Dennis at the census headquarters in the Capitol building, is John Alvin Johnson of 99 Oak street, who Saturday night turned in blanks bearing 1,012 names. Enumerator Johnson's district was between the city limits on the north, Summit street on the south; Walnut street on the west and Jackson street on the east. The figures are subject to change in case errors are found.

Attention to a city ordinance prohibiting the depositing of any garbage or refuse in the city streets is called by Mayor Walter R. King, following numerous complaints that residents of the "hill" section place refuse in gutters, allowing the rain to wash it down into manholes which become clogged causing considerable trouble. A fine not to exceed $100 is provided for in such a violation.

Appearing as character witnesses in the trial of Clark W. Burnham, former official of the East Hampton Trust company, charged with misuse of the funds of the institution, at Middletown Friday, were Philip S. Hills and Sheriff Charles A. Gates. Mr. Hills testified that he was treasurer of the Willimantic Trust company from 1910 to 1915 when Burnham was a clerk in the local bank, and that he found the man to be honest and painstaking in his duties, with a clean record. Sheriff Gates also testified to the excellent record that Burnham had here.

With many appearing before Tax Collector Albert J. Piche to pay town taxes and a line of men and boys seeking fishing licenses from Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton, the town building was a busy place Saturday forenoon.

The names of 57 prisoners whose census was recently taken at the Windham county jail in Brooklyn will be included in the population of the town of Brooklyn, according to Sheriff Charles A. Gates.

Engine company No. 1 responded to a still alarm at 6:15 o'clock this morning for a small blaze in a bedroom of the residence at 66 Spring street, owned by the Latham estate and occupied by Police Lieutenant Edward P. Leahy and family. Chemicals were used.

A committee has been named by the Windham Fish and Game club to secure the lease of a tract of land on the banks of the Shetucket river, off the Jerusalem road, on which the club plans to erect a clubhouse this summer.

Robert O. Branch and family left Saturday to spend the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles N. Branch in East Springfield, N. Y. The latter has just recovered from a serious illness.

Under the auspices of the C. L. class of Trinity Methodist church, Norwich, the Dramatic club of the local Methodist church staged the three-act comedy, The Big Cheese, in the social rooms of the church Friday night.

Mrs. Ida Loughlin and Mrs. Dora Hovey were initiated into membership at the meeting of A. C. Tyler auxiliary No. 14, U. S. W. V., held in G. A. R. hall Friday night. Mrs. Henrietta Judge and Mrs. Iva Lavallee furnished the entertainment.

Mrs. Agnes J. Turner of Stafford Springs, formerly of this city, has returned from Hot Springs, Ark., where she spent three months.

Joseph Bosse, who has been ill for some time, was reported in critical condition today at St. Josephs hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Darius M. Bennett of Buckingham road entertained over the week end Mr. and Mrs. G. Myron Whitman of Boston, Mass.

Mrs. Nellie Gelinas of North street was reported as seriously ill today.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Edgarton write that they plan to return to this city about May 1, from San Diego, Calif., where they have been making their home for several months.

OBITUARY

Sylvester B. Cunningham

Sylvester B. Cunningham 84, died at his home in Andover this afternoon. He was born in Ellington January 9, 1846, a son of Loren and Hanna Dean Cunningham. The deceased leaves three daughters, Mrs. Olive Lavallee and Mrs. Emma Willis of Andover and Mrs. Elizabeth Ricard of Manchester and two sons, Everett of Ellington and Edward Cunningham of Killingly.

DANIELSON

KILLINGLY TOWN COURT HOLDS SUNDAY SESSION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, April 13.—A session of the Killingly town court was held today, something rarely done on Sunday, to dispose of the case of Everett Miller, of East Milton, Mass. Miller, said to be an official of the New England Telephone company, was ordered into court when it was found by a state officer, last night, that he was driving without a license. State officers were checking up on lights of various cars that came along when it was found that Miller had no license.

In other week end activities state officers from the Danielson barracks raided the Henry Lamoureaux place of business at Moosup Saturday evening. No intoxicants were found, but two frequenters, Henry Frechette and George Roy, were arrested on intoxication charges and locked up at the barracks here. They will appear in the Plainfield town court Monday.

Identifies Her Hens.

In company with Sergeant G. L. Gardner of the Danielson barracks, Mrs. Lucy Pratt, went to Apponaug, R. I., Saturday and identified 27 hens stolen from her coops near Moosup pond about a fortnight ago. The hens were located through information given by one of the four young men who are now under arrest in Rhode Island for chicken stealing in this section of Connecticut and in Rhode Island. The hens were bought in good faith by a reliable person from the thieves. They have not as yet been returned to Connecticut, but it is anticipated Mrs. Pratt will get them back. The thieves are now being held for presentation before the grand jury and are locked up in the Kent county jail.

OBITUARY.

James Berthiaume.

The death of James Berthiaume occurred Saturday morning in Wauregan. He was a native of Canada, resident in this country for many years, and 49 years of age. He leaves two brothers, Charles and George, of Attawaugan, and two sisters, Mrs. William Smith of Ballouville and Mrs. Della Gagne, of Putnam. The body was taken in charge by Undertaker L. E. Kennedy and is now at the Kennedy funeral home here.

FUNERAL.

Miss Valeda Martin.

Saturday morning at 9 o'clock there was a high mass of requiem at St John's church, Plainfield, for Miss Valeda Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Martin. Rev. J. H. Landry, pastor, was celebrant of the mass. The bearers were A. Blanchette, L. Blanchette V. Choquette, R. Maffett, W. Boule and C. Robideau. L. E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Borough Election Today.

Polls in the annual borough election will open Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the town hall building. It has been necessary to remove a section of the bleachers running along one side of the hall in order to permit of erecting the election booths. Following the election it is expected that the officers chosen will meet Tuesday evening for organization for the year, the appointment of committees and other routine business coming at the organization meeting.

Inspectors representing the treasury and postal departments of the federal government are expected here this summer to investigate Danielson's need of a post office building. This survey will be well ahead of any action that may be taken to acquire a site upon which to erect the proposed building. Danielson is listed among the towns in line to get new post office buildings under the provisions of the $115,000,000 appropriation bill recently signed by the president. As Danielson's need is urgent, and as the receipts of the office are now nearly double, annually, the minimum of $20,000 that must be taken for a town to rate a postal building it would appear that this town's chance was very favorable. Again the lease on the present postal quarters in the town hall building expires during the present year.

Of general interest in this section is the appeal of The Haven at Abington for funds, that patients who are without money may be given care and attention there. Numbers of local people have been patients at this finely managed institution. It is a quiet, restful place for the aged, in splendid surroundings.

The fact that there is now a good state highway between Brooklyn and Pomfret is expected to be the means of greatly increasing the number of visitors at the historic Wolf Den during the present year. Construction of this road has made it possible to get within a comparatively short distance of the den without traveling on other than hard surfaced roads.

It is understood that a seven mill tax will be recommended for adoption by the voters at the annual business meeting of the borough Monday evening. This rate is the same as was in force last year. No unusual expenditures are anticipated this year.

Local physicians have been notified that the 138th annual meeting of the Windham County Medical society is to be held at the Putnam inn in Putnam next Thursday. There will be business and scientific programs. Officers are to be elected for the ensuing year.

At the high mass at St. James' church today the usual distribution of palms was made to members of the congregation in connection with the solemn observance of Palm Sunday.

This evening there was a special service at the Westfield Congregational church in connection with the reception of new members. The Girls' choir sang and there were solos by Miss Harold B. Atwood, soprano. Members received had made special preparation and studies during the Lenten season under the direction of the pastor, Rev. Harding W. Gaylord.

Fences surrounding All Hallows' cemetery on the Green Hollow road were considerably damaged by a fire that swept over a large part of the cemetery area and other properties for a distance about Some nearby farm property structures were endangered by the fire.

There were plans being made today by real enthusiastic fishermen to go out at midnight Monday in order to be at favorite trout pools in advance of all others on the opening day of the season, and to remain there until the break of day before beginning angling.

Telephone crews of the S. N. E. T. company, in addition to the one regularly stationed here, are at work changing the location of lines on the trunk line route between Wauregan and Danielson, this work made necessary by the state's road building program to be carried out in that area this year.

Holy week services arranged by the Tri-Y and Hi-Y clubs for young people will begin at the Baptist church Monday morning at 7.45 and will be concluded before the opening of the high school. The services will continue mornings through Friday.

Forms are being built at French's crossing, south of Central Village, for the concrete piers that will carry the overhead bridge to be built there, eliminating another grade crossing.

The first of the Holy week services arranged by the Danielson Federation of Churches will be held Tuesday evening at the Westfield Congregational church, with Rev. Henry A. Coolidge of the South Killingly Congregational church as the preacher.

It was noted as a curious coincidence that three cars parked in a row near a curb in the business section Saturday morning in each instance were occupied by a dog, while the car owners were about shopping.

Homer H. Judd, Bristol, field agent of the state fish and game commission was here and in Brooklyn Saturday in connection with the duties of his office.

There was exceptionally heavy traffic over trunk lines routes through Danielson over the week end and it was observed that an unusually large number of new cars are in use.

Louis Hilton of Academy street was in Boston visiting with his family over the week end.

A delegation of members of Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., will be in Washington, D. C., to attend the Continental congress of their organization

PUTNAM

TWO MORE PUTNAM STORES ARE BURGLARIZED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, April 13.—Following a fortnight of inactivity, a lone burglar who has committed eight successful breaks in Putnam stores since January 1, visited the business section of the city again Friday evening and burglarized two Main street stores, and attempted to force his way into a third, and escaped, taking a change purse from the Yankee Shop containing $13. The thief, whose tactics have been grating on the nerves of Putnam police for more than a month, repeated his work again Friday evening in the same manner as in previous breaks—departing without leaving a single clue that would enable police to establish his identity.

The first business house entered was the furniture store of Blanchette and Brodeur on lower Main street. The burglar, who is playing a lone hand, went to the store at about 9.10 o'clock. He circled the building and discovered a window on the south side of the Peloquin block, from which a street view of the opening is cut off by the presence of an advertising board of the Victory theatre. Confident that his operations were concealed from those passing by, the burglar broke a glass in the window, unfastened the catch, raised it and entered the store. He visited the office where he inspected the safe and cash drawer. Finding both open and devoid of money, he departed after scanning a few papers stored in the safe. A. A. Brodeur, proprietor of the business said that nothing of value had been touched on the floor. As the burglar was making his exit through the window, he was seen by a woman who resides in the house adjoining the Peloquin block. She telephoned to Mr. Brodeur's residence on Church street and informed him of what she had seen. The police were later informed and were given a description of the man seen leaving the store, together with a report that he walked casually up Main street and disappeared in the general direction of Union square.

Checking up on other stores, Sergt. A. J. Sponcey and Patrolman Benoni Durand, discovered the second break at the Yankee Shop and the attempted break at the Moss Electrical house in the Wolfe block on Main street. At the Yankee Shop the purse containing the small amount of change was discovered missing. An investigation showed that the person responsible for the work employed a jimmy to force a window, though which he gained admittance to the store. Finding the purse, with apparent ease, he left through a rear door which he unlocked, leaving every piece of stock untouched.

Alpherie Bibeault of Woodstock avenue, manager of the store, told police that the burglar undoubtedly was one familiar with the places where the small funds are hidden each night.

Heavy bars which fasten the doors in the rear of the electrical store effectively resisted the efforts of the burglar, who late tonight was still at large.

Death Of W. S. Lawton.

A death in Union, Friday evening was that of William Issac Lawton, for many years a resident of that village, who died suddenly. He was in his 68th year. Funeral services were held this afternoon from the home of Mrs. Lee Lyons in Phoenixville at one o'clock. Burial was in the Lawton plot in the Chaplin cemetery at Chaplin.

SIX INJURED IN AUTO CRASH AT NO. WOODSTOCK

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, April 13.—Six persons were injured, one seriously and one, perhaps fatally, in an automobile accident which occurred on the Putnam-Southbridge highway about a mile west of North Woodstock four corners, Saturday evening at 10.45 o'clock.

The sextet of passengers of the ill-fated vehicle were dragged from the debris and rushed to the Southbridge hospital in Southbirdge, Mass. The injured are Miss Florence Young, 343 South street, Southbridge; Edward Williams, driver, 37 Freland street, Worcester, Mass., and Patrick Mahoney, 84 Bernon street, Worcester. Other passengers who received a severe shaking up and minor body abrasions were Florence O'Malley, 86 Seymour street, Worcester, Margaret Kinon, 110 Flagg street, Worcester, and Nettie Young, 343 South street, Southbridge, a sister of Florence, whose recovery is not expected. The latter were administered first aid treatment and were discharged from the institution last night.

Miss Florence Young, according to a late report this afternoon, is suffering from severe lacerations on both sides of the face, a deep scalp wound, and a severe laceration of the left ear. Her condition at the time was reported as being extremely critical with recovery doubtful. In being thrown through the windshield of the car, Miss Young was struck by glass which tore off the upper and lower portions of her ear and lacerated the ear so badly that hospital officials this afternoon said that complete amputation of the organ would perhaps be necessitated in order to save the girl's life.

Edward Williams, operator of the car, is a patient at the hospital suffering from two ugly scalp wounds and other lacerations of the body. His condition was reported as favorable under the circumstances.

The condition of Patrick Mahoney, who is suffering from a deep laceration of the skull and a possible fracture, sustained when hurled against the side of the car when it capsized, was reported this afternoon as critical. He is expected to recover, however.

The party, riding in a Chrysler sedan, was traveling from Worcester to Southbridge. When the vehicle encountered the steep, narrow and winding incline on the new Southbridge-Putnam highway, only a few feet this side of the Connecticut line, the steering mechanism, according to one of the passengers, became jammed, causing all control to be lost. The car gained considerable momentum as it proceeded wildly down the hill and at a turn in the road, darted to the right, struck the soft sand on the shoulder, and leaped into a spiral loop turning over three times before it struck a stone wall to be reduced to a mass of wreckage.

All passengers were hurled out as the car ended its mad rampage at the stone heap on the hill. Miss Nettie Young, who was a passenger in the front seat with Williams, said the car was proceeding at a moderate rate of speed when approaching the dangerous hill, because all were aware of the treacherous conditions that existed there.

State Officer Henry M. Mayo of the Danielson barracks was assigned to investigate the crash and after assisting the work of removing the injured to the hospital and clearing the congested highway of curious autoists made a thorough check-up of the accident in which he found the given cause of the accident to be true. No arrests will be made since there was no negligence on the part of the driver.

The car, which was comparatively new, was owned by Williams, its operator. It was learned this afternoon that Williams was an inexperienced driver, having possessed a license to operate only since March 29. The party of young people had been riding and were returning to Southbridge to bring the Young girls to their homes there, when the crash occurred.

WINWARD TRUCK CRASHES INTO TREE: DRIVER UNINJURED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, April 13.—Three hours after the Chrysler sedan owned by Edward Williams of 37 Freland street, Worcester, had crashed into a stone wall on the Putnam-Southbridge highway Saturday evening, sending everyone of its six passengers to a hospital, a large six wheeled moving van in the service of E. P. Winward Sons company, of Fall River, being driven by Byron E. Wilcox of 49 Bates street, Providence, who was en route to Springfield, encountered driving difficulties at a point a few feet east of the North Woodstock four corners and caused the truck to swerve sharply to the side of the road where it struck sand on the shoulder and skidded into a telephone post snapping it off at its base, and was unable to stop until the heavy vehicle smashed into a large tree where it was demolished. Wilcox miraculously escaped unscathed.

State Officer John T. Murphy of the Danielson barracks investigated the crash and learned from Wilcox that the accident was brought about when he was stunned for a moment by the blinding rays from headlights of a car that suddenly appeared on the hill on the approach to the Southbridge road. The driver's recklessness in refusing to grant the truck a portion of the highway forced Wilcox to swing to the shoulder of the road, in order to avert a collision with the approaching automobile. Wilcox said the driver of the car did not slacken his pace but on the other hand increased speed when realizing the outcome of the reckless act. Officer Murphy made no arrest following his investigation.

The cargo of baled textile goods aboard the van was strewn about the highway when the truck crashed into the tree. This morning a Winward wrecker was at the scene of the accident clearing away the debris and salvaging that part of the cargo which was not damaged.

HOUSE AND BARN LOST IN FIRE OF INCENDIARY ORIGIN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, April 13.—A fire believed to have been of incendiary origin in a barn on the Derr farm on Putnam Heights early Friday evening and before the last embers had died out, a one and a half story frame dwelling, a large barn and several farm sheds were destroyed with a loss estimated at $10,000.

Hundreds of spectators who had been attracted from miles around by the brilliantly illuminated skies stood by and watched the progress of the flames in reducing the buildings to a heap of ashes. The farm had been unoccupied for more than five years and the dry and well seasoned timbers in the structures provided tinder that blazed up readily and burned so briskly that the intense heat repelled all efforts of the rural firemen to combat the flames which in less than two hours had ravaged the entire farm.

The property is known as the Jacques farm. The name of the last known tenant, who had vacated the premises some years ago, was W. L. Derr, a resirent of Liona, Florida. The fire was first discovered by Arthur Tourtellotte, whose farm is located close by. Mr. Tourtellotte said his attention was first attracted to the scene by tongues of fire which could be seen escaping from two windows in the barn. Before he reached the farm to investigate, Mr. Tourtellotte said the entire interior of the building had been converted into a raging furnace and it was only a matter of a few minutes before the adjoining buildings were enveloped in flames.

Mr. Tourtellotte attempted to organize a band of fire fighters, but the proposed work of the fighters was checked by the fury of the fire, forcing them to confine their efforts to prevent a disastrous grass and brush fire. The work of the group proved effective in this respect.

An investigation drew a statement from a resident of the Heights, residing close to the Derr farm, who said that a few minutes before the fire was discovered, an automobile was seen to drive away. Residents of the Heights said today that the property on the farm was easily accessible to trespassers and of late the farm had been the mecca of young couples who had gathered there evenings.

The circumstances surrounding the outbreak of the blaze Friday night have been called to the attention of the state police of Danielson barracks who will institute investigation Monday.

Apparatus from the Central and Smith street fire stations under the direction of Deputy Chief P. Clouthier responded to a general alarm from box 112 at 12.05 p. m., today, for a fire at the home of Edmund Pechie, at 107 Arch street. The blaze originated when burning tobacco ignited a spread covering on a couch in the living room of the house. The burning object gave off dense columns of smoke that caused a passerby to ring in a fire alarm. Tenants of the dwelling removed the blazing mattress to the street where it was extinguished by water from the booster tank of the combination pumper and hose wagon. Chief Clouthier, who investigated reported that the fire caused damage amounting to about $10. The fire companies returned to quarters immediately and a recall was sounded at 12.15.

A second alarm received at 4.35 o'clock this afternoon was for a chimney fire in a tenement house at 3 Water street. The blaze was extinguished without property damage. Apparatus from the Central station under the direction of Deputy Chief A. J. Dumas, responded to the call.

Members of the Hook and Ladder and the Pumper company were guests of the grill committee at the Central fire station Saturday evening at a chicken salad supper served by the committee. The menu was deliciously prepared by the committee which was accorded a rising vote of thanks at the close of the evening ceremonies. Deputy Chief A. J. Dumas was the official guest of the firemen. He joined with the members of the department in conveying the expression of appreciation to the men who worked so diligently to provide delightful program. One fact for which the fire-fighters were thankful, was the absence of fire alarms during the evening, which incidentally was the first day during the week that the alarm chart went unmarred.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Emma A. Fairbanks.

Mrs. Emma A. Fairbanks, for a number of years a resident of Quinebaug died Saturday at the Webster hospital in Webster after a long illness. Mrs. Fairbanks was 84 years of age. She was born in Webster on March 4, 1856, the daughter of William and Alice (Phillips) Tracy. After her marriage, Mrs. Fairbanks removed to Quinebaug where she made her home until her death yesterday. She was widely known in Putnam where she made frequent visits previous to the impairment of her health.

JEWETT CITY

CONSTRUCTION WORK INSPECTED BY OFFICIALS

State Engineers Charles Tingley and J. A. Carberry, of Norwich, were in Jewett City Sunday on an inspection tour of the construction work connected with the new Quinebaug viaduct. The two visiting officials are assigned to the office of Division Superintendent John Smith, with offices in the Thayer building. They represent the departments of steel construction and road building.

MISS SWIFT, THE BRIDE OF GEORGE HOWARD WELLER

The Providence Sunday Journal of April 13 prints the following: An attractive wedding took place Saturday afternoon at the Central Congregational church when Miss Catharine Barrows Swift, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Swift of Edgewood, was married to George Howard Weller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Weller, also of Edgewood. Dr. Arthur Bradford performed the ceremony. The wedding march from Lohengrin was played by the organist, Frances Burnham, as the bridal party entered the church, which was decorated with palms and flowers. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attended by her sister, Mrs. Irving R. Lee, as matron of honor, and Miss Viola J. Atkin, Miss Florence A. Bryden, Miss Helen A. Cady and Miss Dorothy E. Weller as bridesmaids. The best man was Harold G. Kenyon and the ushers were Gilbert Weller, Irving Rhodes, Harry Keeler, Edward Tiffany, Victor Frazier and Herbert Rose. The bride wore a gown of ivory satin and a long veil of tulle. She carried a bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley. The gown of the matron of honor was of orchid taffeta and she wore a hat to match. The bridesmaids wore frocks of honeydew and nile green, with matching hats and carried shower bouquets of spring flowers. Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors. In the receiving party were the bride and bridegroom, their parents, the bride's attendants and the best man. The bride's mother was gowned in blue lace and the bridegroom's mother wore flowered chiffon in brown tones. After a wedding journey to Havana, Mr. and Mrs. Weller will make their home in Edgewood.

The bride's father was formerly of Jewett City. Guests present from this section were: Mr. and Mrs. Everett H. Hiscox, Jr., of New London; Miss Hazel B. Swift, of Norwich; Mr. and Mrs. Earl S. Hiscox, and Mr. and Mrs. Everett H. Hiscox, of Jewett City.

HARTFORD WOMAN'S SUICIDE ATTEMPT IS FAILURE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, April 13—Mrs. Irene Kangefler, who attempted suicide at the Attawaugan hotel here late last night, was discharged from the Day Kimball hospital at Putnam today. The woman who is in her late twenties or early thirties comes from Hartford and has been working hereabout for some time. She is said to have appeared very moody and despondent during the early hours of last evening. After taking some sort of poison matter her condition appeared to be so critical that a physician was summoned who caused her removal to the hospital. Her whereabouts this afternoon were unknown.

COLCHESTER

MRS. RAYMOND O. KENDALL OF WETHERSFIELD DEAD

Colchester residents were saddened to learn of the death Saturday morning at the Hartford hospital, of Mrs. Helen S. Kendall, 28, wife of Raymond Osgood Kendall, now principal of Wethersfield high school, principal of Bacon academy here from 1927 to 1929. During their residence here Mr. and Mrs. Kendall gained a large circle of friends. Mrs. Kendall was active in church work and took a deep interest in school activities which her husband directed so ably. She was an unusually helpful member of Wooster Star chapter, O. E. S. and of Colchester grange. Her cordial manner and pleasing personality made a lasting impression on all with whom she came in contact. A large number of local people expect to attend the funeral services at Wethersfield this (Monday) afternoon.

At a recent meeting of the warden and burgesses, an ordinance was passed directing the borough fire commissioners to see that unsightly rubbish is ordered removed from back-yards about the village, as a fire preventive measure. Orders are also to be issued that loose papers, leaves or other litter can be burned only in wire rubbish burners. These restrictions have been found necessary since a number of borough people have lately been starting bonfires in door-yards without using proper precautions.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Webster, of Hartford, former local residents, called on friends and relatives here Sunday.

The members of the Baptist society have been raising funds to paint the exterior of the church on South Main street.

Employes of the C. C. P. and L. Co. have been erecting new poles along the roadway on Pleasant street.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Greene, Mrs. William E. Adams and Miss Florence I. Dawley were visitors in Hebron and Willimantic Friday evening.

Harry Gilman and George F. Brown are to serve on the jury at the session of the common pleas court in Norwich this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice H. Weinstein and children, of Passaic, N. J., are visiting over the Passover holidays with Mr. Weinstein's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Weinstein.

A large flock of wild geese, headed east, passed over the village about 11:30 o'clock Friday evening flying low and making so much noise that a number of the residents were awakened from their sleep and hurried out to witness the unusual sight.

The Brody house and lot, formerly known as the Preston property on lower South Main street, purchased last week by Harry Rudne, has just been sold to Hyman London, local garage owner, who expects to make repairs and alterations to the house and grounds.

His Wife—Henry, I'm going to buy you a wedding ring. You ought to wear something to show you're married.

Mr. Pewee—Why, my dear, I do, I wear the rubbers you bought me every day.—Exchange.

WESTERLY

DANIELSON VISITORS TO INSPECT MONOPLANE

Some five or six residents of Danielson, Conn., are expected in Westerly Tuesday to visit the Saunders flying field near Misquamicut, to be the flying guests on the Travel-Air monoplane, "Smiling Thru" the flying office of President H. L. Ogg of an electric washer company of Newton, Ia., on his first visit to New England. It is expected that full opportunity will be given to inspect this five passenger monoplane, which will come to Westerly from Providence airport, Fall River avenue, Seekonk, Mass.

Shortly before 1:00 a. m. Saturday Patrolman George L. Serdell of Pawcatuck arrested three Pawcatuck and one Westerly young men who were engaged in a drunken brawl and fighting on Liberty street near Farley avenue, Pawcatuck. They were taken to the Liberty street lockup and then to Stonington town court Saturday morning where in the absence of Judge William A. Wilcox of Pawcatuck on a business trip to Chicago, they were brought before Deputy Judge Billings Burch Fairbrother, of Stonington. On their pleas of guilty each was fined $2 and costs which totaled $14.45 which they paid. The complaint of breach of the peace was brought by Stonington Prosecutor Henry P. Hammacher. The men were David Lockwood, 35, Prospect street, Pawcatuck, Joseph J. Mercier, 23, Liberty street, Pawcatuck; Raymond Brown, 30, Farley avenue, Pawcatuck and Albert Laeman, 31 of School street, Westerly.

WEDDING

Dowding-Whewell

At the First Baptist church Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Miss Mary Whewell, daughter of the late James and Mary Whewell of Burdick avenue, Pawcatuck, was united in marriage with Herbert George Dowding, son of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Dowding of Main street, Westerly. The double ring service was used by the church pastor, Rev. Byron U. Hatfield, there being assembled many relatives and friends. The wedding marches and other music was played on the church organ by Miss Mildred K. Taylor of Ashaway. The matron of honor was Mrs. Herbert Dobson and the maid of honor Miss Frances Ayers, the best man being Kenneth Bennett. The bride's dress was of white crepe, her veil was caught with orange blossoms and her bouquet was of white roses and baby breath. A gown of powder blue georgette with hat to match was worn by the matron of honor and her bouquet was of pink roses. Yellow georgette with hat to correspond was worn by the bridesmaid and she carried pink roses.

Stanton W. Gavitt, Herbert Dobson, and Howard Herold were ushers. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, in Pawcatuck. Mr. Dowding is employed as a truck driver for the R. A. Sherman's Sons Co. On their return from a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Dowding will be at home at 2 Burdick avenue, Pawcatuck, after April 30th.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Sarah P. Chapman

A former Westerly teacher, widow of a well known Westerly G. A. R. commander, Mrs. Sarah P. Chapman died Saturday morning at her home, 20 Grove avenue, following an extended illness. She was in her 85th year. Mrs. Chapman was born in New York, the daughter of Peter and Eliza Caldwallander Johnson, and when a child moved with her parents to Mystic, later to Westerly. At 17 she began her duties as a Westerly teacher. She is survived by a son, Henry B. Brewster of New York, a niece, Mrs. Clara V. Loughran of St. Louis, Mo., and two stepsons, Fred and Theodore Chapman of New York. A daughter, Axie Marie and her husband, the commander of Budlong Post, No. 18, G. A. R., of Westerly, at the time, died four years ago within a week of each other, and since that time Mrs. Chapman has been in failing health.

Sells Fairview Park Lot

April 11. Margaret Grills sold to Rosario Toscano, Lot No. 22, plan of Fairview Park.

A house party of fourteen girls from Boston is being entertained this Easter vacation week to return home Thursday by the daughter of Judge and Mrs. Albert L. Saunders at the Saunders summer home on the Shore road, near Misquamicut.

The Vars store front in the Stillman block on High street, has been removed and the front brick wall of the three-story business block has been shored up with heavy timber, blocking and screw jacks, to permit placing of a heavy steel girder in front of the store. A partition wall is being removed and the placing of the front girder will make the former two stores appear as one large store.

A heavily laden coal barge came up the Pawcatuck river the past week end and the cargo is being discharged, by the Wilcox hoister.

Mrs. C. Grant Savage, state vice regent, and Mrs. William C. Thompson, regent of Phebe Green Ward chapter, of Westerly, left Saturday for Washington, D. C., to attend the National Continental Congress.

On Saturday in the height of the shopping and theatre traffic, an automobile driven by Eugene P. O'Neil of 21 Stillman avenue, Pawcatuck, struck the rear end of a Gulf Refining Co. truck on High street. The truck was driven by Edwin C. Brown of this town. Officer Paul McCarthy learned that the driver of the truck had stopped his machine for traffic, and the Chevrolet operated by O'Neil struck the truck in the rear. No damage was done to the truck, but the sedan besides having the headlights smashed and glass broken had the radiator torn away from the hood and punctured so that the water ran out into the highway.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

MYSTIC, April 13—On April 13, 1870, Miss Sadie M. Noyes and Benjamin F. Davis were united in marriage at Mystic, by Rev. Palmer G. Wightman, pastor of the First Groton Baptist church's of which both were Baptist church of which both were members, having joined in their teens, was without a pastor at that time. Mr. and Mrs. Davis have lived in Mystic and Quiambaug their entire married life, except three years in Westerly. Two daughters and a son were born to them. There are now three grand-daughters and one grand-son. One daughter lives in Mystic, one in Somerville, Mass., and the son in Hartford. Mrs. Davis has taught in the local Baptist Sunday school for 45 years, having taught the Woman's Bible class, of which she is still the teacher, for many years. There are 45 members in this class. She is an excellent Bible scholar, always having a verse ready for any topic she may be talking upon. Not many of the present generation can name the books of the Bible, to say nothing of being so familiar with verses and where they may be found. Mr. and Mrs. Davis while not in the best of health, are keenly interested in all that goes on in the towns and the church. Saturday evening, Rev. and Mrs. L. J. Shepler and Mrs. D. M. Bennett of the local Baptist church, called on the bride and groom of 60 years ago and Mrs Bennett, president of the Woman's Bible class, in behalf of the members, presented Mr. and Mrs. Davis $27.50 in gold. Sunday morning, there was a large bouquet of beautiful mixed flowers placed on the pulpit in honor of these two loved members, and after the service they were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Davis and all wished them many more years of happiness. Saturday morning Cheerio mentioned Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Davis of Mystic, Conn., married 60 years Sunday.

HOTEL WINTHROP AND CONWAY CLUB RAIDS, NEW LONDON, YIELD HOME BREW

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, April 13.—The police raided the Hotel Winthrop and a restaurant and club room Saturday night and evidence of the violation of the prohibition law was obtained at each place. The raiding force, in charge of Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh and Sergeant Samuel Hick first visited the restaurant and club room, 107 Main street, conducted by Eugene Conway. A search of the premises revealed 25 cases of home brew and the alcoholic content was proven to be seven per cent. The numerous cases were seized and Conway was arrested charged on two counts of violation of the liquor law, possession and keeping with intent to sell. He was released upon furnishing a surety on his bond of $1000 and will be in court Monday.

At the Hotel Winthrop, State street, the raiding force found 40 cases of home brew, some of which was in a cooler in the barroom and the remainder in the cellar. This was seized, together with a small quantity of whiskey, which was found in a room on the second floor. One of the proprietors, Arthur May, was arrested on two counts of violation of the liquor law, keeping with intent to sell and possession. He was released upon providing a surety on his bond of $1,000 and will be in court Monday. Both Conway and May have been arrested before for violation of the liquor law.

Stolen Cars Abandoned.

Saturday two cars were stolen, but later were recovered. Both automobiles were stolen from Huntington street, where it is a weekly occurrence for cars to be stolen. The Chrysler brougham, owned by Michael L. O'Connell, 321 Pequot avenue, was found abandoned on Potter street. The other auto, a Nash sport roadster, owned by Attorney Samuel Crussin, 106 Vauxhall street, was found abandoned on Nathan Hale street.

CLEVER TAPPING WIRES BUT JOYCE GOT FOUND OUT

Howard Joyce, 38 Moore court, was arrested Saturday by Sergeant John Courtney on a warrant issued by Prosecuting Attorney Max Boyer charged with theft of electricity from the Connecticut Power company. Joyce was released in the custody of Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield and will be in the police court Monday. The arrest was the result of officials of the power company ascertaining that the man had tapped wires in the Moore avenue residence and was being provided with electricity for illuminating his home without paying for it.

Mrs. H. Cooper, 159 Connecticut avenue, reported to the police Saturday night that she had lost her purse, containing among other effects, $18.

MEN ON BOOZE SCHOONER HAVE CASES CONTINUED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, April 13.—The two-masted schooner Marianne, with New York its hailing port, was seized in Long Island sound late Friday by the crew of the U. S. Coast Guard patrol boat and a large quantity of liquor, including champagne was seized. The boat and its crew of eight, together with the contraband, was taken to the state pier. Late Saturday afternoon the crew, who gave their names as Patrick Ryan, New Bedford, Mass., master; Andrew Larsen, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Peter Hanson, Portland, Me.; Leo Vincent, no address; William Miller, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Jack Simonson, Brooklyn, N. Y.; William Murray, New York, and Andrew Jacobson, Brooklyn, N. Y., were arraigned before United States Commissioner Russell H. Corcoran, charged with smuggling and engaging in maritime trade other than that for which their license had been issued. The case was continued to the 28th inst., and bail was furnished by Louis Elfenbein, local bondsman. The schooner was sighted by the patrol boat crew between this port and Saybrook. The schooner being low in the water, the patrol boat headed for the schooner and boarding the craft a search of two hours revealed the valuable load of liquor, which was secreted in a most unique manner. Beneath the deck of wood was a layer of concrete and beneath this second deck is a third deck of wood. It was beneath the second wooden deck that the liquor was stored. Whether the liquor was shipped from a New Bedford port or whether it was obtained by receiving the supply from another ship, has not been determined.

NORWICH WOMAN AT NIANTIC—WATERFORD ONE FINED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, April 13.—Iola Richards Wyant, Waterford, was charged with lascivious carriage, but the charge was nolled. The Wyant woman was arrested Feb. 7, at the Star rooming house, 147 Bank street, with Orizi Carrier, formerly of 261 Franklin street, Norwich, and Leslie Grace and John W. Greenlaw, United States Coast Guard sailors, when the couples were found occupying rooms. The charges against the sailors at the time of their arrest were nolled and the Carrier woman was sentenced to the State Farm for Women at Niantic. The Weyant woman's case was continued to Saturday.

John Hulbert, 700 Williams street, was in the police court Saturday charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in driving while under the influence of liquor. The case was continued to next Saturday and Hulbert provided a surety on his bond of $100. He was arrested Friday midnight on Williams street by Automobile Patrol Officer Augustus Ray.

Dante Zuliani, 82 Truman street, was charged with speeding on Williams street and was fined $10 and costs. He was arrested at 1 o'clock Saturday morning by Officer Ray.

Douglas S. Porter, 575 Montauk avenue, charged with speeding on Williams street, received a penalty of $10 and costs. He, also, was arrested by Officer Ray.

YOUNG COLORED CRIMINALS HAVE AMAZING RECORD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, April 13.—The police Friday night and Saturday rounded up a pair of youthful crooks and since their arrest it became known that the pair perpetrated at least two store breaks and one robbery from a residence. The crooks are Charles H. Brown, 20, colored, of 11 Chappell street, and William H. Brown, 18, colored, of 243 Howard street. Both were in the police court Saturday. Probable cause was found and the youths were held in bail of $750 each for trial at the next term of the superior court. In default of a surety on their respective bonds the youths were committed to jail. The two youths have confessed to having brogen into the store of Andrew Gannon, corner of Huntington streets and the National Economy store, corner Main and Shapley streets, while William Brown has also admitted the theft of $80 from the home of Mrs. Johnson, of Broad street, Groton. Both youths have served time at the Meriden School for Boys. The arrest of the boys was the result of Charles Brown selling cartons of cigarettes to a man named Schuman, proprietor of a store on Main street. The police declare that Schuman was aware that he was purchasing stolen goods, but the store proprietor has not been arrested.

William Brown and Arthur Richardson, the latter also colored, but now at the Meriden School for Boys, having been committed from Hartford, planned to rob the Cannon store on the night of Sept. 20, last. The boys went to their homes after arranging the robbery and at 3 o'clock the following morning met in front of the store. Richardson went to a rear window and removed a light of glass, while Brown maintained a watch. Richardson entered the store and stole a quantity of cigarettes and $17. Richardson left the city a week later.

Brown went to the residence of Mrs. Johnson during November and while there was requested to do an errand. Mrs. Johnson went to her coat and removed a $1 bill from a roll of money and tendered it to Brown to make a purchase. When Brown returned to the house he watched his opportunity and stole the money, $80. He then left from New London, going to several cities, including New York. When the money had been spent, Brown returned to New London.

Brown and his companion on the night of April 2, robbed the National Economy store. The former during the day entered the store and while the attention of clerks was attracted elsewhere, Brown unbolted the rear entrance. The two Negroes then arranged for the store robbery and that night went to the rear of the building. In opening the door, a quantity of soda bottles in the steps was dislodged and the noise of the falling bottles attracted Mrs. Mary E. Hawkins, residing over the store. She notified the police and officers who went to the store, found the entrance open and the bottles scattered on the ground. The Negroes were in hiding and waited until after the officers had left before they resumed their operations. Entering the store, the youth stole 10 cartons of cigarettes. Charles Brown recently gave a sailor some of the cartons and the latter sold them to Schuman for $1 a carton, keeping 75 cents as compensation for his services. Brown sold the remainder of the cigarettes to Schuman.

William Brown was arrested in 1922 for breaking into the Groton high school and was sent to the state reformatory where he was released a year and a half later. In 1924 Brown struck a boy with a rock and was sentenced again to the reformatory, remaining there two years when he was again paroled. In 1926 Brown and John Lake, another youth, stole a boat and a bicycle and Brown was again committed to the reformatory. He was released in September, 1929.

Charles Brown was committed to the reformatory in 1922 for failure to attend school.

ANXIOUS TO COVER CARGO BOOTLEGGER GETS CAUGHT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, April 13.—Samuel Santangelo, Montaug avenue, was arrested this afternoon by Patrolman Henry Hick, charged with violation of the prohibition law, the specific charge being transportation. He furnished a surety on his bond of $1000 and will be presented in court tomorrow morning. Santangelo was driving on Bank street and at the corner of Montauk avenue, he disregarded an automatic traffic signal. Patrolman Hick signaled Santangelo to stop and when the latter did so, he was observed to cover something in the rear of the auto. That something it was revealed was two cans of alcohol. Instead of being arrested for ignoring a traffic signal, Santangelo was charged with the more serious offense.

Used Knife During Brawl.

Daniel J. Reddy, 39, of 33 Bank street, was arrested this evening charged with intoxication and breach of the peace and Edward Foley, 31, of Fishers Island, was arrested charged with breach of the peace. Both will be in court tomorrow. Foley and Reddy had been at an East New London resort drinking and when at the corner of Water and Halls streets, the pair quarreled. Reddy drew a pocket-knife and attacked Foley, inflicting a superficial wound on the neck. Both were arrested by Automobile Patrol Officer Elwood Bailey and Patrolmen Henry Hick and Dennis Murphy.

Children Missing.

Mrs. A. Schonner, 12 Couch street, reported to the police this afternoon that Billy Slock, 3 1-2 years, and Marion Coles, 6, were missing from their homes and requested that assistance be provided in locating the children.

Harry White, 42, employed as a truck driver and residing at 73 Belden street, was arrested this afternoon by Patrolman Henry Sylvia, charged with assault. White, it is alleged, went to his home, quarreled with his wife, finally attacked and beat her. The women went to Bank street and finding Patrolman Sylvia caused her husband's arrest. He will be in court Monday.

Miss Eileen Jackson, of Stonington; Mrs. Reubin Rawley, Noank; John MacCauley, Boston; Joseph and Florence Connelly, 27 Dell avenue; Mrs. Hibard N. Alexander, 565 Montauk avenue; Mrs. William McClure, 51 Sherman street; Edward Robbins, 47 Grenada Terrace; Morris Eichmann, 177 North Bank street; Frederick Bauerschmid, 32 Walde navenue, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged Saturday.

FUNERAL

Augustus H. Rowe

Augustus Henry Rowe, about 90, a resident of New London many years ago, died at his home in Boston, last Tuesday. The body was brought to New London Saturday for burial in the family plot in Cedar Grove cemetery. Mr. Rowe was a brother of the late William H. Rowe, of this city, who died several years ago.

Sol Kamsler, formerly proprietor of the store, 79 State street, has sold the store fixtures to D. K. Moses Co., of New York. Kamsler has also assigned the balance of his lease, which is until Jan. 1, 1935, to the Moses company.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel Saturday ordered the suspension of the drivers' licenses of James E. Hardee, United States Coast Guard; Charles Sisk, 303 Montauk avenue and Alfred H. Miller, 25 Learned street. Commissioner Stoeckel also ordered the return of the license of Raymond L. Vallee, 175 Bayonet street.

Mrs. Thomas H. Troland and Mrs. Annie McBride, of Lincoln avenue, are spending a week in Washington, D. C.

Dog Killed Hens

Mrs. Mary McGrath, 278 Crystal avenue, made complaint to the police Saturday that 12 of her hens had been destroyed during Friday night. Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin investigated, finding that one or more dogs had gained access to the hen house and had killed the birds. Some of the poultry was found beneath the hen house, while others were found in the yard. Dog Warden Trypn is in the yard. Dog Warden Tryon is continuing the investigation in the hopes of ascertaining the identity of the owners of the dogs.

An employe of the Colonial Gasoline Filling station made complaint to the police Friday night that the driver of a Lasalle automobile obtained 18 gallons of gasoline and then speeded away without making payment.

Several nights ago a sailor from the submarine base found a wallet containing $20 on the street and delivered his find at police headquarters. Saturday Frank X. Stevens, United States Coast Guard, state pier, identified the wallet and money as his property, and it was given him.

Flower Thefts Begin

Mrs. Blanche Edgar, 20 Channing street and Mrs. DeWolf, 47 Cedar Grove avenue, made complaint today to the police that vandals were stealing flowers from the premises of the two women.

Toney Venturelli, 17 Brewer street, was arrested Saturday night by Traffic Officer Dennis Cavanaugh charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in driving without a license. He will be presented in the police court Monday.

John R. Masse, U. S. Coast Guard, was arrested Saturday night by Patrolman Frank Linehan charged with intoxication and breach of the peace. He will be in court Monday. Masse was arrested near the corner of State and Bank streets where he was creating a disturbance.

Edward J. Roy, U. S. Coast Guard, was arrested on Jefferson avenue Saturday night by Automobile Patrol Officer William Corcoran charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. He was released upon furnishing a surety on his bond of $200 for his appearance in the police court Monday. Herman E. Tankenton, also a sailor, who was a passenger in Roy's automobile, was arrested on a charge of intoxication and obtained his liberty by supplying a surety on his bond of $25. He will be in court with Roy.

THE LONDON PACT

Terming the action which has been taken at the London conference as constructive and courageous, President Hoover regards it as a big step to world peace and conclusively sets forth his reasons for thinking so. Furthermore, he shows that he is in accord with the agreement which will be signed.

There was hope that it would be possible for the five nations to come to an understanding whereby all might sign a new naval pact. There was no assurance of it at any time. In fact, it was indicated after the calling of the conference that France and Italy would have difficulty in coming to an understanding. That has worked out as feared, but there have been certain concessions by those countries so that, with the signing of the three-power treaty by the United States, Great Britain and Japan, it is possible that Italy and France will later see their way and the wisdom of joining.

Getting a three-power pact where a five-power treaty was desired doesn't mean that the conference will be a complete success. On the other hand, it will by no means be a failure. There promise to be definite accomplishments, positive understandings which it has been impossible in the past to reach. It will mean a great economic benefit to each of the countries, being figured by the president as a saving of $2,500,000,000 for the three nations, the final abolition of naval competition and the end of distrust and suspicion which had done so much in the past to create rivalry in naval construction.

There has been reached an understanding in regard to cruisers and relative to the use of submarines. Just how effective this humanizing of submarines will prove to be in case of trouble is somewhat uncertain. But the fact is evident that another step has been made toward the goal of elimination, and as the merits of the new restrictions are recognized through trial it is to be expected that efforts in behalf of further progress in the right direction at some future date will get equally favorable attention.

In view of the long years of secret agreements and war preparations it is probably too much to expect that the fight to break them down can be wholly successful at one fell swoop. By steady advancement valuable ground is being gained and through the good example set by the three leading powers it is to be hoped that France and Italy will be convinced of the advisability of eventually making it a five-power pact.

THE Y. M. C. A. APPEAL

It is through its record of accomplishment that an institution's worth to a community can be measured. For a long period of time and from years when quarters were leased up to the acquisition of its own building, the Y. M. C. A. has been a constant source for betterment in Norwich. It has established a record of which it and the community may be proud. It has done much for the young men of this city and vicinity and in recent years it has opened up its physical department for the use of women and girls an afternoon and evening a week.

In the maintenance of such an institution at the highest degree of efficiency must be the desire of the citizens of Norwich. It is looked to to render certain services anr it meets the test. It caters to the needs of youth in a wholesome and gratifying manner. Every community has reason to desire its Y. M. C. A. to be the active and successful organization which the work it does requires. It is dependent to a large degree upon the community and its aim is to so direct and enlarge its work as to measure up to its responsibilities.

It is at this time of year that the management of the association makes its annual appeal for funds with which to carry on the work for another year. It is an appeal which deserves the heartiest consideration. The association has a record of achievement for the past year, one in keeping with its general record of excellence, that makes it apparent that it should certainly be continued, and enlarged if possible.

In the one-day campaign which is scheduled for today there is an opportunity for general cooperation. There is a chance not only to endorse the good work that has been done in the past but to make certain that there will be no let-up in the months and years to come. The Y. M. C. A. appeal is a community appeal.

CHANGING POSTAL RATES

Evidently for the purpose of getting public reaction from such a possible change, Postmaster General Brown in a New York address has called attention to the annual deficit that is taking place in his department each year and suggested that much relief might be obtained by increasing the rate on first class mail from two to two and a half cents an ounce. He was able to point out that the present two cent rate has been in effect since 1885, except for a period during the World war when it was advanced to three.

Studies are made from time to time for the purpose of getting facts upon which to base postal rate revisions. Changes have been made relative to the rate for other classes of mail and, while it can be pointed out that other classes do not all pay for the cost of handling, the situation there is not the same as with the first class where there has been no revision for 45 years except as a war measure.

The idea will serve to create a discussion. As a part of the deficit of the department it is realized that the free postal service accounts for about $35,000,000 of the $85,000,000, and that while costs of transportation, higher salaries and other departmental expenses have been boosting the outlay each year, and while advances have been made in the second and third class and parcel post rates the first class rate has been standing still. The postmaster general shows that if "postage rates had been increased to the average level of commodities the first class rate today would be three and a half cents an ounce, and if postage rates had been increased in the same ratio as wages and services, the letter rate would be seven cents an ounce."

The idea of increasing the first class rates would be to have the department become self-supporting. How long that would last or how soon it would mean appeals for new burdens to be placed upon the department no one knows. It is one of those adjustments that can be pointed to as needed as long as no action is taken, and the setting forth of the situation by the postmaster general can be expected to bring to the situation such attention as would not be received under ordinary circumstances.

OKLAHOMA'S TOLL BRIDGES

Out in the state of Oklahoma there is growing opposition to the toll bridges. Just how to get rid of them seems to be the question in the minds of the residents of that state. It is realized that it is possible to purchase the existing bridges or it is possible to erect new ones at state expense and set up such competition that the toll bridges will be driven out of business.

Between the two suggestions the idea of purchase is probably the sanest and the state highway commission of Oklahoma so believes. When it comes to the purchase of a bridge the age and condition of the structure must be taken into consideration quite as well as the business that is done by the owning corporation. It is apparent that should the state erect a new one adjoining, the toll bridge might as well be junked. It would have no future use for no matter how much sympathy there might be for the toll bridge owners not many people are going to pay toll if they can get bridge service free.

Wherever such a situation arises every possible effort should be made to reach a satisfactory agreement concerning the purchase price. It cannot be expected that an unwarranted price would be paid for such a structure when the state knows what a new bridge would cost and a free bridge would take all the business. It is only a matter of fairness, however, that the owners should be recompensed for their outlay. They have established a legal business, gone to much expense for the covenience of the public and if the state wants to get rid of it there should be little difficulty in getting a proper price basis on which to conclude the transaction.

In its desire to get rid of its toll bridges, Oklahoma is no different than other states, and yet Oklahoma cannot fail to appreciate the benefit which such structures have been. Oklahoma is now getting ready to build and maintain its own bridges on main highways. If there had been no bridges at these points until the state was ready to go ahead there would have been plenty of inconvenience and delay to the traveling public. The toll bridge owners stepped in and met the situation. They have probably made some money but in being put out of business it is only fair that the state should do what can be called a fair thing by them.

THE B. & M. PRESIDENT

When the Boston & Maine went out into the west and selected a man as its president, it was believed that it had not only chosen an able leader but one who would hold the office for many years. Most ably did President Hannauer serve that railroad. His accomplishments were many and important and but for death he would still be at the head of that system.

In the choice of his successor the railroad has elected Edward S. French, a practical railroad man and one who has had much experience in commercial enterprises. He is also a New Englander, which should bring to the road a combination of experiences which should provide an effective management. President Hannauer had done much in the way of rehabilitating the Boston & Maine but the new president has likewise had much valuable experience in that same direction. While his efforts have been confined to smaller roads, there is no reason to suppose that he will not be equally successful in handling the more important Boston & Maine.

This New England railroad is experiencing better days. It presents a condition that is much more inviting than was the case when the previous president was chosen. It is, in fact, in a far more encouraging position than at any time for many years. Thus, while much has been accomplished in order to place it there, there can be no disguising the responsibility that rests upon the shoulders of the new president in seeing that it is kept there and even bettered. With the placing of an experienced New England railroad man at the head of the road which figures so conspicuously in northern New England the best of results are expected.

EXTRA SPECIAL

For almost two weeks Nada had been blue and disconsolate about losing the $10 that she had so carefully saved out of her meager salary. She had hoarded it away a nickel and a quarter at a time in one corner of the top dresser drawer. When the amount had reached $10 she had exchanged the humble portions for a crisp new bill. The bill had disappeared. She had made a frantic search among her belongings, but all in vain.

Then one day at the office Mr. Weston, that much-sought-after young man who was the manager's assistant, without any forewarning whatsoever invited her to go with him to the employes' ball. Little jets of flame pulsed through Nada's cheeks and lighted the sparkles in her eyes. But suddenly she remembered that she had nothing suitable to wear to a ball.

"I'd adore going" she told Mr. Weston, "but, well—er—that is," and a flush of confusion blanketed her face. "I'm not sure that I can. Will you wait for an answer until tomorrow?"

Mr. Weston's eagerness to escort her seemed enhanced by her uncertain reply.

"Of all the nerve," observed a neighboring file clerk who had overheard the invitation and who would have given much to have claimed such attention from Mr. Weston, "Nada is certainly putting on airs, giving him the notion that she might turn him down." Quietly Nada toiled at her filing that day.

"If I just had some extra money," she kept saying to herself, "If I hadn't lost that $10—"

It was a gloomy Nada that quitted the store that evening. Already she was sure of the answer that she would give Mr. Weston. Out on the street, the newsies were ailing, "Extra, ee-extra, pa-po-ho."

"That's what I need, something extra," thought Nada, and paused before a shop window graced with an array of evening dresses. "Such simple and exquisite lines! If I had the money to buy some lilac chiffon I could copy that model in no time." She turned away with her fingers fairly itching for a pair of scissors and the feel of them snipping through filmy material. Farther on she was attracted to another window where great loops of lilac chiffon accentuated the display.

"Extra, ee-extra," clamored the newsies. The call flaunted like a tantalizing banner across Nada's comprehension, showing her just what she could not have.

"Gee," said Stella, her roommate, "you look like the last word in gloom." Nada tore the small felt helmet from her head and flung herself across the bed.

"I feel worse than I look and I'm not joking either," she replied.

"I've a date for tonight," sang Stella, passing over Nada's depression. "You don't mind if I leave the room in a muss, do you?"

From the pillows came the muffled sound of Nada's reply. As Stella's footsteps died in the hall Nada pulled herself up and viewed the chaos—a towel here, a stocking there, a splatter of powder all over the dresser. The disarrangement steadied Nada.

"Stella has all the dates and I do all the cleaning up," she reflected bitterly. Automatically she approached the bureau drawers and began to close them. "I've intended to clean them for ages. Maybe I'd just as well do it now." She pulled the top drawer out and dumped the contents on the bed. Carefully she separated and sorted the jumbled articles. The task was tedious and depressing. By the time she reached the lower drawer she was despondent.

"I should have told Mr. Weston when he asked me that I couldn't go," she reflected bitterly. "I knew then that I had nothing suitable to wear, but I teased myself into thinking that there might be a way—" She yanked the lower drawer wickedly from its moorings. A small paper fluttered from the back of it. Nada gave a shriek of delight. "My $10 bill! It must have fallen behind and got stuck!" she cried.

"Well, little wallflower," purred Stella sleepily from the doorway, "anything special happen while I've been away?"

"Something extra special," beamed Nada, "a chance for a dance, a date with a handsome young man and a lilac chiffon evening dress, and they're all for me, too."—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 13—(AP)—As a member of the California state senate from 1901 to 1913, representative Welch of that state should have very vivid recollections of the immigration problem which wound up in 1924 in Japanese exclusion.

And without doubt it is that background upon which was based the Welch bill to put Filipino labor on a quota immigration basis.

Unfortunate happenings in California make this third wave Oriental labor into Pacific coast states a matter of much concern both in California and in Washington.

Champion

But the Welch bill comes at a time when Philippine independence, for various reasons, is a very popular movement in congressional circles.

It finds such champions of independence as the eloquent and always-on-the-job Camilo Osias, resident commissioner from the islands with a seat, if not a vote, in the house, insisting that application of an immigration quota to the Philippines would be only "makeshift" handling of the California labor problem.

"What is necessary is to set us free," Osias said, and drew a round 24 Maytag .. .... 22⅛ 21⅝ 21⅝ of generous applause from the handful of members on the eoor.

"If we are to be treated as a foreign people for purposes of immigration, we must first be given the category of a free and independent nation," he added, and members from both sides of the aisle hurried to congratulate him at the conclusion of his speech.

All of which has served to recall to some in official life of long experience with Philippine matters, that if the islands are soon to be set free of American sovereignty, the question of what is to be done with regard to the million or so non-Christian tribesmen is apt to come up for sober consideration.

These tribes occupy some of the most desirable land in the islands. They include some half million Moros of Mindanao and Jolo with whom Spain was almost ceaselessly at war from 1571 to 1898.

Tranquility

There has been more tranquility under American rule that at any previous time in that long record of bloodshed.

No English account of the endless warfare between Spanish conquerors and the Moros existed up to 1903 when an army officer stationed in the islands, Lieutenant William E. W. McKinley, prepared from captured Spanish archives a full account.

It is contained in War Department publication of that year and makes interesting reading, written as it was at the timea young American army trooper, Captain John J. Pershing, was carrying out a series of pacification operations that won him again and again the thanks of the highest authorities in Washington.

Pershing was to become one of the handful of greatest military figures in the world. And in Captain Pershing's work, also, lay the beginning of insular tranquility.

What will Uncle Sam do to assure the future of the non-Christian tribes in the event of Philippine independence?

YOUR HEALTH

Child Health
By Agnes L. Rogers, Ph. D., Byrn Mawr College.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

Parents who want to give their children the best possible care are often handicapped by not knowing just what is "best." So in answer to many questions the following list has been made. It is worth memorizing, making a definite part of the family practice from the beginning of the child's life, and teaching him, so that by the time he is in the early grades he has learned that the child:

1. Sleeps twelve hours every night with open window.
2. Bathes regularly.
3. Uses individual towel.
4. Wears proper clothing, removing day clothes and wearing night clothes at night.
5. Dresses and undresses himself morning and night.
6. Uses toilet at least once a day.
7. Washes hands after going to toilet.
8. Brushes teeth thoroughly morning and night.
9. Eats only at meals.
10. Drinks the proper quantity of milk and water daily.
11. Eats some fruit and vegetables every day.
12. Does not each much candy.
13. Plays part of every day out of doors.
14. Avoids getting wet, wears rubbers, and removes damp clothing.
15. Goes directly home from school.
16. Is careful in crossing streets and boarding cars.
17. Goes very seldom to moving pictures.
18. Carries out directions of school nurse, doctor and teacher.
19. Has teeth examined by dentist every six months.
20. Is occasionally looked over by the family doctor.

Some of the above list should be practiced from the child's birth. Others can only be taught during the early years—always as soon as possible. But all should be thoroughly understood and habitually practiced by the time the child is in school. For these health habits do more than anything else to keep the well child well.

Editor's note: Do not forget that Thursday, May 1, is Nationay Child Health Day. Plans for the celebration of this day are under way in communities, clubs, schools and homes throughout the country. If you know of sugh preparation, give your cooperation. If there are no plans, start them.

President Hoover says: "The movement demands that no man or woman who enlisted in this cause last year or this year shall fall behind or fail to enlist others, so that each year the results will double until it has become a national habit, an almost sub-conscious impulse to remember the child wisely, constructively, from the day that parents are born until the day their children become parents; that is, always."

"The Treasures of Darkness"

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse: "I will give thee the treasures of darkness" (Isaiah 45:3).

Read: Isaiah 45:1-7.

MEDITATION: "The treasures of darkness!" This is a wonderful phrase to keep in mind. To believe that darkness has its treasures, is to rob darkness of its gloom. The author of the one hundred and thirty-ninth Psalm had no fear of darkness. "Even the darkness hideth not from Thee." The night has its gifts to the producing earth. Some discoveries may be made only in darkness. "Blessed are they that mourn," for they shall see things hidden from the joyous. A dear friend who has recently passed through great sorrow sent this message to me: "Tell him that now I know the meaning of George Matheson's lines, 'O love that wilt not let me go.'" Who makes that discovery never will let go.

PRAYER: Thou hast promised, Lord, a crown of life to him that overcometh. Give us hearts to welcome Thy severer blessings and in them find the clasp of Thy strong hand. In darkness as well as in light hast Thou hidden treasures for our spirits. Amen.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Light Footsteps

Judge not of things you do not know;
A seeming fact may not be so.
—Mrs. Quack.

Mrs. Quack the Mallard Duck sat on her nest in the little swamp at the head of the Smiling Pool. It was a very comfortable nest, lined with the soft feathers from her own breast. Under her were ten greenish-white eggs. Of course, she thought they were the most beautiful eggs in all the Great World. She was sure that there were no other eggs to compare with them anywhere. She dreamed about them as she sat there.

But with all her dreaming Mrs. Quack never for an instant failed to be on guard. Perhaps you think she had an easy job sitting there with nothing to do day after day. That is what Peter Rabbit thought. Peter used to visit her every once in a while. Peter is himself inclined to be somewhat lazy. He told little Mrs. Peter about Mrs. Quack's nest and how Mrs. Quack was sitting there.

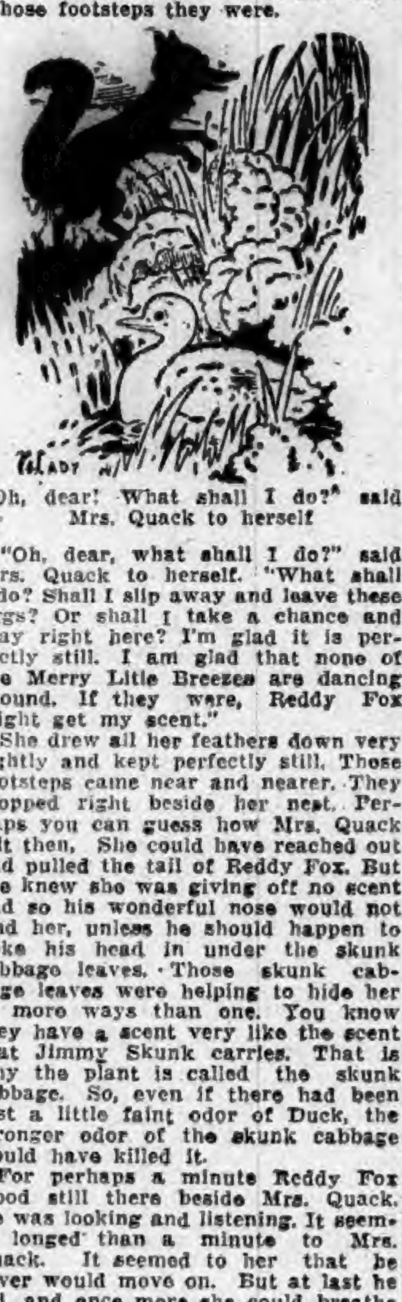
"I don't know of any one who has an easier time than Mrs. Quack," said Peter. "She has nothing at all to do but sit there. She certainly has it as easy as any one I know of. Farmer Brown's Boy knows that she and Mr. Quack are around somewhere and so he puts corn over in the Smiling Pool. All Mrs. Quack has to do is to get a good meal of corn whenever she wants it."

"That's all right, Peter," said little Mrs. Peter, "but I don't believe she has such an easy time of it. She must get very, very tired of just sitting there doing nothing. And then she must be anxious all the time."

"Anxious!" exclaimed Peter. "Anxious! Why should she be anxious?"

"Well, I know I would be in her place," declared little Mrs. Peter. "Suppose some enemy comes along. She's either got to take a chance that that enemy will not find her or she's got to leave those precious eggs of hers. No, sir, Mrs. Quack isn't having any easy time of it."

Little Mrs. Peter was quite right. Mrs. Quack was not having an easy time of it. She knew that that nest was well hidden, but she also knew that sharp eyes and keen noses were constantly visiting that little swamp and she must always be on guard. Once Bobby Coon had passed and it wasn't until he was over at the Smiling Pool hunting for frogs that Mrs. Quack dared draw a long breath. The very next night she heard light footsteps. They were very light, indeed. You and I wouldn't have heard them, but Mrs. Quack heard and she knew whose footsteps they were.



"Oh, dear! What shall I do?" said Mrs. Quack to herself

"Oh, dear, what shall I do?" said Mrs. Quack to herself. "What shall I do? Shall I slip away and leave these eggs? Or shall I take a chance and stay right here? I'm glad it is perfectly still. I am glad that none of the Merry Litle Breezes are dancing around. If they were, Reddy Fox might get my scent."

She drew all her feathers down very tightly and kept perfectly still. Those footsteps came near and nearer. They stopped right beside her nest. Perhaps you can guess how Mrs. Quack felt then. She could have reached out and pulled the tail of Reddy Fox. But she knew she was giving off no scent and so his wonderful nose would not find her, unless he should happen to poke his head in under the skunk cabbage leaves. Those skunk cabbage leaves were helping to hide her in more ways than one. You know they have a scent very like the scent that Jimmy Skunk carries. That is why the plant is called the skunk cabbage. So, even if there had been just a little faint odor of Duck, the stronger odor of the skunk cabbage would have killed it.

For perhaps a minute Reddy Fox stood still there beside Mrs. Quack. He was looking and listening. It seemed longed than a minute to Mrs. Quack. It seemed to her that he never would move on. But at last he did, and once more she could breathe easily.

CHILD TRAINING

Setting Examples For Our Boys and Girls
Helen Gregg Green

Rose-Marie always came to school looking as clean and sweet as a fresh little rose. Her hair was well taken care of, her hands and nails in perfect condition, her little wool dresses free from spits, her shoes carefully polished and her apron crisp and fresh-looking.

One day, when she had remained after school to help me and had carefully washed her hands and brushed her dress before putting on her coat, I said, "Rose-Marie, I've watched you from the time you started to school—a bit of a fluffy baby in the first grade, and I've never seen you when you weren't as neat and immaculate as it is possible for a little girl to be."

Rose-Marie smiled, pleased with her teacher's praise. "Mother always looks nice and so does Daddy," she answered simply.

A few days later I had a chat with Rose-Marie's mother, repeating what her little daughter had said.

"My deeds have borne fruit," responded the mother with a happy chuckle. "You see, Miss Dorothea, I've always loved a clean, sweet little girl, and as I didn't want to preach and nag, Daddy and I have tried to set the right example. Children are very observant and quick to emulate those they love and admire. Oh, it hasn't always been easy,"—the mother seemed to be reading my thoughts. "It's such a temptation to let down. After a particularly strenuous day's work I often think, 'If only I could stay the way I am and not dress.'"

"Yes, I know," I agreed, thinking of my often tired self after a difficult day at school.

"And then I'll say to myself," she continued, "'No, I owe it to Daddy and Rose-Marie to bathe, comb my hair and slip into a fresh house dress.' And it really is refreshing mentally, as well as physically, you know, Miss Dorothea."

"That's very true," I answered, "and I'm so grateful to you for telling me all this. I never realized before how much a parent's or a teacher's appearance means to a child."

"Yes," she replied, "we can't help being examples for our boys and girls. It's surprising what little 'copy-cats' children are. Rose-Marie often speaks of you. She notices your hair, your teeth and even the way you carry yourself. 'I want to look like Miss Dorothea, today,' she sometimes tells me. At another time, with a hug for me, she'd say, 'I want to look like my mother!'"

I went home that evening a very thoughtful "school marm," determined that I would remember that I was teaching not only "reading, writing and arithmetic," but many other things as well.

And a parent's influence? Well, its duration is exactly twenty-four hours long every day of the year—and year after year.

POETRY

A Problem Planetical

A planet to christen! How critical
A problem so cosmo-political!
Should we leave it to minds editorial,
Or make it a public memorial?
Choose a name that is purely poetical,
Or one that is part exegetical?
I care not, so long as we're merciful
And don't call the poor planet Percival!

There's Lowell, a bit ineffectual;
And Harvard is too intellectual.
Say "Nulite"—a trade name and trivial—
Or Hollywood—much too convivial!
The name may be most magisterial,
Or humble—the point's immaterial.
So long as we sponsors are merciful
Our sister world WON'T be called Percival!

Why "Leda"? That's not very notable.
Persephone? Not very quotable.
Take John—no, that's too apostolical,
And Pluto's a name diabolical!
So runs the word war astronomical,
Too serious still to be comical.
Whatever the vote (Lord, be merciful!),
Don't plant on the poor planet—Percival!

—Thomas Gilbert Brown, in Brooklyn Eagle.

The Whisper Of The Sands

Night and the golden glory of the moon
Above the undulant sweep of desert lands,
And borne o'er dusky dale and shimmering dune
The whisper of the sands!

Faint as the faintest ripple on the shore
Of Nile that holds its enigmatic spell;
Faint as the dawn-wind where tall palm-trees soar,
Or murmur in a shell!

Faint and inscrutable, freighted with the breath
Of ages that have long, long ceased to be;
Weighted with mysteries of birth and death,
Time and eternity!

And so I linger till the night grows old,
And the rose-blossom of the morn expands,
And hear these ceaseless marvels manifold,—
The whisper of the sands!

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The Mallory Hat Company, Danbury.

When Ezra Mallory opened his primitive hat shop in the Great Plain district of Danbury in 1823, he had two employes, and purchased many of his pelts from the Indians and Canadians, selling his daily output of three hats a day in Danbury and adjacent towns. Later, however, as his production increased, he reached the New York trade by way of stage coach and sailing vessel.

In 1838, his 16-year-old son, Ezra A. Mallory, left school to work in the little shop where the young man prepared to carry on the business after his father died in 1845. Seven years later he moved the business into Danbury, and in 1872 his son, Charles A. became associated with him, and in 1896 his other son William E. entered the business.

In 1910 the business was incorporated as the Mallory Hat company with Fred T. Joy, Harry B. Mallory and Thos. J. Bowen as members. oing direct to the retailer with their products, using advance ideas in publicity, and always maintaining a standard of value, has brought Mallory hat production up from three hats to 9,000 hats daily.

The Mallory Hat company is now one of the largest hat manufacturing organizations in the world, making soft hats, derbies, and straw hats for men, and tailored hats for women; and has salesmen and agencies throughout North and South America and portions of the old world.

The present officers are: C. A. Mallory, president; H. B. Mallory, vice president; F. T. Joy, vice president; W. E. Mallory, treasurer; T. J. Bowen, secretary.

GAVE FINE PRESENTATION OF STAINER'S "CRUCIFIXION"

The Central Baptist church had one of its largest congregations of the spring season at the Sunday evening service when special music for Palm Sunday was given in the rendition of Stainer's "Crucifixion."

The church quartette, consisting of Miss Jessie D. Guthrie, soprano; Mrs. Olive A. Potter, contralto; Frank Steinke, baritone, and Frederick J. Maples, tenor and director, had the assistance of Frederick S. Weld of New London, baritone soloist, and was augmented for the chorus work by the following singers: Sopranos, Misses Mary Gray, Flossie M. Meyer, Eunice Taft and Mrs. Maxon; altos, Mrs. H. T. Church, Misses Lucile Howard, Doris Myott and Florence Edwards; tenors, Rev. Percy Kilmister, Robert Gray and George Turner; basses, Charles Eaton, James B. Jackson and Benjamin Brown. Miss Louise Fuller was at the organ.

The solo work by Mr. Weld, Mr. Maples and Mr. Gray was done in fine form and the chorus numbers were sung harmoniously, making a notably well-balanced production for the enjoyment of the congregation.

The engagement of Adolph Korper, son of Mrs. Maud Korper, of Hartford, and grandson of Mrs. Mary Korper, of Willington, to Miss Alice Chester, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. T. Weston Chester, of Hartford, has been announced.

ROCKS AND R. I. REDS LEAD LAYING CONTEST

The hens in the Storrs contest have let up a little. Their record of 5,335 eggs in the 23rd week is 48 eggs less than for the previous week but 410 eggs better than in the corresponding week a year ago.

No significance attaches to the drop of four-tenths of one per cent during the past week, especially in view of the fact that the rate of laying was 762 eggs out of every 1,000 the birds could possibly be expected to produce. Translated into the usual terms production amounted to 76.2 per cent.

Plymouth Rocks and Rhode Island Reds managed to leave the Leghorns in the lurch and all the other varieties, too, for that matter, George B. Treadwell's pen of Reds from Spencer, Mass., topped the list with a weekly total of 67 eggs, a well-nigh perfect score. R. C. Cobb's pen of Barred Rocks from Littleton, Mass., finished in second place with a tally of 64 eggs. Two pens of Reds owned by Homestead Farms at Newtown, Conn., and West Neck Farm from Huntington, Long Island, tied for third with 63 eggs each.

There were so many contenders for fourth place that it appears as if the race should really be run off next week. Pratt Experimental Farm from Morton, Pa., and Hollywood Poultry Farm's pen of Leghorns from Woodinville, Wash., tied with 62 eggs each. But that's not all. Six pens of Rhode Island Reds made precisely the same score. They include John Z. LaBelle from Ballouville, Conn., Edward N. Larrabee from Peterboro, N. H., and four Massachusetts pens owned by Pine Hill Poultry Farm at Weston, Charlescote Farm of Sherborn, W. Otis Day at Westford, and Burdean Acres at Newton Center.

The leading pens to date in each of the principal varieties are as follows:

White Wyandottes—The Locusts, West Cornwall, 1,271; Fisher P. Farm, Ayton, Ont., Canada, 1,082.

Barred Rocks—R. C. Cobb, Littleton, Mass., 1,221; R. Walter Bishop, Guilford, 1,212; Spring Brook P. Farm, So. Wethersfield, 1,173.

White Rocks—E. H. Rucker, Ottumwa, Iowa, 1,077; Harold F. Barber, Valecroft, Dover, Mass., 1,001; Kalerok Farm, Westford, Mass., 980.

Rhode Island Reds—Harold G. Colt, West Hartford, 1,405; Edw. N. Larrabee, Peterborough, N. H., 1,343; Donald I. Goodenough, Torrington, 1,332; F. S. Chapin, Longmeadow, Mass., 1,319.

Mrs. Charles L. Strong

At 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon the funeral of Mrs. Charles L. Strong was held at her home, No. 5 Haywood avenue, Colchester, with a large attendance of relatives and friends. There were many beautiful floral tributes and mourners were present from Washington, D. C., Manchester, Ct., and Norwich. Rev. Herbert H. Tompkins, pastor of the Colchester Congregational church, conducted the service at the home and also the committal service at the grave in Linwood cemetery. The bearers were E. F. Bunyan, William Earhart, Swan Rathbun, and Dr. A. L. Stebbins. Undertaker C. A. Gager had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Marie Josephine Caron.

The funeral of Marie Josephine, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noe Caron, was held Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the residence of her parents in Baltic. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, Baltic. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertakers Dougherty Bros., of Taftville.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Following a four months' trip which took her around the world, Mrs. Gardiner Greene has returned to her home on Washington street. Since her return Mrs. Greene, her sister, Mrs. William H. Palmer and son, H. Reynolds Palmer who met her steamer, the President Harrison on its arrival, have been spending some time in New York.

In a setting of daffodils and forsythia, Mr. and Mrs. Flint Brayton, of Colt Lane were hosts Saturday evening at Lighthouse Inn at a dinner bridge for eight, in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Briggs, who returned recently from a tour abroad. The other guests were Mr. and Mrs. John L. Mitchell and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Worth.

Mrs. Alfred M. Haring with her guests, Mrs. Albert M. VanWagenen and Mrs. Harry E. Higgins, who are in Washington for the D. A. R. congress, motored to Mt. Vernon Saturday.

Miss Isabel H. Mitchell, of Broad street entertained with a supper-bridge Saturday, the decorations being beautiful spring flowers. Prizes at cards were won by Mrs. Foster Wilson. Miss Ida F. Spafford and Mrs. Harbert M. Lerou.

Mrs. Joseph Laughran, who motored from Washington for a brief visit with Mrs. Peter Berry, of Hartford, and Pequot avenue, was honor guest Saturday at a luncheon party at Lighthouse Inn which Norwich friends attended.

Miss Mary Porteous, of Broadway, who had as vacation guests her two nieces from Portland, Maine, accompanied them home and is visiting at the home of her nephew in Portland.

Mrs. Albert Lewis is the guest of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Lewis, in Bridgeport.

The regent of Faith Trumbull chapter, D. A. R., Mrs. Albert M. VanWagenen was invited to pour at a tea given Sunday from 4 to 7:30 in the Fairfax room of the Hotel Willard, Washington, by Miss Katherine Nettleton, for the Connecticut Daughters. Miss Dorothy Willment, regent of Mary Silliman chapter, Bridgeport, poured at the same time.

In Ethiopia the better class servants have slaves as their personal attendants.

PLANNING FOR OUTDOOR CEREMONIES TO INSTALL PRES. KATHARINE BLUNT

Something more than 100 universities, colleges and preparatory schools, most of them in the east but some of them as far away as California and Texas, have been invited to send delegations to the inauguration of President Katharine Blunt at Connecticut College for Women, which will take place at New London, on May 16.

Plans for the event are now well under way, and the largest gathering ever assembled on the campus is expected to be present. The speakers at the inaugural exercises will include President James Rowland Angell of Yale, President Henry Noble McCracken of Vassar, President Ellen I. Pendleton of Wellesley and Dr. Blunt. At the luncheon following, the Hon. Ernest E. Rogers will preside and the chief address will be by Dean Gordon J. Laing, of the graduate school of the University of Chicago. Among the other speakers at the luncheon will be Miss Elizabeth Johnson of the Baldwin school at Bryn Mawr, Dean Irene Nye, representing the Connecticut college faculty, and Constance Green, retiring president of student government. Two purely social events will be the tea given at the opening of the art exhibition in the Knowlton salon on Thursday afternoon preceding the inauguration and the large reception the evening of that day, also in Knowlton salon, in honor of Dr. Blunt and the visiting delegates.

With no college chapel or auditorium, and no hall on the campus large enough to accommodate even the usual commencement guests, the committee in charge of the plans for the inauguration have been faced with the problem of deciding where the exercises should be held. It seemed far more desirable to celebrate such an event on the campus than in any of the larger auditoriums which the city offered. The only solution seemed to be, to hold the exercises out of doors. The quadrangle between Plant and Blackstone halls has been chosen, and the entire space will be enclosed with canvas awnings. To make this possible, several trees have had to be removed. And even in this space it will not be possible to accommodate all of the many friends who have manifested an interest in the growth and development of the college. For this reason a necessary limit has had to be placed on the number of invitations which may be sent out. The list will, however, include in addition to the scholastic delegates, the parents of the students now in college, the alumnae, many friends of the college and prominent men and women from all over the state.

The scholastic procession will be a most imposing spectacle. The varicolored hoods will represent universities all over the world. The procession of delegates will be led by the student body, acting as escort, and following them will come the trustees and faculty of the college, the noted speakers for the occasion, state officials and other distinguished guests.

The delegates will be entertained at the Mohican hotel. Luncheon will be served to them, following the exercises on Friday, at Thames hall. A picnic lunch for students and alumnae will be served in the quadrangle. Several special exhibitions will be open and students will act as guides to the visitors who will be invited to go through the buildings, visit the new botanic garden and thus become better acquainted with the college.

FIRST LUTHERAN CHURCH EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHUR

The morning service on Palm Sunday at the First Evangelical Lutheran church was of a specially interesting character, opening with a Beethoven prelude, The Glory of God in Nature, played by an orchestra consisting of Frank Decker and his son Frank, Adolf Heinrich, Alvin Kaempffe, George Helmboldt and son and Frank Christ. This was followed by the processional as the girls' chorus came into the church singing "Fairest Lord Jesus," and followed by the confirmation class with the pastor, Rev. Carl Storek. During the processional the large congregation which overflowed the church rose and remained standing until the processional hymn was announced. After the introit, Gloria Patri and apostles' creed, two members of the confirmation class knelt at the font for baptism, after which Lloyd Thompson, a brother of the two candidates, sang "Calvary."

The sermon by the pastor was from Matthew 7, 13-14, setting forth the two ways. The class was admonished to chose the narrow way which leads to life. If they should get discouraged they should remember that everything that is worth striving for is reached only by hard labor, and that they are not alone on this narrow way, but like a mighty army moves the church of God. There is an eleventh commandment that is helpful in this striving: See ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness and all these things shall be added unto you.

After the sermon there was the consecration of the altar and pulpit vestments given by Mrs. J. Banfield and Miss Louise Heibel in memory of their mother. Two new offering plates also were dedicated, one given in memory of Elmer Burdick by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Burdick, and the other by Mr. and Mrs. John Seidel. The new equipment which was consecrated in this service adds much to the beauty and dignity of the interior of the church.

The girls' chorus which functioned for the first time in this service sang "In The Silence Of His Presence." This junior choir will later be enlarged and vested, but it will serve only occasionally because the church has a large regular choir which sings every Sunday and has rehearsals every Friday the year through. After this, the beautiful rite of confirmation took place in which eight young people renewed their baptismal vow and were received into full membership. "Thine for Ever" was sung by Miss Olga Zachae.

Quite a large congregation remained for the holy communion service, which followed immediately with the singing of the confessional hymn, "Just As I Am." The catechumens received their first communion, followed by previous classes and many others who came to take part of the sacrament of the altar. The "Sanctus" and "Agnus Dei" were sung by choir and congregation at the conclusion. Thus the First Lutheran church, with its many friends and visitors who came to take part in a divine service, observed the usual Palm Sunday confirmation, characteristic of Evangelical Lutheran churches all over the Christianized world. The church was profusely decorated with a great variety of palms, plants and flowers which were given by different friends, groups and organizations of the church. William Gross had charge of the decorating.

TELEPHONE INCREASE FALLS SHORT OF QUOTA ESTIMATE

Some interesting facts bearing on business conditions in the state and indicating an improvement in the past month, are furnished by the increase in telephones in the Southern New England Telephone company's system for the quarter ended March 31.

During that period the net gain in telephones was 2,796 throughout the system, a figure which is 904 short of the gain estimated for the first quarter by the company's engineers, and somewhat less than the gain during the same quarter of last year.

The brightest side of the business picture portrayed by telephone development is furnished by the 17 exchanges in the Bridgeport district, where there was a net gain of 1,036 telephones, but four short of the district's quota for the period. There was some betterment in conditions in the New Haven and New London districts during March as compared with the first two months of the year but both fell short of their quotas, indicating that the business recovery has not penetrated to the smaller exchanges in the south-central and north-eastern parts of the state.

Methodist Evening Service

The Sunday evening service at Trinity Methodist church followed this order: Organ prelude, W. S. Huber; hymns, Nos. 128, 133, 141; Scripture reading, John 19, 1-16; offertory, "There is a Green Hill Far Away," Gounod; sermon, Rev. Joseph Cooper, "Pilate's Question"; prayer; benediction; organ postlude.

California's mining history began in January, 1848, when James Marshal discovered gold in a ditch being dug near a sawmill.

WINS DIVORCE FROM AIRMAN SHE MARRIED IN STONINGTON

Mrs. Mona G. Brow of Edgewood, R. I., was granted a divorce from Lieut. Harold J. Brow, prominent aviator, now stationed at the naval air station at San Diego., Cal., Thursday afternoon by Justice Edward W. Blodgett in the superior court at Providence. She was awarded the custody of a minor daughter and was given $150 a month for the support of herself and child.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Brow were married in Stonington, May 5, 1923, by Rev. Henry M. Thompson, then pastor of the Stonington First Baptist church. They have been separated for the past two years.

The divorce was granted on the grounds of extreme cruelty after depositions of Mrs. Brow, her mother, Mrs. Minnie E. Seazey, and Celia Wittum had been read before Judge Blodgett. At the request of the counsel the court ordered the papers sealed. The charge alleged mental cruelty, according to the testimony.

Lieutenant Brow won fame as an aviator when he shattered the world speed record in 1923 by piloting a navy plane 244.15 miles per hour at Mineola, Long Island. He flew the first plane from which a torpedo was launched successfully and has invented apparatus for airplanes.

CENSUS TAKERS HERE FINDING SOME DIFFICULTY

The Norwich census takers have run up against more or less trouble as they have in other sections of the state, but no serious difficulties have arose, calling for the arrest of persons who are unwilling to co-operate, it was announced Sunday evening by Judge Otto B. Robinson of Willimantic, supervisor of this district. Some trouble has been found by the enumerators in the sections where the foreign element predominate and the work is very slow and tedious. The chief complaint here is that the persons are unable to answer questions.

Supervisor Robinson stated Sunday evening that although the workers are required to complete their work by the required date, April 15, he did not feel that he could hold them all to that time because of conditions existing in certain sections and would allow them a leeway of a day or two. He stated that it was probable that he would make his report on the census taken in the city limits by May 1, but the complete returns will not be submitted until later, probably by the first of June.

ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF ABDUCTING HIS DAUGHTER

Sought since Oct. 22 on a charge of abducting his 15-months-old daughter from the home of her mother in Sprague, Zepherin Gagne, formerly of this city, was arrested here Saturday by State Trooper John H. Smith of the Groton state police barracks. He was brought to the barracks for questioning and will be arraigned in the town court of Sprague, at which time the arresting officer will ask that he be remanded for trial in the superior court.

Gagne took the child, according to the state's allegations, after he and his wife separated, and in the past six months he has been trailed by the state police through several states and into Canada, but he always succeeded in evading capture. Saturday morning Trooper Smith obtained information that the man had been seen in this city, and he immediately began the search that resulted in his capture.

MILL OVERSEER SUES DRIVER OF AUTOMOBILE

Damages of $3,500 are sought in a suit filed in the superior court with Clerk John H. Walker by Homisdas J. Gladue of Taftville against James J. Wade of Lisbon. Gladue is suing as the result of injuries received on April 1 when he was struck by a machine owned by Wade as he was crossing the Norwich-Taftville highway in front of the No. 2 mill of the Ponemah company. The plaintiff claims that he was hit through the negligent operation of the car by Wade.

According to the complaint Gladue received a broken left collarbone, two broken ribs and other injuries that confined him to the hospital and prevented him from continuing his employment as overseer at the Ponemah mills at the weekly wage of $50 per week.

PLOWING AND SEED BED PREPARATION DEMONSTRATIONS

The New London County Farm Bureau is co-operating with several machinery dealers represented in this section in arranging a plowing and seed bed preparation demonstration. The demonstration will be held on the farm of William B. Lathrop on Thursday, April 17, starting at 10 a. m. Mr. Lathrop's farm is located about a mile west of the Norwich fair grounds on the Salem turnpike.

The primary purpose of the demonstration is to show proper adjustments for tractor and horse drawn plows in order that all track and debris will be plowed under. The purpose for showing this is to teach better methods in controlling the corn borer. Many plows used by farmers are not adjusted properly to do a good plowing job.

Another purpose of the demonstration is to show proper seed bed preparation for clover and alfalfa seeding. This complete process will be shown including plowing, sowing, lime harrowing, cultipacking, inoculating, sowing seed and covering by cultipacking.

W. A. Stockbridge, United States assistant on European corn borer control work in Connecticut will be present to explain attachments and adjustments for borer control.

F. W. Knipe, agricultural engineer, from the Connecticut Agricultural college, will talk on "Good Plowing," while J. S. Owens, extension agronomist will have charge of the seeding demonstrations. The ladies society of the Leffingwell Baptist church will have a stand where lunch may be obtained.

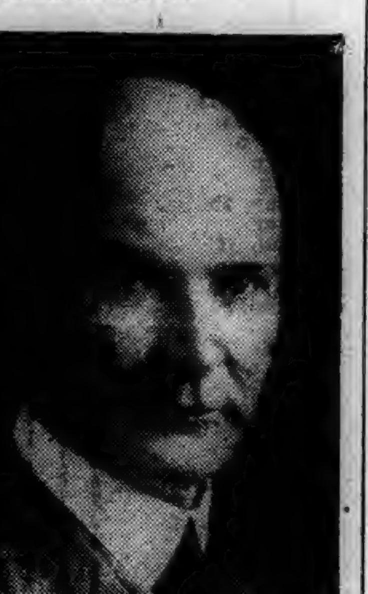
The machinery for the demonstration will be furnished and demonstrated by Silas Leffingwell, international representative, Eldredge Hardware Co., John Deere representative and A. E. Shedd, case representative, all of Norwich; Woodhouse and Company, Massy-Harris representative, of New York.

The program as scheduled is as follows:

10 a. m.—Demonstration starts. 10-12—Plowing continuously, tractor and horse drawn. 12-1—Lunch. 1-1:30 p. m.—Plowing. 1:30-2:15—Fifteen minute explanation of plow adjustments by Mr. Stockbridge or assistant on European corn borer. 2:45-3:45—Seedbed preparation, (disk and cultipacker). 3:45-4—Inoculation of alfalfa seed and comments on seedbed preparation by Mr. Owens. 4-4:30—Planting the seed alfalfa. 4:30-5—Inspection of individual plows by visitors.

GOVERNOR TRUMBULL TO OPEN NORWICH BROADCAST

The Norwich broadcast series which begins next Friday evening over station WTIC at Hartford, is to be introduced by Governor John H. Trumbull, according to word that has been received here at the chamber of commerce office, through which the series is to be put on the air.



GOVERNOR JOHN H. TRUMBULL

Governor Trumbull will speak for possibly a minute or a minute and a half, having readily accepted the invitation to introduce the Norwich broadcast when the invitation was presented to him, thus representing the state to the radio audience and at the same time contributing to the "Forward New England" movement, which the states of this section are engaged in.

NO ROOM FOR CHRIST IN LIVES, SAYS PREACHER

A vast number of people on Broadway do not want Christ in their lives, said Rev. Brian Murphy of the Passionist Monastery at Union City, N. J., in a brilliant sermon delivered Sunday evening at the final in a series of Lenten services held at St. Patrick's church. Why is it the great outside can not appreciate Christ, the saviour of mankind, and His lofty ideals. Yet, this is nothing new, it is not strange or to be wondered at. When Christ himself was here on earth we find Him rejected and despised by His own people. He urged his listeners to look into their lives and see if they are choosing Christ or rejecting Him.

The preacher pointed out that parents should co-operate with God in teaching their children religious principles and refrain from leading scandalous lives before their children. Heroic is the man and saintly is the woman who can keep God's commandments in these days when no matter where you turn you run up against evil suggestions.

We must be armed with faith and our hearts burning with love for God if we hope to vanquish the evils on all sides, not only visible but invisible. We must reject these evils and align ourselves with Christ, if we expect Him to love us, love us most.

The preacher pointed out that holy week was dedicated to the passion or sufferings of Christ. Let us make all weeks dedicated to Christ's passion and sufferings and form our lives after the cross and the example of the life of Christ. Reject evil, sin and temptation, so that Christ will bestow upon us on the last day our just reward.

The musical part of the service was given by the choir under the direction of Henry J. LaFontaine, the solo and chorus numbers being rendered with excellent effect. The vespers by Rosewig were sung, the soloists including Mrs. Bernard Coyle, Miss Sadie A. Driscoll, and Walter LaFontaine. The Gregorian Magnificat was used. At the offertory Henry J. LaFontaine sang in excellent voice "The Palms" of Faure, Mrs. Coyle accompanying.

PRESTON JUNIOR CLUBS GAVE FINE PROGRAMME

The Preston Poultry and Busy Bees clubs held an entertainment Saturday at the Congregational church, Preston City, under the direction of their leaders, Miss Florence Kennedy and Mrs. Walter R. McClimon. Nearly 100 persons enjoyed the entertaining programme, which was as follows: Club song, club members; selection on Jews' harp, Charles Crary; play, Clothesline Gossip, by three girls; solo, Janis Crary; reading, Clarence Zundell; accordion selection, Mary Stankey; harmonica number, Dorothy Butler; play, The Project Club, by ten members.

Refreshments of cocoa and cake were served, after which games were played under the leadership of Randolph Whaples. The proceeds from the affair are to be used by the delegates in attending the junoir short course at Storrs this summer.

COUPLE ARRESTED FOR KIDNAPING A CHILD

QUINCY, Mass., April 13.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Whittev were arrested at their home here tonight on a Taunton warrant, charging them with kidnaping nine year old Helen Anderson, daughter of Charles Anderson, of Taunton, last night. Police said the girl was found with the couple.

Mrs. Whitley, according to the authorities, met Helen last summer in Canton while the girl was on her vacation and became so fond of her that she tried to persuade her to come and live with them. Later, she visited the Andersons several times and asked them to let her adopt the girl, but Anderson and his second wife, Helen's stepmother, refused.

Last night, police said, the Whitteys came to the house while Mr. and Mrs. Anderson were away and took Helen.

Oh Boy! What Joy LIFT CORNS RIGHT OUT

The English Way

Right from England comes the new, better, joyful way to take out corns—root and all.

Callouses go also and you can rub off that hard skin on heels and toes with your hand—the magic treatment.

Ask Lee & Osgood or any leading druggist for a package of Radox—put a tablespoonfull in a gallon of hot water—do this for 3 or 4 nights in succession—then lift out the corns.

This joyful exhilarating foot bath is simply great—you'll enjoy every minute of it and your burning, sore, tired, aching feet will feel better than they have for years—ask for Radox and foot comfort will be yours.

Health Better Than Riches

"Before I was married, my mother and sister and I did all the farming work on a 64-acre farm for eleven years. I married a farmer and now in addition to my housework and the care of my children I help him with the outside work on our farm. After my last child was born, I began to suffer as many women do. Our family doctor gave me medicine but no results. One day he told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did and now I am a new woman and I know that good health is better than riches."—Mrs. Clyde I. Sherman, R. #1, Lickdale, Pennsylvania.

LOSING WEIGHT? MAYBE IT'S WORMS

MYSTERIOUS loss of weight may mean that your little one is harboring worms which are robbing her of nourishment. Worms are much more common than most mothers think.

Look also for the following symptoms: grinding of teeth, picking the nose, crossness, crying in sleep, offensive breath, loss of appetite, nausea or general restlessness. Any one of these signs may be your warning that worms are present.

Wise mothers take no chances with these dangerous and disgusting childhood pests. Even if worms are only suspected they give the child

BIG LEAGUE MANAGERS HOPEFUL ON EVE OF OPENING OF THE SEASON

(By Hugh S. Fullerton Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer)

The note of optimism rings louder and clearer than ever as major league baseball teams await the opening of the 1930 season, today in Washington and Tuesday around the circuits.

Despite training injuries to several stars, including Babe Ruth and uncertainties here and there arising from other causes, there is hardly a team in either league which does not believe itself capable of making a real fight for the pennant or finishing in the first division.

The two champions of 1929, the Philadelphia Athletics and the Chicago Cubs, are brimming over with confidence that they will repeat their triumphs. The world champion Athletics are standing pat on the lineup that carried them to victory last October. Manager Connie Mack has added a group of youngsters for reverses but expects the same regulars to do most of the work.

Joe McCarthy, manager of the National league champions, has strengthened the one serious weakness in his lineup by acquiring Lester Bell to play third base, and with the return to form of Leo Hartnett, the Cub catching department is much stronger.

Eight new managers in the two leagues have joined the hopeful chorus and most of them seem to have good reason for their optimism.

The New York Yankees, under the guidance of Bob Shawkey, have added a pair of rookie sluggers to their lineup and now seem to have but one doubt. That concerns the probable or possible effects of Babe Ruth's now celebrated Charley Horse. The Chicago White Sox and St. Louis Browns, with Donie Bush and Bill Killefer as the new holders of the guiding reins, both appear much stronger than last year, due principally to increased hitting power. The Cleveland Indians, likewise strong contenders in the American league race, are about "set" with the same team as last year.

The National league race looks very much as if it might produce a few upsets because of new strength added to the weaker clubs while most of the favorites are in early trouble. Philadelphia and Brooklyn both have served notice that they intend to be in the running.

The Phillies, with a fine array of sluggers, no longer are in the habit of finishing in or near the cellar while the Robins, with a better pitching staff than ever, have found a real infield now that Glenn Wright's arm is working and Jake Flowers has recovered from hampering illness.

Pittsburgh's Pirates are having difficulties with illness which seem more serious than Rogers Hornsby's injured heel, the only trouble in the Chicago lineup. Lloyd Waner has not recovered properly from an operation and Pie Traynor is having eye trouble.

The New York Giants are in doubt about their outfield although Manager McGraw appears certain the untried Eddie Marshall will plug the hole at second base.

Under the new management of Gabby Street, the St. Louis Cardinals are banking on improved pitching to keep them in the fight.

At Cincinnati Dan Howley has added a few heavy hitters whom he expects to put the Reds into the first division.

Only Boston's two teams, the Braves and the Red Sox, seem far out of the running, but since the acquisition of Burleigh Grimes, even the Braves may move up a bit.

ACADEMY METS FIRST HIGH SCHOOL TEAM WEDNESDAY

With three tune-up games now history, the Academy baseball team starts on its campaign to regain the state high school title this week with two games, both at the campus.

Wednesday, Killingly high from Danielson will be here, and Saturday the "mighty atom" school, Deep River, home of good players, furnishes the opposition against the Wildcats. Neither of these games is being taken lightly by the Red and White, for they realize that they cannot afford to toy around with anybody this year if the championship of the state is to return to Norwich after an absence of one year. To add to the interest of Saturday's game is the first outdoor uniformed appearance of the school band.

In the three games so far, against the Richmond Radiators, Norwich Fire department and Alumni teams, in that order, 27 runs have been scored against eight for the opposition and 16 hits have been made against 22 for the opposing forces.

DEBUT OF WOLFF WEEK'S BOXING HIGHLIGHT

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP)—A few high spots, most of them notable for their oddity rather than their importance, mark the national boxing schedule this week.

The battles range from the professional debut in New York city of Allie Wolff, former intercollegiate middleweight champion from Penn State, through the weekly appearance of Primo Carnera at Oakland, Cal., Monday, to a three-round exhibition by Jack Johnson, who lost the heavyweight championship in 1915, at Boston. The other two of these fistic freaks take place Tuesday night.

In the matter of importance, the appearance of Panama Al Brown, who is recognized as bantamweight champion here and there but not in Ohio, as a ten rounder at Toledo Tuesday night holds the best spot. Brown meet a local battler, Kayo Morgan. His title, such as it is, will not be at stake.

In New York, the leading encounter is a ten rounder tomorrow night between Ted Sandwina, Sioux City, Ia., heavyweight, and Napoleon Jack Dorval of Emporium, Pa. The winner is scheduled to meet George Godfrey in the semi-final of the Milk fund program which features Jack Sharkey and Max Schmeling.

Carnera's opponent this week is, as usual, the largest but not the best available, Leon Chevalier, 225-pound San Francisco Negro. The bout will take place in the Oakland, Cal. baseball park.

The former collegian, Wolff, is due to battle six rounds at the Broadway Arena, New York, Tuesday against Jerry Garfield of New York. Jack Johnson's exhibition with "Gentleman" Jack O'Brien is a feature of the Boston Tuesday program which has a ten rounder between Dick Finnegan of Boston and Johnny Farr, Cleveland lightweight, as its principal attraction.

Other fights on the nation schedule include:

Monday—At Chicago, Ted Goodrich, Atlanta, Ga., vs. Duke Tramel, Oklahoma City, welterweights, 10. At Louisville— Elmer Bezenah, Cincinnati, vs. Jack McCarthy, Chicago, welterweights, 10.

Tuesday—At Los Angeles, Joe Anderson vs. Dave Shade, middleweights. At St. Louis—Otto Von Porat, Chicago, vs. Jack De Mave, New York, heavyweights, 10.

Wednesday—At Cincinnati, Joe Medill, Chicago, vs. Billy Rose, Cincinnati, welterweights, 10.

Thursday—At Los Angeles, Home Sheridan vs. Joe Peregrina, middleweights.

THREE METROPOLITAN TEAMS READY FOR OPENING GUN

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP)—New York's three major league baseball clubs await the opening of the season in splendid physical condition and with one exception "set" for the opening of the season. The Giants may do some last minute tinkering in the outfield.

Of the three, Brooklyn seems to have shown the most improvement. With Glenn Wright's throwing arm in shape again, Jake Flowers playing second base as well as he ever did and Jim Elliott, big southpaw, who was a casualty last year, well again, the Robins promise to make serious trouble. Manager Robinson has an old and young pitcher, Adolfo Luque and Ray Phelps, added to his staff and a promising young catcher in Alfonso Lopez.

The Yankees open the season with two youngsters in the regular lineup, Ben Chapman at third base and Allan (Dusty) Cooke in left field. After slow starts both have picked up momentum as the time for the acid test approaches. Babe Ruth, in spite of an annoying charley horse, is ready to start another campaign for home runs. The Yankees may have to depend on last year's pitchers for the bulk of the work.

The Giants must experiment with a green youngster, Eddie Marshall, at the yawning hole at second base and a last minute trade brought Walter Roettger from the Cardinals to play an outfield position. Manager McGraw expects several young pitchers will come through and that Larry Benton will regain his winning form, misplaced somewhere along the path last season.

ST. LOUIS CLUBS LOOK FOR BETTER SEASON

ST. LOUIS, April 13.—(AP)—The Cardinals will be relying upon improved pitching and the Browns hoping for better hitting, when the two St. Louis major league entries take up the flag chase Tuesday.

Both clubs have new managers, each of whom moved up from a coaching job last season, Gabby Street piloting the Cards and Bill Killefer leading the Browns.

Killefer has shown his club strong on defense but weak on hitting. The Browns have a new right fielder in the slugging rookie, Ted Gullic, and Hale, third sacker obtained from Philadelphia, has strengthened the infield.

Street expects his pitchers to stage a comeback, aided by Flint Rhem and Al Grobowski. He has switched Frankie Frisch from second to third, putting Adams, formerly of Pittsburgh, at second. He will be forced to start with two outfielders, Orsatti and Peel, on the sick and injured list, but with Fisher, Martin, Watkins and Blades in reserve.

Sylvester Johnson, young Cards' hurler, probably will open against the Chicago Cubs here, with Jimmy Wilson behind the bat. Killefer figures to pitch either Sam Gray or Alvin Crowder, against the Tigers at Detroit, with Dick Ferrell catching.

ATHLETICS PITCHERS HOLD ORIOLES TO 3 HITS

BALTIMORE, April 13—(AP)—Four Philadelphia Athletics pitchers held the Baltimore Orioles to three hits in an exhibition game today and the world's champions scored a 1 to 0 victory. Two fast double plays by the International leaguers prevented the Athletics from sending additional tallies across the plate. Score:

Philadelphia (A) 000 100 000—1 7 0
Baltimore (Int) 000 000 000—0 3 1

TAFTVILLE BOWLERS CLASH WITH AETNA TEAM TONIGHT

This evening at the Aetna alleys the Taftville bowling team will clash in a special match with the Aetna Five. Keen rivalry exists between the two teams and a torrid match is expected.

FINAL GAMES IN CHURCH LOOP TONIGHT

Six of the Church league teams will end their season at the Y tonight when the last full schedule of three games will be played.

In the first game at 7:30, the two out-of-town entrants, Jewett City and Baltic, will engage in what will probably be a very exciting game. In the last contest between these two contestants Jewett City lost by only two points, and those two because Gray shot a basket for his opponents. The Stronghearts have made this their objective game, and intend to close the season with a victory to their credit.

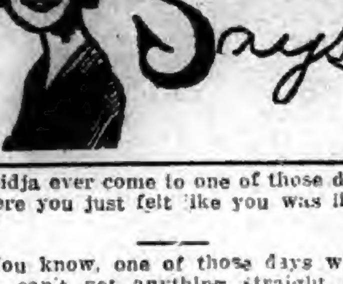
The second game of the evening brings together the second and third place clubs in a battle for second place. A Trinity win tonight will leave the outcome in doubt until after the Central-Trinity game, while a B. O. J. win will assure this team of second place, as the league ends, not so far below the Gammas. Both teams are good on team work, although the Trinity team is a little better. The Brothers have the balance in their favor in scoring power and as a result a good game will be the outcome.

The third contest of the evening is likely to be the best played game of the evening as the Gammas, league champions, are favored to win from the Phi Delta Nu of the United church. The Gammas, fresh from two slaughters at the hands of the Hartford Central Baptist church, intend to show what they can do to teams of their own calibre. On the other hand, the Deltas in their last games have upset the first division clubs and, continuing their good playing, intend to take a fall from the winners. A Delta win will not affect the Gammas' championship.

The one remaining game on the schedule after tonight's games will probably not be played unless in case of the tie of two teams. The managers of the Central Baptist and Trinity Methodist teams are asked to be at the Y. M. C. A. before the start of the first game at 7:30 tonight to discuss this matter.

The league standing:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
Gammas	10	1	.909
B. O. J.	8	3	.727
Trinity	6	4	.600
Baltic	5	6	.454
Central	5	6	.454
P. D. N.	4	7	.363
Stronghearts	0	11	.000



Didja ever come to one of those days where you just felt like you was licked?

You know, one of those days when you can't get anything straight and all you seem to want to do is sleep and sleep and sleep.

And then when you are doing your best to put your mind on something some bird who has less to do than you comes and hangs over your shoulder and wants to know what you are doing.

Gosh, that's what I'm up against right this minute. Here I am so doggone tired and sleepy that the old bean don't work a little bit but yet I'm trying to write.

Somebody just looked over my shoulder and says, "Say, Susie, that's a lotta hoey."

Them's true words, McGruder.

Good Night.

GAMMAS BEATEN BY HARTFORD BAPTISTS AGAIN

Saturday night at the Hartford Y. M. C. A. the Gamma club of the Greek church lost the last game to the Hartford Central Baptist church. The score was 62 to 23, and the game showed a good fighting attempt on the part of the locals to make a good showing. As in the last game the height of the Hartford team made it next to impossible for the diminutive Gammas to make any headway. Branscomb and Gifford were the high scorers for the Baptists while Economos and D. Angelos played a good game for the losers. The summary:

WHITE SOX NOSE OUT GIANTS IN 15TH INNING

CHICAGO, April 13—(AP)—A double by Dutch Henry, a Giant cast-off, followed by Ernie Smith's single in the last half of the 15th inning today gave the Chicago White Sox a 5 to 4 victory over New York's National league entrant, in the final game of their training series.

The Sox had the game all won until the Giants broke out with three runs in the ninth to tie the score. Bill Terry hit a home run off Ed Walsh, Jr., who had succeeded Ted Lyons as the Sox pitcher. Ott walked, Jackson doubled and Wallie Roettger, who joined the Giants today, singled, to drive in the tieing runs.

A crowd of 23,000, a record for an exhibition game in Chicago watched the long battle. Score:

N. Y. .... 000 000 103 000 000—4 8 1
Chi. ..... 002 000 200 000 001—5 9 0

LEFTY DUGAS GOING STRONG WITH WICHITA

According to reports drifting into Norwich, Lefty Dugas, Taftville's contribution to organized baseball, has made a great start with the Wichita club of the Western league. Playing in the "Rio Grande league", a spring training group of four Western league teams, Dugas is batting at a .400 clip and now and then popping out a home run. Lefty connected for one on March 31, being one of seven men in the game that day to hit for the circuit. Wichita is leading this "league." The regular season will open April 19.

BRAVES WIN CITY SERIES FROM RED SOX

BOSTON, April 13—(AP)—The Boston Braves won the annual spring city series with the Red Sox in two straight by defeating their American league rivals, 4 to 1 at Braves field today. The contest was played in a sprinkling rain before 2,500 persons. Berger, the Braves' new left fielder, collected a triple and two singles, knocked in two runs and crossed the plate himself with a third. Each team used two batteries. Score:

GIBBS HITS HOMER TO WIN GAME FOR ACADEMY OVER A FAST ALUMNI TEAM

CHUBBY GIBBS

The Academy's baseball team won a tight game from the Alumni Saturday at the campus in the annual tilt by the score of 3 to 2, a home run in the seventh inning by Capt. Chubby Gibbs providing the margin of victory. It was Gibbs' second homer in three games and it was also the second game he has won for the Red and White in this manner. Chubby pasted the ball over the center field fence with one gone and no one on.

It was one of the best Alumni games ever played. The Academy, after being held scoreless in the first three innings, counted a pair in the fourth and were never headed thereafter, although severely pressed at all times. The graduates scored their runs in the sixth and eighth.

Pitching Very Good

The pitching was in mid-season form with Louie Green, last year's southpaw, going the distance for the Alumni and allowing eight hits and fanning eight men, while Butsy Weisgraber and Boots Greene divided the N. F. A. pitching burden. Boots started off and went the first six, allowing four hits, one of them very scratchy, while Weisgraber finished and allowed but one bingle in the three stanzas he toiled. Greene's strikeout ball was not working but he was never in any real danger and expects to be able to go the distance the next time out.

The scoring opened in the fourth when Reardon singled into right as a starter and went around to third when Tombari let the ball get through his legs. Fontaine hit a fly into right, which Tombari misjudged and then fumbled, Reardon scoring and Fontaine making second. Pepin then doubled into right, scoring Fontaine. Breen got an infield hit, Pepin stopping at third, and Berghinzo was hit by a pitched ball, filling the bases, but Greene fanned to end the inning.

The Alumni got one back in the sixth when Green beat out a hit to Reardon and went to second when Greene threw wild to first in attempting to catch him off the bag, scoring a moment later on Kampf's Texas leaguer into left. Gibbs, the next inning, connected for his Ruthian smack, putting the count at 3-1 and the scoring closed in the eighth when Matthews of the Alumni walked, took second when Arico let a throw from Weisgraber get by him, went to third while Fitzgerald was throwing out Hamil and scored on Tombari's hit close to the right field foul line.

Breen Leads Hitters

The Academy did not look any too potent at bat, earning but one of their runs, that the homer. Mickey Breen, with three in four, and Gibbs, with two out of three, were the main threats with the stick although Reardon also had a good day offensively, getting on base three times in his four trips to the plate, twice on walks and once on a hit. In its two real games, the team made eight runs in 18 innings, five against the Richmond Radiators and three Saturday. However, when the strength of the opposition is taken into consideration, this may not be so bad and also two of the veterans who are bound to hit this year, Bud Fontaine and Alec Arico, have not yet struck their stride.

Jerry Fitzgerald provided the fielding feature on the Academy side Saturday with a nice play on Hamil's hit into short right field while Pepin closed the game with a long running catch off Burns. Kampf's work at short featured for the Alumni.

WILDCAT SCRATCHES

There was the usual early-season crowd, about 700 or 800.

The past and the present in Academy third basemen were on display with honors about even. Hal Cummings, the 1929 dizzy corner guardian, collected a long double and got on base on an error in his four tries, while Breen, the present tenant, had three nice hits, one a double, in four trips. Both played errorless ball. Cummings' double, going to the firescapes, ranked next to Gibbs' homer as the longest hit of the day.

Chubby's hit was a line drive that cleared the fence with some to spare.

Kirk Wilcox played in his usual form.

Pop Richards, recently recovered from illness and who is expected to be one of the mainstays of the team in the May and June campaign, was on the bench, still a bit weak. He expects to come out for the team again in about two weeks.

Coach Brigham used 12 men, somewhat of a come-down from the 19 that saw service against the Firemen, making it easier for the scorer.

The team gets down to practice again today in preparation for its opening scholastic game Wednesday, against Killingly.

Here's the way the Academy boys are numbered: Gibbs, 11; Arico, 12; Fontaine, 13; Reardon, 14; Breen, 16; Berghinzo, 17; Pepin, 18; Geer 19; Crowell, 20; Flather, 21; Weisgraber, 22; Fitzgerald, 23; Greene, 24. Coach Brigham has No. 15.

YANKEES BUNCH HITS TO BEAT OUT ROBINS

NEW YORK, April 13—(AP)—The New York Yankees ended their preseason exhibition schedule today by beating the Brooklyn Robins, 8 to 5, to gain an even break in the two-game series. The Robins did more hitting, but the Yankees were more successful in bunching their blows and were aided by three Brooklyn errors.

The deciding runs were scored in the fourth inning when Glenn Wright threw the ball into right field trying to catch Combs at second and let two men cross the plate. Another run in the fifth and two in the seventh completed the victory. Score by innings:

Robins .... 100 301 000—5 11 3

TIGERS RALLY IN 9TH TO BEAT OUT TORONTO

DETROIT, April 13—(AP)—A five run rally in the ninth inning gave the Detroit Tigers a 9 to 8 victory over Toronto club of the International league today in an exhibition game. The Tigers were awarded the winning tally on a balk by Harrison, Toronto pitcher.

The Tigers went into the last half of the ninth on the short end of an 8 to 4 score, but six hits and Harrison's balk accounted for the necessary runs. The balk was called on a bluffed throw to third. Score by innings:

Toronto .... 102 400 001—8 10 1

PIRATES END SPRING EXHIBITIONS WITH WIN

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 13—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates ended their spring exhibition campaign today with a 5 to 1 victory over the New Orleans Pelicans of the Southern association. The Pirates won 16 of their exhibition contests and dropped 14.

Ira Flagstead, Pirate outfielder, led the batting attack against New Orleans with three hits in five times up. Score by innings:

Pirates .... 020 300 000—5 11 0
Pelicans .... 000 100 000—1 7 2

Brame, French, Spencer and Hemsley, Hargreaves, Bool; Kleinhaus, Stewart, Barnhart and Anderson.

Silver Bullets Win

Sunday afternoon at the Hickory street campus the Silver Bullets defeated the Hickory street Pirates by a score of 21 to 9. The winning lineup is: Catcher, John Trantales; pitch, Capt. Malogrides; first, Mathew Wilski; second, Edward Kiecolt; shortstop, N. Ververies; third, Charles Romanoski; left field, Herbert Kiecolt; center field, John Ververies; right field, Joe Romanoski.

The heavy hitting was by John Trantales, and Mathew Wilski.

TROJAN A. A. DEFEATS THE BALTIC SOCIAL CLUB

The Trojan A. A. baseball team opened its season with a bang Sunday at Baltic defeating the Baltic Social club nine by the score of 9 to 3. Bob Stockwell, Trojan hurler, was in rare form, letting his opponents down with five well scattered hits and striking out eight men. Stockwell and Frink, also of the winners, were the leading hitters, each with four hits in five trips to the plate.

Hyrack, at short for the Trojans, and a former Bridgeport Central high player, handled six chances flawlessly. The Norwich team pounded out 14 hits.

The Trojans challenge any team averaging 18 years.

CUBS LOSE LAST GAME OF THE TRAINING SEASON

KANSAS CITY, April 13—(AP)—The efforts of a pair of recruit pitchers, Al Shealy and Malcom Moss, were not equal to the business at hand and the Chicago Cubs lost their final training season contest to the Kansas City Blues, 10 to 9.

Shealy gave nine hits and five runs in five innings, and Moss was punched for six hits and five more runs in two innings. Lou Warneke finished. Rogers Hornsby retired in favor of Clyde Beck at the end of the fourth inning. Score by innings:

Blues .... 032 003 20x—10 15 1

Shealy, Moss, Warneke and Hartnett, J. Taylor; Thomas, Warmouth, Maley and Peters.

Browns Take City Title

ST. LOUIS, April 13—(AP)—Behind the masterful pitching of Walter Stewart and Dick Coffman, the St. Louis Browns today won the city championship, defeating the Cardinals, 4 to 0. It was the first time in a number of years the 2-game series has not ended in a tie.

Manush, with two doubles and a shoe string catch, was the hero of the Browns' victory. Score by innings:

TROUT FISHERMEN WILL BEGIN SEASON TUESDAY

More than 30,000 anglers in this state are expected to take advantage of the opening days of the trout season, which will begin Tuesday, April 15, and at least 40,000 will be licensed before the end of the fishing period. These estimates are made by the state board of fisheries and game, based on statistics of other years including the actual count of fishermen on streams and the number of licenses issued in the state.

A pamphlet has been prepared giving information about regulations which govern the use of leased streams and other waters and many facts concerning important laws relating to angling. These are being distributed by wardens, patrolmen and at the office of the board of fisheries and game.

The pamphlet instructs anglers that licenses are required of all persons 16 years of age or over, including women, on state-leased waters. Permits are required for those under 16, which are obtainable, without charge, at the office of the board, from county wardens and patrolmen.

Under the regulations, anglers must keep within ten feet of the banks of the stream. Where step-overs are provided, they must be used. Cultivated or open lands must not be crossed without permission. Building of fires is not permitted without permission of the fire warden and consent of the landowner. Spearing is not permitted in any state-leased stream without permission from the board. Motor vehicle parking is not permitted in front of bar-ways, or inside bar-ways without permission of the owner. Designated entrances and exits must be used. Posted instructions must be followed. The creel limit on Snake Meadow brook is 15 trout; on other streams 20 trout.

Included in the information issued for the benefit of anglers by the board is the following:

Licenses: Issued upon application to clerk of town of residence; expire Dec. 31, are non-transferable, must be carried on person at all times while fishing. License buttons must be worn and displayed on outer clothing of licensee.

Fees: Resident citizen, $3.35; non-resident and alien, minimum, $5.35. Exemption: Resident or lineal descendant of resident may fish in waters on land owned or leased by him on which he is actually domiciled.

Trout, other than lake trout, season April 15 to June 30, inclusive; legal length, six inches; limit, 10 pounds in one day or 20 trout. Sale prohibited. Transportation prohibited, except by owner.

Fishing in lakes and ponds: Season, May 1 to Jan. 31. Not to be taken except by angling and with not more than two lines or two rods. Use of more than two baited hooks or lure with more than three sets of three hooks attached thereto, prohibited.

In charge of all warden activities is Chief Warden A. Joseph Williamson, whose headquarters are at the office of the board. A list of wardens in charge of warden service in each county follows: Hartford county, Charles Allshouse, Granby; New Haven county, Philip W. Delbert, Short Beach; New London county, W. S. Watson, North Franklin; Fairfield county, Charles R. Disbrow, Stratford; Windham county, Thomas G. Daniels, Plainfield; Litchfield county, Seth J. Monroe, New Milford; Middlesex county, George J. Fisher, Middletown; Tolland county, Edward G. Wraight, Rockville.

JIMMY QUINN SIGNS FOR PRO BOUTS

Jimmy Quinn, local amateur boxing sensation, is through with the simon pures and will start on a professional boxing career next month. This was the announcement made by Jackie Burns, local boxing promoter, last night. Quinn will make his professional debut at Olympic hall where Mr. Burns is to conduct boxing bouts.

Mr. Burns said last night that he intended to stage three boxing shows at Olympic hall during May and had signed Jimmy Quinn for three bouts. Quinn will box only four rounds bouts for the present and will appear only in the preliminaries.

Quinn has been one of the most popular boxers that the city has ever had and he has a wide following among local boxing fans. During his amateur career he has won the state amateur featherweight title and has competed several times for the national title. Most of his boxing in the amateurs has been done in Providence where his cleverness won him a host of admirers and he was one of the favorites of the cards on which he boxed.

Last week Quinn fought in the national amateurs at Boston but after winning his first bout he was eliminated in a second round bout by Ray Myers of New York, who eventually won the national 125-pound title. Quinn put up a nice battle against the champion but Myers' ring experience stood him in good stead against the local boy.

No opponent for Quinn has been signed as yet by Promoter Burns but it is expected that a good boy in the featherweight class will be brought here. As for the other bouts on any of the three cards that will be put on next month Promoter Burns would not say other than that the fans can expect plenty of action at the Olympic arena.

A ring has been set up in the hall and arrangements are being made for the handling of the crowds that are expected to attend the bouts.

An elm tree, estimated by tree experts to be over 300 years old, and cared for in luxurious style out of funds provided in a will, stands in the Andrew Bayne Memorial park in Bellevue, a suburb of Pittsburgh. Jane Bayne Teece, who died nearly a decade ago, provided a large fund in her will to perpetuate the elm, the property of her family for generations. Every year hundreds of dollars are paid to tree surgeons to care for the stately tree, thirty-two feet in circumference and 125 feet high. Holes are dug yearly to allow the pouring of fertilizer on the roots and the tree stands in a brick pit to allow it "breathing space."

PLAINFIELD WINS SOCCER TITLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PLAINFIELD, April 13.— Rallying in the last half of the game the Plainfield soccer team clinched the title of the Eastern Conn. Soccer league by beating the J. B. Martin team 1 to 0 here this afternoon. The game was one of the best played in the league this season and the outcome was in doubt right up to the final whistle. The champions found stiff opposition in the Velvetmen and the teams battled on even terms in the first half.

The second half was even faster than the first and was marked by some hard playing. About midway through the half Joe Barrett made a neat shot for the only goal of the game. Allard, Mette and Barrett featured for the Plainfield aggregation while Thompson was the star man for the Velvetmen. The summary:

Plainfield		J. B. Martin

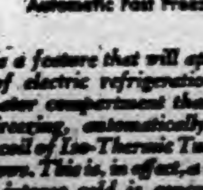
Iso-Thermic Tubes
.. the automatic self-starting device for fastest freezing of ice and desserts ..



Iso-Thermic Tubes for Automatic Fast Freezing

Here is a feature that will appeal to every user of electric refrigeration—a special Kelvinator compartment that gives extra-fast freezing, automatically. Note the spiral coil of Iso-Thermic Tubes, indicated by arrows. This is, in effect, a Cold Plate, in which intense cold is concentrated. Ice cubes and desserts are frozen in half the usual time. Yet food compartments are not affected. A feature exclusive to Kelvinator and standard equipment on all 1930 Kelvinator models.

FOR 15 years, Kelvinator engineers have striven to make electric refrigeration more trouble-free, more automatic, more complete in the service it renders to users.

Iso-Thermic Tubes, for example, are found only in the new Kelvinators. Built around a special freezing tray, this new device automatically starts freezing operations when a tray of water or dessert is placed within. Ice cubes and frozen desserts are prepared in record time. There is nothing to watch or regulate.

But Kelvinator design carefully keeps this extreme cold in its right place. A separate temperature—scientifically correct for proper preservation of foods—is automatically maintained in the food compartments. Thus, food cannot be spoiled through freezing or too high a temperature.

With all their improvements in fully automatic operation and in far finer cabinet designs, the new Kelvinators are most moderately priced. See them today and learn how easily you may enjoy this modern refrigeration service now through Kelvinator's attractive ReDisCo monthly budget plan.

SLIGHT PICK UP IN RETAIL TRADE REPORTED AS EASTER APPROACHES

NEW YORK, April 1?.—(AP)— Further seasonal improvement in building operations and reports of a slight pickup in retail trade as Easter approaches, were reassuring factors in the business developments of the past week. General business recovery, however, continued gradually and irregularly.

Steel operations sagged moderately, reflecting smaller takings of steel for railway and heavy construction purposes.

F. W. Dodge's corporation's reports of March building contracts let in the states east of the Rockies, showed a total of $459,119,000, which registered a full seasonal increase of 43 per cent over February, and was only five per cent under March of 1929. Heavy engineering and construction work is in large volume, but residential building continues a sore spot.

One of the most encouraging statistical evidences of business improvement was a survey of bank debits, regarded as a good index of the total volume of business, made by the Harvard economic service, showing more than a normal seasonal increase of late. Freight car loadings, however, continue at the lowest levels in recent years.

Commodity prices continued to show greater stability, wheat was somewhat depressed in the latter part of the week and cotton sagged late in the week in sympathy with Liverpool and Bombay. Crude oil prices were increased in the mid-continent and Texas fields, making an end to the price cutting began early in the year to restrict production and prevent the continued piling up of surplus stocks.

NEW YORK, April 12—(AP)—George A. Harden, chairman of the board of directors of the Universal Pipe & Radiator company, states that current business is running above the corresponding period last year, and that the outlook is extremely encouraging as a result of the recent expansion in building activities throughout the country. "Our business in January was poor," Mr. Harder said. "February showed some improvement and March ran ahead of the same month last year. April business to date is running above March. We are bringing out a new product of stainless steel, made under the new pressure weld process, details of which will be given to the public within the next few weeks."

Losses in 1929 due to robbery of freight while in transit on the railroads of this country and Canada were the smallest for any year since 1914, although the volume of traffic is now 57 per cent greater than it was 15 years ago, the American Railway association reports. Robbery losses last year amounted to $757,902, a reduction of $170,760 or 18.5 per cent below 1928, and $11,969,144, or 94 per cent below the 1920 figure, in which year robbery losses were the greatest for any one year in the history of the railroads.

A review of newspaper advertising in 1929, issued by the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers association, shows the automotive industry spent the largest amount of any single group, 23 companies manufacturing cars and trucks having invested a total of $64,245,000. The total for the year, the bureau reported, was $260,000,000, a record figure. The report further showed the linage of some groups had increased from 25 to 30 per cent.

The Walker Dishwasher Corp., of Syracuse, N. Y., which was recently acquired by the General Electric Co., has been changed from a New York to a Delaware corporation. A new capital structure is being effected whereby the new company will have an authorized and outstanding 53,000 shares of no par common stock, consisting of 17,700 shares of Class "A" and 35,400 shares of Class "B" stock. Holders of the old common stock will receive shares of the new "A" stock on a share basis, and in addition a stock dividend of one-tenth of a share for each share held. Holders of the old Walker preferred stock will receive an equal number of shares of new 7 per cent preferred stock.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre

What might be considered one of the most experienced cast in dialogue films ever assembled was called together by William de Mille to make "The Idle Rich," his all-talking picture for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, which opened at the Breed theatre last night.

"The Idle Rich" is a human interest story of a middle-class American family who lived in a typical large city flat of a decade or so ago. Romance and drama enter the household when the beautiful daughter, a stenographer, played by Leila Hyams, marries her millionaire employer, Conrad Nagel. He has very democratic tendencies, despite his wealth, so to prove to his bride's family that he considers himself to be no better than they are, he comes to live with them. How the difficulty is solved to the happiness and welfare of everyone provides a climax rich in human interest and comedy.

Palace Theatre

One of the most exciting all talking and sound pictures which has ever been made is now at the Palace theatre and will be shown until Tuesday. It is the "Lost Zeppelin," a tale of love and daring which describes the flight of a Zeppelin to the South Pole with Conway Tearle, Virginia Valli, and Ricardo Cortez heading a notable cast.

Combining romance and adventure, many of the scenes of this production are laid in the Antarctic environs. This is Tearle's first big chance in the talking pictures and he proves himself to be worthy of the praise which was his in the old days when he was a matinee idol.

Tearle is seen as the commander of the Zeppelin "Explorer" which is making an expedition to the South Pole. Virginia Valli is the commander's beautiful wife whom he adores.

The Zeppelin, mighty though it is, cannot combat the tremendous violence of the gales and is dashed against a mountain of ice. The survivors are left with a small food supply and the canvas covering of the dirigible for their only shelter. Death quickly takes its toll and Armstrong and Hall are soon awaiting the same fate together.

Distress signals were sent out just before the ship was forced down and an airplane which picked them up comes to the rescue of the two men. There is room for only one passenger in the plane, however, and the commander orders the younger man to go, believing that the happiness of his wife depends upon his return. The picture ends with many surprising incidents and is particularly dramatic in its conclusion.

Another double-feature bill will be presented at the Palace beginning Wednesday and continuing through Friday. This bill will combine "New York Nights," based on the stage hit "Tin Pan Alley," and starring Norma Talmadge and Gilbert Roland, with "Troopers Three," featuring Rex Lease, Roscoe Kearns, Slim Summerville and Dorothy Gulliver.

Tonight is ladies boudoir set night at the Palace.

Broadway Theatre

With but today and tomorrow remaining of the engagement of "Lord Byron of Broadway" at the Broadway theatre, the whole town is humming and whistling the lifting melodies of "Should I" and "Just a Bundle of Old Love Letters," from that scintillating musical comedy-drama of the boys and girls of "Tin-Pan Alley," where the popular songs come from. Starting as a cabaret pianist, Roy Erskine, played by Charles Kaley of the "Vanities," pounded his weary piano, hoping for the day when a real inspiration might bring him recognition, but it remained for the little cafe cashier to set his feet on the rosy path when in going over some old mementoes, he found a theme in "A Bundle of Old Love Letters." Fame came quickly and with it money — and women. Forgetting his first love the gay philanderer flitted from girl to girl, from easy love to easier love, until he faced the stone wall of despair, his inspiration gone, his ambition lacking. A chance meeting with an old flame sets him right again, and together they seek and find success and happiness. Mr. Kaley has an excellent cast in support, with Cliff Edwards, Ethelind Terry, the original "Rio Rita," petite Marion Schilling, Gwen Lee, Benny Rubin, and the clever Albertina Rasch dancers who furnish many striking ensembles. Much of the acton is in technicolor. "Lord Byron" differs from most "musicals" in that it has a distinctive and natural plot, in addition to the many musical and spectacular numbers. The surrounding program includes Charlie Murray in a featured comedy "The Duke of Dublin," Bert Roach and Johnny Arthur with Ruth Taylor, "that dangerous blonde" in "Scrappily Married," and the latest Paramount Sound news.

CONTINUANCE IN CASE AGAINST WILLIMANTIC DRIVER

Charged with reckless driving, Alphonse Pellerin of Willimantic was presented Saturday morning before the city court but trial of the case was continued until April 19, to await the recovery of two persons, brother and sister, who were injured when struck by Pellerin's machine in Occum Friday night. The injured persons are Ernest Peltier, 18, and Viola Peltier, 20, of Occum.

The accident happened near the Occum mill about 10:30 o'clock Friday night. After striking the young man and his sister, the machine continued for about 200 feet, when it grazed a telephone pole, mounted the curbing and tore down several feet of the mill fence.

The injured persons were attended by physicians and later went to their home. Peltier is suffering from abrasions of the legs and arms and a cut on the head. His sister is suffering from a wrenched back.

ELECTRIC SIGN MOTOR AT THEATRE OVERHEATS

Notified by police headquarters Sunday afternoon that there was smoke at the front entrance of the Broadway theatre, Acting Chief D. J. Brennan and one of the firemen at the central station went to the theatre and found that a motor inclosed in a small box on the outside of the theatre, and which operates one of the flashing electric signs at the theatre, had become overheated and started to smoke. The firemen shut off the motor.

Seeks Divorce For Desertion.

Matilda Wartjes Seidel of the town of Norwich is being sued for divorce by George Seidel of Lisbon, who alleges desertion since Feb. 24, 1927, according to papers filed with Clerk John H. Walker in the superior court. The couple was married June 4, 1919.

COOLIDGES WILL FIND PRIVACY ON ESTATE

NORTHHAMPTON, Mass. April 13.—(AP)—A desire to escape the throngs of curious may have prompted the Coolidges' purchase of their new estate here, "The Beeches."

Last summer many tourists had no compunctions about ringing the Coolidge bell at the Massasoit-street home, in the hope that the ex-President or his wife would come to the door.

Others parked outside the house for hours, waiting for Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge to appear. Thousands of curious people drove past the modest two-family tenement.

From the cramped little Massasoit-street home, only a few feet back from the sidewalk, to the pretentions nine acres surrounding "The Beeches," almost entirely invisible from outside the gates, is a great change.

Mr. Coolidge has indicated that he has not yet decided whether to leave the gates open and allow tourists to drive around the roadway that encircles the yard of his new estate, or merely to let them peer in from outside. It may depend on the pilgrims' behavior.

The 16-room mansion of "The Beeches" is approached by a 140-foot roadway, bordered by attractive flower gardens. Two tennis courts are screened by rose arbors and hedges.

The house is a three-story, rambling structure, with greenish-gray shingles covering walls and roof. It faces on the meadows, to which the lawn slopes in elaborate terraces. Beyond is a view of the Mt. Tom and Mt. Holyoke ranges. Part way down the embankment is an outdoor swimming pool, screened by trees and shrubs.

The main floor includes a large living room, cozy open-hearthed library with space for 5,000 books, a music room, dining room, kitchen and servants' quarters.

On the second floor are bedroom suites and sleeping porches. A billiard room now occupies part of the third story.

White House Easter Egg Roll Has 'Lost Children's Garden'

WASHINGTON, April 13—(AP)—A rose garden of lost children will bloom at the annual egg rolling on the white house lawn Easter Monday.

Girl Scouts will preside over the garden where children who have become separated from their guardians will be kept and comforted.

Each year many small children get lost in the crowd which swarms through the white house gates during the day. It is necessary to have a place to keep them.

So the rose garden, which adjorns the south side of the white house, will be used as a lost and found bureau. The Girl Scouts will circulate in the crowd locating the lost parents or guardians.

Mrs. Coolidge always took a particular interest in the lost children and often came down upon the grounds to mingle with them.

When the last child has departed at 4.30 p. m. an army of 60 men will advance in a long line across the littered white house lawn. Long hours of work will be necessary to rid "the president's yard" of all traces of the egg rolling. Every bit of paper, shells sandwiches and banana peel must be picked up.

Just being a child is ample passport to the white house grounds on Easter Monday. No adult can get in unless accompanied by a youngster.

The crowd will begin to assemble long before 9 o'clock when the gates are opened. Policemen will be stationed all about the grounds. Vendors of colored balloons, paper rabbits, pop corn and peanuts will line the curbing outside the grounds.

Most of the children will come supplied with hard-boiled colored eggs and lunch baskets. The adults will visit together, enjoy the feeling of being in the white house yard, listen to the Marine band and wait for the moment, along in the afternoon, when the President and Mrs. Hoover appear on the south portico to bow and smile.

SENATE FLOOR INVADED BY GIRL SECRETARIES

WASHINGTON, April 13—(AP)—Girl clerks and stenographers have broken into the sacred precincts of the senate floor.

For the first time in history feminine members of the senators' official families have appeared on the floor to supply ammunition for fervent speeches.

Doris Swayze, secretary to Senator Frederick Steiwer of Oregon, supplied him with facts about lumber during one of his recent speeches demanding a duty on his product.

Ruth Elder, 23, stenographer in the office of Senator Norris of Nebraska, came warily upon the senate floor in response to the senator's request for a certain file. She went out again quickly. But Miss Swayze stood her ground, surrounded by a formidable stack of papers, books and documents relating to the lumber industry.

Whenever Senator Steiwer wanted some of them for reference a page darted back to the girl secretary. Miss Swayze is an Oregon girl and is thoroughly familiar with the lumber industry.

ANCIENT VALLEY OF GALILEE TO HAVE MODERN HOSPITAL

NEW YORK, April 13—(AP)—Mrs. Peter J. Schweitzer of New York has given an additional $8,000 for the Peter J. Schweitzer hospital, which will be opened May 1 in Tiberias in the valley of Galilee.

Her husband gave $25,000 for the building of the hospital which will be the fifth modern one in Palestine. It will be conducted by Hadassah, the women's Zionist organization of America.

The hospital will add a modern note to the ancient valley, still dominated by second century ruins. It will contain 33 beds and it is hoped will do much to combat disease. Tiberias, 700 feet below sea level, is extremely hot in summer.

NEW COLORS FAVOR BLUE-EYED WOMEN

PARIS, April 13—(AP)—Eyes of blue are more favored than black, brown, green or what have you by the spring colors Paris promotes.

Sky blue, baby blue, cornflower and forgetmenot viola, delphinium shades and the good old standby known as navy are all more or less important.

Some of the most interesting jewelry, shoes, hats and even gloves are developed in blue.

WOMEN MAIL DELIVERERS GET NEW HATS IN BRITAIN

LONDON, April 13—(AP)—Fashion notes from the general post office reveal that the women mail deliverers, of whom there are about 1,000 in country districts in England, are to have a new hat.

The old mushroom shaped straws that the postwomen have worn for years, no matter what the season, are to be relegated in favor of smart new blue felts turned jauntily up on the left side.

TEXTILE MEN SEEK COLOR COORDINATOR

PARIS, April 13—(AP)—Variation and variety in color annually takes a heavy toll of profits from textile manufacturers.

An Englishman, representative of one of the biggest woolen manufacturers of Great Britain, recently came to town with an offer of $10,000 a year to a woman who could qualify as a color coordinator for English woolen makers and other branches of the fashion trade.

The fabric maker was unable to find his color coordinator, however.

GERMAN WOMEN ORGANIZE FOR POLITICAL INFLUENCE

BERLIN, April 13—(AP)—German women are planning to assert themselves more actively in politics.

A "national association" has been organized to promulgate state laws and duties of citizenship among women.

Frau Katherina Von Kardorff-Oheimb, former member of the Reichstag, is behind the movement.

Keeps Picture For Friends.

WASHINGTON, April 13—(AP)—Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, who recently had her portraits painted by two Hungarian sister artists, Ellena and Berthe de Helebranth, has chosen the one painted by Ellena for showing only to her intimate friends.

Stuffed Egg Salad, Serving 4: 6 hard cooked eggs, 3 tablespoons salad dressing, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 1-4 teaspoon celery salt, 1 teaspoon finely chopped onions, 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento stuffed olives.

Cut eggs in halves lengthwise. Remove and mash yolks. Leave egg white cases whole to serve as cases. Mix egg yolks, seasonings, onions, olives and salad dressing. Roughly pile mixture into egg cases. Chill. Arrange on platter; garnish with parsley.

Baked Hash: 2 cups chopped cooked meat, 1 cup chopped cooked potatoes, 2 tablespoons chopped onions, 2-3 cup gravy or milk, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons chopped celery or pimientos, 2-3 cup rolled dried bread or cracker crumbs, 3 tablespoon butter, melted.

Mix meat, potatoes, onions, gravy, salt, pepper and celery. Pour into shallow, buttered baking dish. Cover with crumbs which have been mixed with melted butter. Bake 20 minutes in moderate oven.

Sponge Cake: 4 egg yolks, 1 cup sugar, 3 tablespoons cold water, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon lemon extract, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 7-8 cup of sifted flour, 4 egg whites stiffly beaten, 1 1-4 teaspoons baking powder.

Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Beat in sugar and beat two minutes or until creamy. Add water and lemon extract and beat two minutes. Fold in rest of ingredients and pour into shallow pan fitted with waxed paper. Bake 30 minutes in moderately slow oven.

104 WOMEN ATTORNEYS SINCE BRITISH BAN ENDED

LONDON, April 13—(AP)—During the eight years since the first woman became a member of the English bar, 104 of them have become lawyers.

Dr. Ivy Williams was the first admitted after the removal of the sex disqualification act in 1919 which extended feminine participation in the trades and professions.

Dr. Williams was admitted in 1922 and since that time there have been an average of 11 women a year called to the bar.

Very few of these women practise in the public courts, most of them contenting themselves with working in the privacy of law offices.

GRAY NOW DISCREET AS AFTERNOON COLOR

PARIS, April 13—(AP)—After several seasons of trying, gray has at last gained the ascendancy over beige as the discreet and lady-like color for afternoon ensembles.

There are many shades of gray shown among the best style collections. Pearl, smoke, and grege are the most frequently met with. Blue grays, bordering on slate, are smart.

One of the most favored fabric combinations for the afternoon ensemble of gray is satin dress and wool crepe, broadcloth coat with fox collar.

College Girls Like Studies.

NORTHAMPTON Mass., April 13—(AP)—Smith college students here have dealt a blow to the theory that women students prefer social activities to studies. Although only seven nights off the campus are allowed each semester, less than a third of the girls have taken the maximum number.

Heads Two Classes In Year

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., April 13—(AP)—Margaret Cunningham of Decatur, Ga., is president of her second class at Georgia State College for Women in a year. Last fall she was elected president of the junior class, became a senior at midyear and recently was elected president of the seniors.

Blossoms of Jade

Five jade roses give a touch of spring to this diamond-link bracelet.

Paris, April 13—(AP)—Spring posies are blooming in Paris jewelers' windows and one in the rue de la Paix has filled his windows with flowers made of precious stones and metals.

Some of these jeweled flowers are in little flower pots, miniatures of those that line windows of smart Champs Elysees restaurants. But most of them have been turned into pins, necklaces, earrings and bracelets.

They are the green of jade, the deep red of carnelian or the bright bluish green of turquoise. Tiny earrings of coral, too, look like little rosebuds.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

To keep moths out of blankets when not in use, scatter slices of yellow soap in the folds.

Wall paper can be cleaned by gently rubbing it with a flannel bag filled with wheat bran.

The same vegetables should never be planted in the same location two years in succession.

If radishes are planted among melons they will claim the attention of bugs until the melons get a good start.

To get more cream from milk, heat the milk until lukewarm and then chill it. This brings more cream to the surface.

When meat is slightly tainted put in a few pieces of charcoal when cooking to make it sweet and prevent cooking odors.

The flavor of gravies made from roasted, broiled or fried meats is greatly improved by adding milk instead of water.

Never leave soap in the dishpan. Make the water in which dishes are to be washed soapy by using a soap-shaker.

Two tablespoons of grapejuice added to a grapefruit after it has been cut gives a delicious flavor and a pretty color.

Do not pour the water in which cabbage has been cooked down the sink, or if this must be done, rinse the sink with water containing a little chloride of lime or powdered charcoal.

Use colors to make food attractive to the eye. An ordinary dish can be made to look more appetizing by garnishing with fancy slices of pimento, watercress, parsley, or green peppers.

WHOLE CAULIFLOWER

You can keep a cauliflower whole by tying it up in a piece of cheesecloth for cooking. Be sure not to overcook. It is excellent served with drawn butter and grated cheese.

SPRING SALAD

Tantalizingly appetizing is a spring salad made of hearts of lettuce, endives, water cress and escarole, dressed with French salad dressing, fine slices of onion and sections of orange pulp.

WHEN MAKING BISCUITS

Instead of rolling out biscuits, mix the dough a little thinner and drop by large spoonfuls into greased hot muffin pans and bake in a quick oven. The same biscuit flavor is preserved and much time is saved.

If you want hot biscuits for a meal and do not want to use two burners for your oven, try using two deep pie pans of the same size. Turn the flame low, place the biscuits in greased pan, turn the other greased pan over it and let the biscuits brown on one side, then, holding both pans firmly together, turn over quickly. Bake until the other side is brown. You will then have delicious brown biscuits, saving both fuel and space if you use an oil stove.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

The skin can be whitened by mixing and applying equal parts of rose water and lemon juice.

Grit can be removed from the eye by applying a drop of castor oil. Or, bathe it well with warm witch hazel or pure olive oil.

With a round face the hair should not be parted in the center. The side part is more becoming, and the hair should be worn well off the forehead. Curve the hair well out on the cheeks.

Peroxide diluted with water, half and half, makes an excellent bleach for the elbows. Lemon juice is also a good bleach. Massage the elbows with cold cream to remove the grime and dirt.

Put a new toothbrush in a glass of cold water and let it stand all night. Rinse it in the morning. If treated in this way the bristles will not loosen until the brush is so discolored it will no longer be desirable to use it.

SILVER

For the girl who longs for an interesting, unusual room of her own within the boundaries of the family home and the monthly allowance, silver wallpaper and aluminum paint are godmother's gifts. Silver wallpaper—contrary to what one might believe—will not mount to too high a price. For one thing one always chooses the unattractive small room for experimentation. And small rooms do not require so many rolls but what one can afford to give them an extra margin of beauty with a good background.

BATHROOMS

Bathroom equipment has followed the vogue for color and you will now find towel racks, soap dishes, etc., in soft shades such as yellow, lavender and green. Waterproof chintz and silk shower curtains and draperies for the window complete the picture, and it is seldom now that we find an unrelieved white bathroom in the modern house.

SPRING OILINGS

After the furnace has gone all winter, the oil on most doors has dried out. Go over the whole house with the oil can and you will never hear those annoying squeaks.

BOOK SHELVES

If you paint the inside of your book shelves a bright color, one that contrasts pleasantly with your room, it is a nice note of beauty.

GOLD AND SILVER

A very flat cigaret case, made of narrow bands of gold and silver woven together, makes a stunning gift.

DICTATES OF FASHION

A navy blue mousseline de soie afternoon frock has an amazingly effective deep circular flounce trimmed with cire braid.

Lace and chiffon frocks for spring evenings may have separate bolero jackets, with long sleeves, which are detachable.

A new scarf for spring is fashioned blue flat crepe and pink, with the pink scarf run through the blue and detachable for laundering.

Many of the dressy little ballibunti and other black straw hats affect tiny face veils that turn back up over the brim.

A black lacy straw hat, cut conservatively with all-around brim, has pink and black grosgrain braiding for banding and finishing in the rear with little streamer ends. Pink, such an unfashionable wallflower for these many seasons, now stages a tremendous comeback both as an accent note and as the basic color for an entire costume.

NEW PRINT

A navy blue fine silk, printed in bright blue, light green and beige aces of spades, diamonds, hearts and clubs, is made with fine fagotting in navy blue both on the bodice and skirt.

TRAVEL COATS

Whether one goes south, west or to points in the Near East one is sure to need a travel coat of the new nubby tweeds. Coat on redingote lines, with collars of natural lynx and wolf, the colors of beige, yellow browns and tans are a happy choice for a coat that must play several parts in the travel wardrobe.

TENNIS JACKET IN NEW VERSION

Whether the gay printed or embroidered linen jacket that accompanied the tennis frock last summer would survive this season is a question to be answered in the affirmative. The new version of this colorful wrap, however, is very different from any that promenaded last summer's smart board walks. The designs are larger and more modernistic, the colors are even gayer and the fitted, flared jacket of the new mode has nothing in common with the loosely hanging jackets of other years.

LAUNDRY HINTS

White clothing can be kept from turning yellow if the starch is washed out, rinsed in bluing water and put away unironed.

If you rince shields in water to which a little ammonia has been added they will shed that unpleasant rubber odor and be fresh smelling.

Colored wash prints will retain their color if, before they are washed, they are dipped in a gallon of water to which one teaspoon of epsom salts has been added.

A good clothes hamper can be made by covering a barrel with cretonne. For a handle to the top attach a small semi-circle of wood and cover the top and handle with the same material. This makes a good hamper at a small cost.

CONVENIENT BATH SOAP

A long box covered with silver paper holds flat cakes of pastel colored soap, which really and truly float in the bathtub.

CLEAN MATTRESSES

Use your vacuum cleaner to keep your mattresses immaculately clean. These should be done regularly, just like your rugs and living room upholstery.

PRESSING CLOTHES

Never wait to press anything with pleats in it until the pleats are badly out. It is really a time-saver to press each time the frock is worn for then it takes so little effort.

SACHET PERFUME

The old fashioned idea of scattering lavender or other sachets through lingerie is an excellent way to get that delicate freshness in one's things without the pungent effect an overdose of perfumery gives.

SOAP JELLY

The housewife who appreciates the value of short cuts in housekeeping can find many uses for various kinds of soap jellies. These may be made with soapflakes, by cutting a bar of soap into small pieces, or with the left over scraps that accumulate in every household. Hot water is added to the soap and the mixture allowed to cool until a jelly-like substance results.

A jelly made by adding two tablespoons of kerosene to a large bar of cut-up soap or its equivalent will keep the kitchen sink, the bath tub, or any porcelain surface white and shining if followed by a hot sudsy rinse. Another made of mild soap provides an excellent shampoo. It will also come in handy if you should want to wash a pair of silk stockings or a piece of underwear at night when hot water is no longer available. The jelly will readily dissolve in lukewarm or even cold water.

For cleaning certain kinds of fabrics such as tapestries and upholstery a soap jelly is especially convenient, since it may be applied and removed without soaking the material below the surface.

CONCERNING CHILDREN

To clean baby's first teeth use powdered chalk flavored with cinnamon or wintergreen.

To prevent slipping or injury from a fall when bathing the baby, fold a thick turkish towel and lay it on the bottom of the bath.

A child who is worried, irritated, unhappy, or overly tired at meal time can not digest his food properly.

Oatmeal cookies made with molasses are more wholesome for the children than rich cakes or puddings.

A filing case included in the furnishings of the boy's room gives him an opportunity to start businesslike habits early.

CHILDREN'S FURNITURE

The children of the family deserve small chairs that they can sit in without dangling their feet. Inexpensive ones can be bought, or daddy can make one out of boxes which the children themselves can paint.

PARTY FROCK FOR LITTLE GIRL

A gay little party frock for a small girl is made of organdy, with yellow roses scattered over the surface. The neck and armholes are piped with yellow and there is a generous sash of the organdy.

GAME FOR THE CHILDREN

Cut some pieces of cardboard three inches by two inches, or any size desired, on which outline a picture of familiar barnyard animals. Arrange so that there will be three or four cards bearing a picture of the same animal. These three or four cards make one book. Make as many as you like. Shuffle the cards, hand out three to each player, then proceed as in a game of authors. Very small children will enjoy playing this game.

BABY'S TABLE CLOTH

A considerate mother made several little tray cloths of pretty damask and colored linen, lining with backs of sheer muslin, and into this little bag she slipped oblong pieces of rubber sheeting. These are laid over the baby's end of the table, and are taken along when mother and baby go visiting. They save much washing when baby spills his food.

PRINTS FOR CHILDREN

The prints of last season were often geometric, quite large even for children. This season prints are going back to nature. Fruits and flowers and funny little animals are scattered joyously. One entertaining print even takes a handful of numbers from an arithmetic book to make a pattern that would delight any child. In all these prints, three things are notable. Colorings are softer, usually monotone in effect; the patterns are clean cut; they show a preference for pastel grounds.

LITTLE NOSEGAY ADORNS COLLAR

Those snappy little nosegays of artificial flowers placed exactly in the middle of the back of the coat collar are all very nice and coquettish, provided the neck they adorn is slender. But at the back of a plumpish neck, which is usually accompanied by plumpish shoulders, an ornament of this sort sticks out like a sore thumb. On the right type of neck, however, the nosegay is a pleasantly feminine frippery.

RIGHT GLOVE LENGTH TWO-THIRDS OF ARM

PARIS, April 13— (AP) —The length of evening gloves should depend on the length of the arm they partially cover, according to one of the leading French glove makers.

Two-thirds of the arm length is the correct proportion for long gloves of light color, he says.

Dark shades should be a little shorter, ending an inch or so above the elbow.

SQUARE NECKLINES NEW FOR AFTERNOON

Paris, April 13—(AP)—Bridge dresses, alias afternoon frocks, have a new element injected into their design by deep bertha collar models with square necklines, square in back as well as front.

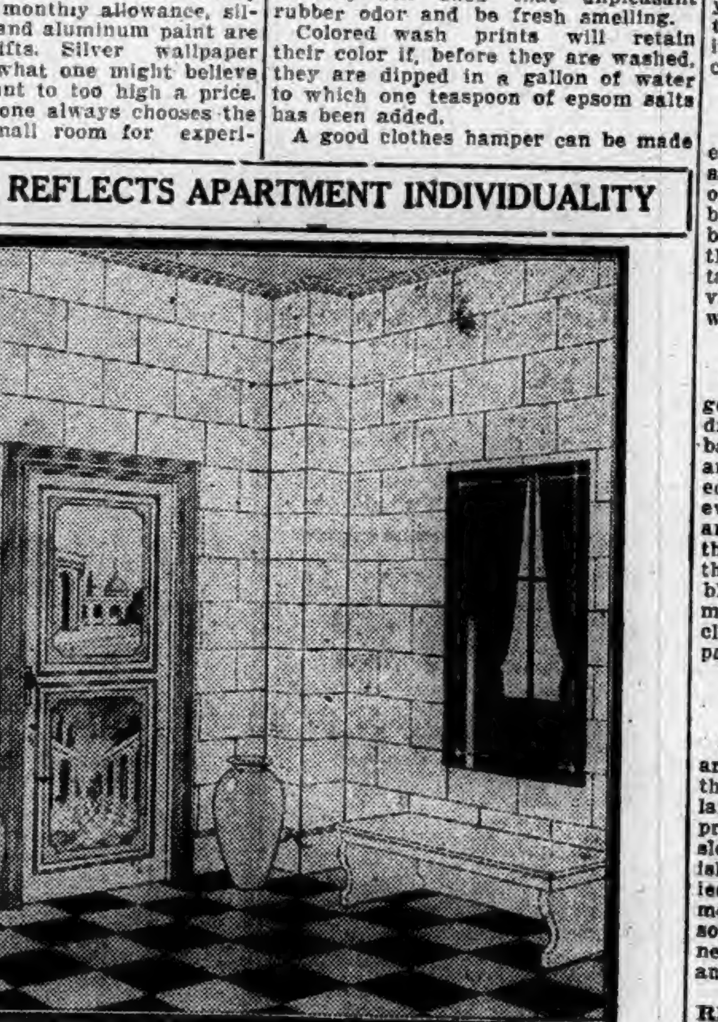
The square necklines are a decidedly new note and are put out by a designer of authority.

One way of finishing the square necks is with a narrow self band, stitched flat with ends left free to tie in a bow in the center back.

Gilded Long Gloves Smart

LONDON, April 13—(AP)—Gilded long kid gloves form the smart accessory to evening dress at some of London's most brilliant functions. One pair of gilded gloves has a little pair of golden slippers to match.

FOYER REFLECTS APARTMENT INDIVIDUALITY



Balanced Design Tasteful Color Values.

By Elsie Drew Kennedy

In many of the newer and more luxurious apartment houses the elevator has direct access to each home, usually through a small foyer.

While the foyer is especially a part of the apartment proper and must reflect individuality and personality, it is more formal than the more intimate rooms of the house.

This is an important element to be considered, for a room of this type must be keyed to a certain restraint and formality, in order to preserve its essential character.

In the average four or five room apartment, the foyer is necessarily small, as in this illustration. Here, a feeling for harmony and balance along with the correct degree of formality is definitely indicated by the restrained and intelligent handling of the decorative detail. Doors are, of course, the dominating note in any anteroom and afford splendid material as a decorative theme.

In this case a balanced design with tasteful color values are handled in such a way as to subordinate the other to the general tonal effect.

Attention is immediately focused upon the decorative door leading into the house. Venetian in inspiration, it dominates the room and is a distinct element of beauty, combining as it does the old and the new. Scenes are frescoed in colorful effect on the two panels with a banding of turquoise as a striking accent. The narrow gold moldings balance with the light antique finish of the door, while black Onyx provides a fitting frame for this colorful picture.

The walls may be finished in a composition material, that simulates Tarvertine, a stone largely used in Italy, or the plaster may be marked off in lines to form joints and to give the same effect. The light tones of the walls are accented by a narrow molding in the same antique finish as the doors, and form a happy alliance with the turquoise ceiling. Linoleum, in a bold black-and-white block pattern, is lacquered in a clear tone and waxed brilliantly.

The few furnishings reflect a careful relationship between the utilitarian and the decorative, and at the same enhance the formal note of the room. Oil jars of classic design, in a ravishing shade of green, afford a nice balance on either side of the decorated door. To the right of the elevator, in the direct path of the cellar, is a fair sized mirror. The low stone bench, below the mirror, harmonizes with the walls and intensifies the note of formality.

British Envoy's Yankee Wife 'Rolls Up Sleeves' to Move

WASHINGTON, April 13—(AP)—Lady Ronald Lindsay, who will soon be mistress of one of the largest houses in America, plans to spend the hot summer "with her sleeves rolled up."

She will be getting settled in the great new British embassy.

With furniture coming over from London, a corps of 16 servants to select and plans for formal entertainments to be made, the wife of Great Britain's new ambassador will have little time for her favorite pastimes, motoring and gardening.

Dressed in brown to match the color of her eyes, the lively and gracious American wife of one of England's best known career diplomats sat in the big drawing room of the old embassy and talked of her plans for running the 97-room home of which she is to be mistress.

Sandy, a droll little old man of a grey Scotch terrier, sat at her feet. Plain to be seen Sandy adores his mistress. She has a most direct and likeable personality. She is approachable, friendly and has a sense of humor.

"By all means I shall have an American chef," she says. "Will I supervise the marketing and menus? Well," her eyes twinkled, "I don't know, but I like to eat!"

Lady Lindsay says she will bring her own pots and pans, linens, glass and china to the new embassy. Pictures of the royal family are the only articles which will be transferred from the old embassy to the new.

Several months ago Lady Lindsay made a trip here incognito to "get the lay of the land."

"I think the kitchen is lovely," she says. "I like having the stove in the center and the windows 10 feet above the floor. It is a saving in steps and wall space."

The big garden interests her most, for she has studied landscape gardening.

SPORTS STYLES NOT CHIC FOR ALL DAY WEAR

PARIS, April 13—(AP)—Days when a two-piece sport costume was good from nine o'clock in the morning until dinner time seem a long way off.

Paris, moreover, is trying to put them farther and farther behind us.

Styles fall into three phases for the woman who claims to be fashionably and well dressed now.

One is the morning hours, devoted to sports or shopping.

If it's shopping the regimentals one sees most in the Rue de la Paix are dark tailored suits, small hat of shining straw, handmade silk or lingerie blouse, usually cotton pique and a white flower, preferably a cotton pique gardenia.

Morning and afternoon clothes overlap toward the lunch hour. Some women wear tailored suits for lunch engagements. Others change into one-piece dresses of silk topped with hem-length or slightly shorter black coats with shaved lamb trimming, black or white, but preferably white.

Evening hours see the break-up of standardization and the glorification of individualism. The ensemble is supreme for evening wear but the methods of working it out are almost one to every woman. Jewelry and shoes should be the color of the costume.

COLOR AND NOTCHES FEATURE SCARVES

PARIS, April 13—(AP)—Among new scarves is one with irregularly slashed and notched edges. They give it a roughneck air which makes it particularly effective with tweed costumes.

Bright green and cardinal red are the chic colors for sport scarves this season. Small scarves, double thickness of crepe de chine or marocain are smarter than big ones.

Even wool scarves are small, eight inches wide and long enough to twist once around the throat with 12 to eighteen inches left over at the ends.

FEATHER IN YOUR HAT SWANK FOR SUMMER

PARIS, April 13—(AP)—Feathers, fine and otherwise, are making headway in the millinery world.

There are more of them used for spring than there were for winter, which is remarkable considering the fact that summer is essentially a flower season.

Experts prognosticate that hats for next fall will make an even wider use of small flat feathers. A vari-colored feather cockade or two or three small quills are good style for the spring cloth hat or dressmaker beret.

PIQUE ACCESSORIES LEND PIQUANT TOUCH

PARIS, April 13—(AP)—A buttonhole of white cotton pique in the guise of camelia or carnation is one way of getting ready for spring.

Tailored suits with blouses of white pique are not complete without the pique flower in the button hole.

Over here some women wear dressmaker gloves of pique. They are gauntlets made of the ordinary variety of cotton pique.

FITTING WOES END WITH TIE-ON FROCKS

PARIS, April 13—(AP)—There is a new complication in dress styles, launched under the name of the tie-on.

It is meant to solve the problem of selling the general public dresses which must fit snugly around the waistline.

The tie-on dresses are adaptable to any figure.

They feature peplums or skirt panels which extend into straight ends that tie around the waist, controlling skirt fullness and belt measurements.

HORSEHAIR LACE HATS ARE BROAD OF BRIM

PARIS, April 13—(AP)— Brimmed hats of horsehair lace which turn back abruptly off the forehead but reach almost to the shoulders at the sides and back promise to be a phase of summer headgear popular with the continental debutante.

Modified forms of the lace straw hats in black and dark blue are shown for town wear.

For afternoon wear at resorts and in the country vivid colors are preferred.

WOMEN RIDE ASTRIDE FIRST TIME AT SHOW

PARIS, April 13—(AP)—Feminism has won another victory.

For the first time women rode astride in an obstacle test at the fashionable Paris international horse show.

Three women, only one of whom rode side-saddle, took part in the event, a difficult one of 18 jumps over fences four feet high.

Grass Green Leads.

PARIS, April 13—(AP)— Grass green headlines all the greens, and they are many, which are sponsored by the haute couture for evening.

A bright, greenish shade of chiffon is new.

Black jewelry and long gloves and slippers of black suede make a harmonious and striking combination of accessories with the new green.

Receives Indian Necklace

WASHINGTON, April 13—(AP)—A fine hand-wrought gold necklace made by Indians living in the mountains in Panama was presented to Mrs. John F. Sippel, president of the General Federation of Women's clubs on a visit to clubs in the Canal Zone

Guiding Your Child

By Mrs. Agnes Lyne

Scenes of Grief

It would seem superfluous to suggest that a child should be spared experiences which bring him into contact with the acute sorrow of death.

Yet again and again I have seen little children riding in funeral carriages.

Such happenings seem to make it worth while to suggest here what we should all know instinctively, that children should be spared the immediate tragic aspects of human death.

It is difficult enough for those of us who have lived a long time to meet them, for a child they are a shocking and shattering experience.

This does not mean that we should evade the reality or that we should deceive the child as to the facts where they touch him personally. On the contrary it is imperative that we explain things to him honestly.

He can be told quite simply that this person is dead just as was the bird he found by the road last summer, or the moth that had fluttered its life away against the screen.

We may give him such explanation of immortality as we ourselves sincerely believe.

For the rest he must be helped to understand that the person who was near and dear to him has not wilfully deserted him, but that it is impossible for him to come back. We must help him to accept the fact that he must learn to get along without him.

Such handling of the situation helps the child to face the reality of death as it touches his life while it minimizes to the utmost its destructive emotional impact.

MAIDS AND MISTRESSES COOPERATE IN ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 13—(AP)—The age-old problem of keeping household servants contented is a step nearer solution here.

Maids and mistresses have started a series of conferences aimed at settling the questions that have been the subject of many a comedy skit and cartoon.

Both mistress and maid voice their views, grievences and recommendations. Suggestions include regulation of hours, wage scales, unions, contracts, shifts of day and night labor and legislation.

Woman Is Editor At 70

AUXVASSE, Mo., April 13—(AP)—An editor and linotype operator at 70 years old is Mrs. Z. W. Hook of this city. Mrs. Hook, who leased The Review here in 1902, so she could not "be shelved in her old age," finds time to keep up her home and take part in civic affairs.

Pink Captures Britain

LONDON, April 13—(AP)—Pink has been accorded a warm welcome as the fashionable spring color by the British woman. All varieties from the most delicate baby shade to a deep coral are being used for summer costumes and to form the relieving note in black ensembles.

Woman To Probe African Hunting

WASHINGTON, April 13—(AP)—Mrs. Della Akeley, noted explorer and game hunter, has been appointed by the King of the Belgians as the only woman member of a commission to investigate shooting of big game in the Belgian Congo.

WOMEN OF ST. MARY'S CH. RECEIVE HOLY COMMUNION

At St. Mary's Memorial church Sunday at the 7:30 o'clock mass the Children of Mary society and the ladies of the parish received holy communion. Next Sunday at the 7:30 o'clock mass will be the men's Sunday for communion.

Celebrated Tenth Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cipriani of 25 Thames street celebrated the tenth wedding anniversary Sunday evening, entertaining a number of friends at supper, with an evening of music following. They received many useful and beautiful gifts.

The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Gesmonti and family of Groton, Mr. and Mrs. Toscano and family, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Deire, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Colasanto, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph De Paolo and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tesdesco, Peter Quercia, Jack Descisciola, Leonard Deire, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Cipriani, Gaetano Grillo, Modesto Grillo, Joseph Russillo, Misses Mary Russillo, Fanny Delre, and Catherine Toscano.

NORWICH TOWN

When County Agent Walter T. Clark of Norwich Town gave the address on The Corn Borer and Its Control, at the First Congregational chapel Thursday evening, the members of the Norwich C. E. Union orchestra that provided the music were Theodore Sterry, violinist and leader; also five other violinists, Rev. Howard Bushnell, Miss Dorothy Packer, Nelson Packer, William Prothero and Lloyd Chapman. Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey is the 'cellist and Miss Louise Sterry pianist. Rev. Mr. Bushnell pronounced the benediction at the close of the meeting.

The April meeting of Ever Ready circle of the King's Daughters, connected with the Congregational church, is to be held at the home of Miss Jessie E. Hyde of Washington street, Wednesday evening.

Wendall Jackson is census enumerator for a large part of Norwich Town, he having completed the section through Town street as far as the Backus hospital and through the Falls. Mr. Jackson, who also canvassed the left hand side of West Town street, is at present covering his territory over the Wauwecus Hill section.

"Thoughtfulness" was the theme of the Sunday morning sermon by the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, at the First Congregational church, Palm Sunday. The text was Mark 12:30, And thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength; this is the first commandment. The Young People's C. E. service Sunday evening had for its theme, Christ, the Universal Need. John 14: 1-11.

The union Lenten service scheduled for this (Monday) evening at the First Congregational church, has been cancelled, as are all other meetings planned for this week, except that at St. Andrew's Episcopal church, Greeneville, Good Friday afternoon. At the Norwich Town church, the usual mid-week service will take place Holy Thursday evening, in the auditorium, when the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed.

"Creed and Character"

Sunday morning at the Methodist Episcopal church, the sermon was delivered by Rev. Frederick C. Baker, a former pastor, who took for his theme, "Creed and Character"; text, John 11:26, "And whosoever liveth and believeth in Me shall never die. Believest thou this?" The sermon was inspirational and most helpful and held the close attention of the large congregation. Following the sermon, the pastor, Rev. George Warren Potter, was assisted in administering the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper by Rev. Mr. Baker. The junior vested choir, under direction of Mrs. Lewis E. Aldrich, sang an anthem, "The Heavenly Vision," and "The Palms." The pastor conducted the morning service of worship at Norwich State hospital, where he preached on the Lenten theme, "Consecration."

Clayton Rose Takes Lead

The meeting of Troop 2, Boy Scouts, connected with the Methodist Episcopal church, held Friday evening, had an attendance of 17. The scouts are now on the last lap in their efficiency contest which ends May first. The standing has changed somewhat since the last report: Clayton Rose has advanced from second to first place with a score of 1,319 points. Earl Robinson, dropped from first place to second, has a score of 1,274. Edward Eccleston and Frederick Ross are tied for third place with 1,238 points. The largest number of points reported at the meeting Friday night was by Bugler Edward Jordan, 76 points.

The troop voted to take part in the Council Jamboree to be held May 17. Scouts Clayton Rose, Frederick Ross and Edward Gallagher will enter the dressing race, Scouts Donald Olsen and Donald Waterman the fire by friction contest, Bugler Jordan the bugling contest and a team to be selected by Scout Clayton Rose will enter the knot-tying relay. Bank savings cards for the summer camp were given out by Scoutmaster Rev. George Warren Potter. Scout Jordan passed first class nature test.

The troop was inspected by Patrol Leader Rose. Senior Patrol Leader Donald Olsen reported that there is a good balance in the treasury. The meeting activities closed with an indoor observation hike, greatly enjoyed, as the scouts searched for trees, birds and other things of nature in their meeting place. Scout George Kinney was successful in finding all the objects first. The Boy Scout Oath, benediction, and the playing of Taps by Bugler Edward Jordan concluded the meeting. Monthly awards were made as follows: One month pins, to Scouts Robert Brown, John Laskowski, Frederick Ross, Edward Eccleston, Clayton Rose. Six month gold plated pins, Edward Gallagher and Earl Robinson. The pins were presented by Assistant Patrol Leader Albert Eyberse.

TAFTVILLE

Miss Eva Raymond and Miss Mary Raymond of South A street have been recent guests of relatives in Central Village.

At the Taftville Congregational church Sunday morning, the solo "The Palms," was sung by Thomas Grimshaw. The anthem sung by the choir after the offertory under direction of Miss Nellie S. Howie, the church organist and choir leader was "Ride On, Ride On, in Majesty."

When Mrs. Thomas Perkins Sears entertained at a subscription bridge for the benefit of the 8 and 40, the hostesses were Mrs. Martin E. Mullen, Mrs. Edward J. Kelly, Miss Helen Towers, Mrs. William Dennison, Mrs. Walter S. Grant, Mrs. Albert J. Aberg and Mrs. Andrew Frohmader. The prizes were won by Mrs. Raymond A. Pingree, Mrs. Harry Gaucher, Miss Aurette Fournier, Miss Helen Towers, Mrs. M. H. Hourigan and Miss Anna M. Beardow.

Mrs. Raymond A. Pingree and her daughter, Miss Lois C. Pingree, who have been guests for the past week of Mrs. Pingree's father, Axel L. Aberg, and her sister, Miss Helen C. Aberg, of North Third avenue, returned Saturday to their home in Saylesville, R. I.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Pingree and son, Harold, Jr., of Goodyear, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Pingree and family of North C street.

Mr. and Mrs. Basil Horoszko and children, Stanislaus, John and Stephania, were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Boiselle, of Danielson.

SOOT SET FIRE TO FIRE PLACE BOARDS

Sunday afternoon at 5:40 o'clock the fire department responded to an oral call for a slight blaze at No. 15 Pond street, occupied by Dito Sigerena and family. The firemen found that an open fire place had been boarded up in back of a stove. As plain boarding was used to cover up the fire place, the wood took fire from hot soot which collected in back of it. Occupants of the house threw a pail of water on the smouldering wood and the firemen shoveled the soot from the fire place.

GOOD VIEW OF ECLIPSE EARLY SUNDAY MORNING

The full moon in an almost cloudless sky Sunday morning about 12:30 gave a good view of the partial eclipse at that time. The eclipse obscured only about one-eleventh of the moon's surface, showing a small darkened section at the lower rim of the queen of night. Towards the end of the period of the eclipse, which lasted about an hour, there was considerable haziness which interferred with the view.

DIPHTHERIA PREVENTION FOR VOLUNTOWN SCHOOL CHILDREN

There were 56 children in the Voluntown Center school who received immunization through the administration of toxin-antitoxin for diphtheria by the school nurse under the supervision of Dr. Clarence G. Thompson of Norwich and the co-operation of an interested citizen of the town.

Petting Quartette Arrested

Two men and two girls who were having a petting party in the Olympic hall building on Water street, were arrested Saturday night by Sergt. Matthew Delaney and Officer Henry Fenton. The four are charged with being in a building without the consent of the owner. They will appear in the local court this (Monday) morning.

In Charge of Army Recruiting

Lieutenant Colonel Gulielmus V. Heidt will succeed Major William A. Stack, in charge of army recruiting in Connecticut since 1926, it was stated at First corps area headquarters in Boston. He will assume charge Tuesday. Sub-offices of the district are located at Waterbury, Danbury, Bridgeport, Hartford, New Britain and New London.

MEMORIALS DEDICATED AT SERVICE AT TRINITY EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Dedication of a member of beautiful memorials presented to Trinity Episcopal church made an impressive part of the service for the large congregation on Palm Sunday morning. The different memorials were presented at the altar and their dedication for use in the house of God was made with a dedicatory sentence and prayer by Archdeacon J. Eldred Brown.

The memorials were the following: an altar service book, in memory of Mrs. Mary Jane Gilbert, given by her son, S. Alpheus Gilbert; a chancel prayer book, in memory of Mrs. Clara Chapman Rathbone, given by her two sons, Rev. Frank M. Rathbone of Boston and Clarence A. Rathbone; two chancel prayer books, in memory of Gerard Lester Parker and Mrs. Anne Meech Walker, given by their brother, Henry F. Parker; four chancel prayer books, in memory of George Everett Hall, two given by his widow and two by his daughter, Mrs. Blanche Pendleton; a processional cross, in memory of Mrs. Jennie Leavens Hough, given by her daughter, Miss Marion Hough.

At the morning service on Easter Sunday a new white altar set, presented by St. Margaret's guild, is to be dedicated.

DENIES MOTIONS TO SET TWO VERDICTS ASIDE

Judge Christopher L. Avery of the superior court has denied motions to set aside two verdicts against the Eastern Connecticut Motor Sales Corp. of this city, recently returned by a superior court jury in favor of Paul Dumont, $850, and his wife, Jennie T. Dumont, $125. The plaintiffs are residents of this city. Mrs. Dumont sought to have the $125 verdict set aside on the grounds that it is insufficient and the motor sales corporation sought to have the $850 verdict set aside on grounds that the verdict was against the evidence.

In denying Mrs. Dumont's motion to set aside the $125 verdict, Judge Avery in his decision says:

"The jury evidently did not give credit to the plaintiff's claim that she had expended a considerable sum of money for hiring a relative to do her housework for her while incapacitated. In view of the situation and the lack of corroboration of this testimony, I think it was within the province of the jury to disbelieve it if they saw fit to do so. Leaving this evidence of special damage out, upon the other features of the case, the verdict, while not so large, cannot be held to be so inadequate as to afford ground to the court to set it aside."

The Dumonts sued for injuries received following a collision between their car and one owned by the Motor Sales Corp., on Norwich avenue, Taftville.

The court's decision on the motor sales corporation's motion to set aside the $850 verdict says:

"The former manager of the defendant company testified that the salesman had full authority to take a car any time he desired to go anywhere he wished, and remain out as long as he desired, for the purpose of effecting a sale. The salesman having had his license suspended was instructed not to take the car except when a certain licensed operator was with him to do the driving.

"The salesman testified that at the time of this accident he was driving the car, taking a man home, and he thought it would help to bring about a sale to the prospect, although the prospect was in no condition to talk business at the actual time of the accident.

"I am of the opinion that, under all the testimony, it was a question for the jury of whether or not at the time of the accident the car was being operated upon the defendant's business and by the driver then acting within the scope of his authority. The jury having resolved this inquiry in favor of the plaintiff, it does not seem to me that the court ought to disturb the verdict. The Massachusetts cases cited by counsel for the defendant, it seems to me, do not apply to a situation such as disclosed by the evidence in this case.

"The motion to set aside the verdict is denied."

Entertained at Party

An enjoyable party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bonim of 126 Boswell avenue. Games were played during the evening. The donkey game was won by Frank Harvey. Popular and classical songs were sung by Jack Williams and Mrs. Adele Abraham. A. C. Wright entertained with his 15 cent whistle and Mr. Cooper entertained with violin solos. Italian solos were played and sung by Frank Maminie. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Edward Bonim and Mrs. McCune. Those present were: Mr. Cooper, A. C. Wright, Jack Williams, Mr. Brennan, Frank Harvey, Frank Maminie, Francis Dugas, James Dugas, Mr. Bonim, Mrs. McCune, Mrs. Bonim, Mrs. Abraham, Mrs. Adams, Misses Eva Bermandie, Ruth Vollvits, Anna McCune, Deloris Allard.

CANDLE CEREMONY AT GIRLS' CLUB INITIATION

A very beautiful and impressive initiation ceremony took place at the weekly meeting of the Girls' City club (under the auspices of the Woman's City club), which was held last Friday evening. Six girls who had applied for membership in the club were thus received as full members. The club director, Mrs. W. B. McKean, had arranged the ceremony by the use of candles of several sizes. The largest was lighted and held by the president of the Woman's City club, Mrs. Charles B. Gilbert, and each of the smaller candles were in turn lighted till all Girls' club officers and members held one, thus emphasizing the link between the women's club and the girls' club. The girls initiated were: Gertrude Beausoleil, Louise Gagnon, Anna Romanowych, Catherine Myers, Mildred Brodeur, Yvonne Boucher. Preceding the candle ceremony, the new members were put through an initiation which caused much fun and merriment. During the business session presided over by Irene Combies, the president, plans were discussed for the club's activities during the summer months. It was announced that there would be no meeting on Good Friday and the next club meeting would be held on Friday, April 25, at 7:30 p. m. Mrs. R. W. Perkins and Mrs. Charles B. Gilbert were guests of the club for the evening. Games and refreshments concluded the evening's program.

CATH. DIOCESE AIMS TO EXCEED EASTER $110,143

Commemorating the greeting of Our Lord with palm branches in Jerusalem before His passion, palms were blessed and distributed in the Roman Catholic churches of the city Sunday. Because of the lengthy gospel, Matthew 26-27, the sermons were brief.

At St. Patrick's the announcements for holy week, included, masses Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at 7 and 8 o'clock. Confessions Wednesday from 4 to 6 and 7 to 8 p. m. Holy Thursday, mass and procession at 8. The Sacred Host will remain in the repository for visits of the faithful during the day. Good Friday, the mass of the pre-sanctified at 8; stations of way of the cross at 3 p. m.; services at 7:30 p. m., including veneration of the cross. Saturday morning at 7:30, mass when there will be the blessing of water used in the ceremonies of the church and in the homes of the people for the coming year.

Easter Sunday, the offering of all the people throughout the diocese of Hartford will be the customary collection for diocesan charities. This was announced in the usual circular letter from Rt. Rev. Bishop Nilan, which stated that the amount given in this collection last year was $110,142.66. This has been expended in the upkeep of homes for the aged, friendless, wayward, orphans, for hospitals, deaf mutes, et al. There remains to start the year a balance of $8,788.60. The special project this year is the enlargement of the House of the Good Shepherd, Hartford, to which wayward girls of the state are committed from the various courts, to be reclaimed, instructed, and in very many cases led back to a worthy and useful life by the Sisters in charge of the institution. It was explained that St. Patrick's has always maintained a proud record in its Easter contributions to this charity collection of the bishop, standing well up toward the head in the list of state contributors. The bishop suggested that there are enough wealthy Catholics in Connecticut who could easily combine and, without feeling it, underwrite the entire $400,000 or $500,000 required, especially for this Good Shepherd Home expansion.

From the pulpit of St. Patrick's Sunday, the senior assistant, Rev. Myles P. Galvin publicly thanked the parishioners for their numberless expressions of sympathy in his recent sorrow in the death of his mother, adding the hope that all would continue their prayers for the eternal repose of her soul.

At the 9 o'clock mass, the offertory was Faure's matchless composition, The Palms, sung by Henry J. LaFontaine, the organist, so melodiously and with such beautiful phrasing to his own organ acompaniment.

So numerous had been the confessions of Saturday afternoon and evening that the three priests, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May, Rev. Fathers Galvin and John J. Reilly were required to give communion.

It was announced that the names of the sick, aged and infirm in the parish who wish to receive Easter communion in their homes are to be left, in writing, at the rectory this week, and the day when the priests will visit such homes will be announced next Sunday.

Palms were blessed and distributed following the high mass at 10:30.

Patients Dismissed At Hospital

Patients dismissed over the week-end at the Backus hospital were the following:

Saturday—Marie Senft, Avery street extension; Frank Jacobik, R. F. D. 9, Norwich Town.

Sunday—Richard Coombs, Canterbury; Elwood Fowler, 120 Broad street.

Entertained Bridge Club

Mrs. Arthur E. Blaisdell entertained the Thursday afternoon bridge club last week at her home in Uncasville. The prizes went to Mrs. W. R. Denison and Mrs. Fred J. Prothero.

HOLY WEEK SERVICES AT UNIVERSALIST CHURCH

Owing to sudden illness, Rev. R. H. McLaughlin of Hartford will be unable to preach at the Monday evening holy week service at the Church of the Good Shepherd, Universalist, as previously announced, and the service will be entirely omitted.

At the Tuesday evening service, the preacher will be Rev. Dr. T. A. Fischer of New Haven, president of the Connecticut Universalist convention.

Wednesday evening the preacher will be Rev. C. D. Newton of Stafford. Following the sermon, a holy week pageant, "Be of Good Cheer," will be presented under the direction of Mrs. A. N. Foster.

At the Thursday evening service, the annual roll call will be held and this will be followed by observance of the holy communion.

LABBE FINED $10 IN LISBON JUSTICE'S COURT

Leo Labbe, 16, of Taftville, was fined $10 and costs on a charge of speeding by Justice of the Peace Walter Drew in Lisbon town court Saturday afternoon. Labbe was originally charged with manslaughter, in connection with the death of Raymond Bernard, 16, of North Grosvenordale, who was killed in an automobile collision at the underpass on the Newent road. He was exonerated from criminal liability by Coroner Edward G. McKay of this city.

STOP DOUBLE PARKING ON FRANKLIN SQUARE

No double parking is to be allowed on Franklin square hereafter. In the past drivers have been in the habit of parking in a double line in front of the United Fruit store, and it is said such a practice has caused traffic congestion in the square. The police have received instructions to summons offenders to the city court, by presenting them with traffic tags.

TOWN AID IS SOUGHT BECAUSE OF NON-EMPLOYMENT

Because of the unemployment situation many Norwich families have been forced to seek financial aid from the town, through the board of selectmen. The number seeking such aid this year is greater by far than in years past. Town aid sought this year is nearly double that of past years.

With Appendicitis Attack

State Policeman Arthur Kathe, who is attached to the Groton barracks, was stricken Friday evening at 6 o'clock with an attack of acute appendicitis. He was taken to the Backus hospital and has been operated upon by Dr. E. J. Brophy. The officer's condition is satisfactory after the operation, it is reported.

WAGE SCALE INCREASE IS TO BE PAID

A wage increase with a five-day working week is to be granted by the building contractors of the city, it was learned Saturday. However, the building contractors will not at present sign an agreement with the labor unions for the coming year. The wage increase and five-day week will go into effect this week.

Masons will now receive $1.50 per hour instead of $1.37 1-2 per hour. They will work five days, eight hours a day, each week, instead of 5 1-2 days. Common laborers will receive 70 cents an hour instead of 62 1-2 cents per hour. Mason tenders and hod carriers will receive 80 cents an hour instead of 72 1-2c per hour. Practically all building unions in the city are now working on a five-day week schedule.

STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE ON WASHINGTON STREET

William McConnell of 17 Sachem road was considerably dazed and suffered a deep laceration under one eye when he was struck and knocked down Saturday evening about 7:30 on Washington street near the corner of Lafayette by an automobile driven by John S. Heath of 4 Elm avenue, Norwich Town.

Mr. Heath took the injured man to the Backus hospital where his injuries were attended to and he is still a patient.

PROHIBITION BANISHED AS TOPIC AT D. A. R. CONGRESS WORLD PEACE, HOOVER THEME

Following Defense of the 18th Amendment By Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, Past President-General, Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, Present President-General, Announced That No Amendment to the Constitution Was to Be "Singled Out For Special Attention In This Congress"—President Hoover Praised Naval Conference and Kellogg Peace Treaty.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—(AP)—Awaiting the official welcome of President Hoover tonight, Daughters of the American Revolution had the opening session of their 39th annual congress enlivened today by a mention of prohibition only to have it suppressed quickly as a topic for discussion.

Following the annual message of the president general, Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, the 6,000 delegates and alternates heard Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, of Cooksburg, Pennsylvania, past president-general in a vigorous defense of the 18th amendment. Mrs. Hobart returned to the floor to assert that no amendment to the constitution was to be "singled out for special attention in this congress."

Mrs. Cook had predicted that the 18th amendment would never be repealed and would be more and more successfully upheld each year.

"I trust that no resolutions embodying any special constitutional amendments will be brought up for consideration," Mrs. Hobart said. "We must make it definitely clear that the D. A. R. are not endorsing any promissory notes on performance to accord with any policy into which enters partisanship. With perhaps as many shades of public opinion upon public questions as will be found in any like number of American citizens," she added, "it follows that controversial matters, political in their nature, no matter how strongly appealing, have no place before a continental congress."

In her annual message Mrs. Hobart had sounded a warning against the forces of radicalism together with a plea to American women to refuse endorsement of "will o' the wisp" doctrines.

Because the American people "are not swift in detecting the falsity of doctrines from the legitimate teaching," Mrs. Hobart asserted, there was a tendency for "great numbers of people to respond to fallacious doctrines en masse without hesitation or without waiting to weigh the consequences."

"Women are lashed," she added, "into more advanced positions with regard to their thinking, by unscrupulous organizational leadership which arouses sarcasm, ridicule and iron discipline to force women to go along with the crowd rather than stand firm by the principles established by the founders of our government."

With President Hoover on tonight's program to be broadcast over a national radio network, were Secretary of War Hurley, Acting Secretary Jahncke of the navy and Senator Fess, republican, Ohio. The congress is to continue through the week.

HOOVER PRAISED NAVAL PACT AND KELLOGG PEACE TREATY

WASHINGTON, April 14.—(AP)—President Hoover pointed tonight to the London naval conference, the Kellogg peace treaty and the world court as markers along the great road to peace which lies in the prevention of war.

The naval conference, he said, provided actual reduction in armament and strengthened the forces of peace.

"It is an accomplishment that has great material advantages to all its participants," he told the Daughters of the American Revolution, in a speech of welcome at the opening of their 39th annual congress, "but I prefer to have it judged on the far higher grounds of its contribution to the moral and spiritual welfare of our people and the world."

The chief executive expressed confidence that the United States would become a member of the world court upon the solution of contentions over special stipulations under which the country should participate.

He reminded the audience that through the Kellogg-Briand pact, this nation "solemnly pledged ourselves not only to renounce war but to use means for pacific settlement of all international differences."

"I do not put this duty to you upon a basis of self interest," the president said, "although it is inevitable that the failure of civilization in any part of the world at once brings distress within our own doors. I have no occasion to emphasize this duty by pointing out the horrors and degradation of war.

"Those who really know war," he continued, "never glorify it. I have seen too much of the tragic sufferings of men, women, and children, of the black shadows that ever run on the heels of war, to wish to recall those scenes. I hope never to see them again. I know this nation can help to make war impossible and that it should so help."

Regarding the London naval conference, the chief executive said that under the terms now being formulated there has been brought about an actual reduction "in the armament of three nations of about twenty-five per cent less than the standards discussed during the conference which failed at Geneva three years ago and a reduction of about twelve per cent below present naval programs as rapidly as the present ships become obsolete."

"But most imortant of all, Mr. Hoover asserted, "it has been able finally to turn the tide of constantly increasing naval arms and to end the poison of suspicion and ill will generated by constant rivalry in construction."

Turning again to the world court he said, through precedent and treaty, "the world is building every year a larger and larger body of international law and practice.

"Statesmen over a generation have realized that with this growth of international law and precedent another method can be contributed to the pacific settlement of a vast number of incidental controversies of justiciable character if the world had an international court to which such cases could be referred for adequate hearing and independent decision based upon law and justice," he continued.

The world court is such a court, he added, and, established "with the aid of American jurists" has been accepted by 50 per cent of the civilized people of the earth.

No other court, Mr. Hoover declared, is practicable.

"I believe it is clear that the United States can more effectively and wisely work for peace without commitment to use coercion to enforce settlements," he added, and referred to a statement issued jointly by himself and Prime Minister MacDonald of England last fall, which he said "made our position clear."

In that he said:

"The part of each of our governments in the promotion of world peace will be different, as one will never consent to become entangled in European diplomacy and the other is resolved to pursue a policy of active cooperation with its European neighbors, but each of our governments will direct its thoughts and influence toward securing and maintaining the peace of the world."

Ringing applause greeted a statement by the president made in a departure from his prepared address. After that portion in which the chief executive deplored the tragic consequences of war and expressed a wish never to see one again, he said.

"Let no one mistake me, there is a price no nation can afford to pay for peace." He then continued with his prepared address, "I know this nation can help to make wars impossible and that it should so help."

ARREST OF TWO INDIAN NATIONALIST LEADERS

BOMBAY, April 14.—(AP)—With the arrest of two prominent Indian nationalist leaders in connection with the civil disobedience campaign of Mahatma Gandhi, the situation is believed to be growing more serious and the next event expected is the arrest of Gandhi himself although the authorities thus far have been evading this step.

The Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, president of the All-India congress, today was sentenced to six months simple imprisonment for violation of the salt law, while J. M. Sengupta, mayor of Calcutta and president of the Bengal civil disobedience committee, was sentenced to six months rigorous imprisonment on charges of sedition, conspiracy, and obstructing the police.

GERMAN CHANCELLOR PUSHING TAX PROGRAM

BERLIN, April 14.—(AP)—The government of Chancellor Heinrich Bruening today carried its financial program against bitter opposition.

The votes were close in most instances, the government getting a majority of only four on the turnover tax and only six on the sugar tax bill. The agrarian program, which has developed much opposition heretofore, carried on the third and final reading by a vote of 260 to 204.

The beer tax, which was regarded as the most crucial test of all, was carried by the government by a vote of 232 to 223, and with this result it was expected that the entire taxation program would have a fairly smooth path.

NO TRACE FOUND OF MISSING STUDENT FLIER

VALLEY STREAM, N. Y., April 14.—(AP)—No trace had been found tonight of Ralph White, 29-year-old student flier who took off from Curtiss-Wright field here yesterday for a short flight just before a heavy fog rolled in from the sea.

An air armada of 50 planes during the day searched Long Island, the sound, the Connecticut and Jersey coasts and far out to sea for White and his black and gold biplane or some wreckage which would indicate his fate, but without result. Military planes from Mitchell field and two police amphibians were among the planes which joined in the quest.

Other fliers and mechanics searched the big Long Island estates afoot and in autos.

BOY SCOUTS TO SEARCH FOR RALPH F. SKELTON

CHICAGO, April 14.—(AP)—Mobilization of 5,000 Michigan Boy Scouts was ordered today to search for Ralph Fisher Skelton, Chicago artist and aviator, who has been missing since Thursday on a flight from Ann Arbor, Mich., to this city. Search for Skelton by air was abandoned today and an appeal was directed to Walter W. Head, scout executive and Chicago financier, who requested the mobilization.

PRELIMINARY ALTITUDE TESTS AT HARTFORD

HARTFORD, April 14.—(AP)—Lieut. Apollo Soucek, altitude record holder, will make preliminary altitude tests with his record holding Wasp-powered Apache at Hartford before flying the ship to the naval air station at Anacostia, D. C., where he will attempt to set a new altitude mark. Lieut. Soucek flew here today in a plane with Lieut. Commander James M. Shoemaker.

23 Decisions By The Supreme Court

Tax Levied By North Carolina On Cotton Mills Was Approved.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—(AP)—Working with only eight members, the supreme court today in a four hours' session rendered 29 opinions ranging from personal injury controversies to the celebrated Lake Michigan diversion case.

The court's action on the lake diversion case was to approve the recommendations made by Chief Justice Hughes as special master. He took no part in the decision.

The court in two cases emphasi[illegible] federal jurisdiction under the adm[illegible]ty laws over suits for damages [illegible] out of personal injuries on n[illegible] waters, in one declaring that [illegible]sylvania workmen's compen[illegible] act did not control in such an acc[illegible]t on a boat at a wharf in Philadelphia.

A decision of great importance controlling the rights of defendants in criminal cases to trial before a jury was handed down in a case from Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, in which John Patton and others sought to have their conviction on the charge of conspiring to bribe a prohibition agent set aside because one of the jurors had been excused and the verdict had been rendered by a jury of 11. The court, through Justice Sutherland, discussed at length the important question and held that, as both the government and the defendants had consented to the excuse of one juror, the verdict must stand.

The interstate commerce commission was sustained by the court in rates it had fixed on cotton sent to Texas ports, as were laws made by Nebraska regulating fishing in the Missouri river. The court approved a tax levied by North Carolina on cotton mills, and held that the United States had jurisdiction to prosecute a defendant charged with murder on a train passing over the Fort Robinson military reservation in Nebraska.

In two cases brought on war risk insurance the court decided that the government was not compelled to pay interest on deferred installments due under the policies.

It consented to review four cases and declined to review eight.

Owing to the time required to deliver the opinions, issue orders and receive motions, the court was unable to begin the oral arguments in any of the cases down for hearing.

DECISION AGAINST CHICAGO ON DIVERSION OF WATER

WASHINGTON, April 14.—(AP)—Protracted litigation over diversion of water from Lake Michigan at Chicago reached its final stage today when the supreme court adopted the report of Special Master Charles E. Hughes, proposing a plan for reducing the diversion to not more than 1,500 cubic feet per second.

This diversion is in addition to what the city may pump from the lake for domestic purposes.

All parties to the controversy took exception to the report of the special master, the Great Lakes states making a strenuous effort to prevent any diversion through the Chicago river as soon as sewage disposal plants were constructed by the city.

The opinion was rendered by Justice Holmes, and there was no dissent announced.

Declaring that the sanitary district is "doing a wrong to the complainants (Great Lakes states) and that they must stop it," the court said the sanitary district and Chicago must find "out a way at their peril."

WHITNEY NOMINATED FOR STOCK EXCHANGE PRESIDENT

NEW YORK, April 14.—(AP)—Richard Whitney, vice president of the New York stock exchange since 1928, was nominated today to succeed E. H. H. Simmons, president the past six years.

The action of the nominating committee is tantamount to election and ratification at the annual meeting May 12 is regarded as a formality.

Whitney, head of the brokerage firm of Richard Whitney and Co., is but 41 years old and will be the youngest president in the history of the exchange.

DIVORCE SUIT FILED BY ACTRESS COLLEEN MOORE

LOS ANGELES, April 14.—(AP)—Colleen Moore, one of filmdom's highest salaried actresses, filed a brief divorce complaint in superior court today against her producer-husband, John McCormick. Mental cruelty was charged.

The couple were married August 18, 1923, and separated March 7, 1930. A property settlement has been arranged and Miss Moore's complaint does not ask for any financial settlement. McCormick indicated he will not contest the suit.

Complaint By More Than 300 Investors

Filed Against James Fiske Collins, Head of the Summit Mortgage Co.

NEW HAVEN, April 14.—(AP)—More than 300 complaints have been filed by investors against Jerome Fiske Collins, head of the Summit Mortgage company, who was arrested last week, Assistant City Attorney Daniel Pouzzner said t[illegible]y.

All [illegible] complaints, Pouzzner said, alle[illegible] Collins induced persons to b[illegible] his company in order to have [illegible] in getting returns on stock [illegible]ad previously bought.

[illegible]ollins has been charged with fail[illegible] to file a certificate of incorporation with the secretary of state, but it is understood that he will be specifically accused of swindling a Stratford man out of $850.

The total amount which Collins has realized on his stock transactions is said to be more than $150,000.

An unnamed person today brought foreclosure proceedings against the Chateau St. Claire, a roadhouse in Woodbridge, which is operated by Collins' wife, Dorothea St. Claire.

ROUNDING UP FAKE STOCK SALESMEN IN STATE

HARTFORD, April 14.—(AP)—A round up of from 100 to 150 fake stock salesmen, operating in Connecticut under the direction of several master minds promoting various fraudulent schemes at a cost of more than $500,000 to clients, has been begun by the state banking department and the state police department.

U. S. NAVY PLANES WILL USE PRATT & WHITNEY ENGINES

HARTFORD, April 14.—(AP)—U. S. navy planes will use Pratt and Whitney engines equipped with the new fuel injection device which permits the use of either oil or gasoline as soon as the local aircraft company goes into production on the new development following the completion of projected extensive tests, according to Lieut. Commander James M. Shoemaker, U. S. N., who flew to Hartford today from the Anacostia, D. C., naval base to inspect the engine in behalf of the navy.

Flight demonstrations were made at Brainard field this afternoon for the navy official. Commander Shoemaker went into the details of the invention which substitutes a fuel injection system for the carburetor and fuel intake system with George Mead, vice president of the organization.

110 FOREST FIRES REPORTED IN THE STATE LAST WEEK

HARTFORD, April 14—(AP)—Forest fires to the number of 110, which burned an area of 2926 acres, were reported to Chief Forest Fire Warden Austin F. Hawes during the past week, it was announced today. A total of 415 fires have burned over 8473 acres of forest land in this state so far this year, Forester Hawes stated. The fire burning over the greatest area so far this month, was in West Colchester, where 530 acres were burned over by a fire set by a four year old boy.

A fire which burned over 400 acres in Beacon Falls, was set by the backfire of an automobile. An attempt by a citizen to burn brush in Orange resulted in a fire which did more than $2,000 damage to farm buildings.

HIS LOVE FOR TWO ACTRESSES GIVEN AS CAUSE FOR SUICIDE

MOSCOW, April 14—(AP)—Torn between the love of two well known Russian actresses, Vladimir Mayakovsky, leading proletarian poet and playwright of Russia, shot himself through the heart today.

Just before his suicide he wrote a dramatic farewell letter addressed to "Everybody" saying that nobody should be blamed for his act and begging his mother, sister and comrades to forgive him.

"Please don't spread any gossip, this is not a means of solving our problems (I don't advise others to follow my example), but I had no way out."

Mayakovsky's letter contained a reference to an actress friend named Lily Brik and pleads with her to love him.

48 WATERBURY FAMILIES ARE TO MOVE TO CANADA

WATERBURY, April 14—(AP)—Forty-eight families now residing in this city will move to Canada within three weeks, it was reported to supervisor of the census today. All will be counted in Waterbury's population however. They said they were unable to obtain work here and pointed to the many concessions which the Canadian government makes to persons entering the country to work on farms.

BRITISH BUDGET RAISES INCOME TAX, DEATH DUTIES, SUPER TAX AND BEER TAX

LONDON, April 14.—(AP)—Facing a prospective deficit of $210,000,000, Philip Snowden, financial wizard of the labor party and chancellor of the exchequer, today presented to a tense and excited house of commons a budget bristling with new taxation proposals.

Great Britain's revenue for 1930-31, based on increased taxation, he estimated at nearly $4,000,000,000, with a surplus of a little over $11,000,000.

The actual estimates were: Revenue, 789,445,000 pounds (about $13,947,225,000), and expenditures, 731,409,000 pounds (about $2,657,545,000). In addition to the total of expenditures, there was the ordinary sinking fund of 50,400,000 pounds to which Mr. Snowden superadded 5,000,000 pounds and a sum of 300,000 pounds for the North of Ireland exchequer.

The grand total of expenditures was therefore 787,109,000 pounds (about $3,936,000). This left an estimated surplus of 2,135,000 pounds, or about $11,180,000.

Mr. Snowden increased the income tax, death duties, super tax and beer tax.

His announcement that the standard rate of income tax would be increased by sixpence, from 4 shillings to 4 shillings and six pence in the pound, was the sensation of his speech. It was being hotly debated in every corner of the country tonight.

By this increase, he said, he expected to get 24,000,000 pounds of the 42,000,000 pounds he had to find. He declared he intended to do it without inflicting any extra burden on the poor man. Throughout, his budget was a "poor man's budget."

He promised persons with small incomes that under certain adjustments he intended making at the bottom of the income tax scale, they would be in a better position as regards the tax than they were last year.

By an increase in the super tax Mr. Snowden expected 12,500,000 pounds. Death duties on estates exceeding 2,000,000 pounds, he put up from 40 to 50 per cent.

The Briton's beer barrel got a good thumping, Mr. Snowden envisaging an increased tax of 3 shillings per standard barrel. The poor man, however, will again benefit here, or at least get off lightly, for the British brewers have informed the chancellor that the brewing industry itself will bear the burden of the increase.

HIGHER TARIFF VOTED ON SILK AND RAYON PRODUCTS

Compromise Reached By the Senate and House Conferees—An Additional Accumulative Duty of 45 Cents a Pound Was Levied On Thrown Rayon Or Yarns Having Over 20 "Turns Twist" Per Inch — General Increase Was Voted On Silk Fabrics of All Grades

WASHINGTON, April 14—(AP)—American manufacturers of silk and rayon products, including clothing of all descriptions, were given increased protection today by the tariff bill conferees who concluded adjustment of differences between the senate and house over three more schedules of the Hawley-Smoot measure.

Besides the silk and rayon schedules, the congressional tariff adjusters completed work on senate amendments to the papers and books rate section, leaving only the sundries schedule and the free list for discussion before the controversial administrative clauses are reached.

Senate and house leaders expect to wind up the conference work this week on the less disputed provisions. A report, however, cannot be made until the house has voted on sugar, cement, lumber, shingles, casein, and possibly silver, and the senate has been asked for instructions regarding the export debenture provision and the repeal of the presidential rate-changing authority.

The most important change in the paper schedule was the acceptance of the house rates of 5 per cent and 30 per cent, respectively, on plain and sensitized photographic paper, which represent big reductions from the present duties of 3 cents a pound and 15 per cent and 3 cents and 20 per cent. The senate had provided that existing levies be retained.

The house conference group scored their first big victories in the controversies over textile rates. They forced the senate conferees to accept the house duties of 65 per cent on silk clothing not specially provided for, an increase of five per cent over the present law; and 45 cents a pound and 65 per cent on rayon clothing not mentioned specifically in the bill. The latter also is an increase of 5 per cent.

The house minimum levy of 45 cents a pound on rayon yarns also was accepted. This is higher, at present prices, than the 45 per cent ad valorem minimum in existing law, and 5 cents higher than the senate minimum.

A compromise was reached whereby an additional cumulative duty of 45 cents a pound would be levied on thrown rayon or yarns having over 20 "turns twist" per inch.

Compared with existing silk rates, bleached, dyed, colored, or plied spun silk yarn was given an increase from 45 to 50 per cent; Gloria silk, from 55 to 60 per cent; Jacquard-figured woven silk, fabrics from 55 to 65 per cent; pile fabrics, if velvets wholly cut or wholly uncut, from 60 to 65 per cent; same with pile partly cut, from 60 to 70 per cent; pile fabrics other than velvets, with pile partly cut, from 60 to 65 per cent.

Other rayon rates agreed on compared with present duties, follow:

Filaments not over 30 inches known as cut or staple fibers, 25 per cent, now 20 per cent; roving of rayon, 10 cents a pound and 45 per cent, now 20 cents a poun dbut not less than 25 per cent; spun single yarns, 12 1-2 cents a pound and 45 per cent, now 26 cents a pound but not less than 45 per cent; spun plied yarns, 12 1-2 cents a pound and 50 per cent, now 30 cents a pound but not less than 45 per cent.

Woven and knit fabrics 45 cents a pound and 60 per cent, now the same; Jacquard figured woven fabrics, not specially provided for, 45 cents a pound and 70 per cent, now 45 cents and 60 per cent; pile fabrics with the pile wholly cut or wholly uncut, 45 cents a pound and 60 per cent, now the same; same with pile partly cut, 45 cents a pound and 65 per cent now 5 cents and 60 per cent; fabrics with fast edges, including garters, suspenders, 45 cents a pound and 60 per cent, now the same; Jacquard-figured, 45 cents a pound and 70 per cent, now 45 cents and 60 per cent.

Gloves, hose, underwear, outerwear, hemmed handkerchiefs, woven mufflers, and all articles knit or chocheted, 45 cents a pound and 65 per cent, now 45 cents and 60 per cent.

Other duties agreed upon in the paper schedule were:

Manufacturers of pulp not specially provided for, 30 per cent, now 25 per cent; transparencies, in not over five printings, 40 per cent, now 25 cents a pound; same in over five printings, 50 per cent, now 25 cents a pound.

Plain wall paper, 1-4 of one cent a pound and 10 per cent, now the same; printed wall paper 30 per cent now 1-2 of one cent a pound and 20 per cent; plain cover paper 30 per cent, now 1-4 of one cent a pound and 10 per cent.

FORMER SHERIFF HELD IN CONNECTION WITH MURDER

MAUSTON, Wis., April 14—(AP)—Lyall T. Wright, 30, ousted two years ago as sheriff of Juneau county, tonight was held in the county jail in connection with the assassination of District Attorney Clinton G. Price, fatally wounded in the kitchen of his home last night by slugs from a shotgun.

A trail of stains, described as blood by Sheriff Elmer Hempelman, from the driveway of the Price home to the bank of the Lemonweir river and in an abandoned boat found opposite the Price residence and leading almost to the back door of Wright's home, caused authorities to seize the former sheriff shortly before Price died.

Officers were compelled to use force in taking Wright to jail, where examination revealed an artery of the middle finger of his right hand severed. He refused to tell what caused the injury.

A shotgun believed by the authorities to have been the one used in the shooting, was found in the river today, not far from the abandoned boat.

TO DEFER ACTION ON NOMINATION OF PARKER

WASHINGTON, April 14—(AP)—Confronted with serious opposition, the nomination of Judge John J. Parker, of North Carolina, to be an associate justice of the supreme court was laid aside for a week today by the senate judiciary committee.

Senator Overman, democrat, North Carolina, chairman of the sub-committee which considered the nomination, submitted a favorable report to the judiciary committee but administration senators joined in the suggestion to defer action pending further study of the protests of organized labor and Negro organizations.

Informed of restlessness in the senate, President Hoover is standing by the nomination and has sent word back to the senate that objections against Parker will be answered.

BRUTAL MURDER OF MARY BAKER REMAINS A MYSTERY

WASHINGTON, April 14—(AP)—The brutal murder of Mary Baker, 23 year old government clerk, apparently was as much a mystery tonight as when her body was found stuffed in a culvert near Washington two days ago. No arrests have been made and police indicated tonight they were temporarily at a stalemate.

The investigation was spread over Washington and nearby Virginia today by department of justice agents, Washington detectives and Virginia police. Half a dozen clues were run down and fully a score of people questioned.

Only one outstanding fact seemed unanimously agreed upon by the investigators. It was that the young woman was slain by someone whom she knew and trusted.

CREDITS MEX. ARMY OFFICERS WITH SAVING HIS LIFE

NOGALES, Ariz., April 14—(AP)—Returning to the United States today, J. D. Bristow, San Angelo, Tex., oil and mining man, credited Mexican army officers with saving his life while he was in the hands of bandits in the mountains of Nayarit for more than a month.

Bristow explained that while he was held captive, the Mexican army men did some "kidnaping" also, taking into custody the father and another relative of Cruz Delgado, the bandit chief and holding them as hostages for the safe release of the American.

"I think that saved my life," said the Texan.

LAUNCHING OF RACING YACHT AT BRISTOL, R. I.

BRISTOL, R. I., April 14—(AP)—The Enterprise, smallest of the four yachts which will battle for honor of defending the America's cup, was launched here today as Sir Thomas Lipton's latest challenger, the Shamrock V, took to the water at Gosport, England.

The launching of the Enterprise, the first of the four to be completed, was far from spectacular. Instead of the usual shouts and cheers, shrieks of whistles and jangling of bells, there was an air of deadly earnest about the ceremony.

Mrs. W. W. Aldrich, wife of a member of the New York syndicate of yachtsmen which underwrote construction of the Enterprise, broke a bottle of champagne across the bow, bestowing the name of the famous navy schooner, "Lucky Little Enterprise," which helped teach the bey of Tunis a lesson a century ago. Norman S. Case, governor of Rhode Island, stood beside Mrs. Aldrich on the launching platform.

WOMAN KILLED WHEN PROJECTION BOOTH FELL

NEW YORK, April 14—(AP)—A Negro woman was killed and 18 other persons were injured today when the projection booth of the Renaissance theatre, in Harlem, crashed down upon the rear four rows of seats in the auditorium.

Most of the injured were Negroes.

The theatre is in Seventh avenue, between 137th and 138th streets.

According to Deputy Fire Chief Mustard, fire was prevented by the two operators who turned off the electric current when they felt the projection booth giving way.

The booth, about 12 feet long, was supported by brackets from the ceiling of the theatre.

Ambulances were called from three hospitals.

FORGOT WHERE HE PARKED CAR WITH MOTHER AND SISTER

BOSTON, April 14—(AP)—Frank Pertone drove to Boston on business today and took his mother and sister along. He parked his car, concluded his business and then forgot where he had left the machine. After two hours of vain wanderings he appealed to the police, who finally figured out with the aid of maps and a description of the street where the missing automobile was. His mother and sister were still there, very tired of waiting.

FUNDS FOR TESTING OF POULTRY EXHAUSTED

HARTFORD, April 14.—(AP)— The testing of poultry in Connecticut is now at a standstill, due to lack of funds, and until a new appropriation becomes available on July 1, the commission on domestic animals will be unable to carry on. The cost of testing poultry is approximately $12,000 a year.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Blanche De Bar Booth Riddell

NEW YORK, April 14—(AP)—Mrs Blanche De Bar Booth Riddell, niece of Edwin Booth, in whose stock company she once played, died today at Brunswick home on Long Island. She was 86 years old.

Mrs. Riddell was born in Philadelphia, and was educated in a convent. She made her first stage appearance in "She Stoops to Conquer," with her uncle, Ben De Bar. After some time in stock she played Ophelia to Edwin Booth's Hamlet, and later in Joseph Jefferson's "Rip Van Winkle," and in the companies of Mrs. John Drew and John T. Ford.

She had been under the care of the Actors' Fund of America since 1905.

ROTARIANS ARE HOSTS TO WINDHAM HIGH GIRLS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, April 14—The first annual Rotary banquet for the Windham high school girls of the graduating class was held at the Nathan Hale hotel this evening with about 60 girls present. The purpose of the meeting as outlined by the committee in charge was to inculcate in the mind of the high school girl a higher appreciation of education and vocation.

The main speaker was Rev. Sherrod Soule of Hartford, superintendent of the Congregational Misionary society of Connecticut. Remarks were also made by Principal Egbert A. Case of the school, who spoke of the character of the high school girl and thanked the Rotary club for an opportunity to display the fine material passing through the portals of the school. On behalf of the girls Mrs. Cecelia Mahoney, faculty advisor, thanked the club for the banquet and in fitting words told of the tremendous part which the girls played in the success of the school. The meeting was called to order by President Louis H. Arnold, who gave a brief review of Rotary. The girls favored with several popular songs with Mrs. Irene Babcock, assisting in the leading. Instrumental music was by Ralph H. Gibson, club song leader and violinist, John T. Quinlan, club pianist, and Gaylord Mathewson, saxophone. The programme was in charge of Walter S. Barnes, vice chairman of the standing programme committee.

Rev. Soule, who is a native of Hampton, stressed the importance of education with practical illustrations of the tremendous fight some men have made in order to acquire it. He told of the case of Edwin Jones, who was born on Tower Hill in Chaplin, 102 years ago, became an orphan and had to braid lashes out of woodchuck hides to finance the ground-work of his education. He later went west and became very wealthy, using his money for the foundation of and assistance to institutions of learning. He also told of an Ashford boy whose mother went out in the middle of winter to shear the sheep that she might weave for him a suit fitting for school attendance. When still a young man, the boy, who had been a diligent student, went to Brown university and there passed all examinations orally and on the same day was awarded the degree of bachelor of arts and an honorary degree. He became president of Union college of Schenectady, remaining there 62 years. His patents on the commercializing of anthracite coal brought him a fortune and he gave over $600,000 to the college.

Rev. Soule told of another instance of the educational achievements of a young Hartford Italian. The speakers were given a rising vote of thanks.

High school girls who were present were Arlene Andrews, Carolyn Allen, Irene Babcock, Vivian Bergeron, Rose Borozicka, Ethel May Bowman, Daisy Boyajian, Alice D. Brehant, Mary Carey, Virginia Case, Alice Casey, Lillian Chartier, Thelma Clark, Zelma Clauson, Alice Connolly, Mildred Cotter, Muriel Covell, Margaret Crosthwaite, Ernestine Delude, Lois Dondero, Rose Dzwonczyk, Gertrude Foote, Helen Fraser, Claire Frink, Hazel Gillette, Lois Gilliette, Esther Hansen, Rose Bubac, Mary Ulalie Jenkins, Helen Johnson, Eva Kimball, Rose Lavigne, Ruth Kinney, Pauline Landeck, Claire Lombardo, Katherine Mara, Margaret Moran, Myrtle Morse, Elsie Normandin, Helen D. PROMNINENT COLUMBIA MEN ARRESTED FOR SETTING FIRES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, April 14—The town of Columbia is all astir over a round-up of prominent citizens who are scheduled to be arraigned in court Monday, April 21, charged with setting rubbish fires without permits. The round-up was made by C. Huntington Lathrop of Lebanon, a deputy fire warden. Justice of the Peace Hubert P. Collins, Clarence Holbrook, 19, of the Pine street district and A. Tennenbaum of Chestnut Hill are among those to appear in court. Holbrook and Tennenbaum were presented before Justice of the Peace Mrs. Fannie Dixon Welch Saturday but were not put to plea when Grand Juror Joseph N. Clarke asked for a continuance in order that all the cases could be taken up together. Holbrook, it is stated, set a refuse fire on property belonging to his family the fire getting out of control. Tennenbaum started a fire in the open last week. Most of the fires are said to have been detected from the look-out station at the Connecticut Agricultural college and reported to the fire warden.

A group of some 75 boys have been organized into a boys' club to be affiliated with James J. Shea post, No. 19, American Legion, with the following temporary officers: President, James Smith, Model school; vice president, Florimond Pepin, St. Mary's Parochial school; secretary, Walter Edwards, Natchaug school; and sergeant-at-arms, Roland Garceau, St. Mary's school. The permanent officers are expected to be chosen during commencement week. The club begins operations on a treasury of $25 donated by the legionnaires. The membership is restricted to pupils in the three upper grades of the grammar schools of the town.

Today legionnaires went to the various grammar school yards and established two horse-shoe pitching courts in each. These will be used in a tournament leading to final matches during commencement week which will also be during Community Reunion week in the town. A substantial increase in membership is expected within the next few weeks.

The rate at which hunting and fishing licenses are now being issued by Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton of Windham entirely belies an assertion that the increased fees fixed by the state for such licenses would result in a decrease in the number to be issued. As far as Windham is concerned the license business is brisk. Over 80 fishing licenses were issued over the week end and Mrs. Alice D. Stoughton, assistant town clerk, was busy today at this work and answering telephone calls from anglers who are coming in from other cities Tuesday and will call for their licenses before going out after the trout.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Nicola Carchidi

The funeral of Mrs. Nicola Carchidi was held this morning from the home, 31 Temple street, with a requiem high mass in St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock. Rev. Michael J. Thompson was celebrant. With Mrs. E. R. Portelance presiding at the organ, Mrs. Henry J. Mathieu was heard in several solos. Burial was in the family plot of St. Joseph's cemetery where Rev. Father Thompson read a committal prayer. The bearers were, Peter Ferrigno, James Demarco, Guy Intili, Dominick Depollina. Arrangements were by Killourey Brothers.

Mrs. Florence C. Allen

Services for Mrs. Florence C. Allen were held at the mortuary parlors, 62 North street, at 2 o'clock this afternoon with Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock of the First Congregational church officiating. Burial was in the Willington Hill cemetery. The bearers were, Fred Popple, Lyman Stewart, George Brown and Lester Kennerson. Avery and VanZandt had charge of the arrangements.

During Holy week there will be masses at 8 o'clock at St. Mary's church each morning except Saturday when the mass will be at 7 o'clock. Following the mass Holy Thursday there will be a procession by the priests carrying the Blessed Sacrament which will be placed on the altar to the Blessed Virgin and exposed for the day. The mass of the pre-sanctified will be celebrated Good Friday and the service of the way of the cross will be carried out at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Easter water will be blessed Holy Saturday. The Easter Sunday masses will be at the usual time, 7, 8, 9:15 and 10:30 a. m.

The Holy week program at St. Joseph's church calls for masses at the same hours as that at St. Mary's, the general order of services being the same during the wek and Easter Sunday. There will be no Lenten devotions Wednesday and Friday evenings, but the way of the cross service will be held Friday at 3.

Services were held at the Hebrew synagogue over the week end and today in observance of the Feast of the Passover, known in their faith as Pesach. Rabbi Max Levine preached a sermon at each gathering. The period of passover covers eight days and another series of services will be held at the synagogue next Saturday and Sunday at 9:15 a. m.

FOOT-BRIDGE TO BE CLOSED STARTING THIS MORNING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, April 14—The footbridge linking Main street and Pleasant street and accommodating several hundred pedestrians daily is to go into a state of "padlock" tomorrow morning on order of the common council to whom was submitted tonight at the April meeting a report by Alderman Herbert I. Sanderson that the span was unsafe and in danger of collapse. The report was based on an inspection of the bridge made by the Berlin Bridge Co., engineers, recently.

Alderman Sanderson stated that as soon as an estimate could be secured of the cost of repairing the bridge, a special city meeting would be called to vote the appropriation so that repairs could be started at once. It was indicated that this special meeting could not be held until a week or ten days hence. The bridge was started in December, 1905, and completed in 1906 at a cost of $12,856.83. The temporary tie-up is expected to severely handicap the residents of the "over-the-river" section and a few hundred employes of the Rossie Velvet plant.

The council voted to install sewers on upper Jackson street, Church street extension, Ash street, Ash avenue, Bolivia street and upper North streets, completing the sewer loop in that section of the city.

Sewers will also be installed on Young street. The request of Francis S. Long post, Woman's Relief corps, for a donation for the G. A. R. convention to be held here next month met with no immediate action. On a petition of J. B. Fullerton and 62 others it was voted that the traffic signals at the corners of Valley and High and Valley and Windham streets be replaced in operation. The license board was authorized to revoke the license of any journeyman or master plumber guilty of infringement on the plumbing laws. The council voted on motion of Alderman John P. Carlsen to shut off city water on May 28 where payment of water rentals were six months in arrears. The chief of police was authorized to put the motorcycles into repair for use beginning May 1. The week of April 28 was designated as clean-up week in the city. It was voted to establish approved lines and grades on Summit street extension, upper Mansfield avenue and Monticello street.

At a special joint meeting of Earl W. Green post, No. 52, of Coventry and Mansfield, with the post auxiliary, held in Coventry tonight, the main speakers were State Commander W. S. Alexander of Meriden, and state president of the auxiliary, Mrs. Clemency Schall, of West Haven. Past Commander Carleton D. King presided.

MANCHESTER FIRM GETS STORRS SCHOOL CONTRACT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, April 14.—A special committee of the town of Mansfield for the construction of a new school building at Storrs tonight awarded the contract to the lowest of 22 bidders, Gustave Schrieber & Sons of South Manchester, whose figure was $33,657, and work will start next Wednesday morning. The highest bid received was $45,442. The building is to be erected at the junction of the Eagleville road with the state highway about one-half mile from the Connecticut Agricultural campus, and will be used as a grammar school. Based on the bid as accepted tonight, the committee estimates that including furnishings the building will cost $43,176. The town appropriated $25,000 and the state an equal amount for the school, indicating that the cost will be well within the total appropriation. The movement to build this school was started a long time ago and has been subjected to much agitation on the part of the townspeople. Members of the building committee were First Selectman D. A. Flaherty, chairman; A. W. Buchanan, Sr., Ivan Wilcox, Mrs. Frederick O. Vinton and James Kerwin.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre

Conrad Nagel led a double screen life while making "The Idle Rich," William de Mille's all-talking picture, which is now playing at the Breed theatre as a new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature.

In making the film, which is a picturization of the famous stage play, "White Collars," Nagel played the part of a multi-millionaire who pretended he was penniless.

At the same time Nagel was playing another role in "Dynamite," in which he played the part of a penniless young man who posed as a multi-millionaire.

Bessie Love and Leila Hyams share feature honors with Nagel in the new picture. Others in the supporting cast are James Neill, Robert Ober, Paul Kruger, Kenneth Gibson and Edythe Chapman.

Broadway Theatre.

Continuing its policy of booking only the best of photoplay productions for its patrons, the Broadway steps out again tomorrow with an amazing double feature program, with two headline stars, Charles "Buddy" Rogers and Hal Skelly sharing the honors of the dual program. Young Rogers is again teamed with William Wellman, his beloved director of "Wings," the picture that started both toward fame, in "Young Eagles," a gasping, breathless story of the A. E. F. aviation forces in the "big scrap," with a cast that guarantees action from the start. Buddy, is, of course, a daring American "ace," and his deadliest rival is the "Gray Eagle" of the Hun air force, played by the sinister Paul Lukas. "Dog-fights" 17,000 feet up are a minor detail in this smashing story of war and treachery, with the enemy spies apparently planted in Rogers' own mess. Jean Arthur is charming, but subtle as a clever woman spy, and Stuart Erwin, blundering and clownish, an easy mark for the machinations of the enemy. Surpassing even "Wings" in its depiction of gigantic air battles, crashes, planes falling in flames, and thrilling hand-to-hand ground encounters, "Young Eagles" will have everyone on the edge of their seats. In the companion picture Hal Skelly, as the wise-cracking "kid from West Philly," a noisy, back-slapping optimist, has the leading role in a side-splitting story "Men Are Like That," filmed intact from the famous stage play "The Show-Off." Skelly is ideal in his role as "the show-off" who makes good in the final analysis, but only after a series of hair-raising adventures, that are good for hundreds of hearty laughs. Fox movietone news completes the bill. "Lord Byron of Broadway," that scintillating tale of "Tin-Pan Alley where the popular songs come from," is in its final showings today.

Palace Theatre.

Beginning tomorrow, the Palace theatre will present another of its popular double-feature bills combining "New York Lights," a rapid fire romance of modern stage life starring Norma Talmadge and Gilbert Roland and "Troopers Three," an army story minus war with a fine cast including Rex Lease, Roscoe Karns, Slim Summerville and Dorothy Gulliver

NORMA TALMADGE — Star of "NEW YORK NIGHTS"

"New York Lights" which is the screen version of the Broadway stage success "Tin Pan Alley," is a racy, dynamic tale of courageous little chorus girls, struggling song writers, scheming racketeer producers and the everyday people who make up the glamorous atmosphere of the Great White Way.

Jill Reverne (Norma Talmadge) a chorus girl, is the sole support of her song-writing husband who is lovable in his way but irresponsible and very fond of drinking. Jill is tired of being the meal-ticket for the family and threatens to leave Fred (Gilbert Roland). He interests her in his latest effort which seems to be an improvement on the others and Jill reconsiders. She takes the song to Joe Prividi, a racketeer producer, who accepts it simply to win his way into the girl's heart. Things look brighter for Jill and Fred but soon he becomes involved in a scandal with another woman and this is his undoing.

"As Long As You Love Me" is a song which everyone will remember after hearing Rex Lease as Eddie Haskins, the hero, croon it in the moonlight to Dorothy Gulliver as Dorothy Clark, the heroine of Arthur Guy Empey's new screen hit, "Troopers Three." Empey will be remembered as the author of the famous war book "Over the Top."

Lease, as a smart Aleck song and dance man of vaudeville, decides to have a thirty days' vacation at the expense of Uncle Sam by joining the Citizen's Training Camp. Through an error he finds that he has enlisted in the cavalry for three years. Bugs (Roscoe Karns) and Sonny (Slim Summerville) are his companions. The three rookies are misfits and provide plenty of material for the pranks of the regular troopers and many laughs for the audience. But there is also a beautiful romantic thread interwoven when Eddie falls in love with Dorothy, the lovely daughter of the first sergeant.

"The Lost Zeppelin," a drama of love and adventure in the Antarctic starring Conway Tearle, Virginia Valli and Ricardo Cortez will be shown at the Palace for the last times today

With the establishment of the Grand Teton National park, Wyoming, and the Bryce Canyon National park, Utah, during the last year, there are now 21 members of the national park system.

DANIELSON

MAINDON IS ELECTED WARDEN OF DANIELSON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, April 14.—Gaston A. Maindon was elected warden of the borough of Danielson today for the ensuing year and the following additional officers also were elected: Clerk and treasurer, Frank T. Preston; members of the court of burgesses, Louis E. Young, D. E. Jette, Charles E. Austin, Harry E. Back, A. V. Woodworth and F. O. Armington; bailiff, John McFarland; library directors for three years, F. A. Jacobs, Attorney L. A. Woisard.

Of the many of hundreds of voters in the borough only 50 participated in the election and of these votes two were rejected. The average run of the votes was 48 for each candidate, while Warden Maindon received 46 votes and Attorney Woisard 47.

The business meeting tonight accepted the reports of various officers as printed, fixed a tax rate of seven mills and named the second Monday in September as the date for collection. The usual votes providing for financing the borough during the year were passed and another vote ratifying and affirming the action of previous borough meetings relative to the construction of sidewalks. F. E. Bitgood was moderator of the meeting and Frank T. Preston, clerk.

LOCAL MAN SHOOTS 48 SNAKES ON HIS FARM

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, April 14.—Unless Wilfred Ledger, who is on a farm place on the road leading from Ballouville to East Killingly, has a better set of nerves than the average person, he must have felt like going somewhere, and how, when he found himself surrounded with black snakes at the week end while engaged with a little mission near an old cellar hole where a house once stood.

Mr. Ledger had gone into a field to set a woodchuck trap in a burrow and was engaged in cutting a little stick near the cellar hole when the earth began to squirm all about him. Snakes! Plenty of them! Going to the house, he took a box of 50 shells and a shotgun and went back to do some executing. He blazed away at the snakes until his ammunition was exhausted. The mortality list was heavy. After the carnage was over, Mr. Ledger counted 48 dead black snakes, ranging in length by actual measurement from 4 1-2 feet to 6 feet 2 inches in length. A number of the snakes that were in the brigade of them he encountered managed to get away. Persons familiar with the habits of these snakes say that Mr. Ledger probably came upon them as the colony was emerging from winter quarters in or about the old cellar. What remains of the dead snakes may still be seen at the place of slaughter. The crows have been having a feast upon them the past two days.

L. H. Bradley of Hartford led the field yesterday in the first registered shoot of the season under the auspices of the Danielson Rod and Gun club, his score in the 16-target program being 98 out of a possible 100. A. E. Wordell of New Bedford was second with 94. In class B, L. S. Ingalls of Danielson was first with 91, and George L. Ingalls and G. B. Prest tied for second place with 89.

In the distance handicap, George L. Ingalls, only 15 years of age and a trap shooter for only a year, shot brilliantly to win with a high of 48 out of 50. L. H. Bradley was second with 45. In the doubles, Bradley won, 43 out of 50, and Roberts and Stainton tied for second at 41.

The detail of the score follows: 100 16-yard targets, L. H. Bradley, 98; A. E. Wordell, 94; H. G. Barstow, 93; C. F. Peabody, 93; M. D. Roberts, 92; L. S. Ingalls, 92; George L. Ingalls, 89; G. B. Prest, 89; C. M. Slade, 89; M. W. Buck, 88; W. J. Stainton, 88; L. M. Dillon, 84. 50 distance: George L. Ingalls, 48; L. H. Bradley, 45; W. J. Stainton, 44; M. G. Barstow, 42; L. S. Ingalls, 42; M. D. Roberts, 42; G. B. Prest, 40; L. M. Dillon, 34. 50-doubles: Bradley, 43; Roberts, 41; Stainton, 41; Barstow, 40.

Phyllis Kenworthy and Henry Ricewasser were the leaders at the first of the Hi-Y week services under the auspices of the Tri-Y and Hi-Y clubs at the Baptist church this morning, and the pastor, Rev. Chester J. Armstrong, was the preacher. The attendance for the first morning of the week was good.

Managers of chain stores here and hereabouts were being warned by state officers today to watch for worthless checks drawn on the Uncas National bank of Norwich, made to James Kelley and bearing the signature of William Azzline. In some instances the check bears the endorsement James Kelley, in others the double endorsement of James Kelley and C. A. Williams. Two of the checks picked up, both of no value, were for $20 each. One of the checks was passed on an A. & P. store in Willimantic.

The borough budget as submitted to the voters at the annual business meeting this evening calls for appropriations totaling $24,440. Majority items include: Library, $2,100; police, $4,700; lights, $6,200; fire department, $3,500; water (hydrants), $2,500; interest, $1,500; park, $450; insurance, $500; elections and meetings, $100; printing, $150; tax assessment and collection, $500; salaries, $1,440; borough farm, $200; legal expenses, $100; miscellaneous, $500. Receipts estimated include, stock tax, $900; police collections, $1,000; rent of borough farm, $240; licenses, $50; town, for library, $400; collections at library, $100; a total of $2,690. The amount, therefore, to be raised by taxes is $21,750. A 7-mill tax will raise $22,746.60, leaving a $1,000 reserve that may be applied to the reduction of the borough debt.

In his annual report as health officer of the borough, Dr. W. H. Judson mentions visitations to markets here on trips of inspection, at one time with a representative of the state department of health. Dr. Judson said that most of the markets were found clean, but orders for clean-ups were issued in one or two instances. Only two nuisances were complained of during the year and they were quickly abated.

As to sickness, the borough has had its share of diphtheria, the doctor says, and an unsuspected and healthy looking carrier is regarded as probably responsible. To explain this statement, Dr. Judson sets forth that there are individuals who have had the disease in mild form and recovered, yet have the germs still active and just as contagious as ever. Three or four cases of genuine measles were reported during the year and 40 cases of German measles, and there were probably more undiscovered, Dr. Judson believes. Thirteen cases of chickenpox, five of whooping cough were reported.

In addition to other surviving relatives, James Berthiaume, who died Saturday in Wauregan, leaves a wife.

COWSLIP HUNTER FINDS WHERE THE TROUT RUN BIG

One day last week a local man was looking for cowslips along a Griswold brook. At one point where the alders grew thick and the stream made a turn to pass under a pasture bridge the greens hunter heard the sound of snapping brush, evidently caused by someone who was bent on leaving that section in a hurry. Pursuing his way, there soon appeared beside the stream a pole, a can of bait, and two small trout. The man declares that he never saw finer looking water for fish, so he picked up the discarded pole, baited up and threw in. Straightway, the thing happened which always does before the law is off. There came a great strike, Mr. Man hauled in, landing a trout that weighed two pounds flat. The first fisherman evidently believed that the brook was being patrolled by the local game wardens. It is hinted that today (Tuesday) the gent of the second part will catch that same "speckled beauty" again. Those who will blame him, if he does, will be in the decided minority.

The many who each day go up to Tadpole to see the work of eliminating the S-curve bridge, are surprised to note the extensive road-straightening which is included in the present operations of the state highway department. Upon the completion of the new survey, there will be few things to recognize in the "Round the Pond" road, which, when the thousands of pond lilies are in bloom, has been a drive of surpassing beauty. At one point, half way up the pond, the improved road line makes a straight cut of 1,000 feet through the one-time Johnson side hill. At two other points adjacent to the margin of the pond the bends are eliminated by fills on the east and cuts on the opposite side. The result will be that instead of winding along the shore of the bond the road will be practically straight from the entrance to the Quinebaug camps to the north borough line.

PUTNAM

STATE POLICE INVESTIGATE ORIGIN OF DERR FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, April 14.—As the result of a story appearing in this morning's Bulletin concerning the mysterious fire which destroyed the W. L. Derr farm in Putnam Heights Friday evening, Lieut. Ross V. Urquhart, commanding officer of the Danielson state police barracks assigned Sergt. George L. Gardner to investigate circumstances existing shortly before the fire, which is believed to have had an incendiary origin, broke out.

After interviewing several residents living in the vicinity of the Derr farm, Sergt. Gardner obtained valuable information concerning the automobile which was seen to drive out of the farm entrance a few minutes before flames were discovered inside the barn. The vehicle has been identified and persons who were thought to have been passengers in it will be questioned this week. Fire destroyed a house, barn and several sheds, creating a loss of about $1000. While the approximate loss seems ridiculously low, the buildings were in poor repair.

REV. J. F. ENGLISH TO GO TO MANCHESTER, N. H. CHURCH

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, April 14. — Associated Press despatches in the morning papers today announced that Rev. James F. English, for the past five years pastor of the Congregational church of this city would be called to the pastorate of the First Congregational church in Manchester, New Hampshire. Rev. Mr. English when interviewed this morning expressed no surprise, but stated that while he was anticipating the call, he had not as yet been officially informed of his new appointment.

The pastor said that he probably would be officially advised late tonight and would be in a position to comment immediately after his notification. Mr. English was appointed to the ministry of the Congregational faith in 1919. He served as pastor of the Elmwood Community church in West Hartford and came to Putnam, succeeding Rev. Simeon E. Cozad as pastor of the local church in 1925. On Sunday, Mr. English exchanged pulpits with his predecessor, Rev. Mr. Cozad, who is now pastor of the Orthodox Congregational church in Mansfield, Mass. When the former pastor assumed the pulpit at the Putnam church yesterday morning at the service of worship, many of the church members anticipated that the resignation of Rev. Mr. English would be formally read.

Being selected to assume the pastorate of the New Hampshire church, Mr. English said this morning that he would probably tender his resignation within a few days. The new appointment of Rev. Mr. English is considered an important promotion, as the Manchester church is said to be one of the largest in the Granite state. The announcement of the call of Rev. Mr. English to the pastorate of the Manchester edifice was sincerely regretted not only by the members of the Congregational church, but by Putnam people of all denominations to whom the young clergyman was endeared.

Five new fire alarm boxes of the latest type purchased at the March meeting of the common council were received Saturday by Superintendent of Fire Alarms Charles T. Thayer and will be installed in the alarm circuit at once, replacing boxes which are now obsolete. The numbers of the new boxes are: 14, to replace the box at the corner of Grove and Seward streets; 15, to replace the box at the corner of South Main and Grove streets; 24, to replace the box at the corner of Walnut and Highland streets; 36, to replace the box on Providence street opposite the Bloom Manufacturing company; 46, to replace the box at Church street at the corner of Woodstock avenue.

The new fire alarm signal stations represent the last word in fire alarm box design. They are constructed of an aluminum metal known as perculator, a feature which reduces the weight of the instrument three-fourths that of the antiquated boxes to be removed from service. They are equipped with the quick action doors and the non-interfering method of wiring. Should the coincidence of two alarms being rung at once occurr, the new boxes would remain silent until the first box has finished recording its number on the tape at fire headquarters. They are absolutely foolproof, Supt. Thayer said today, making it impossible for any person to tamper with the boxes, an invaluable asset to fire alarm telegraph.

When the quintet of new boxes are installed, the city of Putnam will possess a fire alarm telegraph system that will be on par with the systems of other large cities in the state. Since the appointment of Mr. Thayer as superintendent of the system, he has labored diligently for the improvement of the fire alarm apparatus. The box eliminating programme, which has done away with the obsolete fire alarm stations was fostered by Superintendent Thayer and the modern devices at the fire alarm headquarters in the Central station in Union square were all acquired through his efforts. Visiting fire officials and fire authorities from other cities after inspecting the local fire alarm system have paid compliments to Mr. Thayer for his part in raising the standard of fire fighting efficiency in this city.

Of interest to local baseball fans is the announcement made by the athletic board at the United States Naval academy at Annapolis that Lieut. T. Henry Hederman, formerly of Webster, has been appointed to coach the baseball nine of the academy. Lieut. Hederman is a graduate of Bartlett high school, Webster, and a graduate of the Naval academy. During his years at Annapolis, Lieut Hederman established an enviable record on the diamond. He is well known in Putnam where he took part in many baseball games during his high school days at Bartlett high in Webster.

Jewish residents of Putnam began the celebration of the feast of the Passover at sundown Saturday evening and will continue the observance until sundown next Saturday. Observance of the feast commemorates the deliverance of the Israelites from slavery under the Pharoahs and is primarly dedicated to the thanksgiving services.

State Officer Henry M. Mayo of the Danielson barracks was in Southbridge today where he visited the Southbridge hospital to interview Miss Alice Young, 18, 343 South street, of Southbridge, who was injured in an auto accident Saturday evening on the Southbridge-Putnam road. Officer Mayo reported that Miss Young's condition was still critical, having been informed by hospital officials that gangrene has developed in her system. Miss Young was able to discuss the circumstances of the mishap in which she sustained injuries that have maimed her for life. She said that the car was proceeding at a speed of about 25 miles an hour when it suddenly went into a spiral and left the highway.

Two other passengers, Edward Williams, 37 Freland street, Worcester, and Patrick Mahoney, 37 Barnon street, also of Worcester, injured in the accident, were improved today and will probably be discharged from the institution this week.

Officer Mayo continued his investigation of the collision today and found that the brakes, steering mechanism and tires were in good condition even after the car was demolished. The steering apparatus which Williams said locked suddenly when the car started down the incline, was found to be functioning this morning.

Miss Madeline McCoy, of Grove street, passed the week end as the guest of Miss Gertrude Marion at her home in Hartford.

Cadillac V-8

. . . the truly economical car
—what it gives you

The Cadillac V-8 is the most economical of fine cars because Cadillac manufacturing renders repair, upkeep and operating costs so low. In what it gives you in value, no car outside of the Cadillac family can possibly equal. None other has the magnificent manufacturing facilities and the years of precision experience. No other fine car has such an extensive ownership.

Consider the exclusive advantages which the Cadillac V-8 gives you:

With the entire industry discussing transmissions, Cadillac perfected a transmission that simplifies gear-shifting instead of complicating it. This transmission virtually gives you an unlimited number of speeds, because you can shift without hesitation from second to high, and from high to second at any reasonable speed without the slightest noise or clashing.

So too, the eight-cylinder Cadillac is equipped with the most scientific brakes ever developed—brakes that permit you to make more miles per hour with greater safety; brakes that are unfailing—you cannot overheat them, effortless in operation because of fifteen sets of roller bearings, positive because the brake shoes always give full surface action.

The Cadillac Eight harmonized steering system permits you to maneuver the most congested traffic or drive cross-country without the slightest steering strain or whip.

Save for La Salle and the sixteen-cylinder Cadillac, no other cars at any price possess these ultra-modern features.

In the Cadillac V-8, eight-cylinders attain their maximum effectiveness.

Clutch; fuel system; electrical equipment; spring suspension; frame construction; front and rear axle construction—every mechanism and appointment in the Cadillac V-8 has been refined and improved to the extreme limit of engineering and manufacturing knowledge.

As for body construction and appointment, your own eyes can quickly see the startling difference between the Fisher and Fleetwood bodies with which the eight-cylinder Cadillac is equipped, and all other motor car bodies.

The eight-cylinder Cadillac is equipped throughout with non-shatterable plate glass without any additional cost.

A telephone message to the Cadillac dealer in your community will bring a trials car to your door. Take advantage of the G. M. A. C. Deferred Payment Plan. Your present car may well cover the initial payment.

LANDING MORE INDUSTRIES

According to the New England News Letter published by the New England council, the chamber of commerce of Rochester, N. H., reports that six new industries have located there during the past three months, and that a seventh industry expects to locate there as soon as arrangements can be completed.

It is further set forth that these new industries are now employing about 600 workers and expect to employ about 1,000 before long with an annual payroll of at least $1,000,000. There are reasons why the Rochester chamber of commerce and Rochester itself should be elated over this industrial improvement. It comes at a time when industry has been facing more or less uncertainty, but it would appear that Rochester was making the most of its opportunities, setting forth its advantages in a convincing manner and already beginning to reap the benefits. The impression is created that Rochester is engaged in industrial development in a manner that is certain to mean much to the future of that community. Most any city would like to add a $1,000,000 payroll through the encouragement of small industries. Whether it means the expansion of old industries or the acquisition of new ones, it contributes to the progress of Rochester in a most effective manner.

These are concerns which find in Rochester the sort of conditions for which they are looking. That doesn't mean that they might not be able to do the same thing elsewhere. The impression is gained that Rochester is alert to its own needs and has so presented its attractions as to convince heads of industrial concerns that it would also be to their advantage to locate in that city.

The importance of getting and maintaining industrial activity at as high a level as possible is vital to a city. It is one thing upon which stress needs to be placed at all times. It is never wise to let the idea prevail that development has reached its peak, that nothing more can be done or that there should be a let-up in the effort. When there is a slump or when small concerns need encouragement or others are looking for conditions that will meet their requirements is the time for greater endeavors. In fact, though there may be slumps in industrial production there should never be a slump in the effort to bring about increased industrial activity. It is apparently upon such a policy that Rochester operates and Rochester is getting commendable results.

THE BASEBALL SEASON

Once again the baseball season is with us. Officially opened by President Hoover, it will continue to occupy the attention of a large proportion of the people of this country for the next several months with each one rooting for his favorite aggregation of players and expecting it to land the pennant and then successfully contend for the world's championship.

One of the best bits of evidence of the popularity of the game is furnished by the discussion that involves the respective players, the interest in the various contests and the huge attendance at the daily games in the major leagues. Backing this up is the enthusiasm that is to be found among the amateur teams and the general eagerness on the part of Young America to play the game. It is the great American game which has its appeal for all ages, those who have played and now enjoy watching other exponents, those who have maintained a keen interest though never more than a rank amateur, those who have always been fans and know the merits of the respective players for years like a book and those who turn to it solely for recreation purposes.

It is a game which brings the players and the fans into the open spaces, provides wholesome and beneficial exercise and stimulates quick thinking and action. From time to time reference is made to the fear that interest in the game is dwindling. There is little to support such a feeling when the game is kept clean and above board and that is no more than is demanded of any American sport. It has been demonstrated time and again that baseball cannot be crooked and be successful. The American public simply will not stand for any such brand of the national game, but it is always eager to support the open straight game and applaud the winner. Baseball always has its uncertainties but the demand is that the better team should win.

UNECONOMIC PROPOSITION

Much stress has been laid by those who want the government to operate Muscle Shoals upon the benefit that the manufacture of cheap fertilizer will be to the farmers. To those who do not know any better, it probably means much, but to the experts on fertilizer in the department of agriculture it is to laugh. They know differently. They understand the methods employed in the making of fertilizer and they know what can be done at Muscle Shoals, and they come forth with the enlightening statement that there is no longer any chance for the economic use of Muscle Shoals for the production of nitrates. In other words, while that development might have been worth something at one time, it is now out of date. Other methods have completely sidetracked it so that it can no longer successfully compete with modern practices.

This is a point that was brought out also at the time the Muscle Shoals bill was up before congress in the Coolidge administration, and it shows that an effort is being made to saddle a useless expense upon the government in an attempt to create a false impression among the farmers.

The senate has disposed of the Muscle Shoals bill in spite of this situation. Prior to action by the house the experts in the department of agriculture have set forth their views and it seems impossible that they will be totally disregarded. The great cry in connection with the government operation of the power plant has been the help that can be given to the farmers. With those who understand the business of producing fertilizers knocking that vision in the head, it is difficult to understand how the members of the house can be hoodwinked over that feature. And if they stop to realize what is being done in that respect they have reasons for being suspicious of the whole proposition.

It would be bad enough to put the government into the business of making fertilizer, even if it could be economically produced at Muscle Shoals, but to undertake any such production in the face of the testimony of experts that the method that would be used there is completely out of date is in keeping with much that goes on in government-operated enterprises.

NEW YORK STATE CRIME

The state of New York has had a crime commission at work studying crime conditions in that state with a view to improvement. It is aware of the need of giving adequate protection to society and it has had an opportunity to watch the effect of new legislation calculated to deal with the confirmed criminal. The state has been doing business under what is known as the Baumes law for some time now. That is the law which provides life imprisonment for fourth offenders where there are convictions for felonies. Its purpose is to keep those who cannot refrain from crime where they will have no chance to prey upon the general public. Having had adequate opportunities to go straight, they are placed under restraint as recognized serious offenders.

In the course of the operation of the law it has been found that there have been instances where persons have had to be given life sentences when it is probable that it was never intended that such offenses would receive such punishment. For that reason there have been demands for the modification of the law. This means that there needs to be a better definition of the crimes for which life sentences on the fourth offense should be imposed and possibly a provision whereby there can be some opportunity of meeting certain of the criticisms.

New York has had some unfortunate expereinces with its parole law. It has been shown that too much laxity prevailed and it believes that it has taken action that will bring about a correction. It can hardly be said that the time has come when the Baumes law should be thrown overboard. On the other hand, it is a question how extensively the offenders who were supposed to be taken care of by that law should be subjected to a weak and ineffective parole system. If the protection that the public needs is to be upset by the putting of such persons under parole it means a return to previous conditions and encouragement to the confirmed criminal.

The continuance of the crime commission for another year means that more study is to be given to the situation, and further opportunity is to be provided for the author of the Baumes law to make changes that will conform to requirements revealed by experience.

STOCK SWINDLERS

All Connecticut is interested in the effort that is being made by the banking department of the state and the state police to put an end to the operations of a gang of fake stock salesmen and the proper punishment of such individuals.

There can be no sympathy for the fakers, those who are ready to swindle a person out of his hard-earned cash by selling him worthless securities. It is to be realized that those who buy should take the precautions to check up the claims and alluring promises of such salesmen, but the fact that this is not done in a sufficient number of cases does not mean that there can be any disposition to gloss over their activities as simply one more bad experience.

Those who set forth to deliberately get something for nothing through a fraudulent scheme deserve no consideration. They prey upon the gullibility of the public, which they know exists to a large extent. They present stories of wonderful prospects but with a lot of details which are intended to get the mind of the prospective buyer centered upon the bait rather than upon the soundness of the proposition. It is an old scheme to so get the confidence of the victim that he will deny himself the protection he should get through the submission of the proposal to experts in such transactions with the result that before it is realized the money is gone and all there is to show for it is a gilded brick or some worthless paper.

Even though it is possible to see the mistake after it is all over, there can be no condoning such activities. It is simply one form of robbery. It is an out and out swindle and if those who have participated in such a scheme in this state can be located and convicted it is to be hoped that they receive the full penalty of the law.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, April 14—It has been a busy week for the Connecticut delegation in one way or another. Of course the distinction accorded Col. Tilson by Speaker Longworth, in designating him as speaker pro tempore for a period covering a week, was the chief incident, but in addition to that Senator Bingham has been exceedingly active in senate debates, and Senator Walcott went to South Carolina under appointment by the senate as a representative of congress at the 250th anniversary of the founding of Charleston in that state. With Senator Walcott, as similar representative of congress, were Senator Oddie and Representative Snell of New York, who is chairman of the committee on rules. Mrs. Walcott and Mrs. Oddie accompanied the party. Socially the Connecticut delegation was quite active during the week, Senator and Mrs. Bingham entertaining at dinner in honor of the visiting director of aviation in France, the Count de la Vaulx, and who received much social and official attention during his visit here.

The Connecticut delegation is especially gratified that the tariff conferees have yielded to the insistence of senators and representatives from that state, and granted a tariff in clocks and watches, that is acceptable to the clock and watch makers of Connecticut. It was a big victory for the delegation, which had fought hard for the tariff, and for other New Englanders in congress who had been vigorous in their efforts to protect New England industry.

The scene of magnificent state receptions: the scene of gay weddings; music, laughter and dancing, yet it is as the scene of state funerals that the great east room of the white house stands out in history.

When the late Secretary Good died last fall, and the funeral service of the secretary of war was held in the east room of the white house, many people exclaimed, "Why, how strange; another of the Hoover innovations." But instead of an innovation, Mr. Hoover was carrying out a long time custom, of offering the executive mansion for the funeral services of members of a president's official family.

President Hoover asked Mrs. Taft to accept the use of the white house as a tribute of honor and affection for the chief justice, but Mrs. Taft felt better to have the funeral service from the Unitarian church, which was the religious home of the president and chief justice.

To find out when the custom of using the white house for funerals other than that of a president, begun, we ran far back, according to records gathered by writers of repute.

It was in April, 1841, that a state funeral was accorded President William Henry Harrison, who died exactly one month after being inducted into office. We read in accounts of the funeral that the "funeral car was drawn by six white horses; at the head of each was a colored groom dressed in white turban and sash."

After the Harrison funeral came others in rapid succession though for the first 41 years none had occurred.

The funeral of the secretary of the interior in the Coolidge administration and the services for Henry C. Wallace, secretary of agriculture under Coolidge, were held in the same state room.

This is by no means a complete list, but it is sufficient to show that the services held there for the late Hon. Secretary of War Good were by no means an innovation, although the period of 30 days mourning, ordered by President Hoover is apparently something that originated in this administration.

The customary period of 30 days mourning which follows the death of a president was observed by executive order.

Not until that terminated was the great east room, gorgeous with crystal, gold and tapestry, again opened for those who make merry or bow low to dignitaries in the diplomatic and official world.

Since Mrs. McCormick won the nomination for the senate in the Illinois primary, the boys are singing lustily, "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," in recognition of the aid given her by "the Bill Thompson gang," so-called, against which Senator Deneen took an active part in the clean up Chicago activities. You will recall that Senator Deneen's residence was badly damaged by a bomb during that clean up period, the act being attributed to members of some gang. But Deneen kept right along living there, and carrying on the same warfare against crime. Deneen may lose out but he doesn't run away.

People here are wondering just what will happen when the newly appointed investigation committee puts Mrs. McCormick on the stand and questions her regarding her campaign expenses. Will they remember that she pleaded from the platform to be treated man fashion; that she was running as an all-round candidate, not as a woman? Will they grill her after the fashion they grilled Grundy and Bingham, or will they be real lady-like in their methods of digging for facts. Mrs. McCormick is a fearless fighter, an experienced politician, and it's a pretty safe guess the committee will find her a tough proposition to tackle. They are in a hard place. If they treat her rough the whole country will point a finger at them; if they let her off easy, they won't get far. You notice there wasn't a rush to get places on that committee when it came up in the senate.

And what about her adversary at the polls next November? Well, former United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis knows a thing or two about politics. T'will be a pretty contest. Mr. Lewis has apparently lain dormant, politically, for the past 12 years, but you can catch a weasel asleep easier than you can find the Honorable James Hamilton asleep at a political switch.

Though not a candidate for any office since his forced retirement at the close of the Wilson administration, he turned up this year as a senatorial candidate, with a splendid organization ready to back him to the limit; he had no opposition, did not make a single speech and merely announced that Barkus was willing—and he got the nomination hands down.

That's what the republican party is up against in the November election, in Illinois.

All this recalls some of the remarkable traits of Lewis when in congress, for he served in both house and senate.

I recall, and it was many years ago, that Lewis's favorite Sunday night supper dish was sardines and milk.

Lewis would take a bowl of rich milk, a can of sardines, mix them well and eat them with unmistakable enjoyment.

Can you beat it?

RURAL REVERSES

"Well, well!" well-welled the chic young woman in the nut-brown ensemble as she bumped into the tanned creature clad in hunters' green with lizard shoes to match. "I thought when you and Gerald bought Black Hemlock farm you were going to commune with nature until snow fell. What are you doing in town so early? And is your tan real, you lucky thing?"

"Three dollars a box," confessed the young woman in green. Sadness welled into her limpid eyes. "If you think I had time to waste accumulating color you show your ignorance of life on the farm. I have been too busy wrestling with the forces of malignant nature to be fashionable. And, somehow, I concluded that if Gerald and I were to keep out of the divorce court it might be as well to surround ourselves with the distractions and diversions of the populated spaces. You've got to take a man's mind off his troubles or he reacts disastrously—something the same principle as thrusting a new toy into the baby's hands whenever he opens his mouth to howl.

"The main trouble was that Gerald took farm life seriously. I think that being serious is at the root of all this farm worry they are making such a fuss about down in Washington. If the farmer trained himself to be cynical and humorous the life might be delightful. But if a man is going to tear his hair over wholesale death in the chicken yard or walk the floor because tourists eat their lunch all over the wheat field—ours was ten rods square—and scorn his breakfast because the cow stops giving cream, why, the whole affair is too strenuous for a delicate woman to face. And Gerald did cut up scandalously at the few extra touches I contributed at the end."

"Did you—er—plow, or anything?" queried the nut-brown maid, with awe in her voice.

Her friend in hunter's green sniffed. "I took two quarts of Gerald's pet tulip bulbs which he had dug up after they bloomed this spring and dried out and caressed and sorted and was holding to replant this month in fresh soil—and skinned them and boiled them and served them as creamed onions. I was kind of abstracted wondering about my bridge game this winter and just sort of grabbed up the basket from the shelf halfway down the cellar stairs. The fact that I offered to buy him a peck of new bulbs never even registered.

"On top of that when I was hunting around for something to feed the broilers and roasters and layers, of which we have a large and cackling herd, of course fate had to put in my way a half-bushel basket of corn. The chickens loved it. It cost us about a nickel a kernel to give our feathered pets that feed because this corn was expensive seed corn ranking with the Kohinoor, which Gerald had wrangled out of the scientific farm down at the crossroads.

"It was the sort of seed corn guaranteed to grow ears a yard long and could be set to music. When this cloud on our marital happiness passed over I oiled the wheels by offering to pack Gerald's bag on his weekly return to town and the marts of trade. He opened the thing on the train to get something and out jumped an enraged chipmunk.

"The porter disliked the advent of the chipmunk exceedingly and threatened to sue Gerald, the U. S. government and the Russian soviet before he was calmed. When Gerald got back to Black Hemlock farm he found that two kittens deserted by summer residents had adopted me, that our hired man had decided to winter in Florida rather than shovel snow and keep the home fires burning for us as he had agreed, and that our two cows figured up as having cost us $98.14 for the season while we could have bought milk at 50 cents a gallon every day and saved money. Somehow the advent of autumn in the country, all red and gold and everything, seemed frosted over, as it were—so we locked the front door and came back to town."

"My word!" breathed the girl in brown. "I'm going to cancel my dinner invitation with a handsome western man who owns a ranch!"—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 14—It needs no soothsayer these days to tell that a congressional election is approaching.

Just a glance at the Congressional Record any day discloses that. All hands are busy filling it with campaign material.

And Jack Garner of Texas, democratic leader in the house, is overlooking no bets. He took measures at the first opportunity to put in that radio speech by Byrns of Tennessee, democratic congressional committee chief, about the first Hoover year in the white house "from a democratic viewpoint."

First Gun

That was a sort of first gun of the general campaign this fall.

"Is that a political speech?" inquired Bert Snell of New York, rules committee head and wheel-horse of the republican team managing house affairs.

"It is a very good political speech," said the Hon. Jack.

"I heard it," said Snell, "and I did not think it was."

But the Hon. Jack had only made a start. Democratic strategy called for a speech in the house that same day by Heartsill Ragon of Arkansas.

And any time you see a lad with a name like that climbing to his feet, you can look for verbal fireworks.

Ragon did not disappoint. It was his job to do a little more flaying of the republican majority for "gag rule" tactics in hustling the tariff bill through the house.

He had figured out that it took five months to work the original bill up in the ways and means committee, with the "democrats driven from the committee room," and only 18 hours of debate to pass it in the house. Ragon made a lot of that.

But he did something else. He adopted a new group title for the republican "big four" that engineered that deal and the subsequent lump disagreement with 1,200 senate changes. Messrs. Longworth, Snell, Tilson and Hawley. Ragon recalled that they had been styled "The Four Horsemen" in press comment.

"The first Horseman is our distinguished speaker, the first lieutenant, our majority leader, the second lieutenant, the chairman of the rules committee and the first sergeant of the 'Four Horsemen' none other than the congenial chairman of the Ways and Means committee," Ragon said.

Challenge

But Ragon was not to get away with it unchallenged. Old Doc. Crowther of New York, champion of high protection, was champing at the bit to answer him. And he promptly dubbed the Ragon effort "a sequel to Calamity Jane" and Representative Byrns' radio remarks "the Tennessee Blues."

And by way of getting opposing tariff views set out, the doc. told this story of the Taft-Sherman campaign.

"One speaker than said:

"'My grandfather could have bought the whole of Manhattan island for $10 and a pair of rubber boots.'

"He was asked: 'Why in the devil did he not buy it?'

"He said: 'Because he did not have the $10 nor the pair of boots.'"

Of such stuff are political debates made.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Modern Drug Store.

Mr. Editor: What is the cause of all the unrest, all the different aspects that confront us in our everyday life? There are so many changes that we can't point to any one change that is essentially different from any of the others. We are working frantically to try and enforce the law of prohibition the Literary Digest is trying to get the pulse of opinion of the people on the subject, and with a fair amount of success, and it all depends upon the people to make this a success. Today the great American bar is the so-called drug store, for into this new world we enter and see a something so different from the old mortar and pestle that we are surprised, for in the old drug store, grandfather, who was in favor of putting liquor down, would buy Ayer's sasparilla, Hostetters bitters, vinegar and Quaker bitters, and then as a climax to all this we would see the bill boards with the story of the discovery of H. T. Helmboldts Buchu, and the pictures of the natives cutting down the buchu in the swamps of Tasmania. Grandpa would buy all these different brands, not for the purpose of taking a sly drink, Oh, no, perish the thought! for he was taking this for what ailed him. They were only about 70 per cent. alcohol, but they might get into the hands of some one else. It was to keep them from harm, just like the old fellow who liked the circus but was always talking against it. One day some of his friends met him on the circus ground, and took him to task for his inconsistency. He said: "Wal, my little grandson wanted to go and so I came along to show him how wicked it was." Wouldn't that make you giggle and make you show all the gold in your front teeth? Today if you are well known you can wink a wink to his royal highness back of the bar—pardon me, the counter—and you tell the old, old story that you take a hair of the dog to cure the bite. You can rest assured it's a great life if you don't weaken. No, on second thought, I will take something else this morning, and we have a nice egg phosphate with a fruit salad, or a cherry split with whipped cream, or why not try a rickey-fizz, frappe egg hog, or sweet sixteen, and so he rattles on with his different numbers. He talks so fast that he gets you dizzy, and you find yourself sinking down, down, where the Wurzburger flows, and finally you have to come up for air. This is an every day program, for the modern so-called drug store is a great thirst aid station. Don't go away with the impression that all you can buy is drinks, far be it from such, for you can get anything you wish for in the line of food, from sandwiches of all kinds, that are nicely put up in paper with all kinds of affectionate pies, with the top and bottom crusts close together. We meet a friend and wander back to what today is known as the great American bar, the modern drug store. Here we once more imbibe one of those tasty drinks that there seems to be no limit to, for as long as the water flows we can buy anything from bunion plasters to a dandruff cure and incidentally read the names of the different kinds of drinks, chocolate, lemon, vanilla, strawberry, cherry, pineapple, and no matter what you want, you get. You will get a real drink called the "Bronx Cheer," and that is known as the raspberry, and Don't forget today we have something very special, maple and orange, root beer, ginger ale, moxie and coca cola, and if there is anything that is missed in the above list they have them, too. Any of these drinks that I have had the nerve to enumerate above are better than some of the bitters we used to get, such as Plantation bitters. That was a fashionable tipple when grandpa was a boy. He would enter one of the old time drug stores with a frown and would come out with a smile spreading over his benign countenance just like the sun rising on the eastern horizon.

My, how times have changed. You can enter a modern drug store today and give a wink to the soda dispenser and he will give you a look that if his eyes were pistols they would shoot you. And you feel so small after this cruel look that you could walk under a table with a high hat on. No question, we are living in another age. Well, what are you going to do about it? Still the question before the house is, What are you going to have?

Brush Fires

Mr. Editor: In this community there has been much damage this spring by forest fires. With all the restrictions as to law against setting fires at any hazardous time, more damage has been done to property in recent years than in years previously, due to grass and woods fires. These mostly are carelessness, by persons that have little regard for what may be expected when tossing matches or cigarettes in grass and dried leaves. Many people living in the country today came from cities, where there is no grass or leaves, and do not realize the consequences that may come from a grass or brush fire when fanned by a wind. A fire will create wind. The next thing is to get help, and a plenty to fight the fire and prevent the spreading. There is a law now, which should be modified, against building brush fires. It is necessary to have a permit to build brush fires. Every person having brush, rubbish or what not, to burn on a damp day has to visit a fire warden for permit. The person may have to spend considerable time. By the time he is ready to do the burning the material has become so dry it would have to be delayed until another day when another visit to the fire warden would be necessary. Some years ago none of this program was required. As an illustration, this is what happened to yours truly. I happen to reside next to the fire warden. I called to obtain a permit to burn some pine boughs that I had taken from a half dozen trees that stood about ten feet from the traveled highway. Any person throwing a lighted match or cigarette in the boughs at a dry time would have had a small chance of saving the trees. Besides, a lot of dry grass would have burned. The fire warden was away, but I burned the boughs. It rained in the morning and by obtaining some dry material the fire was started. The state warden came along, inquired if a permit had been granted. I informed the fire warden I was taking care of my property. A blank was produced and filled out, which I signed. I expect to be called somewhere. This is the law that must be respected. Fire wardens must live as well as all other classes. Laws are a lot of propaganda, the public has little to say in regard to curtailing law.

YOUR HEALTH

Why Vaccination?

By James F. Elder, M. D., Youngstown, Ohio.

Because it is the only known effective preventive for smallpox. There just is no other, and it is never wise to wait until smallpox appears in the neighborhood in which you live before being vaccinated, because you may be the one to be unfortunate.

Vaccination needs no proof. It has been thoroughly proven both as to its safety and effectiveness, and the following incident which occurred in our own district is just one of a myriad examples of its value.

A pupil was in school one and one half days just prior to the eruption of smallpox, exposing thirty five other pupils to smallpox. Thirty-two of those exposed had been vaccinated. The parents of the other three refused to have them vaccinated and were subjected to a seventeen day quarantine as contacts. All three of these children contracted smallpox. Their families were vaccinated immediately and no other case developed.

Now in the name of Common Sense, why do people refuse vaccination? Why was it necessary for four small children to have small-pox? Questions easily answered! Because their parents were just ignorantly prejudiced against a scientific, proven fact. What must health workers do to convince people that it is cheaper to prevent disease, from a financial as well as from a grief standpoint, than to try to cure it?

Diphtheria, typhoid Fever, and smallpox are the three principal contagious diseases which are preventable.

Vaccination against smallpox is 100 per cent perfect.

Toxin-antitoxin is nearly 100 per cent perfect in preventing the occurence of diphtheria.

Inoculation against typhoid fever is nearly 100 per cent perfect.

Toxin-antitoxin for scarlet fever has proven of value.

"Evil Its Own Destroyer"

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse: "I beheld Satan falling as the lightning from heaven" (Luke 10:18).

Read: Luke 10:17-24.

MEDITATION: "When Faust asked Mephistopheles who he was, Mephistopheles replied that "he was part of a power that was always willing evil but always doing good." His efforts were constantly being defeated by the more powerful spirit of goodness that dwells in this universe. Shakespeare's tragedies are based on this idea. Giant evil deeds are always coming back upon the heads of the transgressor. Evil is never finally victorious. It has within itself the seeds of its own destruction. The moral order of the world is too much for it. There is a backbone of righteousness in the universe. The presence of evil in the world is frequently cited as an argument against faith in a righteous universe. But evil that is ever being destroyed by itself, and defeated by the power of good, becomes a mighty argument for faith.

PRAYER: O Thou refuge of the human spirit, help us to rest in the unclouded sense of Thy conquering righteousness. Thou are mightier than all evil. Thy strength is within and behind our feeble efforts, making our weakness a part of Thy might and a share in Thy final victory. Amen.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Mrs. Quack Goes Hungry

Through caution there is little lost;
So pause and always count the cost.
—Mrs. Quack.

Mrs. Quack had sat on her eggs all day. For some time now she had been looking forward to the hour when she could slip away and get a little needed exercise while she filled her crop with good yellow corn, put in the Smiling Pool by her by Farmer Brown's Boy. The more she thought of that corn the hungrier she grew. She would wait until the Black Shadows came creeping out from behind the Purple Hills. That is the hour she likes best. It is a beautiful hour, a peaceful, quiet hour.

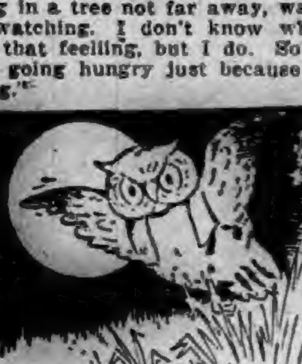
"I'm nearly starved," thought Mrs. Quack. "Pretty soon now I can slip out. My, but that corn will taste good! I don't know when I have been as hungry as I am now. I think I'll start in just a few minutes."

Mrs. Quack was just preparing to leave the nest when those quick, watchful eyes of hers saw a shadow pass just a little way beyond her. Instantly she looked up to see what had made the shadow. A moving shadow is something to be suspicious of. At least, it is to all the little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows. Mrs. Quack looked up just in time to see a great, broad-winged bird outlined against the sky. There was no sound of wings. Had that bird been a shadow, it could have been no more silent.

"Hooty the Great Horner Owl!" muttered Mrs. Quack under her breath. "I wonder if he has kept on, or if he has come over to the Smiling Pool to hunt. It looked to me as if his wings were set to alight somewhere near. I have a feeling that he is already sitting in the top of a tree very near at hand. Oh dear! What did he have to come now for? I want my dinner and I don't dare move with him around."

Mrs. Quack sat there quietly for a long time. The Black Shadows came creeping out across the Green Meadows and through the little swamp. It grew quite dark. Mrs. Quack grew hungrier and hungrier. There had been nothing further to indicate that Hooty the Owl was around. For all she knew, he might be far away in the Green Forest by this time. Still, she remained on her nest.

"Oh dear, how I want that corn!" said she to herself. "I suppose it is silly of me not to go get it. Somehow, I have a feeling that Hooty is sitting in a tree not far away, waiting and watching. I don't know why I have that feeling, but I do. So here I am going hungry just because of a feeling."



Had she moved, then it would have been the end of her

Suddenly, without the least warning, the voice of Hooty the Owl rang out. It seemed to Mrs. Quack that it was right in her very ears. Really, it was from a tree between her and the edge of the Smiling Pool. In spite of herself, Mrs. Quack moved ever so little at the sound of that sudden terrible hunting call. She touched a dead leaf and it rustled very faintly. Nevertheless, a second later Hooty the Owl was hovering almost over Mrs. Quack. She looked up into his great, savage, yellow eyes, and it seemed to her that they were glaring right down at her. Had she moved them, it would have been the end of her. Had so much as one of her small feathers stirred, Hooty would instantly have seen her. But she didn't move. And being in the Black Shadow under the broad skunk cabbage leaves, Hooty failed to see her. He passed on, turned and went back to the tree from which he had come.

Twice after that Hooty sounded that savage hunting call. But Mrs Quack was prepared and she didn't move a particle. So far into the evening she continued to sit—hungry—but not daring to move. It wasn't until a very late hour that she heard Hooty's call far away in the Green Forest, and knew that he had left. Then she ventured out to get her dinner.

Stories That Recall Others

Secrets, Too?

Four year old Philip eyed the census enumerator wistfully as the woman asked the question of the family. At last Philip went to the davenport and sitting down by the side of the enumerator, looked seriously in her eyes, and said:

"Are you going to make my daddy tell all his secrets?"

Too Small

Little Virginia had a habit of saying that she "smelled" any particular thing she happened to desire.

One day she went to visit her grandmother and learned there was candy in the house. So she said: "Grandma, I smell candy."

Grandmother produced a piece, but its size did not please Virginia.

"Well, Grandma," she said sorrowfully," I wouldn't have thought I could smell such a little piece as this."

To avoid disputes as to authorship of their paintings, artists in France are having their pictures registered, and filing data sufficient to establish identity of the pictures.

CONTRACTORS SIGN AFTER WORKERS STAGE STRIKE

Following a brief strike Monday morning by masons, laborers, mason tenders and hodcarriers, several of the local contractors signed a new wage agreement with the union, providing for a wage increase and a five-day week during the coming year. The contractors had previously agreed to the wage increase and five-day week but declined to sign an agreement for the ensuing year. Therefore the union men involved, at a meeting Saturday afternoon, voted to go on strike Monday to enforce their demand.

At 10 o'clock the union men met at central labor headquarters, Business Agent William Donohue presiding. As announcement was made at the meeting that several of the contractors had signed an agreement, their employes were given permission to return to work. Contractors Patrick F. Sweeney, W. S. Spencer and the Peck-McWilliams Co., were among the first of the contractors to sign. Work at the new New London County home was not affected as the employer is a Providence contractor. He is not required to sign an agreement, but is required to pay the existing wage scale.

FUNERALS

Dennis J. Sullivan

With many relatives and friends present the funeral of Dennis J. Sullivan was held at his home, No. 20 Geer avenue, Monday morning at 8:15 o'clock, and at 9 o'clock there was a requiem mass at St. Patrick's church. Rev. Myles P. Galvin was celebrant of the mass and Henry J. LaFontaine presided at the organ. Chopin's Funeral March was rendered at the recessional by Mr. LaFontaine and at the offertory there was a duet, De Profundis, by Mr. LaFontaine and Roderick F. Sullivan. The latter sang as the waiting hymn, What Shall I Render? and at the recessional Mr. LaFontaine played Lead Kindly Light.

The interment was at the family plot at St. Joseph's cemetery, Rt. Rev. Msgr. Michael H. May conducting the committal service. The bearers were Jeremiah, John and William Kane, Jerome Shea, John Haley and Elmer McCaffery. There were numerous beautiful floral tributes and out of town mourners were present from New York, Hartford, Quincy and West Warren. There was also a delegation of street department employes. Undertakers Cummings and Ring had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Y BUDGET CAMPAIGN REACHES $9,212; GIFT OF $10,000 TO REDUCE MORTGAGE

Team workers in the Y. M. C. A. budget drive for $10,000, in which Judge Allyn L. Brown is campaign manager, put in an active day Monday in the one-day drive and at the close had a total of $9,212 to report.

At the breakfast gathering President Herbert B. Cary made the electrifying announcement that Miss Ella M. Norton of 188 Washington street had made a donation of $10,000 towards the payment of the mortgage indebtedness on the association property and when nightfall came with the campaign a little short of the goal a number of the enthusiastic workers volunteered to continue in the campaign until the desired total is reached. It is estimated that there are from 50 to 75 friends of the association from whom no return has been made in the drive and it is felt by the workers that the goal is just around the corner, with a little more concerted effort.

Reports were made Monday at breakfast, noon and supper meetings.

In reporting the gift from Miss Norton at the breakfast hour, President Cary stated that the check from Miss Norton was received by General Secretary Edwin Hill on April 8 and had already been used for the purpose indicated. Receipt of the check was in fulfillment of a promise which Miss Norton made last December when President Cary and General Secretary Hill were calling upon her. The announcement was received with thrilling enthusiasm at the breakfast meeting and at noon there was displayed a beautiful basket of flowers which the team workers were to send to Miss Norton in expression of their appreciation of her interest in the Y. M. C. A.

At the breakfast hour, when reports were given, Rev. Joseph Cooper of Trinity Methodist church asked the blessing and the meal was served by Mrs. Edwin Hill, Mrs. Howard Demarest, Miss Belle Rathbun, Mrs. Arthur F. Wyman, Mrs. William M. Wyman, Miss Mary Gray, Miss Gladys Hill, and Mrs. Willis P. Hill.

At the luncheon, Rev. David A. Pitt of the Central Baptist church asked the blessing and those serving the luncheon were Mrs. J. B. Oat, Mrs. Emma Breed, Mrs. Fred Wilson and Mrs. Rogers. The supper was served by the Women's auxiliary, with Mrs. W. H. Dawley in charge, assisted by Mrs. Harold Johnson, Mrs. Ernest J. Jones, Mrs. Charles Tier Bard, Miss Miriam Campbell, Mrs. Hugh B. Campbell, Mrs. John E. Hawkins, Mrs. Willard Haugh, Miss Margaret Leith and Miss Esther Evans. The blessing was asked by Rev. Theodore M. Shipherd of Park Congregational church.

At the evening meeting, Mrs. Dawley announced that the Women's auxiliary would in all probability pledge $300 in the campaign.

Swahn's orchestra played at the supper hour, which was the largest attended meeting of the day, and William G. Park was song leader.

State Secretary Harry Hedley Smith, of New Haven, spent the day with the workers and spoke in an interesting way at the noon luncheon.

It was stated that the Y. M. C. A. has never had a campaign conducted in better spirit and all the workers have been delighted with the leadership of Judge Brown at the head of work.

Reports made from the team captains when the figures were tabulated at the evening meeting totalled $8,908, but additional sums later brought the total to $9,212.

At the close of the supper hour, Judge Brown expressed his sincere thanks to all the workers for their splendid loyalty. President Cary spoke enthusiastically as he thanked the team captains and the members of the teams, and General Secretary Hill spoke in behalf of the employed staff, expressing their deep appreciation of all that had been done.

The accompanying table gives the summary for the drive in which James L. Case was captain of Team A, President Cary of Team B, Henry Lyon of Team C, Henry D. Johnson of Team D, E. Arnold Smith of Team E, and N. Eugene Smith of Team F.

SOCIAL SERVICE CONFERENCE SET FOR NEW HAVEN

To promote a wider interest and develop sounder methods in charitable, reformatory and preventive work throughout the state, more than 1,000 social and welfare workers will gather in New Haven Sunday, April 27, for a three-day meeting of the Connecticut Conference of Social Work. Advance registration indicates that every city and town in Connecticut will be represented and that the conference will be the largest and most important of its kind ever held in the state.

Among the speakers at the general meetings and institute sessions, many of whom have won national and international prominence in their fields, are Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the interior and chairman of the White House Conference on Child Welfare; Bishop Francis J. McConnell, president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, who will speak Sunday evening in Woolsey hall; A. H. MacCormick, U. S. department of justice; Noel Sargent, National Association of Manufacturers; Abraham Epstein, American Association for Old Age Security; Professor Mark May, Yale university; Rev. Dr. Karl J. Alter, director of the National Catholic School of Social Service.

Health, mental hygiene, delinquency, family welfare, child welfare, community life, rural social work, social case work and a score of other timely and important subjects will be discussed by the various groups.

GRANTS $207 JUDGMENT FOR BARBER SHOP RENT

Judgment for $207 was awarded Margaret McCarthy against Anthony Mugovero, both of New London, by Judge Charles B. Waller in the court of common pleas here Monday. The suit was in connection with rent owed the plaintiff for a barber shop on Bank street, New London. The plaintiff was represented by Attorney Henry L. McGuire.

$630 Foreclosure

Judgment by foreclosure in the amount of $630.30 was awarded Irving W. Foote of Preston against Stanislaw Ziambek and others of New York, formerly of Preston. The property is located in Ledyard and consists of a 180-acre farm. The first Monday in May was the time set for redemption.

Sale Report Accepted

A report by Judge William A. Wilcox on the sale of property resulting from the foreclosure action brought by the Washington Trust Co. against Mary Sheffield, administratrix, and others, was accepted. The property in question, located in Pawcatuck, was sold to C. B. Cottrell Co. for $2,025.

YANTIC BOY HURLED STONE THROUGH WINDSHIELD

While a traveling salesman from New Jersey was driving his machine through the town of Yantic one day last week, a 14-year-old Yantic boy hurled a stone through the windshield of the machine and the driver was cut about the nose and eyes by flying glass. The stone did not strike the driver, but fell onto the rear seat of the machine.

Acquainted of the accident, Constable Lucius Fenton of Norwich Town conducted an investigation and located the boy responsible. The boy, in company with a number of other boys, was in the highway and he claims that he threw the stone at his brother just as the machine came along. The New Jersey man will be reimbursed for the price of the windshield by the boy.

Music At Poquetanuck Church

The theme of the organ voluntary at Saint James' church, Poquetanuck, Sunday morning was "The Palms." The organ voluntaries at the evening service were "The Hymn of Eve," Dr. Arne, and a selection from "The Preludes of Chopin," op. 28, all played in an excellent manner by Mrs. F. D. Miller acting as organist.

The offertory solo, "The Palms," by I. Faure, Sunday morning, was sung in excellent voice by Mrs. Fred D. Miller.

Will Address Woman's Crusade

Miss Nellie J. Starr of Montville, county president of the W. C. T. U., will be the speaker this (Tuesday) afternoon at 3 o'clock before the Woman's Crusade at its April meeting in the women's roo mof the Central Baptist church. Her topic will be "Sidelights." Mrs. William F. Bailey will lead the devotional service.

NORWICH JUVENILES ROB HOBART AVENUE APARTMENT

Two Norwich boys of the juvenile court age, 9 and 14 years, confessed to the police, after they had been arrested Monday, to entering the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Henry O. Tellier at 28 Hobart avenue, and stealing a number of articles from the place on Sunday while the Tellier family was away from the house.

The police secured the key with which the boys said they got into the house and also recovered most of the articles which had been taken, including a tin box in which there had been $50 in cash and bank books representing deposits of about $3,000.

Using part of the cash from the tin box, the boys had bought tickets for Providence and had outfitted themselves with shoes and some other necessities. About $36 of the money was recovered and the tin box, with the bank books, was found down a chimney in the rear of a gasoline filling station on Franklin street where the boys told the police they had thrown it.

Officers Barney Keenan and Patrick Murphy did some busy and effective work Monday in rounding up the boys after the robbery at the Tellier house had been reported to the police, and the two juveniles are to be presented in the juvenile court.

AUTOMOBILE CRASHES WINDOWS AT WILLIAMS' SHOWROOM

Two large plate glass windows in the building of Julian L. Williams, automobile dealer, No. 25 Town street, Norwich Town, were destroyed early Monday morning, when a Ford runabout driven by Everett Allen of Andover, Conn., crashed into them. Blinded by lights of an approaching machine, which was traveling at a terrific rate of speed, and not having a very clear vision, anyway, because of the heavy fog, Allen drove his machine into a telephone pole in front of the residence of Dr. Charles H. Lamb.

Turning around two or three times in the highway, the machine finally came to a stop up against one of the show windows after demolishing two of them. The runabout, being driven from New London to Andover, was badly damaged, but did not crash through and enter the building. The accident was investigated by Constable Lucius Fenton of Norwich Town, but no arrest was made. It was learned by the constable that the other machine, which was indirectly responsible for the crash, was being operated at a tremendous rate of speed, and did not stop to ascertain the extent of damage occasioned by the Andover car, but continued on its way. Allen was not hurt.

MOHEGAN PARK BOARD RE-ELECTS PARKER PRESIDENT

Henry F. Parker was re-elected president of the board of park commissioners at its annual meeting Monday morning at the board's room in the courthouse, Mr. Parker presiding. Other officers re-elected are vice-president, Henry D. Johnson, and secretary, William A. Norton. The president's committee appointments follow:

Finance—Henry F. Parker, William A. Norton, Henry D. Johnson.

Care and management—Henry D. Johnson, Martin E. Jensen.

Development and improvement—William A. Norton, Alexander Jordan, Arthur L. Peale.

Auditors—Henry D. Johnson, Alexander Jordan.

Announcement has been made that the new road which will encircle the large lake at Mohegan park will be completed sometime this spring. The other roads and paths at the park are also being put in good repair, for the record number of tourists who are expected to visit the summer resort this season. Superintendent Frederick W. Krohn and his assistants are at present engaged in this work.

CENSUS COLLECTS FACTS ABOUT EVERY PERSON

Important facts about every person in the United States, regardless of how prominent or how insignificant that person may be, are collected by the national government every ten years and filed away in the government archives in Washington. Nobody needs feel that he merely lives and dies without having a permanent place in the history of the nation. These individual records are obtained in the great nation-wide censuses taken every ten years. The 15th of these periodic censuses was begun on April 2 of this year, and when completed will represent the most extensive and comprehensive census known to history. In this great "Who's Who" of the commonwealth, every individual is important enough to be given a place.

Although the statistics resulting from each census are published as soon as possible, the facts registered about individuals are stored away for the use of historians and genealogists of future years; so no person needs expect to find his name included in any publications of the census bureau. Names and tales are not told at the same time. We shall soon know from the 1930 census how many people in the nation are 50 years old, but we shall not be told who they are. About 50 or 60 years from now the records for 1930 will be thrown open to the public for research by historians, genealogists, and students of sociology.

After a century and a half of being battered about from one place to another, the census records for each of the 14 censuses taken during the last 140 years have recently been placed in a large fire-proof vault at the census bureau in Washington. During the years in which there has been no regular place in which to store the records, some of them have become lost, or destroyed. For the first census, taken in 1790, there are no records for New Jersey, Delaware, Virginia, Georgia, Kentucky, and the Southwest territory (Tennessee). For 1800 the records of Georgia, New Jersey, Tennessee, Kentucky, Virginia and Indiana territory are missing. For 1810 the records are lost for the District of Columbia, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, New Jersey, and Ohio, and for Tennessee with the exception of the schedules for Rutherford county, which were discovered and sent to Washington long after the census was taken. For 1820 the records for Alabama, Arkansas, Missouri, New Jersey, and eastern Tennessee are missing. Another small hiatus occurs in the records for 1870, where there is nothing for those counties in the state of Minnesota that begin with letters in the first part of the alphabet down to "Stearns." The last delinquency is for 1890. Three-fourths of the schedules for this census have been wiped out.

All census records are destined finally to be placed in the magnificent Hall of Records which is to be built to house all the records of the federal government in Washington.

After each census is taken, the schedules sent in by the enumerators in the field are bound and placed in a huge vault at the census bureau. No one is allowed inside this vault unless accompanied by an official of the bureau, and those who wish to examine the records must have the desired volumes brought to the examining room.

There are now approximately 15,000 volumes of schedules in the collection, which includes the records for every census except those for 1890. The 1890 schedules have never been bound because in that census a separate page was used for every family, resulting in such a voluminous mass of reports that congress has never seen fit to appropriate the necessary money to have them bound. The original 1890 schedules alone would have filled 41,000 large volumes if they had been bound. More than three-fourths of the original 1890 records have been lost or destroyed by fire; the rest are at present stored in the old President theatre building in Washington. Those which remain would fill 9,161 volumes, and it would probably cost $100,000 to have them bound.

The growth of the census work during the past century and a half is indicated by the fact that the 1790 schedules are bound in 27 small volumes, while the 1920 records comprise 4,161 heavy tomes. The schedules for the first census take up four feet of shelf space while those for 1920 extend over 786 feet of stacks. The cost of binding the 1920 volumes was about $40,000.

TWO HURT IN CRASH IN FOG IN SALEM

William Jennings, student at Wesleyan college, Middletown, and Donald Hattings and Carl Freburg, submarine base sailors, were seriously injured Sunday night when two automobiles collided head-on in the fog on the Hartford road, near Horse pond in Salem. According to State Trooper William McKenzie of the Groton state police barracks who investigated the crash, it appears as though both cars, which were being operated by Jennings and Freburg, were traveling without lights and they came together with considerable force. The sailors' car was completely wrecked and the other vehicle was extensively damaged.

Passing motorists took the victims of the crash to the Lawrence and Memorial Associated hospitals in New London where it was found that Jennings had received a split knee cap; Freburg, a fractured jaw and other injuries and Hattings, severe lacerations about the scalp and face. Jennings was removed Monday to Middletown and the two sailors were transferred to the submarine base infirmary. It was said at the Groton state police barracks that both would probably be arrested when they recover.

TWO MEN HEAVILY FINED IN THE CITY COURT

Fines of $100 and costs were imposed on Kenneth Moore, 23, of the Submarine base and Harry Cooke, 24, of Montville, in the city court Monday morning, on charges of lascivious carriage. The two men were companions of two 18-year-old Norwich girls from the Greeneville section of the city and the four were arrested about 1 o'clock Sunday morning in the Olympic building by Officer Henry Fenton and Sergt. Matthew Delaney. The girls were placed in custody of Miss Julia C. Corcoran, probation officer.

Cooke paid $109.50 and obtained his release but Moore spent Monday in a cell at police headquarters while he was endeavoring to raise the amount of his fine through friends.

Hiram W. Hawes

Hiram W. Hawes, 72, long a resident of Canterbury, died at 1.30 Monday afternoon at his home there. He was noted throughout the state as an excellent fly caster and wherever meets were held he was always among those competing. Mr. Hawes was principally known for his skill in making high-grade hand-made fish poles, having made in his lifetime a vast number of them. His most highly prized rod was fashioned by him about a year ago. It weighed just one ounce.

Besides his wife, Mr. Hawes is survived by a son, Merritt Hawes of Canterbury and a daughter, living at home.

TRANSPLANTED EYE ABLE TO SEE DIMLY

BOSTON (AP) — The precise degree of hope for success in destoring human eyesight by transplanting eyes has been measured indirectly by Dr. Clyde E. Keeler of the Harvard Medical school.

His experiments indicate that transplanted eyes cannot restore human sight, but rather show there may be some small degree of restoration for lower animals.

"Within recent years," he reports, "our hopes for transplantation of human eyes have been raised. These hopes have been based upon the fact that in lower animals, mainly frogs, eyes which have been transplanted became normal in their general appearance, their blood supply was reestablished, the pupils contracted once more to stimulation by light and some of the visual elements have been found to have remained intact.

A few workers have claimed restoration of vision in frogs on the basis of these tests. However, there has been no satisfactory method of measuring the amount of restoration of sight, and the behavior of such animals is too erratic to draw definite conclusions."

Dr. Keeler employs an electrical test for vision, which he devised, and which uses fine, thread-like electrodes to measure electrical currents produced when light strikes the eyes.

WHEN A CHILD IS FEVERISH, CROSS, UPSET

Colic, gas, sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, in babies and children, generally show food is souring in the little digestive tract.

When these symptoms appear, give Baby a teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Add it to the first bottle of food in the morning. Older children should be given a tablespoonful in a glass of water. This will comfort the child—make his stomach and bowels easy. In five minutes he is comfortable, happy. It will sweep the bowels free of all sour, indigestible food. It opens the bowels in constipation, colds, children's ailments. Children take it readily because it is palatable, pleasant-tasting.

Learn its many uses for mother and child. Write for the interesting book, "Useful Information." Address The Phillips Co., 117 Hudson St., New York, N. Y. It will be sent FREE.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.

EMERALDS ONCE LIQUID IN OLD COLUMBIA MINE

NEW YORK—(AP)—Emeralds can be bought in New York, London or Paris more cheaply than in Colombia where they are mined, says a report today to the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers.

The only emerald mine operating in Colombia is described in this report by Charles Mentzel and C. Kendirok MacFadden. The report says the mining methods are similar to those of the Spaniards hundreds of years ago.

Hillsides are washed down with water in great, v-shaped cuts, exposing formatins of shales, in which the emeralds are found in small pockets. Seemingly earth quake faults fractured these shales time and again many millions of years ago.

In some way not yet fully determined, through cracks in certain limited areas ,the emerald substance welled up in liquid form from deep below the surface.

With it sometimes came plenty of chromium oxide, giving the stones a deep green color, that now sells in New York for a top price of $3,000 a carat.

NEW YORK SCHOONER'S WET CARGO SAFE IN NEW LONDON CUSTOMS HOUSE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, April 14.—The contraband cargo of the schooner Marianne, New York, which was seized in Long Island sound last Friday night by the crew of a U. S. Coast Guard patrol boat and brought into port, is safely stored at the customs house. The Marianne has been moored at the pier of the Coast Guard academy since her capture and this forenoon a five-ton truck made a number of trips to the customs house with the several hundred cases of Scotch, rye, bourbon and champagne that was stored between decks.

BURCHARD CHARGE AMENDED— HE IS FINED $40 AND COSTS

Robert Burchard, Montville, who was arrested several days ago charged with driving while under the influence of liquor, by State Police Officer Donald Brown, following his car colliding with another auto, was presented in the Waterford town court this afternoon. The complaint was amended to failing to grant right of way. To the amended complaint, Burchard pleaded guilty and was fined $40 and costs. The auto Burchard was driving collided with a machine driven by Albert Smith, 47 Dell avenue, on the New London-Norwich highway, a short distance north of Gallows lane last Wednesday night. Both automobiles were damaged, but the occupants escaped injury.

Daughter Missing

Mrs. James Foley, of Huntington street, tonight requested the police to give their assistance in finding her daughter, Catherine, 12, who has been missing from home since 1 o'clock. The girl wore a gray coat and brown tam.

An automobile driven by Bernard Ramus, of Monroe street, Waterford, struck an unidentified city employe this afternoon, but the man escaped injury, at least he said he did and refused to be taken to the office of a physician that he could be examined, nor would the man reveal his name. Ramus, however, reported the accident at police headquarters.

Third Stolen Car Found

Three more automobiles were stolen here Sunday night, but all have been recovered, the last of the cars being found tonight. Clarence Eddy, 41 Briggs street, parked his Oakland Sunday night on Masonic street and when he returned for it, discovered that the auto had been stolen. It was later found abandoned by Patrolman William Riordan. A Chrysler car owned by Simon Green, Meridian street, was stolen from Meridian street and two hours afterwards was found on Cole street by Patrolman Edward Riordan, having been abandoned. Another Chrysler, owned by Attorney J. James Floyd, was stolen from State street, but was recovered tonight when found abandoned in Groton. The police are of the opinion that the cars, for the most part, were taken by sailors, for they claim that sailors were observed in at least three of the machines prior to their being abandoned and before the police had been informed of the thefts.

CAPT. M. S. STRICKLAND DIES WITHOUT WARNING

Capt. Martin S. Strickland, 72, for many years employed on the Central Vermont line steamers and for 36 years a master, latterly employed as master of the steamer New York, died suddenly of heart disease while motoring in Groton Sunday afternoon. He is survived by his wife and three sons, Lee, Joseph and Francis Strickland. Captain Strickland had not been in sound health for some time and had not been working for a week. Sunday he decided to go for an auto ride with his son and as the car was passing Trail's corner Captain Strickland was stricken. He lapsed into unconsciousness and died before medical aid could be summoned. Captain Strickland, who resided at Poquonoc Bridge, was born in Ledyard.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the return of drivers' licenses to William H. Crocker, 25 Tilley street; Joseph A. Longo, 41 Shaw street, and Austin T. Sackett, 100 Glenwood avenue. The licenses were suspended several weeks ago for various infractions of the state motor vehicle laws.

City Clerk Julian D. Moran is confined to his residence on Ocean avenue, threatened with grip.

Annie McDowell Jordan has sold a building lot on Blackhall street to Florence Lee Highmore.

Archibald S. MacFarlane has sold a house and lot on Jefferson avenue to Lucy M. White.

A certificate amending the Stearns, Inc., to John T. Haney, Inc., was filed for record today at the office of the city clerk.

The trade name certificate of the Ashton Co. was filed for record today at the office of the city clerk by John W. Ashton and W. F. J. Ashton, both of R. F. D. No. 7, Norwich, but with business addresses in New London.

Sarah Moutran, New York, has leased the store, now used as a restaurant at 153 Main street, to George Silva for a term of three years, dating from April 1, 1930. The annual rental will be $900.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Justus A. Southard

Mrs. Agnes Kettles Southard of Broad street, widow of Justus A. Southard, died this morning at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, where she had been a patient about two weeks. She leaves no relatives. Mr. Southard died about four years ago. Mrs. Southard had been a patient at the hospital since she sustained a fractured hip, by falling at her home, which injury hastened her death. Mrs. Southard was born in Burlington, Vt., but had resided in New London since she was a young woman.

CONWAY AND MAY APPEAL FROM CITY COURT FINES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, April 14—Eugene Conway, proprietor of the lunchroom and club room, 107 Main street, was in the police court this morning charged on two counts of violation of the liquor law, keeping with intent to sell and possession. Conway intends to fight the charges and has retained counsel. The case was continued to Saturday next and he furnished a surety on his bond of $1,000. Conway openly declared today that he has been "framed," further asserting that the 25 cases that were found on his premises by a raiding force last Saturday night, were not owned by him and that he had no knowledge of their existence, asserting that they were placed in his home by the police, themselves, or their agents in order to obtain a conviction against him. When the raiders entered the Conway establishment and instituted a search the beer was found in the cellar of that part of the building occupied by Conway as a residence. The beer when tested showed alcoholic content of seven per cent.

Arthur May, proprietor of the Hotel Winthrop, was also charged with violation of the liquor law on the same counts, May entered a demurrer through counsel. The demurrer was overruled and May was fined $400 and costs. May gave notice of an appeal and furnished a surety on his bond of $1,000. The same raiding force as that which visited Conway's restaurant and club room raided the hotel and in the latter place was found 40 cases of home brew that tested 8 per cent and three bottles containing a small quantity of whiskey.

The raiders also raided the residence at 32 Shapley street, occupied by a Polish family. It was claimed sailors were making the house a rendezvous, being supplied liquor and beer. When the searchers entered the house and searched from cellar to attic they did not even find a bottle of cough medicine. The raiders asserted that the proprietor, obtained information that Conway's restaurant was being raided and became suspicious that he, likewise, would receive a call of the bluecoats so either destroyed his stock or removed it from the house before the raiders arrived.

FINE OF $200 AND COSTS FOR TRANSPORTING

Samuel Santangelo, Montauk avenue, was charged with violation of the liquor law, transporting, and was fined $200 and costs. Santangelo was driving on Bank street Sunday afternoon and at the corner of Montauk avenue, he disregarded an automatic traffic signal which was set at danger. When Santangelo passed the red light his act was observed by Patrolman Henry Hick, who signalled Santangelo to stop. When the driver heeded the signal, Hick observed him place a covering over something in the rear of the auto and when the officer searched the car that something proved to be two gallons of alcohol. Santangelo was then arrested.

Outlook Hopeful for Driver

Max Elionsky, Ocean avenue, was charged with reckless driving. The case was again continued, this time to the 28th inst., because a child whom the automobile hit is still in a hospital. Elionsky was driving on Broad street two weeks ago and near Centre street Mary Manice, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Manice, 33 Centre street, was starting to cross the street. She was run down and sustained a fractured skull. She has been a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital since and her condition is now such that she will recover.

Harry White, 42, a truck driver, residing at 73 Belden street, was charged with breach of the peace. The case was continued to the 28th inst. White went to his home Sunday afternoon and quarreled with his wife.

Tony Venturelli, 17 Brewer street, was charged with driving without a license and was fined $25 and costs. He was arrested Saturday night by Traffic Officer Dennis Cavanaugh.

Power Theft Case Continued

Howard Joyce, 32 Moore court was charged with the theft of electricity from the Connecticut Power company. The case was continued to May 26 and Joyce was delivered into the custody of Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield. Joyce was arrested Saturday by Sergeant John Courtney on a warrant issued by Prosecuting Attorney Max Boyer. Officials of the Connecticut Power company made complaint to the prosecuting officer, stating that Joyce had tapped a wire in the building he occupied and was obtaining the electrification of his home without the power being registered on the meter.

Edward J. Roy, U. S. Coast Guard, charged with driving while under the influence of liquor, was fined $100 and costs. Roy was driving on Jefferson avenue Saturday night and his car crashed against a parked auto. Automobile Patrol Officer William Corcoran, who investigated the crash, determined that Roy was drunk and arrested the driver. In the car with Roy was Herman E. Tarkenton, also a coast guarder and he was arrested charged with intoxication. Tarkenton was fined $5 and costs.

Joseph R. Masse, U. S. Coast Guard, charged with breach of the peace and intoxication, was given suspension of judgment.

Daniel J. Reddy and Edward Foley charged with breach of the peace and intoxication, were sentenced to 30 days in jail. Foley, a shoemaker and Reddy, a laborer, spent much of yesterday afternoon at an East New London drinking resort. When they left early in the evening they went to Water street, corner of Hallam, where they engaged in a fight. During the combat, Reddy pulled a jack-knife and attacked his companion, inflicting a slight wound on the neck. The fighters were arrested by Automobile Patrol Officer Elwood Bailey and Patrolmen Dennis Murphy and Henry Hick.

TWO PUTNAM WOMEN FOUND WITH SOLDIERS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, April 14—Thomas Graham and George A. Adams, soldiers stationed at Fort Wright, Fishers Island and Lillian Gagua, 22, married and Bernice Billings, 26, a waitress, both residing at 28 Richmond street, Putnam, were charged with lascivious carriage. Their cases were continued to May 26. The soldiers and the girls were arrested by Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolmen Clyde Murphy and Louis Pine on Bank street, shortly after last midnight. They were loitering about the street and when questioned by the officers it was obvious that they intended to park on the streets or in some secluded spot for the night, for they had no sleeping accommodations at any of the local rooming houses.

Two cases of simple intoxication were tried. One man was fined $5 and costs and the other a soldier from Fort Wright, was given suspension of judgment.

FIRE DISTRICT MEETING SETTLED CHRIST CH. MATTER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., April 14—A special meeting of Westerly Fire district was called to order by Moderator Lewis Stanton at 8 o'clock Monday evening in the town hall, where several hundred qualified electors had gathered. District Clerk Carl E. Burdick read the call in response to a petition headed by Town Clerk Everett E. Whipple and signed by fifteen others to act on the question: "Will the Westerly Fire district vote to sell to the state of Rhode Island for the sum of three thousand dollars, a certain strip of land belonging to the fire district, fifteen feet in width, bounded westerly by Union street, northerly by land of the state of Rhode Island, easterly by land of Christ Church society, and southerly by other land of the Westerly Fire district?"

At the annual fire district meeting held Aug. 28, 1929, a similar vote was passed but that vote contained the clause "extending south-easterly from Union street to within five feet of land of Christ Church society." When the general assembly was in session it was represented by Westerly legislators that Rhode Island Finance Commissioner Frederick S. Peck would not sanction the expenditure of $3,000 for the purchase of the fire district land by the state, unless the deed conveyed land up to Christ Episcopal church property. At two previous district meetings representatives of the Episcopal church objected strenuously to the transfer of the land fearing that a street or driveway around the state court house end of the Westerly town hall building was projected.

John J. Dunn stated that there was a communication addressed to the moderator which was not to be opened until the meeting; then Moderator Stanton read a letter from Finance Commissioner Frederick S. Peck, stating that he had learned that the proposed purchase was interpreted in Westerly to mean that the state desired to build and maintain a roadway to the Westerly police station and possibly around the court house to Broad street, for parking facilities. He wrote that the state was not interested in either. The idea originated with certain Westerly residents who stated that a 15-foot additional land purchase by the state for fire protection should be paid for by the state. This risk has now been eliminated and there was no reason that the state should go to any expense. It would be satisfactory to him if the whole matter was dropped and he recommended that that action be taken.

Farquhar Smith moved that the meeting be adjourned and this was seconded by H. I. Milner, when Col. E. E. Whipple declared, "Vote it if you want a job put over on you." The rising vote for adjournment showed, yes 39, no 44. Council President Horace E. Burdick offered the resolution for the purchase of land through to Christ church property.

Mr. Milner offered an amendment that the land be not used for driveway, passway or other public way, or for parking purposes. John J. Dunn seconded the amendment and Col. Whipple admitted that he felt ashamed of putting the five-foot reservation strip in the vote at the previous meeting. Andrew W. Fisher stated that Christ church would fight the driveway idea. Joseph Fraser, chairman of the Westerly police committee, declared that proper entrance to the police station demanded the 15-foot strip. Mr. Milner suggested that when the manual training building was abandoned it be used for a decent police station and the town stop sponging on the state.

Senator Howard E. Thorp of Potter Hill detailed an interview with Mr. Peck who said that fire hazards had ceased to exist and he was sure that Mr. Peck would not acept a deed with the five foot reservation. Frank A. Sullivan thought it a business proposition for the district to secure the $3,000 from the state and the amendment a vicious one. G. Edgar Tobin, rector of Christ church, declared the church had been courteous to the district and town and asked that a nuisance not be created to the church. In reply to a question by Mr. Milner, Representative C. W. Campbell said that the town council and not himself first recommended the purchase this second time.

After remarks by many other speakers the vote on the amendment as counted by Tellers Dunn and Whipple showed yes 47; no 50. Moderator Stanton declared the amendment lost.

With the same proceedure on the original motion the results stood yes 53, no 50 and the meeting adjourned at 9 p. m.

ORDER OF DEMOLAY OFFICERS INSTALLED

Master Councilor Daniel McIver and suite of state officers Monday evening in Masonic hall conducted the election and installation of the officers of Westerly chapter, Order of DeMolay, which is sponsored by Palmer chapter, No. 28, R. How To Put On Weight

Lee & Osgood's Offer to Underweight Men, Women and Children

Think how a few added pounds would improve your health and appearance. Now your face and neck are too thin, your chest too hollow, your ribs too prominent; and so you lack a well-rounded figure, nerve-force, strength, energy, vitality and endurance.

But here's your chance — you'll never find a better, easier, less expensive way to gain the weight you badly need. This offer comes from Lee & Osgood, a reputable local druggist—and applies to all underweight men, women and children who lack the weight producing vitamins.

Act on it—start taking McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets right away. For they are just as rich in weight-building vitamins as the pure Norwegian cod liver oil from which they are made. They contain no drugs, no stomach-irritants, haven't that fishy, oily taste—nothing in them but real cod liver oil extract.

Read this ironclad guarantee—McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets must give any underweight man, woman or child the desired increase in weight or money refunded. Just ask for McCoy's at Lee & Osgood or any drugstore—60 tablets 60 cents.

REV. C. A. BURDICK RESIGNS AFTER 27 YEARS AS PASTOR

The annual meeting was held Sunday night by the members of the Pawcatuck Seventh-day Baptist church of Westerly, at which time Rev. Clayton A. Burdick, D. D., the pastor for the past 27 years, read his resignation. The resignation will become effective June 1. He was by the unanimous vote made pastor-emeritus, and will continue to make his home in Westerly. Dr. Burdick has been 47 years in the ministry, having come to the Westerly church in 1903 from Ashaway where he served for four years as pastor of the First Hopkinton Seventh-day Baptist church. Previous to that he was for eleven years pastor at Brookfield church and previous to that at the West Edmonston church, N. Y., for four years. He was born in Utica, Wis., and was ordained to the ministry by that church. His first pastorate was at West Edmonston.

Mr. Burdick was given the honorary degree of D. D. by Alfred university in 1916. The selection of his successor will be left in the hands of a committee to be appointed by the president of the church.

In addition to serving as pastor of the Westerly church, Dr. Burdick has served for the past 15 years as supply pastor at the Third Baptist church in North Stonington, where he has preached each Sunday. He will continue his relationship with the North Stonington church for the present.

At the business session following the annual church supper, the following officers were elected: George B. Utter, president; E. Howard Clark, treasurer; LaVerne D. Langworthy, clerk; George B. Utter, Charles P. Cottrell, Howard M. Barber, trustees; John H. Austin, collector; Mrs. John H. Austin, assistant collector; Karl G. Stillman, auditor.

Ushers: William Healey, Charles Barker, Hiram Barber, Wilfred B. Utter, Karl G. Stillman, Alexander Austin, Cyril Kenyon, Carroll Hoxie.

Music committee, Ira B. Crandall, Mrs. Walter G. Grenolds, Karl G. Stillman.

The nominating committee was Samuel H. Davis, Dr. Edwin Whitford and Karl G. Stillman. The report of the permanent funds of the church showed a total of $12,205.50. Three gifts were reported having been received by the church since the last annual meeting, which included $881 and $1,250 respectively, from the estates of Mrs. Almira Mitchell of Mystic and Harlan P. Hakes, and $2,000 from Mrs. A. H. Langworthy.

A HONEYMOON BUS TRIP DESCRIBED BY THE GROOM

Mr. and Mrs. Neil Morrison did not know how to spend their honeymoon—to go to Noank by train or bus. So a new quarter was tossed in the air as both looked on. It rolled on the ground headed up. So the bus was picked for the honeymoon express to the Fishing Village. But on going down to Morgan and Sixth street for the Grey Hound bus at 6.30 o'clock they got there five minutes too late, so had to wait until 10.30 for the next bus. But soon the time passed and the good looking bus caller announced, "Bus for New York and all points east!"

The people got in and there were 32, all ready for the long trip. The bus was going along good, while a fat lady and her son made some fun for the passengers, about their coming from Sunny California and one fellow who could talk the ear off of any one, said the dust in Denver was so bad that the driver had to wipe the windshield off to see—so much dust you could not see the auto's ahead. It sure did make it bad going and was over two hours late getting into St. Louis. Ice cream cones were 12 cents each. On the streets the people are begging for work and tears in their eyes saying that their children need something to eat. "I was chasing sheep and cattle for 71 cents a day, he said, and my board""A, a day and my board," he said, "And made enough money to get back to Columbus, Ohio. In Sunny California it is the same. So I think back in the east is the best place yet."

During the night we had a Hoot Gibson in the back seat who was sleeping. Then with his eyes closed, he sat up and said, "I am a bad man from the west!" and using his thumb and finger as a gun said, "Bang, bang!" Every one who was asleep, woke up quick to find it was only a fellow talking in his sleep. They hit him with a shoe. A young lady who believes in sleeping many hours, for a cannon could not wake her, slept from St. Louis clean into Pittsburgh, where she wanted to get off.

The bus reached Pittsburgh 30 minutes ahead of time, giving every one a chance to wash up and put away a sandwich with a cup of coffee in the smoky city. After 45 minutes' rest the bus got loaded up with suitcases and passengers. One young girl who had a box done up so neat, took her place with a fellow from California who was going to Boston. She wanted this fellow to watch the box—to let no one take it. She sure got kidded about it. A heavy suitcase landed on it and the driver had to stop the bus to get the trunk off the box in the rack. Every one was laughing, but the driver was mad, for it took 10 minutes before he got going again. A Harold Doyd with glasses did get on at East Liberty, Pa. He got a place on a high seat and was the life of the party. The lights was out, he said, "Gee! this seat is too high, so he went over to a seat beside a blondy from the Smoky City and sang her to sleep, if he did keep the rest awake. He must have had a joke book with him, as he sure had some mean ones.

The lady who had the big box done up so neat went into a lunch house in Blainsville, Pa., for there was 20 minutes for rest. In the meanwhile some one hid the box and when she came back, it was gone. Talk about mad! She was hunting for awhile but could not find it and she wanted to call a cop. "Well!" the boy with the glasses said, "What is in the box?" Some Easter eggs and something else that I cannot tell!" "Well them eggs will be hatched if you don't find the box!" But it was found and she took it and held it until she reached the place where she was to hang her hat. She must have lost several pounds worrying over that Easter egg box.

In Hollisburgh, Pa., the ground was white with 12 inches of snow, but the roads were opened for traffic. Tuesday night every one got a good rest, for the wild man of the west did not talk in his sleep. Getting into Harrisburgh, Pa., a Penn. Quaker with his chin whiskers and hair over his ears, dressed in black and with a ten-gallon hat was so funny that the fellow with the glasses said, "That fellow needs a violin—or he must be on his way to join the House of David in Michigan or going to see the bathing girls in Atlantic City! "But he was a good sport and returned a smile.

A young lady got on at Middletown, Pa., so the lady's man from East Liberty sat down with her and he said, "All that I want is a break!" You got one! "the bus driver said.

Making Philadelphia around 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, after 42 hours on the road, everybody was happy to get off, never to meet again or the same gang. The honeymooners went by street car to Foxclase, Pa., to call on Mrs. Frank Goodwin, sister of the groom for a few days then back to Noank by automobile to make their home, after a real honeymoon by the Grey Hound bus, a distance of 1500 miles.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The Merrow Machine Company, Hartford

In the year 1838 the firm J. M. Merrow & Son embarked in the business of manufacturing knitted undergarments by machinery. Their factory, the first mill devoted exclusively to knitting to be built in the United States, was established in a secluded spot on the Willimantic river in eastern Connecticut. The village which grew up around it became known as Merrow.

Many improvements originated in this little factory, among them the Merrow crochet and shell stitch machines, inventions of J. M. Merrow, grandson of the senior member of the original firm and now president of The Merrow Machine company. The utility of these machines was early recognized and steps taken to introduce them to other manufacturers.

In 1887 a fire destroyed the knitting mill and machine shop at Merrow together with a considerable number of crochet machines under construction and special tools for building them. New quarters were promptly occupied in Norwich, where subsequently greatly improved models were brought out. In 1892 the manufacturing was removed to Hartford, where The Merrow Machine company was incorporated and a modern factory erected to keep pace with the growing demand for Merrow machines.

The Merrow high speed machines offered to the textile industry today, in a great variety of models—for seaming, hemming and edge finishing, both plain and ornamental—are the result of many years of painstaking effort devoted exclusively to this special field.

The officers of The Merrow Machine company are: J. M. Merrow, president; J. M. Washburn, treasurer; J. E. Prentis, secretary.

Amazed! Way Tanlac Relieves "Rheumatism"

For years the remarkable results obtained from Tanlac in the treatment of general rundown conditions have amazed its users, but most surprising of all is the quick relief this remarkable medicine gives in cases of "rheumatism" and stomach ills that yield to nothing else.

Men and women who thought themselves beyond human aid, who suffered for years with pains from stomach and bowel troubles, neuritis, chronic headaches, dizziness, sleeplessness, constipation, who saw themselves daily going down into a sickly early old age have through the amazing stimulating and cleansing action of this REAL MEDICINE, Tanlac, found themselves once more in the possession of a strong healthy stomach and a body free from pain. One user says, "I suffered tortures from muscular rheumatism but after taking Tanlac for a couple of weeks I was over the rheumatism, my kidneys acting fine, my digestion in apple-pie order." Try it—get a bottle from the nearest druggist. Satisfaction guaranteed or money back. Accept no substitute.

Large Pimples Caused Much Embarrassment. Cuticura Healed.

"About a year ago pimples broke out on my face and neck. They were ugly large, red pimples which caused me much embarrassment. They festered and the skin around them was inflamed. The pimples made me nervous and I scratched them, causing them to spread.

"I tried several different remedies but all in vain. I had the trouble about nine months when I tried a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I thought it helped me so purchased more, and after using them continually for about three months I was completely healed." How a second meeting ruined their romance

Broad daylight revealed her poor complexion until—

LAST NIGHT when he called, she had purposely kept the lights dim and shaded. For she knew how critical men are of a poor complexion.

But now, in the bright sunlight, she couldn't hide her dull, blemished, muddy skin any longer. Of course he noticed it. Though he was polite—pleasant—she could feel the difference. And he never asked her out again.

Yet this same girl whose poor complexion once cost her many an admirer, today has a fresh, clear, radiantly lovely skin. Let her tell you what she did.

• • •

"A skin specialist prescribed Lifebuoy facials when I finally went to him with my complexion troubles.

"He explained that most poor complexions are due to clogged pores. Little bits of dust and dirt, tiny specks of powder and rouge, mixed with the natural oily secretions of the skin become embedded in the pores where they cake and harden. Mere surface cleansing can't remove this embedded matter. It needs Lifebuoy's penetrating, deep-cleansing, purifying lather to do it.

"Every night I give myself a 'Lifebuoy facial', working the gentle, searching lather well into the skin for several minutes, then rinsing away. The very first time you do this your skin feels cleaner than it ever has before. Soon it begins to look clearer, smoother, fresher until in a little while it fairly glows with healthy radiant beauty.

"Certainly 'Lifebuoy facials' are a real beauty treatment—and so economical. Its pleasant, extra-clean scent—that vanishes as you rinse—tells you this wonderful toilet soap purifies."

TWELVE PERMITS ISSUED BY FIRE MARSHAL; TWO FOR NEW DWELLINGS

Marked activity in building lines about the city was indicated during the past week by the fact that twelve permits were issued by Fire Marshal Henry R. Taft, the largest number of any week this year. The total valuation on the new building is approximately $15,000.

Included in the permits are two for new dwelling houses and one for a large frame and iron grain store. The other permits are for additions, alterations and new gaages.

With mild weather prevailing considerable progress has been made during the past week on local building projects. Many of the smaller building operations such as new dwelling houses and alterations to present buildings were completed during the week.

At the Norwich Free Academy where Contractor W. S. Spencer is building the new Norton Memorial gymnasium the work is going along rapidly. During the past week the foundation was completed and the work on erecting the brick walls was started, the north wall being well along.

Contractors Peck, McWilliams Co. made good progress on the Norwich Inn and the interior work is going rapidly forward. The plastering has been completed and the trim is being put on. The rooms on the third floor are practically finished and the floors are now being dressed. With this completed the rooms on this floor will be ready for furnishing and decorating. The work of grading has been started.

The following were the permits issued by Fire Marshal Taft:

To Mrs. Margaret Jennings to erect a frame two-car garage on McKinley avenue. The garage will be 20x18 feet with cement foundation. The estimated cost is $400.

To Edward Neiderman to erect a one story frame barn at 87 Spring street for B. Friedberg. The barn will be of frame construction with cement foundation and will be 14x20 feet. The estimated cost is $300.

To Amede J. Lusignan to erect a frame bungalow in the rear of 19 Dunham street. The bungalow will have four rooms and bath with a porch 6x24 feet. The house will be 26x30 feet. The interior finish will be in hardwood and hard finish plaster while the exterior will be done in stained shingles on the walls and composition shingles on the roof. The estimated cost is $2,000.

To L. Rosenberg to make alterations to his present house on West Main street. The alterations will include the raising of the roof eight feet to make two new rooms, a kitchen, and bathroom. A new porch will also be built the entire length of the house. The estimate cost is $800.

To Otto Hoeick to add a two-story porch to the present house at 30 Hamilton avenue. The porch will be 8x14 feet and will have shingled buttresses and hip roof covered with slate-surfaced shingles. The estimated cost is $200.

To Homer Monty, contractor, to erect a frame two-story house on Colt street for himself. The house will be 24x26 feet and will have six rooms and bath. The foundation will be of cement and the exterior finish is to be in half clapboards and half shingles. The interior finish will be in hard finish plaster walls with oak floors and hard pine trim. The estimated cost is $4,000.

To Hertz Brothers to make alterations to their place of business at 123 West Main street. The alterations include the moving of a partition and the taking out of a staircase. The estimated cost is $100.

To George Boucher to build a frame garage, 20x20 feet for Ellen McGrath at 110 Central avenue. The garage will have cement foundation and floor and will have a novelty siding finish with paper shingles on the roof. The estimated cost is $400.

To the Modern Feed and Grain Co., of Putnam, Conn., to erect a frame and metal grain store on North Main street on the land owned by the New Haven railroad. The building will be 200x30 feet. It will have a wood frame and the walls will be of corrugated iron. The roof will also be of metal. The estimated cost is $5,300.

To David Goldberg to make alterations to his building at the corner of Willow and Franklin streets. The alterations will include the changing of three plate glass windows and making them into three sets of doors. On the inside the changes will include those to the office and workroom. The wood floor of the workshop will be taken up and a cement floor laid in its place. The estimated cost is $600.

To Hugh J. McDonald to build a frame addition to his house at 516 North Main street. The addition will be 10x15 feet and will be used as a bathroom and kitchen. The exterior will be finished in shingles while the interior will be finished in sheetrock. The estimated cost is $125.

To James Graham to erect a frame one-car garage at 663 North Main street. The estimated cost is $25.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

During the past week there were thirteen sales of real estate as compared to 14 sales for the corresponding week in 1929. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $41,760 and $66,089.

In New London during the past week there were nine sales of real estate, exactly the same number as for the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks $53,560 and $28,870.

NEW LONDON

The optimistic feeling that has prevailed among most of the local contractors was found to be at least partially justified in the announcement this week that 20 building permits had been issued by the city council. Of this number one was for the new central heating plant of the Lawrence and Memorial Associated hospitals which is to be erected at a cost of $35,000, six of the permits were for one family dwellings and one was for a two family house. These eight permits alone represent a proposed outlay of more than $75,000 and a most conservative estimate would indicate that the other 12 permits will bring the expenditures represented in the building permits this week up to the $100,000 mark.

With the approval of the zoning board of appeals having been granted for proposed site of a new gasoline service station at Bank street and Ocean avenue the Beacon Oil company is going ahead with the plans for the station. Present plans provide for a substantial building with modern equipment for service and driveways fro mboth Ocean avenue and Bank street. With the new station there will be three in the immediate vicinity, one already being located on the northwest side of Bank street and Jefferson avenue and one being located on the southwest side of that same intersection.

WESTERLY

Westerly Building Inspector Thomas Wills and Zoning Inspector Louis J. Rossi have issued the following building and zoning permits for the second week in April:

April 7. Marion Chilico, 82 Oak street. Two-story rear addition, 11 feet by 27 feet at 82 Oak street and renew present double-decker piazza.

April 9. Mrs. Nina A. Dunning, 39 Crandall avenue, Misquamicut. Build two-story summer cottage, 24 feet by 24 feet.

April 9. T. E. Chapman, Shore road. Reshingle roof of present house on Shore road with wooden shingles.

April 9. E. T. Duffy, Pasadena avenue, Watch Hill. Build one-story addition to house on Pasadena avenue, 8 feet by 10 feet.

April 9. South County Public Service company. Build tar separator at Canal street plant.

April 9. Lester Lonnergan, Shore road. Build porch addition, 9 feet by 30 feet to side of summer home.

April 9. Maurice Laing, 20 Chester avenue. Build garage, 12 feet by 18 feet, at 20 Chester avenue.

April 12. Mrs. J. W. Pollette, 31 School street. Reshingle roof of house at 31 School street with slate-coated shingles.

April 12. Philip Gallagher, 24 York avenue. Erect poultry house, 10 feet by 20 feet at 24 York avenue.

ONLY NORMAL AMOUNT OF BUILDING AT PUTNAM

PUTNAM, April 14—A survey of conditions in this city made during the past week shows that the community will not witness a repetition of the 1929 building programme this year. Construction was at its height during the last six months of last year and present spring indications are that the work of building contractors will attain but a normal stride during the next six months.

Builders at present are at work applying the finishing touches on a number of Putnam's new institutions among which are the group of new educational and religious structures being erected at the Novitiate of the Sisters of the Holy Ghost on Church street and the modernistic banking home of the Cargill Trust company on Main street.

At the beautiful home of the nuns in the West Side of the city, two wings have been added to the main structure. The addition on the north side built of brick and steel is designed in such a manner that beauty and utility are combined. It is three stories high and its architecture is a blend of Gregorian and Gothic, setting off a striking appearance and lending a beautiful atmosphere from which all residents of that section will derive benefit.

On the oposite side of Church street is a beautiful brick house, designed and landscaped for the highest type of residence. When completed it will serve as the rectory for the chaplain priest administering to the Sisters and students domiciled at the Novitiate. The chaplain house is a part of the building programme prepared in 1929. It is fast nearing completion and appearances are that it will be ready for occupancy within a few weeks.

At the April meeting of the common council held a few weeks ago, only a few building permits of any importance were issued by the aldermanic board governing building in the city. I. K. McNally of School street is intent upon erecting a modern gasoline filling station on School street north of the premises of Mrs. Louis Chapdelaine.

Plans have been drawn for the erection of a modern dwelling on Mechanics street to be built by the Wheaton Building and Lumber company. W. E. Wheaton, secretary of the concern in his letter of application intimated that construction will be gotten underway at an early date.

On Wilkinson street at the corner of Franklin street, S. Kiminsky, a Putnam realtor is building a modern one family bungalow which is of an attractive exterior design. It is built of wood and embodies in its interior, all the modern conveniences.

Capping the city water question forever with the beginning of construction on the water stand-pipe on Oak hill a week ago, building along engineering lines was begun. The work is going through as rapidly as possible and within a month it is expected that everything will be in readiness for the riveting of the standpipe which will be of a million gallons capacity.

LOCATION OF HOUSE CALLS FOR STUDY

The ordinary suburban lot gives little scope for anything but consideration of the position of our neighbor's kitchen and parlor windows and the corresponding or alternating positions of our own. The remaining arrangement rests with the possible future of the grounds, and here it would be always well to consult a landscape architect.

In the type of lot just spoken of there is usually a setback or restriction which brings the houses all along the line. There may, however, be some question of the depth of the sewer which will determine the arrangement of plumbing in the cellar.

The garage may be a separate unit or incorporated with the house either as an ell or part of the first story. It's place on the site may add to the house by giving it length, or, if thoughtlessly located, may ruin the effect and the possibility of charm. Its location with regard to convenience of approach from house to street, its appearance and the amount it encroaches on our lot are important considerations.

Height of Foundation

A house set low on the ground is more attractive than one that is high, especially if the house is small. When furnaces came in, and people began to have good cellars under houses, there was a demand for light and air in the basement.

Every house was thereupon put up from two or three feet above ground. This makes a house look as if it had perched for a brief rest, not as though it had grown in its place or was intended to be a definite part of the landscape as should be the case. It entails long flights of outside steps to be built and taken care of. Some types of houses need this elevation for the sake of dignity, but for the small house it is better to hug the ground. The cellar will be dry and light enough.

For the actual positions of rooms we must consider the points of the compass, the location of the neighbor's windows and our own. A house set with care and thought very close to another may not feel that proximity too much because of careful planning of rooms and windows.

An irregularly shaped lot left over on the edges of the development may be made delightful by building an ell at right angles to the main house, with a sheltered garden in the angle.

Take Advantage Of Outlook

On a sloping lot the garages may be put entirely under the house, either at front or back. If the land slopes up steeply from the street, it is possible to have one more story on the front than on the back. The entrance into vestibule or reception hall would be in front of the cellar. The living room would be on the floor above.

Plan to have the living rooms toward the south and west. Some people refuse to have the front door take up any room on the south side. Others feel that a front door on the north means cold wind whenever the door is opened.

Handsome trees on the lot may influence the house. One lot which had almost in its center a beautiful oak had the house built around it in such a way that it made a charming covered porch in summer. The bare branches in winter permitted plenty of sunshine in the house—Copyright, Service Bureau, Inc.

AN IMPRESSIVE ESTIMATE

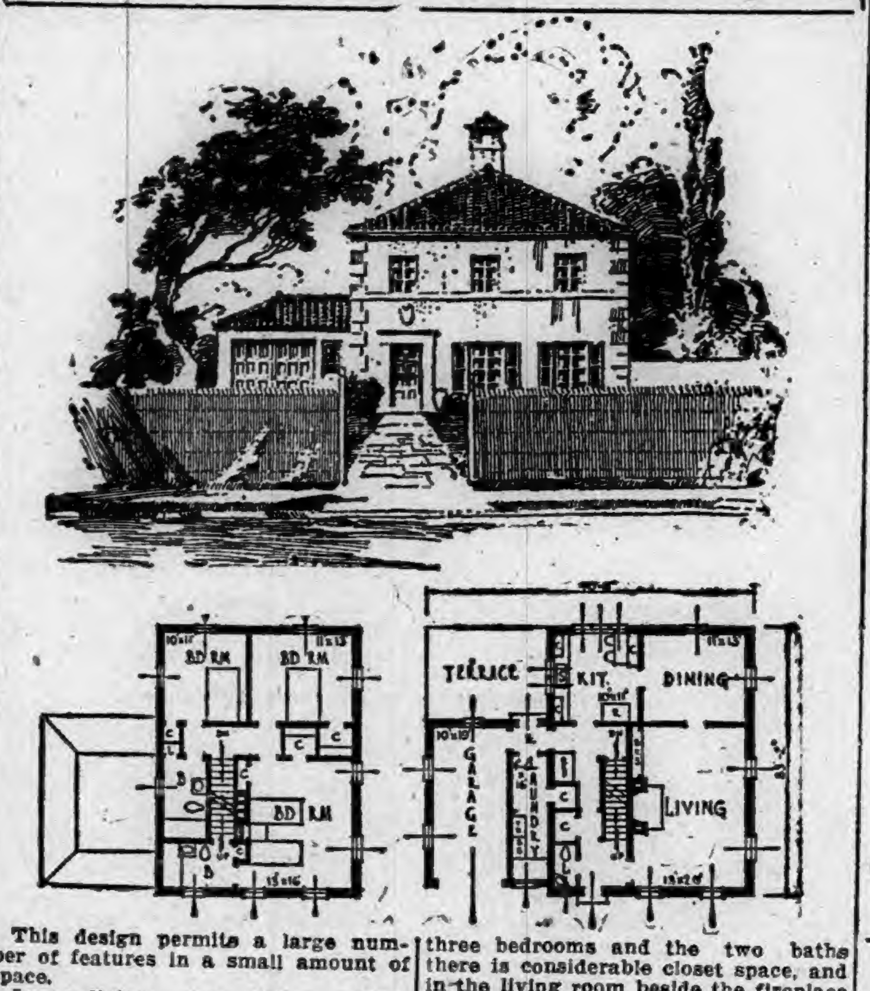
Approximately $634,788,690 will be spent in the United States in 1930 for heating and ventilating equipment for new buildings, according to a survey made by Heating and Ventilating, a trade paper. It is estimated that $136,000,000 will be spent for the construction of houses costing up to $20,000 each and that the heating equipment in these houses will cost $12,958,448. For dwellings costing from $20,000 to $50,000, the estimated total expenditure will be $135,000,000 of which $16,283,232 will be for heating and $2,713,872 for ventilating.

SHOULD LIGHT CABINET

Considerable work will be done at the built-in cabinet and provision should be made for sufficient lighting here. Because of the wide variety of electrical appliances in use in the modern home, it is absolutely necessary that convenience outlets be provided, not forgetting the electric refrigerator.

Lighting during the daytime will be well taken care of by steel casement windows which, through their use of slender mullions, admit a maximum of light and air. Through these windows one may also keep a watchful eye on youngsters at play in the yard.

MANY FEATURES IN LITTLE SPACE IN THIS MODEL



This design permits a large number of features in a small amount of space.

Large living and dining rooms, three bedrooms, two baths, a garage, a laundry and a terrace may be contained in this house which may be built on about 60 x 75 feet.

It can be built on a 50 foot lot, although this is not advisable.

The house is quite decidedly Italian in character. Quoins on the corners are a darker tone of stone or stucco than the walls of the structure, which are light buff stucco. The door and shutters are of weathered gray. Brightness is achieved through the red Spanish tile roof and colored curtains and window casings.

The inside plan is condensed as much as possible, although despite the three bedrooms and the two baths there is considerable closet space, and in the living room beside the fireplace a convenient and attractive book nook may be placed.

The laundry and the garage are conveniently connected to the house but are segregated sufficiently so as not to disturb the comfort of the living parts of the home.

Gardening is an important part of the plan, especially about the entrance, if the Italian character of the house is to be retained in full value. A fence at the front of the property adds dignity to a well kept lawn and garden.

Depending upon choice of materials and the communities where they are obtained, the house may be built for between $8,000 and $10,000.

NEW BUNGALOW ON McKINLEY AVE. EXT.

The house pictured above is one built on McKinley avenue extension and is one of the most attractive in that section of the city. The house which was built by a local contractor is very pleasantly arranged and is very handsomely finished on the interior. The exterior finish is in broad colonial clapboards. The house is of the bungalow type with large dormer window. Two massive cement and stucco pillars support the veranda at the front of the house.

PAINTED WALLS MAY BE WASHED

Painted walls owe much of their popularity to their quick response to soap and warm water. Some household authorities recommend a mixture as follows:

Shave a small cake of neutral soap into a quart of boiling water or dissolve a corresponding amount of soap flakes in the same quantity of water Dissolve about two ounces of glue in another quart of boiling water. Mix the two liquids. A little flour might be added to make a thicker solution and a little sal soda or washing powder to make a stronger one.

This jellied compound is applied to walls with a soft sponge from the bottom upward and then removed with a clean chamois. For greasy walls, as in the kitchen, it is best to add more sal soda and a little ammonia.

Installment buying is being adopted in the steady Americanization process of Japan's daily life. One large department store in Tokio has started the system and two others have sent representatives to the United States to study it.

SHADOWS ON WALLS AID HOME BEAUTY

If the outer walls of the house were made of white bed sheets stretched on frames, they would be very blank and uninteresting. Shadows — even the little banks of dark below each clapboard, shadows of window and door casings, or porch columns and simple arbors—give texture and interest to the exterior walls of the home. That is, however, if the walls are receptive to these shadows.

Well painted walls intensify the outline of shadows. A smooth, hard surface with a slight gloss cuts the shaded edges sharp and clear. The swaying branches of a tree cast beautiful pictures upon the sides of a newly painted house. The light areas sparkle forth brilliantly in contrast to the dark areas.

One would not expect to see interesting shadows cast by any object upon a coarse, spongy surface. Have you ever noticed how attractive is the play of light and shade from trees and shrubs upon a close-clipped lawn? Visualize the distortion, however, of these shadows on a scraggy hay-field. By the same token they would appear fuzzy and unsatisfying on a house where paint had been neglected too long.

We understand the form of objects only by means of shadows and colors. We should not know that a creased tablecloth had been folded except for the shadow cast by the crease on the surrounding whiteness.

DWELLINGS OF BRICK ARE GAINING PLACE

Significant in the home construction field is the growing tendency of late on the part of those agencies which finance home building operations to insist upon not only a better type of house but as well one of permanent construction. It isn't so easy as it used to be for the jerry builder to finance his operations. He is being cramped by the financier's insistence not only upon good houses but houses that will resist the ravages of time and the elements with the least degree of depreciation.

In some instances this has advanced to the point where brick construction is virtually demanded. Generally speaking the trend with most of the more important agencies is increasing toward more permanent construction. More brick homes are being built today than in a number of years, and in many instances realtors are restricting their developments to homes of this type. There is reason for this, beyond the financier's insistence.

With materials at their present prices and labor costing in most localities almost if not quite as much as the materials that go into the home, it behooves the man who builds or buys to make a good investment. One upon which he can cash in readily if occasion arises where he is compelled to sell. And the resale value of the brick house is always highest. Besides there is the every year saving on insurance premiums, fuel bills and maintenance costs.

New types of brickwork, particularly skintled brickwork, is causing a wide revival of interest in the common brick home. And economy is aiding in this as well, for the common brick house today can be built in most cities at not to exceed five or six per cent more than its cheapest competitors.

Underwriting in FIRE INSURANCE

Who shall, or shall not, be insured; what property shall, or shall not, be covered; and what amount of insurance shall be accepted, if any? These are problems which daily face the underwriter.

Fire insurance companies do not insure property, but do insure and safeguard the interests of persons or corporations in property.

The property owner's character, financial ability to possess and maintain the property, the usefulness of the property to its owner, his fire record, if any, and other pertinent particulars, concern the underwriter.

Property to Be Covered

The type of property to be covered, be it dwelling, mercantile, manufacturing or personal property, as well as construction, occupancy, fire protection, exposure, damageability, amount of insurance carried compared with the value of the property, along with many other conditions, must be studied by the underwriter.

The underwriter is equipped with insurance maps, surveys, engineering data, confidential character and financial reports, fire records, and other information upon which to base his judgment of a particular line of insurance.

Broad Experience

Underwriters of Stock Fire Insurance companies are men of broad experience who are carefully trained in the selection of desirable, and in the avoidance of undesirable, risks.

The Underwriter renders an important public service by endeavoring to avoid insurance on risks that are likely to produce illegal or questionable claims and a consequent effect on the cost of fire insurance.

OLD KING BASEBALL WILL BE USHERED TO HIS THRONE THIS AFTERNOON

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

Airplanes may buzz overhead, divots may fly thicker than ever on the golf courses and pop may be disguised by the use of paper cups but the good old-fashioned American game of baseball comes into its own again today—all along the major league battlefront.

Times have changed and so has the game that one-time featured beards and sacrifice hits, instead of $80,000 salaries and home runs, but it is still the grand old national pastime, with all the tumult and shouting, the band-playing, the flag-raising and the side who share with grizzled fans the thrills of opening day.

With balmy touches of spring to paint a seasonable background, the sixteen teams of the National and American leagues today complete the swing into action that was begun approximately in the national capital yesterday, when President Hoover joined the crowd watching Boston's Red Sox take the measure of the Washington Senators.

These same two teams jump overnight to Boston for another inaugural, while the rest of the American league clubs open with New York at Philadelphia, St. Louis at Detroit, Cleveland at Chicago.

In the National league, the champion Chicago Cubs start their campaign at Brooklyn and Pittsburgh at Cincinnati.

If the weather's favorable attitude continued uninterrupted, the prospects were that approximately 250,000 spectators would witness the total of eight games scheduled. The National league openers were expected to contribute most of this total, around 132,000 with at least 115,000 more fans crowding their way into American league parks.

The biggest crowd of the day seemed likely at Detroit, with 40,000 or upward expected to take advantage of ideal weather to jam Navin field and see Bucky Harris' 1930 edition of the Tigers play the St. Louis Browns.

The New York Giants estimated 40,000 would witness their getaway at the Polo grounds against the Boston Braves.

Crowds of 30 to 35,000 were predicted for the openers at Philadelphia, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Chicago, where the White Sox opening, against Cleveland, was to be seized as a means of paying tribute to the new manager, Donie Bush. Donie's friends planned to give him a chest of silver and voice the hope that all the pleasant things said this spring about the Sox come true.

Not to forget their champions, however, 5,000 other Chicago fans formed for a march upon St. Louis to cheer Manager Joe McCarthy's Cubs. To stimulate this pilgrimage, Dr. Louis Eastman, who did the team a good turn by curing Catcher Gabby Hartnett's arm, hired a special train for his own delegation of Cub rooters, all hoping to see the Bruins break their habit of being opening day losers.

The world's champion Athletics, barring a last-minute contract hitch with their great outfielder, Al Simmons, were primed for a rousing getaway on home grounds against their arch-rivals, the New York Yankees. Robert Moses Grove, the southpaw ace of the A's, was the choice to send the champions away where they left off last October—as winners. The expensive cast led by Babe Ruth and managed for the first time by Bob Shawkey counted upon the good right arm of George Pipgras to match anything Grove could produce in speed or curves.

Nothing in the last few frenzied days of "doping" the pennant races has upset the general expectations that the Athletics and Cubs will repeat their conquests of 1929 and meet again in the world's series next fall.

Connie Mack's Athletics went to the post as even-money proposition against the field while the Cubs were rated by Wall street as 7 to 5 favorites.

New York, Cleveland and Detroit, possibly along with St. Louis, were rated as the principal American league threats, in that order, while Pittsburgh and New York remained the choice of most critics to give the Cubs plenty of trouble.

Two clubs, however, in the National league—Brooklyn and Philadelphia—and one in the American, the White Sox, have shown sufficient stuff to warrant the prediction they will at least cause a flock of trouble to the favorites. This was especially true of Brooklyn, generally looked upon as the most improved team in the National league and an outside threat to completely overturn the dope.

Fandom, apart from the arguments over the relative powers of rival teams, prepared to turn out for an inspection of their favorites—old as well as new. Every team in either league has new material to present for the vital tests. Several, such as the Giants, Braves, Robins, Yankees, Tigers and Reds, presented radically altered line-ups for the 1930 campaign.

For the opening day, at least, newcomers such as Chapman, Cooke, Jolley, Suhr, Berger, Marshall, Lopez and Funk shared the spotlight with such hardy veterans as Ruth and Hornsby, whose combined salary checks for this year reach a new high level of $120,000.

BIG ED WALSH NOW RECOVERED FROM ILLNESS

MERIDEN, April, 14—(AP)—Big Ed Walsh, one of the greatest pitchers ever to wear a major league uniform, has emerged a winner from a battle of nearly three weeks for his health.

The former Chicago White Sox pitching ace today was discharged as fully recovered from the Meriden hospital, where on March 27, he underwent an operation for appendicitis and peritonitis. Before resuming his duties as scout for the White Sox, however, he will take a rest of several weeks at his South Meriden home.

Walsh was stricken ill while en route to his home from the south where he had been visiting the spring training camps. Following the operation, he was described by his physician as a "very sick man."

BATTALINO KNOCKS OUT NABERS IN FOURTH

WATERBURY, April 14.—(AP)—Bat Battalino, of Hartford, world's featherweight champion, knocked out Benny Nabers, New York, after 30 seconds of fighting in the fourth round of a scheduled ten-round non-title bout here tonight. Battalino weighed 130, Nabers 132 3-4.

Battalino, making his first appearance in this city, did not warm up until the second round, but Nabers exchanged with him throughout the second and third heats, although the champion was the aggressor.

The end came soon after the bell sounded to start the fourth round. Battalino rushed Nabers to a neutral corner and let fly a hard right to Nabers' chin, sending the New Yorker down for a count of nine. Nabers managed to regain his feet but Battalino stepped in with a left to the chin and knocked Nabers out.

In the semi-final bout, Leo Larrivee, 160, Waterbury, scored a technical knockout over Freddie Blake, of Holyoke, Mass., 157, in the fourth round.

Marty Samson, 159, New York, won an eight-round decision over Ruby Marshall, 157, of Stamford, in what was the best bout of the night.

Izzy Kaplan, 142, Meriden, knocked out Joe Emmons, 141 1-2, Waterbury, in the third round of a scheduled six-rounder.

Al Mariano, 165, Waterbury, knocked out Jack Rose, 167, Holyoke, Mass., in the first round of a scheduled four-rounder.

SEVERAL BASEBALL GAMES ON THE AIR TODAY

NEW YORK, April 14.—(AP)—With the baseball season swinging into action, radio is to present a number of the opening games tomorrow afternoon.

Both WJZ and NBC stations and the CBS chain will carry a description of the contest in the National league between the New York Giants and the Boston Braves from the Polo grounds in New York. The game is to start at 3 p. m., eastern time.

Among the other baseball broadcasts will be that by WLW, Cincinnati, of the first game between the Pittsburgh Pirates and Cincinnati Reds, starting at 2:45 p. m.

THREE REGULARS OF PIRATES OUT OF GAME

PITTSBURGH, April 14.—(AP)—Two and possibly three regulars will be out of the Pittsburgh Pirate lineup in the opening game with the Reds at Cincinnati tomorrow.

Captain Pie Traynor, third baseman and cleanup hitter, was ordered to remain in Pittsburgh today by his physician. He is suffering with iritis, and may not play until the home opener next week.

Lloyd Waner, outfielder, has not fully recovered from an appendicitis operation and will be on the sidelines.

George Grantham, second baseman, tonight was reported from Cincinnati as ill with grippe and it was doubtful whether he could get into action.

BRAVES HAND HOLY CROSS SOUND DRUBBING

WORCESTER, Mass., April 14.—(AP)—The Holy Cross nine, eastern intercollegiate champions for the last two years, made its initial appearance of the season today and finished at the short end of a 11 to 1 score, in an exhibition contest with the Boston Braves. Score:

Braves	022 020 41	11	14	2
Holy Cross	000 100 00	1	10	8

Brown, Brandt, Hart and Gowdy, Cronin, Collins; Sims, Evans and Dougherty.

(Game called end 8th to permit Boston players to catch train.)

PROFS RALLY IN 8TH TO WIN FROM YALE

NEW HAVEN, April 14.—(AP)—Scoring four runs in the eighth inning, the New Haven team of the Eastern league today defeated Yale by a score of 9 to 6 in an exhibition game. Heffner, of New Haven, hit a home run in the seventh inning with one man on base. Albie Booth, Eli shortstop, made two errors. Score:

New Haven	210 000 240	9	13	3
Yale	202 020 000	6	9	3

Noyes, Linder and Padden, Griggs; Taylor, Spring, Newton and Aldrich.

Scott Turned Over to Toledo

TOLEDO, Ohio, April 14.—(AP)—Pitcher Jack Scott has been turned over by the New York Giants to the Toledo club of the American association, President Oscar Smith announced today.

This is the third time Scott has been with the Mud Hens. Toledo today released to Fort Wayne on option Pitcher Eddie Marleau, Catcher Adams and Infielder Butch Conlan.

Carnera Wins Again

OAKLAND, Cal., April 14.—(AP)—Primo Carnera, giant Italian heavyweight, was the victor on a technical knockout in the sixth round over Leon Chevalier, 215 pound San Francisco Negro, at the Oakland baseball park tonight.

Benson Sets New Record

Al Benson, local cue wizard, set a new high run record last night in his match with Claxton at the Hickey billiard rooms. Benson had a run of 65 which beats the previous record held by Plympton by four balls.

Susie Says

Those who use the coupe as a substitute for the dim lighted parlor as a place to court should be very, very careful where they park it.

And they should be especially careful about driving into side roads that are likely to be muddy as the choice of this kind of a parking place may result in a walk home and the expense of having the car hauled out.

This was the very embarrassing situation a local couple found themselves in the other evening. The boy friend took his Sheba out for a ride in the old coupe the other evening.

It was a springlike evening, the moon was full and there was just the right tinge of romance in the air. It was one of those evenings when the world is all right and one has not a care in the world.

This young man started out in the machine and after driving around for a time decided that keeping one eye on the road and trying to make love with the other was too strenuous and he looked for a place to park.

He drove into what he supposed was a side road but found that it was the driveway to a residence, so he passed it up. A little further on he saw another road which although not quite as inviting as the other he decided it was better than no road at all.

And so he drove in. Right across a little bridge he drove and into the lane. It was quiet there and the peep frogs made a pleasant orchestral accompaniment to the love-making.

Time flew as time does and then they decided it was time to go home. The young man started his car. The wheels spun and then suddenly took hold. Back shot the car, but somebody had moved the little bridge.

There was a bump and the car stopped with the wheels in the ditch. No amount of locomotion would stir it from its resting place; it was there to stay until someone pulled it out.

Seeing that there was nothing to do but walk and so they did. They both walked home from the buggy ride.

Today the fishing season opens, if that means anything.

LAVARGE AND GREENE TO PITCH GAMES THIS WEEK

Chuck Lavarge and Boots Greene were named by Coach Brigham as the starting Academy pitchers for the two games this week after Monday's practice. Both are righthanders. Lavarge will open against Killingly Wednesday at the campus in the opening scholastic game on the Wildcat schedule and Greene will follow up Saturday against Deep River, also on the local lot.

Butsy Weisgraber, last year's mainstay, is to take another week or so to get his trusty right wing into shape. He will in all probability be seen in the outfield in both of the contests this week. Les Crowell, who is leading in the bid for the right field post, will probably be absent from the squad for a week or ten days with gland trouble, it became known Monday.

Monday's practice, favored by the beautiful weather, was a long one. In a practice game, the Regulars just nosed out the Yannigans, 6 to 5, in a last inning rally. A three-bagger by Mickey Breen, third baseman, drove in the winning run.

Johnny Caron pitched for the second team and showed in impressive fashion for most of the time. Karkutt was on the mound for the first team and also looked good.

Killingly high, which is the only school in eastern Connecticut outside of the league to play the Academy this year, has been practicing hard and is confident of giving the Red and White something to think about, according to reports.

In Monday's game the first team was made up for most of the time of Pepin, catching; Karkutt, pitching; Arico, on first; Reardon, at second; Gibbs, at short; Breen, at third; Dickerman, in left; Lyons, in center, and Carter in right, while the seconds had McGuinnis behind the bat, Caron, pitching; Geer, on first; Fitzgerald, at second; Navick, at third; Hamil, at short; Berghinzo, in left; Lavarge, in center, and Flather, in right. Flather connected for a triple that landed under the fire escapes for the longest swat of the day.

JOHNSON AND O'BRIEN MEET ONCE AGAIN

BOSTON, April 14.—(AP)—An argument that dates back more than 20 years may be settled here tomorrow night, when Jack Johnson, former heavyweight champion, and Gentleman Jack O'Brien, of Philadelphia, clash once again in the ring. Their first battle, staged in Philadelphia, when both were in their prime, was a six round no decision affair that ended with each claiming the victory.

These old timers will put on a three-round exhibition for their second clash. Each, however, claims to have retained enough of his old fighting skill to travel that short distance at a warm pace.

This exhibition was arranged by Eddie Mack, Argonne A. A. promoter to add color to the card headed by Dick "Honeyboy" Finnegan, Boston lightweight, and Johnny Farr, of Cleveland.

YOUNG McCARTHY TRAINING AT HICKEY'S GYMNASIUM

Young Tommy McCarthy, local featherweight boxer who has been fighting in Newark for the past two months, is now in Norwich and is doing his training at Hickey's gymnasium on Main street. McCarthy, who has been at his home here for a few days, received a telegram Monday telling him to get in shape for a bout at Newark next week. McCarthy is working out with Johnny Kop who is going to box Tommy King of Fall River at the Shyma club card on April 23rd.

EASTERN CONN. CHECKER TOURNEY AT PUTNAM FRI.

The annual eastern Connecticut checker tournament will be held at the Masonic club rooms in Putnam on Good Friday. The tournament gets under way at eleven o'clock. All checker players in the eastern part of the state are eligible to enter the tournament and already there has been a large list of entries but there is still room for many more. Bill Warren, veteran checker master of Putnam, is in charge of the play and all entries should be sent to him.

RED SOX START AMERICAN LEAGUE OFF WITH WIN OVER WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, April 14.—(AP)—Rallying in the eighth inning, Boston scored two runs off Braxton, thin left hander, to down Washington, 4 to 3, in the opening game of the American league baseball season.

Led by President Hoover, officialdom was represented by a small army. Enough cabinet members were present for a meeting and a roll call would probably have disclosed a quorum of both the house and senate.

The president entered the stadium just before game time and took a seat in the presidential box by Secretary Mellon only to arise a moment later to toss out the first ball. As was the case last year, his arm seemed strong but his control was a bit off. The ball shot past an umpire and was headed off by a Red Sox player.

Mr. Hoover remained until the end of the eighth inning. He watched the game closely, leaning forward a little in tense moments and he frequently made some comment to those around him after a fast play. He applauded vigorously after Marberry, Washington pitcher, doubled in the sixth.

Encompassing the officials and congressmen was a crowd estimated at 20,000 put into good humor by a warm, hazy spring day.

The game was hard fought and few spectators were moving toward the exits when the final came.

The Washington club scored one run off Danny McFayden, bespectacled Red Sox right hander, in the first inning on singles by Rice, Goslin and Cronin but the rally was abruptly checked after Heving, Boston catcher, took Judge's pop in front of the plate and lined to third, doubling Goslin.

Boston tied it in the fourth on Oliver's single and Todt's two bagger but Marberry's two bagger in the sixth sent Judge and Ruel scurrying across the plate, giving his team what appeared at the time to be a safe lead.

Marberry weakened in the seventh and after one run had been scored Braxton checked the rally only to lose the game in the next inning.

MacFayden gave way to a pinch hitter in the seventh and Smith, displaying a good fast ball and sweeping curve, held Washington safe. West doubled with two down in the ninth but Oliver took Goslin's line drive in center after a short run.

Neither team made an error and West, Oliver, Scarritt and Rice heartened their pitchers with good running catches. Scarritt in the eighth backed against the left field barrier to pull down a healthy drive by Cronin.

Lizzies Split Even

Elizabeth St. school baseball nine divided a double-header with the Alumni, when they opened their season Monday afternoon at Lucas' lots. The Alumni won the first game, 11-9. Pureznick pitched a good game for the losers. He fanned 13 men and allowed 9 hits. The batteries for the first game were: Alumni, Zeiller and A. Kirstien; Lizzies, Pueznick and L. Kirstien.

In the second game, the Lizzies won, 9-2. Hamblen pitched for the winners and fanned eight men and allowed one hit. The batteries for the second game were: Alumni, Handelman and A. Kirstien, Lorinsky; Lizzies, Hamblen and L. Kirstien, C. Rozanski.

AL SIMMONS UNABLE TO REACH ANY SALARY AGREEMENT WITH ATHLETICS

PHILADELPHIA, April 14.—(AP)—Connie Mack, manager of the world's champion Athletics, today confirmed the fears of the fans that Al Simmons, slugging outfielder of the A's, is a hold-out.

Throughout the training season, the tall manager of the A's consistently refused to discuss Simmons' status, but late today he admitted that Simmons had not yet signed a contract for 1930.

Unless there is an overnight agreement between Mack and his star outfielder, the hard hitting fly catcher will be missing from the opening game with the New York Yankees at Shibe park tomorrow.

"When Mr. Simmons returned his contract unsigned in January," said an announcement from Mack, "I did not think we would have any trouble in signing him because the tone of his letters led me to believe we would come to a satisfactory agreement, as Mr. Simmons suggested we wait until he arrived at the training camp, at which time we would talk the matter over.

"When Mr. Simmons asked that he be allowed to remain at Hot Springs, Ark., and not come to Florida, this met with my approval, and the request was granted.

"Then when Mr. Simmons arrived in Philadelphia, after we held a conference with him pertaining to his contract, I found it impossible to come to an agreement with him."

Manager Mack would say nothing as to the salary Simmons was demanding and would make no other comment except that he made the announcement of Simmons' status because he did not want fans to come to the Athletics-Yankee game and be disappointed in not seeing Simmons in the outfield.

Simmons would not talk, but according to friends he says he will pack up and return home to Milwaukee unless he and Mack come to terms soon.

Spencer Harris, who was with the Minneapolis club of the American association last year, probably will be seen in the A's outfield tomorrow. He was with the Athletics six years ago and then turned loose. He was tried out by Washington, Chicago White Sox and the Boston Braves. Detroit obtained Harris last winter and when the Tigers asked waivers on him this spring, the Athletics claimed him.

Simmons arrived here on Friday and when he made his appearance in the final game of the city series against the Phillies on Saturday, it was generally believed all the talk about his being a hold-out was baseless rumor.

Simmons played through the game and his home run was the only score against the Phillies, who won the game, 5-1, and with it the city championship.

The first indication that all was not as it seemed with Simmons came today during the morning practice at Shibe park. Simmons was not in uniform nor at the field.

Simmons was one of the outstanding stars last season and in the world series which the A's won from the Chicago Cubs. During the regular season he was second in batting, being beaten out for that honor in the final weeks by Lou Fonseca, of Cleveland. In the world series he batted .300 and knocked out two of the A's six home runs.

Simmons has been with the Athletics since 1924. He was obtained from Milwaukee during the winter in exchange for Wid (Sparky) Matthews, Heinie Scheer and Frank McGowan.

Last year Simmons had trouble with his ankles. He started the season but soon had to lay off for a while. He soon returned, however, and played a great game all season and through the world series.

BEAUREGARD TO BOX WILLIE ROSE IN FINAL BOUT OF SHYMA SHOW

Matchmaker Leo F. Flynn of the Shyma club has completed his card for Wednesday April 23rd with the signing of Willie Rose of New York to meet Al Beauregard of Taftville, New England bantamweight champion, in the ten round final. Rose was selected from a score or more boxers in the bantamweight class as a logical opponent for the local boy.

Rose comes well recommended and has been fighting some of the best boys around New York. Included in Rose's list of victims appears the name of Benny Tell who Rose defeated twice, once in ten rounds and once in 15. Among other boys he has beaten is Frankie Anslem who only last month fought a fast draw with Midget Wolgast. Just these three bouts should be enough to recommend Rose to the local fans.

As has been announced the semi-final of eight rounds brings together Ero Peterson of Worcester and Joe Barre of New York, two of the cleverest and hardest hitting boxers who have appeared in a local ring.

Johnny Kop, local batter who lost a hairline decision to Barre last month is slated for six rounds with Tommy King of Fall River, a comer from the Bay State who has been going well.

The other six-round preliminary is between Young Lavigne of New London and Marty Cortez of Boston, who only recently took a verdict from Hughie Devlin.

For the opener, Young Guoin, Taftville's pride, returns to the ring after a month's layoff due to an infected tooth, to do battle with Jackie Maher, a tough Fall River boy, who is punching his way to fistic recognition.

Like all the other cards put on by the Shyma club, attention has been paid to getting boxers who fight and give the crowd plenty of action for their money. Another capacity house is expected.

MAJORITY OF ISSUES WERE SLIGHTLY LOWER AT CLOSE OF STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, April 14—(AP)—The stock market appeared to get off on the wrong foot at the beginning of the new week today, and stumbled around throughout the session without getting anywhere. The majority of stocks closed slightly lower, the price index of 90 shares showing a loss of more than a point, although professional speculation for the rise was moderately successful in a handful of issues. Total sales of 4,149,530 shares were the smallest for a full session in three weeks.

Business and trade reports coming to hand over the week end were moderately cheerful, indicating slightly better steel mill operations in some centers, and a brisk revival of retail trade with the approach of Easter. The market's moderate response to strenuous operations for the advance last week appeared to have made traders cautious, however, and the fact that new state income taxes are due tomorrow probably caused considerable liquidation of stocks to raise funds. Furthermore, the fact that the market will close for the rest of the week on Good Friday has had a tendency to dampen speculative enthusiasm for the moment. Reactionary wheat and cotton markets also had a retarding influence on stocks.

Money was fairly firm, call loans commanding 4 per cent throughout the day. Moderate loan calling by banks was attributed to preparation for the mid-weekly settlement at the federal reserve, and for payment by the government tomorrow of about $131,00,000 in interest on the Fourth Liberty loan. Credit conditions throughout the country continue to improve gradually, the Minneapolis Federal Reserve bank today reducing its rate from 4 1-2 to 4 per cent.

The outstanding corporate news of the day was the first quarter earnings statement of American Telephone, showing net of approximately $40,400,000, a reduction of about $5,000,000 from the previous quarter, but approximating the profits of the like quarter of last year. The fact that the company was able to duplicate the results of the like period a year ago, in the face of slack conditions, was generally regarded as reassuring. Rumors that the company will shortly issue new stock at $100 a share at the rate of one share for six held, which amounts to cutting a melon of about $336,000,000, continue to circulate about Wall street. The stock was a strong feature of the market, rising five points to a new 1930 top at 274 1-4 and closing at 272.

Westinghouse Electric rose 8 points to a new 1930 peak at 198 1-2, and other strong spots were the American Tobacco issues, International Harvester, International Telephone, Lehman corporation, Manhattan Electric Supply, National Air Transport, Monsanto Chemical, Missouri Kansas Texas, and Grigsby Grunow, selling up 2 to 5 points to new 1930 tops, although not all gains were maintained to the close.

Several shares lost 2 to 6 points, including Allied Chemical, American Chain, Coca Cola, Columbia Graphaphone, Corn Products, Eastman Kodak, Loew's and Warner Quinlan U. S. Industrial Alcohol was again a bear target, dropping 7 points to a new 1930 low at 94 3-4. U. S. Steel closed off 5-8.

Wheat futures tumbled 2 to 4 cents a bushel on reports of needed rains and in sympathy with a decline at Liverpool.

Foreign exchanges were dull and irregular.

Sterling cables sagged 3-32 to $4.86 11-32.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, April 14—(AP)—A firmer tone in the money markets incident to the mid-month requirements of corporations and the treasury's operations eased bond prices todfay. Quotations held fairly steady during most of the quiet session, but there was a trend toward lower levels in the late dealings when the unofficial rate on call loans was boosted to 4 1-2 per cent.

Aside from moves in a few convertibles, the session was colorless. Demand came chiefly from institutional sources. The standard statistics composite price for 30 bonds dropped to 99.7, the lowest since March 12.

The two telephone convertibles were the day's leaders. Both the American and International 4 1-2s rose two points net, the latter touching a new high at 129 1-2 while the other came within an eighth of duplicating its 1930 peak. Amusement bonds were dull.

The easiness was most pronounced in the rails. Atchison General 4s, Kansas City Southern first 3s, New Haven 4 1-2s, Pennsylvania 3 1-2s, Southern Pacific 4s, and Southern Railway 4s, sagged from 1-2 to 1 point. Rock Island 4s, Chicago and Northwestern 5s, Nickel Plate "B" 5 1-2s, and Baltimore and Ohio "D" 5s, on the other hand, improved to about the same extent.

In the semi-speculative section, St. Paul adjustment 5s touched a new low at 70 1-4, closing at the bottom.

United States governments sold off 3 to 10 thirty seconds, reflecting the firmness of money.

WALL STREET BRIEFS

NEW YORK, April 14—(AP)—The net income of the Western Union Telegraph Co. for the first quarter amounted to $1,486,800, compared with $3,714,360 in the corresponding quarter of 1929. The company has reported that there has been improvement in business since the first quarter.

Andrew V. Stout, Jr., of Dominick & Dominick, has been elected a governor of the New York Stock exchange to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Hamilton F. Benjamin.

COTTON

NEW YORK, April 14—(AP)—Cotton futures closed easy, 17 to 25 points lower; spot quiet, middling 16.35.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, April 14—(AP)—Further readjustment of speculative accounts imparted considerable irregularity to today's curb market, but the general upward price tendency was maintained with new leaders brought forward to head the advance. Payment of state income taxes tomorrow and the approach of the three day Easter holiday there were no outstanding points of day resulted in some liquidation but weakness and such recessions as occurred were largely nominal in character.

Electric Bond & Share returned to the leadership of the utility group by moving up to a new high for the year at 114 7-8 but it reacted to 113 1-4, up 1 1-4 net, on realizing. Electric Power & Light optional warrants ran up more than 3 points in sympathy with the resumption of bullish activity in the common stock on the big board.

Italian Superpower "A" and Utilities & Power "A" moved into new high ground for the year. Niagara & Hudson improved fractionally, but American Superpower ran into some profit-taking after its advance to new high ground last week and closed fractionally lower. Adjournment of the state legislature is expected to speed up some of the merger projects which have been under way for the last few months.

Oils failed to make much response to the extension of recent crude oil and gasoline price advances, although many oil men believe that crude prices shortly will be restored to the prices prevailing since the price-cutting started last year. Cosden and Penn-Mex Fuel made moderate gains but Gulf, Humble, Standard of Indiana, Vacuum and some of the other leaders showed little change.

Brown Fence & Wire jumped more than 10 points to a new high at 28 7-8, closing at the top, on reports of merger developments. Morrison Electric, which reported a gain of more than 40 per cent in sales in the first quarter of the year above the same period a year ago, crossed 47 to a new high. Deere & Co. (new) ran up more than 4 points to a new high at 162 5-8 in reflection of the recent improvement in the farm implement business but lost a good part of its gain on realizing.

Memphis Natural Gas which was under pressure last week on the reported liquidation of large holdings, opened 4 1-4 points higher at 20 3-4, but eased to 19 at the close. The company is reported to be considering the retirement of its funded debt. Aluminum Co. of America, Dresser Manufacturing, National Rubber Machinery and South Coast all touched new highs for the year. Western Air Express, which broke 7 points Saturday, recovered all but a point of its loss. International Cigar Machinery, Oscar Nebel and A. O. Smith were conspicuously heavy.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, April 14—(AP)—World-wide shrinkage of wheat values resulted today from practical disruption of drought conditions that have been affecting wheat prospects from Texas to Canada, with indications pointing to a period of unsettled showery weather ahead. A big decrease of the United States wheat visible supply total, announced late today, failed to act as a counter-balance. Meanwhile, Europe showed no intent to change from an apparent general policy of buying on a hand-to-mouth basis only.

Closing quotations on wheat were shaky at about the day's bottommost level, 2 7-8 at 3 7-8c a bushel lower than Saturday's finish. Corn closed 5-8 at 1 1-4c down, oats 3-8 at 1-2c off, and provisions unchanged to 10c decline.

Provisions were easier, responsive to downturns of hog values and of grain.

40 MAKE APPLICATIONS FOR PLAYGROUNDS POSITIONS

The recreation commission has 40 applications on hand for positions as instructors in the coming season. These were received at the April meeting of the commission at which Chairman Wm. J. Fitzgerald presided and plans for the coming season were under consideration.

Superintendent Earle E. Brigham made his annual report for Norwich playgrounds which was in part as follows:

Eleven playgrounds were conducted under supervision during the summer vacation. They were situated as follows: (1.) Elizabeth street (school yard). 2. Falls (school yard). 3. Greeneville (Atlantic Carton Co. grounds). 4. Hobart Ave. (school yard). 5. Lake street (municipal playground). 6. East Side (Dowd field). 7. Laurel Hill (school yard). 8. Thamesville (school yard). 9. Jail Hill (Cassidy lot). 10. Academy campus. 11. Hollyhock Island.

The playground season was officially opened Monday, July 1st. The season lasted nine weeks, closing Friday, August 30th, all playgrounds operating daily except Saturdays and Sundays. The actual number of working days for the entire season was forty-four.

Review of Playground Season

Of the seven years during which the recreation commission has been in existence the year 1928-1929 from the standpoint of accomplishment is readily conceded to be the most outstanding. During this period the nearest approach yet observed to an all year round recreational program for both adults and children has come into being. Play facilities have been provided for all which have easily surpassed those of previous years in interest, value and variety.

The intention of the commission to provide recreation facilities for all was evidenced during the past winter when various streets in the city were used for sliding at a specified time under police protection. Ford's pond at East Great Plain as well as Rosemark's pond in Preston were secured for skating purposes. Thus even in winter hundreds of adults and children alike were enabled to enjoy safe and healthful recreation.

The summer playground season of 1929 was characterized by the most varied types of activities possible for the 1300 children registered upon the ten local play centers, as well as by the most successful baseball season the Norwich Industrial league has had since its organization. Beginning with the opening of the playgrounds on July 1 each play center was rife with activity. The instructors themselves were offered an incentive for added endeavor in the announcement by Chairman William J. Fitzgerald that a prize would be awarded the best man and woman instructor on the staff. Thus their enthusiasm was transmitted to their respective charges, which resulted in a continued and daily interest in every playground enterprise.

A regular play program for athletic games was followed upon each play center.

A child's desire for self expression found an outlet in the plays, minstrels and playlets produced by each playground. Many of the children manifested ability in dress making, costume designing, and the manufacture of props for their dramatic offerings. Thus in the many dramatic productions observed this summer, practically every child on each playground had some share in their success.

Latent ability in music, dancing and interpretation was brought to light in the production by the Elizabeth street center of a three act minstrel show. This performance held in the Elizabeth Street school auditorium aging ability other than athletic was considered by an audience of 500 to be remarkably finished for a juvenile cast. Other methods of encour- were had in the parades held by the Greeneville, East Side and Thamesville play centers. By participation in these events originality and initiative which otherwise might have lain dormant were revealed.

The carnivals presented by the Jail Hill, Falls, East Side, Greeneville and Thamesville centers were highly beneficial in the stimulation of a sense of responsibility among the children. Each realized through his participation that he was an important cog in the wheel and that upon the expenditure of his best efforts depended the financial success of the all-playground outing at Ocean Beach for which purpose these carnivals were produced.

Relief from the monotony of daily routine was available for the children in the arrangement by the play leaders of outings at Mohegan park and Gardner's lake. Trucks for transportation were secured from local merchants who have ever been responsive to the requests made by the playground authorities for assistance. Free play, a necessity for the smaller children especially, was indulged in upon these outings, with such activities as boating and swimming prevailing. Hundreds of children otherwise unable to enjoy such picnics were made happy through the foresight of the commissioners.

During the summer of 1929 three of the local theatres were hosts to all of the duly registered playground attendants at special showings of all talking pictures.

The climax of the season, and the most difficult undertaking in the history of the recreation commission came on August 27th, when 1300 children were taken to Ocean Beach upon an outing in trucks and cars provided by local merchants, firms, and private citizens. The immensity of this task is more readily apparent in the worry and anxiety of the average parent about the health and safety of a single child. Upon this occasion 1300 little ones were taken from their homes, transported a distance of 17 miles, given opportunities for bathing, provided with refreshments, and were returned home with but two minor accidents to mar the day's enjoyment. The expenses of this affair were defrayed by the proceeds of the children's entertainments, by a donation from the Industrial league, Elks, Rotary, and Lions club, by contribution from many citizens, by the commission itself and by the cooperation of several organizations with the playground authorities in regard to transportation. Despite the work entailed the joy and happiness manifested in so many youthful faces more than recompensed all who assisted in the supervision of the children.

This season the attendance at games played upon the Academy campus by the Industrial league teams has almost doubled that of last year. Every evening a crowd of about 1500 citizens has been present for enjoyment of baseball with no admission charged.

Contributions have been purely voluntary. About 75 young men have been afforded an opportunity to play ball at no expense to themselves, with the best of uniforms, and with the incentive of performing before a crowd. The success of this league, which has now been in operation for three summers, has been due in large measure to the commission, superintendent, and to the efficient control of the board of governors, who have been instrumental in keeping the six teams about equal in ability.

The final annual demonstration of the work of the year was held August 31 at the Academy campus, during which each play leader was awarded a fountain pen by the commission because of the difficulty in selecting any one above another for the reception of the single prize announced early in year. A gift to Chairman William J. Fitzgerald was made by the children of the city in appreciation of his efforts in their behalf for the last seven years. Various cups, pennants, and trophies were presented to the successful play centers, following which a double header in baseball was played by representatives of the Industrial league and Junior Twilight league.

At the close of the season the commissioner came to the aid of the Junior Twilight league and assisted in the raising of funds with which to send the winning team to New York. Through two exhibition games, sponsored by the commission, the junior bolstered its treasury to the extent of nearly $150. This amount, together with the net proceeds of the youngsters' regular season, enabled the Taftville American Legion team, winners of the circuit, to go on the promised trip to the Yankee stadium.

Attendance

The average daily registered attendance on the playgrounds for the summer season of 1929 was 1284. It is estimated that close to 200,000 children and grownups were given recreation in some form by the commission. This includes attendance at Industrial league games.

Acknowledgements

Valuable assistance was rendered the recreation commission by the hearty cooperation of the various city departments, private associations and individuals.

Thanks are due the school board for making possible the playground work by the loan of the school yards and buildings for temporary use.

The commission is deeply indebted to the press of Norwich, The Norwich Record and The Norwich Bulletin, for their support and space given to playground news and notes.

The commission is also indebted to Mr. Nejuene, manager of the Breed theatre, Mr. Fitz, manager of the Broadway and Mr. Unger, manager of the Palace theatre for the use of the theatres for free movies.

The Norwich chamber of commerce made every effort to promote and advance the aims of the department.

The Atlantic Carton company very kindly loaned its grounds at Greeneville for playground use.

The trustees of the Norwich Free Academy very kindly loaned the campus for our baseball games.

The American Legion very kindly donated an American flag for use at Lake Street playground.

The Elks, Lions and Rotary rendered valuable assistance in arranging the Ocean Beach picnic.

Thanks are due the board of governors of the Industrial league for their services in conducting the league. President Alfred Bliven, James Sheridan, Thomas Burdick, Earle E. Brigham, secretary and treasurer.

In conclusion an expression of thanks is extended to the citizens of Norwich and the public in general for their kind interest and loyal support throughout the season.

The members of the commission are: William J. Fitzgerald, chairman; James V. Pedace, secretary; Mrs. Bettie Pasnik, treasurer; Mrs. D. Louisa Atterbury, Mrs. Elizabeth Drew, Robert J. Swanton, Ebenezer Learned, Jr.

WINDHAM CENTER

An audience of 300 filled the Windham Center school auditorium Friday evening at the fourth annual minstrel of the Men's Community club of Windham Center and South Windham. Features were an original sketch by Jack Thompson, impersonations in costume with spotlight effect by Eden C. Cook, Master Clarence Wallen in harmonica solos, numbers by a male quartet, snappy gags and end songs. The end men were Everett E. Beckwith and John Howarth, while Donald P. MacDonald interlocutor. There was dancing after the minstrel to excellent music by Van's orchestra. It was announced that the minstrel-dance would be repeated in the school auditorium owing to demand from many who were unable to secure seats for Friday night's performance. The cast comprised Donald P. MacDonald, interlocutor; circle, Everett E. Beckwith, John Howarth, Royal Slate, John F. Thompson, Archie Kyle, Herbert Wing, Harry Doubleday and Ray Doubleday; assisting troupe, Carl Sundell, Eden C. Cook, Carl Josephson, Russell Howarth, Everett Card, Paul Hopkins, Edward Card, Whitney Sanstrom, Stephen White, Walter Abbe, Lloyd Jacobs, Lawrence Chamberlain, Edward Sundell, Rockwell Richmond, Myron Hadfield, A. V. Anderson was director of the production, Ray O'Brien was pianist and F. C. Johnstone played the drums. The program; opening chorus, entire company; "You Can't Park Here," John Howarth; "Dapper Dan," Everett E. Beckwith; "Stay in Your Own Back Yard," Archie Kyle; "Tip-Toe Through the Tulips," Ray Doubleday; "Do Something," Harry Doubleday; "By an Open Fireplace," Howarth-Beckwith; grand finale. The instrumental numbers included "Harmonica Jamboree," Archie Kyle; "The Music Masters," comedy skit, Beckwith, Thompson, Howarth and Kyle; "Musical Gems," Master Clarence Wallen; "Accordion Capers," John Howarth; trumpet duet, Card Brothers. Other numbers were the Old Kentucky Quartet, Cook, Beckwith, H. Doubleday and Howarth; epigrams, "The Pen is Mightier than the Sword," Jack Thompson; "Midnight," a dream fantasy, "Pagan Love Song" and "Tain't No Sin," Eden C. Cook. Refreshments were served during intermission.

The committee in charge included A. Vantine Anderson, general chairman; Guy Richmond, Ray Doubleday, Harry Doubleday, John Howarth, Edward Card, Carl Sundell, William Spokesfield, D. P. MacDonald, Carl Josephson, Harry W. Avery and Harold Leffingwell.

WOODSTOCK

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Gallup of Ekonk were callers on relatives in town Thursday.

The second annual athletic banquet of Woodstock academy took place in the Hall Memorial Gymnasium, Friday, April 11th. The banquet is given in honor of the academy teams, the Community league and the grammar schools. Principal Ellis acted as toastmaster. Other speakers were Coach Alexander from Conn. Agricultural college, Coach Bigler from Worcester Tech, Dan Chubbuck, captain of the C. A. C. basketball team, representatives of athletic activities at Brown university and L. Edwin Hill of the Y. M. C. A. Trophies were awarded in the grammar school league to the Roses from South Woodstock and the North Pomfret school. The tables in the gymnasium were filled with people who enjoyed the banquet furnished by the Eastern Star.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Oat and Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Briggs of Norwich were guests Sunday the 6th of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Gallup.

Mr. and Mrs. George M. Sampson have returned from a two months' trip through the south.

Woodstock academy opened Monday for the spring term.

Miss Helen Woodbury, of Boston, has been visiting her parents.

COLUMBIA

Friday evening at the Town hall a dream came true for some of the Columbia boys who have wished for some time that a Boy Scout troop might be formed here. Last November the pastor of the Columbia church at the request of several interested boys, started work along this line. Twelve boys were secured who set to work to earn their tenderfoot badges which they must do before the troop can be given a charter and the boys obtain their uniforms. Two of the boys transferred from other troops, the other ten being new scouts and all ten completed the necessary work some time ago. Friday evening the troop received their charter from Scout Executive John Sellman of Norwich and the boys received their tenderfoot badges. The candle lighting service was most impressive and one which the boys will long remember, as will also the audience of parents and friends who witnessed the ceremony. A tall candle was lighted, representing the Boy Scouts of America. Twelve smaller ones were lighted, one for each scout law, each boy lighting one from the larger candle and repeating a scout law.

Another interesting feature of the evening was a talk given by Eagle Scout Nicholas Tarrant, of Norwich. This young lad who has received the highest honors that a scout can attain, spoke of the many different tests that a scout must pass before receiving the eagle badge. It is safe to say that 12 boyish hearts looked upon Scout Tarrant as a hero.

Mr. Howell is soon to leave Columbia, and has passed the work over to Luther Buell, who received his badge as scout master of Troop 1, Columbia. Mr. Buell spoke of his interest in boys, and the inspiration he had received from the Investiture service, and that with the boy's help, Troop 1 would carry on. Music was provided by a orchestra consisting of John Toloken, violin; Carlisle Johnson; flute; A. E. Lyman, cornet; and Mrs. Fred Abell, piano. The program follows: Assembly, song, "America the Beautiful." The scouts present: 1, some knots, Clayton Hunt, Spencer Macht; 2, some bandaging, Douglas Young, Gustave Emerich; 3, the flag, George LaBonte; 4, the badge, Westcott Rice; song, "My Country Tis of Thee"; candle lighting service; presentation of troop charter, Scout Executive John Sellman; "What a scout may be," Eagle Scout Nicholas Tarrant; the orchestra; "A dad looks at his scout," Eagle Scout Tarrant's father; presentation of badges, Scout Executive John Sellman, Scoutmaster Luther J. Buell; "And now," John F. W. Howell; song, "Star Spangled Banner"; taps. The members of Troop 1, Columbia, are as follows: Luther J. Buell, scoutmaster; Donald Woodward and Frederick Hunt, assistant scoutmasters; Jasper Woodward and Douglas Young, patrol leaders; Raymond Cobb, Westcott Rice, David Hunt, George LaBonte, scribe; Joe Szegda, Carleton Hutchins; Clayton Hunt, Jr., Frederick Macht, Gustave Emerich, treasurer; Spencer Macht.

Announcement was made that in response to letters sent out asking for funds to help the troop get their necessary equipment, that $40 had been received by the scout committee.

ONCE WEALTHY MAN WAS FOUND DEAD IN A SHACK

BROCTON, Mass., April 14—(AP)—Once a wealthy wholesale candy dealer, Arthur E. Bowker, 68, was found dead in a one-room shack he had called his home in recent years here tonight. Bowker lived as a recluse, eking out a bare living peddling candy in baskets among shoe factories here, after having lost his money in real estate speculations. Bowker had no known relatives and probably did not leave enough money to pay for his funeral.

MERIDEN POLICE CHIEF RETIRED ON PENSION

MERIDEN, April 14—(AP)—William D. Thayer, chief of the Meriden police department, was retired on a pension tonight, after 37 years' service. He is succeeded by James H. Burke, who was promoted from captain of the detective bureau. Lieut Michael E. Carroll of the detective bureau was appointed to succeed Captain Burke and was also given the rank of deputy chief.

Don't think that a dog is a dentist because he occasionally inserts teeth.

ACTOR DAVID WARFIELD IN SATISFACTORY CONDITION

NEW YORK, April 14—(AP)—David Warfield, veteran actor who recently underwent what was described as a "rather serious" operation at Post Graduate hospital, tonight was reported in a satisfactory condition.

Mr. Warfield, whose portrayal of "The Music Master" and other roles endeared him to the theatre public some years ago, has been at the hospital three weeks. The nature of his illness was not disclosed.

Previously it had been reported that the actor, who is 63, was critically ill.

NO. GROSVENORDALE

At the meeting of Quinebaug grange tonight (Tuesday) a play is to be given by the members, "Mrs. Flynn's Lodgers." The entertainment program is in Mrs. Alexander Maitland's charge.

Miss Evelyn Johnson has resumed her studies at Brown university, after a week's vacation with her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson.

Misses Anita Dubois, Margaret Higgins, Margaret Toohey and Mrs. Elizabeth Parent, teachers at the high school, spent the week end in Worcester.

The Grosvenordale Company baseball team held the first practice of the season Saturday on the local baseball field. About 30 candidates reported for the first call. Manager Leo Bernard is well satisfied with the first try-out of his men. There will be another practice Saturday. Manager Bernard is after a championship team and would like to have all the material available to work with. He is especially interested in the graduates who played on the Tourtellotte nine last year. He wants to give every local boy a chance to play on the team which he built up and has kept running at a profit for the past two years. This year, the team is backed by Agent John F. Reardon.

Louis Pelletier, who is employed in Worcester, spent the week end with his father, Louis Pelletier.

Louis Anger motored to New York the past week, on business.

Misses Gladys and Bernice [illegible] spent the week end with Miss Elizabeth Thompson in Putnam.

Mr. and Mrs. Armand Lachance and son Henry, drove to Providence, Saturday.

Miss Grace Hussey spent the week end in Boston.

Tests made recently show that the average farm housewife walks from three to nine miles a day while at her work.

POETRY

Empty Hands Outstretched

We raise them, Lord, to Thee in earnest prayer,
These hands so empty of a sacrifice,
And Thou dost fill them once again in love—
So patient art Thou. Help us, Lord, to see
The value of the living gift from Thee,
That gift that feeds the soul with bread and wine—
Of life eternal in Thine hands stretched out
So freely to all men. Help us to take
What Thou wouldst give—gratefully to use it
With understanding heart—and thus to grow
In grace worthy a kinship unto Thee.

And so, dear Lord, we come to Thee,
In faith that Thou wilt fill
Our empty hands outstretched—O God,
Be patient with us still!

—By Gertrude B. Walker.

Be Charitable

Chide mildly the erring!
Kind language endears;
Grief follows the sinful—
Add not to their tears.

Avoid with reproaches
Fresh pain to bestow—
The heart that is stricken
Needs never a blow.

Chide mildly the erring!
Jeer not at their fall:
If strength were but human,
How weakly were all!

What marvel that footsteps
Should wander astray,
When tempests so shadow
Life's wearisome way!

Chide mildly the erring!
Entreat them with care;
Their natures are mortal—
They need not despair.

We all have some frailty—
We all are unwise—
And the grace that redeems us,
Must come from the skies.

—Webb's Normal Reader (1856).

"Rather! He can make the cash register at the bar sound like an alarm clock." —Smiths Weekly, Sydney.

Magistrate — The evidence shows that you threw a brick at this constable.
Burly One—It shows more than that—it shows that I hit him.
—Boston Transcript.

Policeman—Why are you racing through the town at this rate?
Motorcyclist—My brake is out of order and I wanted to get home before there is an accident. —Buen Humor.

Fifty-two others were reported as injured, either by ambulance surgeons who attended them at the scene of the accident, or by physicians to whom they went for treatment later in the day. New York Times.

A schoolboy—the son of a tanner—was smoking a big, strong "Havana" when he suddenly cried:
"Revolution—inside!"
And behaved in a very strange manner. —Exchange.

PALM SUNDAY SERVICES AT ST. MARY'S CHURCH

Sunday, Palm Sunday, found the usual large congregations at the three masses at St. Mary's Memorial church. The 7:30 mass was offered by the pastor, Rev. George J. Donahue. At this mass the members of the Young Ladies sodality and the other women of the parish received their monthly communion. The 9 o'clock mass was celebrated by Rev. Omer T. Mandler, of the Sacred Heart church, Taftville, and the high mass at 10:30 was offered by Rev. Father Donahue. Prior to the opening of the last mass he blessed the palms at the epistle side of the altar.

The palms were distributed to the congregation during the services. The recessional as each congregation left the edifice for the day was "The Palms" played by Mrs. Michael J. Farrell, the church organist.

During the three masses Rev. Father Donahue read a letter from Right Rev. John J. Nilan, bishop of Hartford, concerning an appeal for charity, which will be taken up at this church on Easter Sunday.

Miss Jane Suplicki has resumed her studies at the Willimantic Normal school after spending the week end recess with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Suplicki, on Golden street.

Young Defenders Win

The Young Defenders baseball team defeated the Outlaws of Greeneville Saturday on the Shetucket campus by the score of 15 to 14. The features of the game were the heavy hitting of James Ryan and the fast fielding of William Taft, and Allyn Bernard. The lineup for the Defenders follows: Walter Rosanski, cf; Donald Wallace, rf; Kenneth Adams, p and 2b; Allyn Bernard, 1b; Stanley Petroskda, c; James Ryan, 2b and p; William Taft, lf; Henry Slovack, ss; John Keall, 3b; James Gautheir, cf.

Andes Peterson has returned to his home at Providence after spending the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Peterson on Boswell avenue.

TAFTVILLE

Mrs. Wilbur Dodge of Block Island has been the guest of her father, William Pollard of South Second avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. William Leo Bagley of Providence were week end guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Marsan of Hunters avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Scraba of Putnam were Sunday visitors in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Earle M. Wood of North Third avenue were week end visitors in New Haven.

Wilfred Linderson of Bridgeport spent the week end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Linderson of North Third avenue.

It has been announced that there is to be a meeting for local residents to be held April 22nd at 7:30 at Ponemah hall, at which the members of the town school committee and Superintendent Edward J. Graham, are to speak on the junior high school.

John Kendall has returned to his home in Hartford after spending several days in town with his father, Henry J. Kendall of Lisbon.

Henry Banker of Occum road, has received word from his wife and Mrs. Thumm of Norwich who are taking a voyage to California through the Panama canal, of their arrival in Havana, Cuba, after a stormy trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Caron of Willimantic were week end visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore J. Belval of Riverside grove.

FALSE FIRE ALARM FROM HAMILTON AVENUE BOX

A practical jokester who will find himself surrounded by plenty of trouble if he is caught, pulled in a false alarm from box 621, Hamilton avenue, at 7.43 o'clock Monday night. Engine No. 2, North Main street, apparatus from the central station, and Acting Chief D. J. Brennan responded to the alarm. Learning that there was no fire, Acting Chief Brennan sent in the recall immediately and the apparatus rolled back to their stations.

Two hours later, 9.50 o'clock, someone who saw a rubbish fire burning in the rear of No. 59 Cedar street, pulled in box 32, on Cedar street, near the county jail, calling out several pieces of apparatus. The blazing rubbish was quickly extinguished by the firemen. The rubbish pile, it was learned, had been smouldering since Saturday, and broke out in a good sized blaze Monday evening.

At 6.30 o'clock Monday evening Engine No. 2, Squad A, and Acting Chief Brennan responded to a telephone call for a rubbish fire in the rear of No. 38 Prospect street. The fire was on land owned by James Purdon which had spread to land owned by Mrs. A. B. Maine and set fire to a fence.

COLLEGE PHYSICAL EDUCATION CLASSES OUT OF DOORS

With the approach of warmer weather, after the annual spring vacation at Connecticut college, at New London, the classes in physical education are again being conduted out of doors on the college athletic fields. The programme of activities for the spring season this year includes baseball, track and field athletics, informal games, archery and horseback riding.

The classes in baseball are working for the interclass games which are scheduled for the first part of next month, and the track classes are preparing for the annual college competitive field day which is to take place May 24, and which includes both class and individual competition. The squads in archery and informal games play off their inter-class competition a few days prior to the field day, and the exhibition in horseback riding will be held the latter part of May.

The squads and teams in the spring sports will be chosen in the same way that the squads and teams were chosen for fall and winter sports, and from the results of interclass competition class championships will be awarded in each of the various sports.

In addition to the regularly scheduled spring activities in physical education, the athletic association has organized an informal hockey club for the purpose of giving a good time to all those among the students and members of the faculty who are interested in hockey. There are informal games in hockey scheduled twice a week, on Wednesday and Friday afternoons, at 5 o'clock. The Connecticut College Hockey club has obtained a very enthusiastic response, and already has 38 members.

NORWICH TOWN

Noting the 13th birthday of their daughter Miss Virginia Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Ward entertained on a recent evening at supper a party of young women, at their home on Huntington avenue. Those present included, Bertha Backus, Grace-Marie Cookson, Barbara Fellows, Natalie Bailey, Peggy Ross, Phillis Hinricks, Muriel Rose, Rita Dalton, Florence Gembel and Blossom Ward. The delicious menu comprised meat-loaf, mashed potato, carrots, creamed string beans, banana salad, buns, jello with banana and whipped cream, cake and fruit punch. The color scheme in the dining room was yellow and white. The place cards were dainty yellow cups filled with nuts and Easter eggs. In the center of the table a large daffodil basket held the yellow and white birthday cake, its white frosting inscribed in yellow. Mrs. Ward was assisted in serving by her mother, Mrs. Albert G. Miner, also by her sister-in-law, Mrs. LeRoy Miner. The evening was devoted to music, dancing and games. In the guessing contest the prize went to Bertha Backus, while Grace-Marie Cookson was given the consolation ward. Miss Virginia received many pretty gifts from her friends. The date of her birthday was Wednesday, April 9th.

Home Chapter Meeting

Hymn, Scripture and prayer, with the 17th chapter of Exodus for the study period, comprised the devotional period in charge of the leader, Mrs. William E. Manning, at the April meeting of Home chapter of the King's Daughters, Monday afternoon at Johnson Home. There was a good representation of members, although some of the officers were unable to be present due to illness. The vice-leader was secretary pro-tem, and Mrs. Thomas Keen, was treasurer pro-tem. One new member was admitted, Mrs. Claude Wilson entertained by singing The Palms, Mrs. Walter Cowan, playing the piano accompaniment. Mrs. Cowan also was pianist for the afternoon. The call was read for New London and Windham counties, King's Daughters and Sons' conference, to be held in New London at St. James' Episcopal church, Wednesday, May 14th, at which time the county president, Mrs. Manning is to submit her report. Others who will attend the conference as delegates from Home Chapte rare: First delegate, Mrs. James F. Connolly, and Miss Elena Lester, Mrs. Herbert Branche, Mrs. Edward Briggs, Mrs. G. Andrew Gardner, Mrs. William H. Whiteman, Mrs. Homer Gager, Mrs. Robert Hull, Mrs. William Pogue, and Mrs. Neville Blicq. After the collection, Home chapter motto and benediction, there was a social hour when Mrs. David M. Dean, chairman, and other members of the entertainment committee served sandwiches and coffee.

Home Chapter Sewing society is to hold its next meeting at the Johnson Home, Wednesday, April 23rd.

The Samuel Huntington school ball-team defeated St. Patrick's ball team Friday afternoon on the Norwich Town Green, 11 to 2. Gallagher and Hominsky allowed but two hits. Gallagher, third base; Mara, second base; Geer, rightfield; Kivlin, centerfield.

Lecture on Abraham Lincoln

Sunday evening in the Methodist Episcopal church, the pastor, Rev. George Warren Potter gave a stereopticon lecture on Abraham Lincoln. There was an attendance of 90. The lecture and slides were presented Rev. M. Potter by the Wolf Cub Pack of Scouts at Christmas as he is their cubmaster. It was used for the first time Sunday night. The members of the Wolf Cub Pack and their parents were special guests at the service. At the opening of the service the Cubs stood and repeated their Promise and Laws. The stereopticon machine was operated by Ralph Smith who showed 30 slides during the lecture. The junior vested choir sang an anthem under direction of their director, Mrs. Lewis E. Aldrich. Following the evening worship the president of the C. E. society, Lewis E. Aldrich called a special meeting and a number of items of business were disposed of.

Mrs. George Pascall of Portland and Richard B. Pascall of Manlius school, New York, were recent callers at the Methodist parsonage. During Rev. Mr. Potter's Scout work in Portland, Richard Pascall was a member of his troop.

ELECTRIC RATE REDUCTION BENEFITS ALL RESIDENTIAL AND POWER USERS

The reduction in electric rates announced by the Norwich gas and electric department to go into effect May 1 will be to the advantage of residential and power consumers, according to the estimates of the department heads.

Every user of electricity in the residential class will be affected by the new rates, which make a reduction from $1 to 90 cents in the basic room charge of three rooms, while for power users, the new scale shows generally a more advantageous rate than either New London or Hartford offers.

It is estimated that residential users of electric power will pay about $12,000 less than before, that small power users will pay about $3,000 less and large power users about $8,000 less, while the five per cent discount to all consumers for payment on all electric bills within 15 days of date of bill will amount to about $12,000.

For what would have been a monthly bill of $19.06 on a six-room house on full domestic use of service the charge under the new rates would be $13.70. This applies to a six-room house with electric refrigerator, electric range and hot water heater.

A sample bill for such a house would be reached as follows:

K. W. H. use service	50 Kwh
Refrigerator	45 Kwh
7 K. W. range	150 Kwh
Hot water heater	300 Kwh
Full use	545 Kwh

J. Howard Barnes, Waterford, operating while under the influence, application rejected until one year suspension is up.

Elwyn Spicer Tryon of Noank, improper markers, license to be returned.

FINES JUNK DEALER FOR RECEIVING STOLEN GOODS

Found guilty of receiving stolen goods from boys, Louis Shapiro, local junk dealer, was fined $10 and costs in the city court Monday morning. Shapiro was arrested Sunday by Sergt. John McGrath of the New Haven railroad police and Sergt. Myron O. Morgan of the local police.

In chambers Monday morning several boys testified that Shapiro purchased from them metal which they stole from the New Haven railroad yard on Laurel Hill. The stolen metal was brass journals used as bearings on freight cars and valued at $16 apiece. The boys were paid from 40 to 75 cents for each piece.

Sergt. McGrath found the boys at their homes and they admitted selling the metal to Shapiro. The boys in testifying at the hearing said that Shapiro had approached them Sunday and offered them $10 each if they would tell the court that they found the journals on the dump. Ten journals, stolen between April 4 and April 11th by five boys, 12 to 15 years of age, were recovered by Sergt. McGrath.

During the trial the court was informed that Shapiro's junk peddling license had expired March 9th and that he had not renewed it. The latter count was not pressed.

N. L. COUNTY MUTUAL FIRE IN MILLIONAIRE CLASS

The quarterly meeting of the board of directors of the New London County Mutual Fire Insurance company was held Monday at the home-office of the company at Nos. 59-61 Broadway and was attended by President E. A. Tracy, Secretary W. F. Lester, and the following directors: Arthur M. Brown, S. Alpheus Gilbert, Roy D. Judd and Shepard B. Palmer, all of this city; Henry L. Bailey, Groton; James K. Guy, Middletown; Charles R. Marvin, Deep River; Frank A. Stevens, Meriden, and Otto E. Wulf, Norwalk. Charles F. Chandler of Stafford Springs is also a director of the company, but was absent, being in Europe at the present time.

Only routine business was transacted at this meeting, the principal feature being a discussion of the annual report of the condition of the company for the year 1929 recently rendered to and accepted by the Connecticut insurance department. The 1929 annual statement of the company shows for the first time assets in excess of $1,000,000, the exact figures being $1,036,505.01. The present surplus is just over three-quarters of a million, being $756,297.97, these figures, alone, showing by far the best condition ever reached by the company.

Organized in 1840, the company is now in its 90th year and is being congratulated by its contemporary companies in having at this time entered the millionaire class. Notable among those companies which have expressed their felicitation is the so-called Philadelphia Contributionship, itself 178 years old, having been organized in Philadelphia in 1752, Benjamin Franklin being one of the first directors. The officers of the Philadelphia Contributionship and those of the New London County Mutual have for many years enjoyed close personal contact and friendship.

The growth of the New London County Mutual Fire Insurance company was slow in its earlier years, and very moderate up to within twenty-five years. In the past twenty-five years it has grown rapidly, having increased about four times in assets; nearly five times in surplus; three times in amount of risks in force; and more than four times in net annual premium. In 1905 the premium income of the company was $56,480.38 as against $262,443.40 in 1929, amount at risk at the end of 1905 was $16,936,556 as against $49,239,490 in 1929. The assets at that time were $235,007.03 as against $1,036,505.01 at present; and surplus $162,451.28 as against $756,297.97 now.

The company has grown continually and unostentatiously and with its 75 agencies in the state and upwards of 45,000 policy holders probably carries the name of Norwich into every city, town and hamlet in the state of Connecticut more completely than any other local institution. As yet its territory is limited to the state of Connecticut only.

The directors and officers feel that they may be justly proud of the record of the company and the success of their efforts in safeguarding and nurturing a local institution which, from small beginnings, has developed into being one of the most powerful mercantile organizations of eastern Connecticut.

Grass Fire On River Avenue

Acting Chief D. J. Brennan and Squad A, responded to a telephone call Monday afternoon at 12:53 o'clock, to extinguish a grass fire on property on River avenue, owned by John A. Ferguson, the N. DIED ON ANNIVERSARY OF HUSBAND'S FUNERAL

Mrs. Agnes M. Kettles Southard, 82, widow of Justin A. Southard, who died Monday morning at Lawrence-Memorial hospital where she had been a patient for the last three weeks as the result of a fractured hip received in a fall, expired just five years from the day Mr. Southard was laid to his final rest. He died April 10, 1925.

Mrs. Southard, with her husband, formerly lived at 196 Montauk avenue but for the last three years had made her home with Mrs. Gertrude Pringle in Granite street. Her husband was at one time secretary and treasurer of the New London Northern railroad and was treasurer of the New London Gas and Electric company. He was for many years treasurer of the Second Congregational church of which church Mrs. Southard was also a member. She is survived by a niece, Miss Ida J. Lyon, of New London.

SEARCH THROUGH STATE FOR MISSING NURSE

Police departments throughout the state have been notified from Hartford to keep a lookout for Miss Ruth McNaught, graduate nurse, of No. 59 Wethersfield avenue, Hartford, who left there April 7 and has not been seen since. She had been suffering from a nervous breakdown.

Miss McNaught is a sister-in-law of Harold W. Carpenter of 16 Oak street, this city, through whom the Hartford police received notice that the nurse was missing.

She is 5 feet 3 inches tall, weighs 105 pounds, is of dark complexion and has dark long hair. When last seen she wore a brown mixed coat with belt and a raccoon fur collar, a brown tweed dress, light hose, black pumps and a black felt hat.

TWO CHARGES AGAINST THIS AUTOMOBILE DRIVER

Upon the request of the accused for more time in which to secure counsel, the case of John Szerlong, 41, of No. 106 Prospect street, charged with driving under the influence of liquor and evading responsibility, was continued in the city court Monday morning to Saturday, April 19. He was released under bonds of $1,000. Szerlong was arrested late Sunday evening by Constable Louis Paquette of Taftville, following an accident on Providence street, Taftville, in which the accused's car was in collision with that of Albert Fortier of 21 Pratt street, Baltic.

It is alleged that Fortier asked Szerlong for his registration number, but instead of granting the request, the Prospect street man said that it was none of the other's business, jumped into his machine and drove away. The Baltic man, however, secured the number of the car and notified Constable Paquette, who got in touch with the motor vehicle department at Hartford. He found that the owner of the machine was Szerlong and went to his house, placing him under arrest.

Fred Babbitt of Versailles, a passenger in the Fortier machine, sustained a cut on the nose as a result of the crash and was taken to the W. W. Backus hospital for treatment, later being discharged. Both cars were damaged.

SELECTMAN MURRAY SPOKE ON TOWN GOVERNMENT

Town government was the subject of a most interesting talk given Monday night by First Selectman William S. Murray before the United American-Italian Citizen club, at a meeting of the organization, held at the new home of the United Italian society at Washington street. The selectman gave a detailed description of the affairs of the town from the time that it was purchased from the Indians in 1659 to the present date.

While dealing with the present form of government he touched on the many details covered by his office. He spoke of the many items that come under the head of town aid, stating in each case the amount appropriated and expended. He also made mention of the manner in which the tax rate is laid, explaining that the total amount collected from taxes was not expended by his office, a good portion being expended for the upkeep of grammar schools. Numerous other details were covered and at the conclusion of his talk Mr. Murray answered a number of questions that were put to him by members of the audience. In conclusion, the selectman was given a rising vote of thanks, the members of the club being of unanimous opinion that they had gained considerable knowledge through his address.

The talk was the first of a series to be given before the Citizen club by the heads of the various city and town departments. It is proposed to have a public official speak at each of the regular meetings of the club on matters concerning their respective departments. The meeting was largely attended.

CANNON INVITED TO APPEAR BEFORE LOBBY COMMITTEE

To Reply to Charges Made By Representative Tinker That the Bishop Had Engaged In "Offensive and Coercive Lobbying Activities"—Tinker Would Have Bishop Cannon Account For $48,300 of $65,300 Contributed By E. C. Jameson—Today the Committee Will Question Henry H. Curran, President of the Association Against the 18th Amendment.

WASHINGTON, April 15—(AP)—An opportunity was extended today to Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Southern Methodist church, to appear before the senate lobby committee in reply to charges by Representative Tinkham, republican, Massachusetts, that he had engaged in "offensive and coercive lobbying activities."

Replying to a letter from Cannon offering to appear to present any testimony desired concerning the activities of the Southern Methodist board of temperance and social service, Chairman Caraway wrote the bishop that he would be heard at any time that was convenient.

Cannon, who is chairman of the Southern Methodist board, said in his letter to Caraway that it would be convenient for him to appear between April 28 and May 2. Caraway replied that the committee, "will accommodate itself to your convenience."

Tinkham, a militant wet, today demanded that the committee summon Bishop Cannon and the records of the Southern Methodist board for an inquiry into their activities. He also charged the Anti-Saloon league with "flagrantly and audaciously" violating the federal corrupt practices act by failure to report all of its expenditures for political activities.

Previously, he had urged an investigation of the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Northern Methodist church and the Federal Council of Churches. His testimony was completed today and Chairman Caraway announced that all the organizations against which charges had been made would be given an opportunity to reply.

The committee tomorrow will question Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, concerning its activities and the amount of money expended.

Tinkham told the committee that $65,300 of a $172,000 contribution made by E. C. Jameson, a New York capitalist, to the Hoover 1928 campaign fund had been paid to Cannon, who was chairman of the Anti-Smith committee of Virginia, and that a report had been made of only $17,000 of the amount.

In a statement which was not permitted to be placed in the record, Tinkham said that what "is now of pertinent interest, and of which so far as I know no record exists and no disclosure has ever been made, is what Bishop Cannon did with the balance of $48,300 of the amount he obtained from Mr. Jameson."

Permission to place it in the record was refused by Caraway on the ground that the committee was limited to an inquiry into lobbying activities and was not empowered to investigate political contributions.

Tinkham said in his statement Cannon had explained that he had acted as banker for the committee and had advanced it his personal funds when needed and had been repaid when money was available.

DID NOT PAY CAMPAIGN EXPENSES OF VOLSTEAD

WASHINGTON, April 15—(AP)—F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, asserted in a statement tonight that a charge that his organization had paid the campaign expenses of Andrew J. Volstead was "false."

Volstead, as a representative from Minnesota sponsored the prohibition enforcement legislation.

"In the first place," McBride declared, "the Anti-Saloon league did not at any time pay Mr. Volstead's campaign expenses. In the second place, the campaign in which Congressman Tinkham charges the expenditures were made was in November, 1920, at least a year after the Volstead act was passed.

"The report upon which he based his charge involved approximately $555 for Anti-Saloon league expense incurred in eight congressional districts. In no case was the expense of any candidate paid. The money was used for services and expenses of regular league workers and included the cost of literature, postage, telephone and telegraph.

"The Anti-Saloon league does not pay the campaign expenses of candidates for public office. Money raised to influence the election of members of congress is expended for the purpose of informing the voters of the record of candidates and their position upon the prohibition question. This portion of the league's receipts and expenditures is kept distinct, as required by the federal election laws, and is reported to the clerk of the house of representatives, as required by law.

TROUBLE AT LINCOLN MEMORIAL UNIVERSITY

HARROGATE, Tenn., April 15—(AP)—Arguments on motions to dissolve temporary injunctions against nine students of Lincoln Memorial university and three professors and their wives will be heard before Chancellor J. H. Wallace at Tazewell tomorrow.

The students have been enjoined from going on the university campus, "or agitating a strike." The professors and their wives have been restrained from "aiding or inciting a strike."

In an effort to bring the student strike to an end, acting President J. H. S. Morison today expelled eight students and discharged Professor Alfred R. W. DeJonge, head of the department of languages. Profesor DeJonge was one of the faculty members dismissed by former President Roop effective May 31.

RIOTING AND ARRESTS IN DISOBEDIENCE CAMPAIGN

CALCUTTA, April 15.—(AP)—Rioting and arrests marked today's progress in the civil disobedience campaign although the leader, Mahatma Gandhi, tonight was still free.

Observance of a hartal (day of mourning) in protest against the arrest and conviction of Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru and Mayor J. M. Sen Gupta of Calcutta, both leaders in the Gandhi movement, caused serious riots in Calcutta while minor outbreaks north of the city resulted in many persons being sent to hospitals and in much destruction.

AIR PILOTS GIVE UP HOPE FOR THE SAFETY OF WHITE

NEW YORK, April 16—(AP)—The search for Ralph White, aviator who disappeared in a fog Sunday during a solo flight over Long Island, centered in the Atlantic ocean off Rockaway Point today, but the bit of wreckage found tossing about on the water was not that of the student flyer's black and orange ship.

The wreckage was sighted by steamships off the point near Fort Tilden, N. Y. Aviators who went to investigate reported that it was not White's plane.

Fellow pilots have given up hope for White's safety.

CONDITION OF MISSIONARIES IN CHINA REMAIN UNCERTAIN

SHANGHAI, April 15—(AP)—The condition of foreign misisonaries remained uncertain today in bandit infested provinces of South China where telegraphic communication was disrupted. Stirred by foreigners protests the Nationalist government dispatched airplanes from Canton to drop bombs upon communists and bandits ravaging cities and the countryside along the border of Kwangtung and Kiangsi provinces.

SLUMP IN COPPER PRICES BOTH HERE AND ABROAD

LONDON, April 15—(AP)—Copper prices today slumped their lowest since 1928, spot copper closed at £62 (about $302) a ton after yesterday's closing of £67 3-8.

The sharp drop is generally attributed to the fall in copper prices in the United States.

RESENTMENT AROUSED BY LENTEN SERMON

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(AP)— A Lenten sermon against war reacted today to bring against the pastor who delivered it the charge that he had insulted his country, the churches of America and the chaplains of the army and navy.

Speaking from the pulpit of a war chaplain with the chief of chaplains of the United States army seated in a pew just below him, the Rev. Peter Ainslie, pastor of the Christian Temple of Baltimore, delivered the sermon here yesterday. He was quoted as saying that "there is no more justification for being a chaplain in the army or navy than there is for being a chaplain in a speakeasy."

The Rev. Jason Noble Pierce, pastor of the First Congregational church, in which the sermon was delivered, made public a letter today that he had written to the Baltimore pastor. In it he called attention to his own service in the World war as chaplain, and to the attendance at the meeting of Col. Julian E. Yates, chief of army chaplains, and many members of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Dr. Pierce, who was President Coolidge's pastor, styled the utterances as "insulting your country, insulting the churches of the United States, and insulting en masse the chaplains of the army and navy."

In Baltimore, Dr. Ainslie said he had not received the letter and probably would not care to make any statement.

COMPROMISE REACHED IN JOHN J. EMERY ESTATE

PHILADELPHIA, April 14—(AP)—Litigation between the guardian of the grandchildren of John J. Emery, multimillionaire of Bar Harbor, Maine, who died in 1908, and their parents ended today in a compromise and withdrawal of exceptions to a decisions of the orphans court.

The parents agreed to accept $300,000 from a total fund of $927,885 which was in litigation. The money represented a refund made by the government for taxes paid by the Emery Trust estate.

Completes Final Link For State In Murder Charge Against Henry O. Lorenz.

HARTFORD, April 15—(AP)—The cheap .32 automatic revolver which Henry O. Lorenz used to kill Nils E. Anderson in Wethersfield March [illegible] was recovered from the Willima[illegible] river this afternoon by Henry [illegible] honey, of the state's attorney'[illegible] and Frank Luckingham, E[illegible] ford riverman, who had dra[illegible] in the freshet with magne[illegible] plings irons since last W[illegible].

Lorenz, in his confess[illegible] old the authorities he had thrown [illegible] gun into the river afte rthe murder With its recovery the state has completed the final link in its case. The youth was preparing to flee the country when he disposed of this important bit of evidence and thought that it was beyond recovery forever when he saw it sink in the high water.

The gun is of cheap Spanish make and was bought at a local store Its action was not harmed by its long immersion.

Judge Earnest C. Simpson and Judge Carl Foster have been designated by Chief Justice George W. Wheeler to sit with Judge Newell Jennings in the trial of Lorenz, which will start Wednesday, April 23.

IMPROVEMENT REPORTED IN MAJOR INDUSTRIES

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(AP)—Although no marked improvement in industrial activity during March was reported to the department of labor, its employment bulletin issued today said operations increased in several of the major industries and additional workers were engaged, "with all signs pointing to further improvement in the next 30 days.

The iron and steel industry has not reached normal operations yet, the department said, and unemployment continued among these workers, but it added that new orders toward the latter part of the month indicated increased activity in the next few weeks.

Curtailed schedules were reported in the boot and shoe industry and the cotton-textile industry remained unchanged, with a large volume of its laborers on part time and many unemployed.

The department said a gradual increase in automobile industry employment took place during the month.

All outdoor activ ty also was reported to have increased in volume, particularly toward the latter part of the month. The department said within the next thirty days road construction also would aord employment to many workers.

PROGRESS BY CONFEREES ON TARIFF REVISION

WASHINGTON, April 15. — (AP) — Straw hats, the higher priced fur hats, novelty jewelry, lace and embroidered handkerchiefs, matches and cork products were assigned higher duties today by the congressional conferees on the tariff bill in grappling with the fifteenth and last rate section of the Hawley-Smoot measure.

Reduced tariffs were agreed upon for the cheaper fur hats, and unset diamond, pearls, and other precious and semi-precious stones.

The senate increases in duties on narrow laces, proved a stumbling block for the adjusters of differences between the two legislative branches and a decision was deferred. Demonstrations against the senate rates, approved on motion of Senator Hebert, republican, Rhode Island, have been held in various lace centers of France.

The highly controversial hide, leather, and shoe duties will face the conferees tomorrow with prospects that the issue will be decided one way or the other without either group going back to the senate or house for instructions.

QUIGLEY ASSUMES OFFICE AS MAYOR OF NEW BRITAIN

NEW BRITAIN, April 15.— (AP) — Mayor George A. Quigley, who assumed the authority of that office this noon in a hospital room where he is ill with pneumonia, tonight was reported to be in a serious condition.

His two physicians were in constant attendance, and a specialist from Hartford was summoned. His temperature was 105, according to a hospital bulletin.

Mayor Quigley yesterday was said to be well on the road to recovery. But after several conferences with political associates today, he suffered a relapse.

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF REBEKAH STATE ASS'N

MIDDLETOWN, April 15.—(AP)—The Rebekah State association of the I. O. O. F. opened its annual convention here tonight. Approximately 700 delegates and members attended a reception in the state armory.

Mrs. Maude G. Briggs, of Middletown, president, will president over the business sessions tomorrow. The convention will come to a close with the conferring of degrees tomorrow night.

FOR GOV'T. REGULATION OF COTTON EXCHANGES

A Group System Of Banking Advocated

By E. C. Decker, President of the Northwest Bank Corp. of Minneapolis.

[illegible]INGTON, April 15—(AP)—Dev[illegible] of a group system of banking [illegible]ce the present "antiquated" [illegible] system was forecast today as the [illegible]ural evolution" of the country's [illegible]nking structure by E. W. Decker, president of the Northwest Bank corporation of Minneapolis before the house banking committee.

Asserting that agricultural depression in the trade area served by his organization was the result, rather than the cause of the large number of bank failures in the last ten years, Decker said "big business has come to stay and must have big banks to serve its needs."

Small unit banks were entirely inadequate to meet the requirements of agriculture and commerce, he added, after styling the failure of the unit system to meet the financial problems of the country as a "national disgrace."

He disagreed with previous testimony by John W. Pole, comptroller of the currency and Governor Roy A. Young of the federal reserve board, that a branch bank system restricted to clearly defined trade areas was the best solution for present day financial needs. Decker contended that public opinion, at least in his section, was "unalterably opposed" to branch banks.

This opposition was based on the fear of local business interests that under the branch system, "hired men" would be delegated by the parent bank to operate the branch in their locality and they might have difficulty in securing loans when needed. The question of local pride and local responsibility also entered into the situation, he added.

The witness said, however, that because of low operating costs, branch banks might prove the most practical solution for the financial problem of the "town too small to sustain a unit bank and still large enough to warrant banking facilities." This statement was coupled with a prediction that a system of branches might be developed in their respective communities by members of group systems as an economic method of supplying the needs of the smaller towns.

The advantage of the group system, as developed by the institution of which he is the head and which is the holding company for a group of almost one hundred banks, Decker said, was that the member banks retained their individuality, with local management and responsibility.

FRANCE FUNDING WAR DEBT TO UNITED STATES

WASHINGTON, April 15—(AP)—Delivery to the treasury today by Ambassador Claudel of France of $4,025,000,000 in French treasury gold bonds reflected the final action of the French government in funding its war debt to the United States.

The action was in accordance with the French debt settlement approved by congress and signed by President Hoover last December. The French government previously had approved the plan.

When the new gold bonds were presented at the treasury, the first four were marked paid and returned to the ambassador. The French government has been credited with that amount, $125,000,000, from previous payments made to the United States.

The treasury also returned to the ambasador and Robert Lacourgayet, financial attache of the French embassy, the demand bonds it held in connection with cash advances made the French and for surplus war material which totaled $3,340,129 356.

PROGRESS IN DRAFTING LONDON NAVAL TREATY

LONDON, April 15.— (AP)— Rapid progress in drafting the London naval treaty continued today and the important "safeguarding" or "escalator" clause was agreed upon in principle by the American and British chief delegates.

This section will protect the United States, Great Britain and Japan against possible competitive naval building by nations not signatory to the tri-partite agreement —a signatory power may, if its building program is threatened by a non-signatory power, build to a higher level than that provided in the three power treaty. The levels of the two other signatories will rise at the same time.

PREPARING TO WELCOME THE GRAF ZEPPELIN

SEVILLE, Spain, April 15—(AP)—Active preparations were in progress tonight to receive the German dirigible Graf Zeppelin, flying from her home port at Friedrichshafen, Germany, to make a brief visit to Seville

The weather here was ideal with little wind, the chief of the Spanish weather bureau arrived tonight.

King Alfonso, visiting Seville, for the holy week processions, expects to be at the airfield when the Graf arrives.

BUDGET ASSAILED IN HOUSE OF COMMONS

LONDON, April 15.—(AP)— Winston Churchill, former conservative chancellor of the exchequer, assailed in the house of commons this evening the budget announced yesterday by his successor, Philip Snowden.

Mr, Churchcill, leading a conservative attack, said Mr. Snowden's budget represented a new and unwarranted burden upon industry to provide "lush doles for the eager crowd."

BURNHAM, FORMER E. HADDAM BANKER, ACQUITTED OF EMBEZZELMENT CHARGES

MIDDLETOWN. April 15—(AP)—Clark W. Burnham, resigned executive vice president of the East Hampton Bank and Trust company, late today was acquitted in superior court of ten counts of embezzlement and falsifying records.

A jury deliberated one hour and forty-five minutes before reaching a verdict in the case which has been on trial for more than a week.

As a result, Assistant State's Attorney Bertrand E. Spencer, who prosecuted Burnham, said that charges of forgery and embezzlement against Earl S. Stevens, former treasurer of the institution, would be nolled.

Alleged irregularities involving a shortage of more than $50,000 was uncovered by the bank's board of directors.

VICIOUSNESS OF SOVIETISM EXPOUNDED TO CHILDREN

At Convention of Children of the American Revolution By Secretary of Labor Davis — Attacked the Attitude of Those Who Come Preaching a Doctrine of Discontent From a Country Where Men Are Put In Jail For Following the Tenets of Their Religion.

WASHINGTON, April 15— (AP) — While the thirty-ninth continental congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution functioned peacefully in routine and recreation today, the companion convention of the children of the American Revolution heard a strong arraignment of anti-religious activities of Soviet Russia from Secretary of Labor Davis.

The Daughters raised another $15,000 for furnishing their new Continental hall, journey to Mount Vernon and laid wreaths on the tombs of George and Martha Washington, and donned their most gorgeous gowns for one of their formal annual functions, that of the president general.

The children were engrossed with questions of the hour. Appearing to them as "descendants of the early American colonists," Secretary Davis urged "courage enough to protect ourselves from the enemies from within as well as the enemies from without."

He attacked the attitude of those "who come preaching a doctrine of discontent" from a country "where men are put into jail because they follow the tenets of their religion, where ministers of the gospel are put into jail for reading the new testament."

Mrs. Russell W. Magna, of Holyoke, Massachusetts, golden-haired, and termed "the gold-digger of the D. A. R." because of her outstanding record in raising money for the erection of Constitution hall, today took the platform and added $15,000 in pledges to the $1,078,000 she previously had secured, and which now are 98 per cent paid. Mrs. Magna's name was being mentioned about the lobbies today as a possible candidate for president general at elections two years hence.

SUPREME COURT TO DECIDE LIABILITY OF LIQUOR BUYER

WASHINGTON, April 15—(AP)—Liability of the buyer of liquor under the national prohibition law probably will be examined by the supreme court before the end of the first term in June.

The question will come before the court as a result of its decision today to grant the government an appeal in a test case against James E. Farrar, of Boston, Massachusetts, indicted on a charge of purchasing liquor from a bootlegger.

Chief Justice Hughes announced the case would be set down for argument on April 28 following the Norris case from Philadelphia in which the government contends the purchaser who orders liquor shipped to him is guilty of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

TO OBTAIN CONTROL OF RADIO CORP. OF AMERICA

NEW YORK, April 15.—(AP)— The New York American says the General Electric corporation and the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company will obtain full control of the Radio Corporation of America through a deal to be announced Thursday.

Radio Corporation will give 6,580,000 shares of its common stock in return for patents and preferred stock owned by the General Electric and Westinghouse. This will leave the corporation with 13,000,000 shares outstanding of which General Electric and Westinghouse will own 8,000,000 or over 68 per cent.

General Electric, with 1,500,000 shares, has been the largest individual holder of Radio corporation stock.

PRESIDENT LEWIS OF MINERS CITED FOR CONTEMPT OF COURT

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 15.—(AP)—An order citing John L. Lewis, international president of the "regular" wing of the United Mine Workers of America, and 31 associates for contempt of court in connection with an alleged violation of an injunction restraining him from attempting to take control of the Miners' union in this state, will be issued tomorrow.

Judge Norman L. Jones signed the restraining order against Lewis. The citation will be issued by Circuit Judge Frank W. Burton when the court convenes tomorrow morning.

The citation order is to be made returnable April 30, court attaches revealed.

STRONG OPPOSITION FROM SHORT LINE RAILROADS

WASHINGTON, April 15— (AP) — Strong opposition from short line railroads developed today to the Couzens' proposal to halt railroad consolidations until congress makes further provirion to regulate them.

Bird M. Robinson, president of the American Short Line Railway association, said his organization was "gravely concerned" about the effect the resolution would have upon about 600 short lines not yet consolidated into great systems.

Ben B. Cain, general counsel of the organization testified that the trunk lines would not require the short, weak lines unless they were permitted to merge with other trunk lines.

WATERBURY MEN SHAKEN UP IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

WATERBURY, April 16.— (AP)—On their return from a fishing trip this forenoon, an automobile party consisting of Policemen Barney Burns, Fred Hickey and William Green, and Charles C. Bergin and Leo Bauby, was badly shaken up when their car was struck by a truck which got out of control while descending the Sherman hill in Woodbury. Hickey and Burns sustained lacerations on the face, and required surgical treatment.

Constable Reichenback said the accident probably could be traced to defective brakes on the truck.

CATCH OF TROUT NOT PLENTIFUL FIRST DAY

HARTFORD, April 15.—(AP)—Thousands of anglers in all parts of the state joined in the annual spring offensive against brook trout in the streams of the state today, and when the smoke of battle had cleared away, the result of the attack was in doubt. Some fortunates, interviewed by state patrolmen in the early morning, exhibited limit catches, while stragglers interviewed in late afternoon wearily reported few fish in many instances.

REED HOPES VOTERS WILL DISCIPLINE DEMOCRATS

KANSAS CITY, April 15—(AP)—Former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri today expressed the hope that democrats in congress who voted for the pending tariff bill would be "disciplined" by the voters when they run for re-election.

GUARDING AGAINST FOREST FIRES IN THE ADIRONDACKS

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., April 15—(AP)—Fire observers tonight were keeping their lonely vigils from the summits of ten of the Adirondack peaks, despite the snow that made it difficult for some of them to reach their lofty pearches.

For the snow is gone from the open reaches of the forest area and grass fires soon become dangerous forest blazes. Past experience has taught the forest service that from now until the trees are in leaf is one of the most dangerous fire periods of the year.

So District Forest Ranger James H. Hopkins of Saranac Lake, ordered his men to the tops of these peaks: Hurricane, Loon Lake, Pok-o-Moonshine, Lyon, Whiteface, Azure, St. Regis, Morris, Debar and Amperesand.

The heavily forested sections of the Saranac Lake fire district contain some of the finest stands of timber in the United States.

ASPHYXIATED WHEN HE BROKE BOTTLE OF NITRIC ACID

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., April 15.—(AP)—Joseph Miller, 35, was asphyxiated today when he broke a five-gallon bottle of nitric acid while at work in the plant of the White Plains Photo-Engraving company.

The bottle broke when it fell from Miller's hands. He was overcome by the fumes before he could escape from the room and died at White Plains hospital.

Miller, formerly of New Haven, Conn., came here recently. His widow, who still resides in New Haven, was notified.

TWO SISTERS DROWNED WHEN FLOAT FOUNDERED

BRUNSWICK, Me., April 15—(AP)—Two sisters were drowned late today in Casco bay and their 75 year old male employe barely saved himself as a gunning float in which the trio was traversing a stretch of water between Prince's Point and Gurnet, foundered 20 feet off shore.

The women were Mrs. Louise A. West, of Auburn, and Mrs. Maude Gray, of Belmont, Mass. Preston March, 75, the third occupant of the craft, managed to swim ashore. Bodies of the sisters were recovered soon afterward but prolonged efforts at resuscitation failed.

SENATE CAMPAIGN FUNDS INVESTIGATION NEXT WEEK

WASHINGTON, April 15—(AP)—The senate campaign funds investigating committee will organize tomorrow and go to work next week. The recent Illinois senatorial primary probably will be the first point of inquiry.

Busy clearing up other senatorial duties preparatory to undertaking the investigation, Chairman Nye, of the committee said today he had received no new information. He already has complaints before him, however, from Illinois and Pennsylvania.

WORKING ON THEORY THAT FRIEND SLEW MARY BAKER

WASHINGTON, April 15.— (AP) — Working on the theory that the brutal murder of Miss Mary Baker, 28-year-old navy department employe, was committed last Friday by a man who she knew well, Washington and Virginia police today continued a steady scrutiny of her list of acquaintances and of her letters and belongings.

WILLIMANTIC PEOPLE DEMAND PROMPT ACTION ON FOOTBRIDGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, April 15—A high fencing of boards today c'osed the Main and Pleasant street entrances to the footbridge, one of the 'ongest spans of its kind in the state. Tacked on the boards was a sign announcing "Bridge close by order of the common council." The order was approved by the council at the April meeting held Monday night.

The closing of the bri'ge was the cue for several hundred citizens, residents of the "over the river" section and other users of the bridge, to rise up in arms against the action and demand for immediate steps to reopen the span. Even the merchants on Main street found just cause for indignation and everyone seemed unanimous in the belief that the sudden action was uncalled for. Apparently the only persons to gain any profit from the closing of the bridge were the taximen who did a little extra business today. Persons having to make contact between the sections of the city adjacent to the entrances of the footbridge faced a walk of about one mile and one-half by taking either course over Bridge street or Jillson Hill. Not a few were thankful for the short-cut afforded over the Central Vermont railroad bridge, but this is a more or less dangerous route and but few dare use it except in daytime.

The result of the upheava' was the presentation this morning of a petition to Mayor Walter R. King requesting that a special city meeting be called within a few days to act on an appropriation to cause speedy repairs to the bridge. Mayor King, who expressed himself as in sympathy with the petitioners, stated today that he would issue a call for the special city meeting to be held next Monday night. An effort will be made to have an estimate of the cost of repairs ready for presentation at the meeting.

The bridge was inspected last Thursday by an expert of the Berlin Bridge company who reported to Alderman Herbert I. Sanderson that the bridge was unsafe. This was followed by the action of the council Monday night. Alderman Sanderson sa'd today that the Berlin company has been requested to have an expert come here to take measurements of materials needed to repair the damaged section of the bridge. The company offers to furnish a foreman and workmen with the total cost to be figured from the cost of material, wages of the men and a percentage that would give a fair profit. The suggestion was made that the footbridge committee of the common council have a timekeeper on the job to check up on the stock and time put in. Owing to a protest that it was not consistent to have an expert of a company in the bridge building business make the only inspection and report on the matter, Mayor King arranged this afternoon to have an expert of the state highway department at Hartford be sent here by Deputy Commissioner Weldon.

SHORT CALENDAR SESSION OF COURT THURSDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, April 15—A short calendar session of the Windham county superior court will be held in this city Thursday, April 17, at 10 o'clock with a schedule of 10 cases, including one uncontested divorce case. The cases: Anthony Krupowicz vs. Franciszka Joroszka, Josefa Bakszanska and Joseph Pigel et al, default for failure to appear and plead; judgment, foreclosure, limitation. Everett E. Beckwith vs. Joseph P. Collins, hearing in damages after judgment by default. Frank C. Tillinghast vs. Joseph Meno, disclosure of defense; if no defense, default, judgment. Sachem Provision Co. vs. Gustave Meuller and William P. S. Keating, motion for judgment. W. D. Freyburger vs. B. P. Bowne and R. G. Bowne, argument of demurrer. Nathan Weissler et al vs. Jacob Tropp, default for failure to plead. Anna Krushewsky alias Anna Kruszewski vs. Anthony Krushewsky alias Antoni Kruszewski, motion for non-suit. A. Macdonald Jr., admr., et al vs. Howard R. Bullard, et al, disclosure of defense, if no defense default; judgment, foreclosure, limitation. Edith B Corttis guardian of Elizabeth Corttis. Florence B. Chausse and Frederick Chausse vs. Thomas Tabor et al, disclosure of defense, if no defense default, judgment, foreclosure, limitation. Uncontested divorce. Ernest E. Frink vs. Mabel Salisbury Frink.

A notice to the bar issued by Clerk Curtis Dean states that L. J. P. Fichthorn of Willimantic, has given notice of his intention to make application for admission to the bar of Connecticut and to be examined therefor at New Haven in June. A bar meeting will be held at the court house here Thursday, April 17, at 9:45 o'clock in the forenoon to act upon the application.

MEETING TO RECTIFY MINUTES IS AIM OF TAXPAYERS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, April 15 — Dr. George E. Wilcox, president of the Taxpayers' Protective association of Windham and chairman of the committee to select accountants to cause an audit of the town books, stated this afternoon that preparations were being made to hold another special town meeting to rectify the minutes of the meeting held last Wednesday and which are alleged by him to be "inconsistent."

The minutes, as recorded by Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton, specify that the audit of books shall be of the selectmen's books, making this specification in two motions as adopted that night and not including the books of the town clerk and treasurer.

Dr. Wilcox accompanied by Henry A. Bugbee, third member of the committee to select accountants and William P. Jordan, member of the consulting board of the taxpayers group, called at the town clerk's office this afternoon and secured a copy of the minutes from Clerk Fenton. A study of these minutes revealed the apparent necessity of calling for another special town meeting. Attorney William A. Arnold, associated with Dr. Wilcox and Mr. Bugbee on the committee, was out-of-town on business today. Attorney Arnold was moderator of the last meeting and it is understood that he coincides with the views of Dr. Wilcox to the effect that the minutes are not a true account of the proceedings. Town Clerk Fenton holds that regardless of the intentions of those participating in the meeting, he recorded an accurate report of the proceedings as governed by parliamentary law.

Stafford Springs

NORWICH MAN PRESIDENT OF CIRCUS FANS' ASS'N.

The P. T. Barnum top No. 12, Circus Fans' Association of America, held its annual spring meeting and banquet, Saturday evening, at the Stafford Springs House. The dining room was attractively decorated with balloons and banners of various colors. The tables were gay with banners, streamers and elephants, which lent a real circus atmosphere to the spectacle. A large banner over the dining room doorway showed that it was the "Big Top Main Entrance." The guests assembled in the lobby and marched to the dining room where each found a ten-inch plaster elephant as a souvenir at his place, along with a booklet of the evening's activities. The message of welcome was given by State Chairman Walter M. Buckingham of Norwich, after which a very appetizing dinner was served. The menu was: Barnett Bros. fruit cocktail, Downie Bros. hearts of celery, Christie Bros. Queen olives, 101 Ranch cranberry sauce, Al. G. Barnes mixed pickles, Sells-Floto chicken broth with rice, Ringling Bros., Barnum & Bailey roast native chicken with spiced dressing, Sparks creamed onions, John Robinson's green peas, Wheeler's New Model assorted cakes, Gentry Bros. ice cream, Hunt's Motorized coffee, Schell Bros. cigars, Walter L. Main cigarettes.

After the dinner the business meeting took place. All of last year's officers were reelected, as follows: State chairman, Walter M. Buckingham, Norwich; state treasurer, William L. Montague, West Hartford; state secretary, Harlow L. Bogue, Norwich; photographer, Jean Kieffer, Norwich. Although this State Top has been organized since 1929 it was not until this meeting that a name was selected, when by unanimous vote of those present the name P. T. Barnum was chosen, principally because Mr. Barnum was a Connecticut man and for many years the winter quarters of his Big Show was in Bridgeport in this state. Chairman Buckingham gave the report of the past season's activities and outlined the work for the coming season. Letters from national officers were read, which expressed regret at their being unable to attend the meeting. Letters from absent members of the organization were also read. Fan Charles E. Davis of Hartford gave a very interesting talk on "Elephants." Mr. Davis gave a comprehensive history of the use of elephants in circuses. After the business meeting the Side Show, in charge of Jean Kieffer of Norwich, was well patronized. Once inside the tent, which was an adjacent room, the circus goer found numerous freaks which the banner on the outside proclaimed were within. A two-headed cow, an animal half dog and half cat, a white elephant and numerous other peculiar creatures were to be seen. Fan Kieffer provided much amusement in giving his spiel about the animals. A large white elephant was auctioned by L. P. "Bugs" Raymond at the close of the program, the highest bidder being Jean Kieffer, who proudly took the white elephant home with him. Several new members were accepted into the Top and many of the guests asked for application blanks which will be turned in at the next meeting. A delegation of Top No. 12 will visit the Massachusetts top No. 11 in Boston May 5, at the Ringling Bros., Barnum & Bailey shows, when the Massachusetts top will have its organization meeting. At a late hour the main center pole of the tent was pulled down and the meeting closed, it being voted a great success from start to finish by all present. The arrangements were in charge of Chairman Buckingham, Secretary Bogue and Fan Kieffer. The management of the hotel was presented an elephant which will remain in the lobby as a souvenir of the meeting.

FUNERAL

George Miller

Funeral services for George Miller were held at his home Tuesday afternoon at 1:30, with public services at the Methodist church in Staffordville at 2 o'clock. Rev. George VonDeck, a former pastor, and Rev. W. D. Woodward officiated at the services. Burial was in Staffordville cemetery. Mr. Miller is survived by his wife, Mrs. Carrie Miller.

Mrs. Louis Dezzo is a patient at the Johnson Memorial hospital, where she was recently operated on for appendicitis.

Orlando Bressan, who is employed in Danielson, has been spending a few days with his parents.

Miss Doris Brown of the nursing staff of Rockville City hospital is spending a brief vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter J. Brown.

Ernest R. Smith was a recent visitor in Boston.

Miss Marjorie Stack has returned to her duties as teacher in Rockville Hill school, after a few days' illness.

Leon Wasserman, student at Boston university, is passing the spring vacation at his home on East Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Daley of Baltic spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Myron Miner.

Charles Mapelsden visited Kenneth Hamilton of Bozrah street, Saturday.

Relatives from Pawtucket were callers at Mrs. Carrie Kelly's, Sunday.

Gus Hedler and son Curtis, of Taftville, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Allyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Amburn and Miss Constance Amburn spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. John Kyle of Norwich.

James Kelly of Bridgeport was a visitor Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Gribbin.

The Ladies' Aid society held its April meeting at the personage, Fitchville, Wednesday afternoon. The afternoon was spent in sewing. Supper was served at 6 o'clock.

Misses Eileen and Helen Kane, of Norwich, were recent visitors of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Brady.

The blend that revolutionized smoking

THE INCOMPARABLE BLEND of Camel Cigarettes is probably the most important discovery in the history of smoking. It made cigarette smoking popular. Camel changed the smoking habits of the nation and has given pleasure to more millions of people than any other cigarette.

This exclusive blend assures in Camel a smoothness, a mildness and a mellow fragrance that cannot be imitated. It preserves all the excellent qualities of the choice tobaccos of which Camels are made and melds them all together into a delightful harmony of smoke pleasure. It sets Camel apart as a cigarette of distinctive character and provides for Camel smokers the very highest form of smoking luxury.

DANIELSON

LOCAL MAN ARRESTED FOR STEALING THREE SAXOPHONES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, April 15—First and last there has been a lot of kidding and knocking about saxophones and saxophone players, but today Raymond Saucier of this town was picked up by the Worcester police, to be turned over to state officers of the Danielson barracks, for stealing three of the musical instruments from the home of George Phaneuf here in Danielson, as long ago as last summer. It was not apparent this afternoon that the defense will allege that Saucier believed he was performing a public service, for if he did many would object most strenuously. There are people who like saxophones, even in motion, or action, as you like.

It will be charged against Saucier when he is presented in the town court here on Wednesday that he made his way into the Phaneuf home, probably with a skeleton key, last summer, took the instruments and eventually pawned them. Saucier has a court record here.

Many Trout Taken

Tired, hungry, enthusiastic, half-frozen. That about sizes up the way a great many trout fishermen felt along toward sunset tonight, if not sooner, after the first day of the open fishing season for trout.

There was no advance miscalculation as to the horde of fishermen that would go out onto the streams this morning. They went. Those of them who went out early enough had no praise for the Weather Man, who beamed complacently with a June-like day Monday, and turned on the refrigerator this morning. It was just a few degrees above freezing at sunrise and a keen, cutting wind out of the northwest made straying along the streams anything but a comfortable pastime. Ordinarily, most of the fishermen would feel that they were being penalized if subjected to such conditions, but they liked it in the name of sport—or professed to.

Hundreds of trout were taken in streams hereabouts today, notwithstanding the difficult fishing conditions. Many of them came from the local state-leased streams, but there were wise fishermen who passed up the congested fishing districts, and ventured forth to old, favorite and more or less unfrequented haunts to bring back some nice strings of trout and did. And herein is a cute hint to those who would like the solitude of the fishing of days or yore. Many unadvertised brooks, after several years of neglect by anglers, offer splendid fishing today, and will throughout the season.

Patrolmen covered the state-leased brooks in this area from daybreak to sunset tonight, checking fishermen for licenses and obtaining a count on the fish taken. The scores of fishermen appeared intent upon obeying all rules and regulations. No arrests for violations had been reported up to late this afternoon.

A practice that has been common here for the past several years—that of parking cars on the more or less poorly defined sidewalks in School street, between Academy and Cottage—must cease at once. Borough police, it was officially announced this afternoon are going to tag cars found parked on the gravel sidewalks, at many times completely blocking them for pedestrians, and owners of cars that do not park their cars in the street in this section are to be ordered into court, and very likely fined. In advance of such action due warning is given.

Today Chief John McFarland began another year as head of the borough police department, following yesterday's annual borough election. The chief has held down the job for a dozen years and prior to that was on night duty as a patrolman. Just what the people here think of the splendid, unremitting attention to duty that is characteristic of Chief McFarland may be illustrated by mention of the fact that he received every vote counted in Monday's election. There was not a dissenting vote against him or his administration. Danielson is fully appreciative of the services rendered by him through the years, and likes to record the fact.

His great many friends here will learn with regret that Paul Bitgood, son of F. E. Bitgood of Broad street, and track team coach at the Connecticut Agricultural college, is a patient at St. Joseph's hospital in Willimantic, after having undergone an operation for appendicitis, after a sudden attack last night. Reports from his bedside this afternoon were to the effect that he was resting comfortably, and unless complications develop his prompt recovery is to be anticipated. Coach Bitgood is a graduate of Killingly high school and one of the most outstanding athletes the school has turned out in a generation.

Joseph Baillageron, a boy resident on Mechanic street, did a circus stunt with his bicycle early this morning, and, thanks be, escaped without being maimed or killed. The boy was riding his bike down Main street, about opposite the Evans block, when the north-bound Connecticut company bus operated by Raymond Carlton of Norwich came along. Going south and near the bus at the time was an automobile operated by Robert H. Boardman of Worcester. The boy elected to cut in between the two vehicles, didn't have room to get away with it and crashed into the bus at a point just near the driver's position. And after all of that the boy emerged with no more apparent injury than a cut finger. Chief John McFarland, who checked up the accident, looked the reckless boy over carefully to determine if there were other injuries, but none were apparent. The accident was witnessed by numbers of people on their way to work.

Warden Gaston A. Maindon and the members of the newly elected court of burgesses met tonight, following yesterday's election, for organization for the ensuing year. The organization meeting had to do, among other things, with the appointment of committees for the ensuing year and the transaction of routine business.

This afternoon at L. E. Kennedy's funeral home on Furnace street services for James Berthiaume were conducted by Rev. Chester J. Armstrong of the Baptist church. Mr. Berthiaume died in Wauregan the past week end. Burial was in Westfield cemetery. The bearers were Charles Berthiaume, Peter Berthiaume, Myron Pratt and John Robideau.

Wednesday will be the eve of the most solemn period of the Lenten season, and at St. James' church the Holy Thursday service will, as through the years, be attended by hundreds of people. On Good Friday will follow the mass of the Pre-Sanctified and then the impressive Holy Saturday services. The usual festival services are arranged for Easter Sunday.

Edward Williams, operator of the car that was wrecked near North Woodstock late Saturday night, injuring six people, one of whom may die, likely will face charges of reckless driving, or possibly a manslaughter, depending on whether or not Florence Young, one of the passengers in the car, recovers from her injuries.

Coroner Arthur G. Bill has been making an investigation of the circumstances surrounding the accident. He said this afternoon that, in his opinion, the accident was due to the operation of the car Williams was driving at an excessive speed. The coroner also is convinced that nothing went wrong with the steering gear of the car, as was first reported, and he also has determined that the brakes were in good condition at the time of the accident.

Coroner Bill's investigation of the accident would appear to determine that the car was traveling at a terrific rate of speed just prior to the crash and that it zig-zagged along the road before piling up in one of the worst motoring accidents of the season in this section.

Members of the Entre Nouse club met with Mrs. L. E. Kennedy. At bridge winners were Mrs. L. A. Woisard, Mrs. Lucien Lambert and Mrs. Frank J. Gorman.

Today Miss Nellie Head remained seriously ill at her home on Academy street. Miss Head has been confined to her room for the past few weeks.

Again this morning there was a very considerable attendance at the Holy Week services arranged by the Tri-Y and Hi-Y clubs at the Baptist church. The services will continue every morning excepting Saturday of this week.

An alarm from Box 12 this morning called the department into the Riverview section to subdue a blaze of minor consequence. Firemen were back in quarters within a few minutes after being called out.

Notwithstanding that a press despatch published today indicates that efforts are being made in this state to attract colonists to Canada, as in the case of the number of families to leave Waterbury for the Dominion, there is nothing to indicate that such colonization work is going on hereabouts.

A temperature of 39 degrees was noted by early risers this morning, and a keen northwest wind added to the discomfort of the weather during the early morning hours.

Gerald Boulaine and Lucien Lambert were in Boston today to attend a major league baseball game.

Leaders at the Tri-Y-Hi-Y service at the Baptist church this morning were Henrietta Thompson and Samuel Dayton.

Wednesday evening at the Holy Week services at the Methodist church Rev. A. E. Tingley of Moosup will be the preacher. This service is under the auspices of the Danielson Federation of Churches.

SOUTH KILLINGLY

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Cook's little new daughter has been named Alice Wilma. Mrs. Cook, before her marriage, was Marion Grover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grover.

Beatrice Coffey has been suffering from the prevailing distemper for a few days and was unable to go to her work at the Paco plant.

Edward Lyman of Danielson spent Sunday with S. A. Douglas.

George Phillips who has been ill is somewhat improved but is still very feeble.

John Crowley has three hundred chickens and expects a like number this week.

Two representatives of a Club Aluminum firm gave a very excellent demonstration of utensils used for cooking without water, Tuesday, at the home of Rev. H. A. Coolidge. The manager first described the various articles after which a most appetizing dinner was prepared and served to the fifteen people present. After the dinner there was an interesting health talk.

Mr and Mrs. Raymond Barlow have been guest of relatives in Valley Falls.

Mrs. R. C. Kies has been at her summer home "The Ledges" for a few days.

Lois Cook has been spending a few days with Danielson relatives.

Arthur Law, Addie Holland, Elizabeth Barber, of Putnam, Phebe Barber and Mrs J. E. Vaughn, of Norwich, were callers, Wednesday at The Oakes.

Mr and Mrs. Byron Wood were in Woonsocket, Sunday, to attend the funeral of a relative.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Terwilliger who have been in Bridgeport the past winter are giving up their tenement in S. A. Douglas' house and will live in Bridgeport.

Mr. and Mrs A. E. Hall, Mrs. Patrick Coffey, Mrs Byron Wood and daughter Shirley, called on Addie Holland in Putnam Friday.

There will be special Easter services next Sunday.

NORTH STERLING

The community has been presented a piano which is to be placed in the new school room. All feel grateful to H. B. Moury, who made this possible.

Alvah Dixon of Sterling was a caller Sunday afternoon at the home of W. R. Spooner.

Friends are pleased that little Billie Rioux is home once more from the Day Kimball hospital, where he has spent many weeks.

Edward LaFontaine and his sister Elsie, of Riverside, R. I., spent the week end with their parents here.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip LaFontaine of Brooklyn were callers at the home of W. R. Spooner, Saturday evening.

Frank Winther and family of South Killingly were recent callers on his mother, Mrs. John Winther.

Mrs. John Winther has been ill the past week, but is recovering.

Bert Bennay of East Killingly, a demonstrator for a motor company in Danielson, was a caller here the past week.

Mrs. Fred Burnett of Dayville spent the week end at G. F. Pierce's.

PUTNAM

MILITARY FUNERAL FOR AMBROSE LAPARLE HELD

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, April 15.—A military funeral was accorded Ambrose Laparle, former soldier, who died Sunday morning at the United States Naval hospital in Newport, R. I., as the result of an illness contracted from wounds received while in action on the battlefields of France during the war. At 9 o'clock this morning the funeral service was held at St. Mary's church. Veterans of Foreign Wars, members of the Albert J. Breault post of this city, attired in war-time uniforms, preceded the cortege to the church and thence to St. Mary's cemetery, where burial took place.

Rev. U. O. Bellerose was celebrant at the solemn high mass of requiem and was assisted by Rev. Joseph D. Casey, as deacon, and Rev. Ernest J. Boileau, as sub-deacon. Special music during the mass and a military recessional at its close added to the impressiveness of the occasion. Miss Rose Metras, church organist, was at the organ during the ceremony. A firing squad, composed of members of the veterans' organization, acting as a guard of honor, stood by the flag-draped casket during the church service.

At the cemetery, a volley was fired over the grave as the casket was lowered. At the same moment two post buglers sounded "Taps."

Ambrose Laparle, a life-long resident of this city, was born here on Aug. 14, 1894, the son of John and Valerie (Bousquet) Laparle. After finishing his schooling, Mr. Laparle worked for a time in and about Putnam and at the outbreak of the war entered the service and went overseas with the first American troops. He took part in a number of the important American offensives, being wounded and gassed a few months before the signing of the Armistice. After his discharge from the army, Mr. Laparle returned home, broken down in health, and did not regain his physical strength. About a week ago he entered the hospital at Newport for treatment. His affliction became critical Saturday and his death followed at an early hour Sunday morning. He is survived by two sisters and a brother.

Elks and Masons, members of the tournament teams figuring in the winter indoor sports tournament between the two fraternal organizations, which came to a close last month, joined last evening in presenting Ralph E. Thurston with a beautiful briar pipe at the post tournament season supper held in the Elks lodge rooms on Main street. The pipe was a token of the esteem held by the fraternal brothers, for Mr. Thurston, and was also given in appreciation for his invaluable services rendered during the tournament season. The Elks and Masons at a turkey supper celebrated the fourth consecutive tournament victory of the former and incidentally the fourth defeat sustained by the Masons. After the supper was underway all thought of victory and defeat was tossed aside in favor of the subjects of friendship and clean sportsmanship, which have served to bring the two lodges closer together. James H. Rafferty, an Elk, and known to lodge members as "Uncle Jim," was called upon to make the presentation to Mr. Thurston of the gift. At the conclusion of Mr. Rafferty's presentation speech, the players accorded both men votes of thanks.

In city court this morning, before Judge M. H. Geissler, Donald W. Pool of 55 Franklin street, Danielson, who gave his occupation as that of a truck driver, was found guilty of having operated a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. He was fined $100 and costs of court and this afternoon was committed to the county jail in Brooklyn in default of his fine. Pool was arrested last night by State Officer Henry M. Mayo. With him was Leon N. Shippee of Furnace street, Danielson, who was also placed under arrest on the same charge and in court this morning was found guilty and fined $100 and costs.

While patrolling the old lake road in the south end of the city last night, Officer Mayo encountered a truck which was zig-zagging along the highway in the vicinity of the Putnam Country club. He halted the vehicle, placed Pool under arrest, and went to a telephone station to summon assistance from the police barracks at Danielson. While the officer was telephoning, Shippee, who was a passenger in the truck, took the wheel and started to drive away. His intoxicated condition caused Officer Mayor to order his arrest on a drunken driving charge when he stopped the truck for the second time.

Hyde Smith of Worcester was in Putnam Monday on business.

D. Bloom, executive head of the Bloom Silk company of Paterson, N. J., was in Putnam Monday.

Dr. John J. Russell of Main street has entered St. Vincent's hospital in Worcester, Mass., for a week's period of rest and observation.

A continued improvement was reported in the condition of Dr. James R. Kent, by officials of the Day Kimball hospital today, where the former Putnam physician is a patient.

State Officer Henry M. Mayo of the Danielson barracks was in Putnam today conducting examinations of applicants for motor vehicle operators' licenses.

A trout weighing nearly two pounds was taken from a local brook today by Albert Jarvis of Providence street, who made an early morning pilgrimage to the streams on the first day of the season. Mr. Jarvis enjoyed a run of fisherman's luck, for his basket contained a number of other beautiful trout specimens upon his return at noon.

Easter music is now being prepared in all of the churches of the city. On Friday evening at the Congregational church a community choir will present Sir John Stainer's cantata, "The Crucifixion." Special services will be held at St. Mary's church on Good Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock and in the evening.

Apparatus from the Central fire station in Union square, under the direction of Fire Chief Ralph E. Thurston, responded to a four alarm at 4 o'clock this afternoon for a brush fire on Maynard street in the rear of the premises of Arthur Maynard. The blaze was brought under control and extinguished without property loss.

CHAPLIN

Rev. Paul B. Sanger's thoughtful sermon Sunday was based on "The Triumphant Life."

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Kimball and family of Scotland attended church here Sunday and were callers at the parsonage.

Dr. and Mrs. Howard Bowen of Hartford were week end visitors at the home of Mrs. Bowen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Snow. Mrs. Bowen was the efficient pianist at church at the morning service.

Rev. Mr. Sanger attended the funeral of William Lawton at Phoenixville, Sunday afternoon. Burial was in Bedlam cemetery when Rev. Mr. Sanger conducted the committal service.

The center and South Chaplin schools gave a public entertainment at the church vestry, Friday evening. The exercises included a dialog singing, marching exercise and there were short addresses by school officials from out of town. The pupils had a collection of articles of their handiwork on sale.

Meetings during Holy Week will be held at the vestry each evening from Monday until Thursday evening.

Mrs. Della Readio of Florence, Mass., spent the week end with relatives in town.

The C. E. society attended the Union Endeavor service at the church at North Windham, Sunday evening.

SOUTH WOODSTOCK

Harmon French, for many years past, employed by Clarence W. Bowen, has moved with his family to Pomfret. He is to be caretaker on the links of the Pomfret Golf club.

Mrs. H. T. Wells and Miss Minnie Wells assisted by Mrs. Harry Wells entertained the South Woodstock Ladies' Aid society at the April meeting. The members sewed on rags for rugs for their annual sale. The hostesses served refreshments. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. McWilliams, April 17.

Henry D. Young who recently married Miss Florence Child, has entered the employ of Mr. Greene, of Providence, whose summer home is in South Woodstock.

Misses Anna and Harriet Nelson of Hartford have been spending their spring vacation at their home in Quassitt.

Oliver Lowe and family of Wakefield, R. I., were guests of Mrs. J. A. Lowe recently.

The Ladies' Aid society is planning a supper in the vestry.

Mr and Mrs. H. T. Wells and Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Wells were in Providence, Thursday, to see Mrs. E. S. Swan, a sister of H. S. Wells, who is in the Homeopathic hospital, there, for treatment for a broken hip. They found her doing as well as possible under the circumstances.

Gilman Graves has joined his family at Mrs. H. L. Langer's, where they will remain for a time.

JEWETT CITY

TROUT FISHING SEASON OPENS AT MT. MISERY

Local fishermen who tried Mt. Misery brook Tuesday, report a day of real sport. This beautiful stream, which is included in the state forest preserve, has received a generous stocking from the pens right beside the brook, where the fish are raised from fry to fingerling size. Lloyd Congdon, game keeper, was on the job with a dozen boats which were rented some days ago. In addition to looking after the interests of the state, Mr. Congdon sees to it that visiting fishermen receive the benefit of his knowledge of trout fishing which is certainly some. One man declared Tuesday that he believed Lloyd Congdon could catch a 2-pound trout on a barn floor. The local members of the great fraternity, all unexpected, ran into some of the real clan, for three official parties were there from Hartford, and they had the goods right with them. What is to be understood by "goods" in this case, has reference to skill and tackle, with no relation to that all-important matter of bait.

The splendid stretch of water was not actually lined from source to mouth; there were but a few short of 50 fishermen present. The day, after a cold morning, was ideal for the sport at its best, not a few of the anglers had caught the limit in weight and numbers before the lunch hour at noon. The men from the capital were pleased with the day, the brook and the trout, and indeed such must have been the case, for when the sun rose, so did the fish, and some of the pools were swarming. One man, with hip boots, stored in the third bend north of the bridge and caught 10, two over a pound, without moving from his position.

During the afternoon, a few who had taken what the state says is the "limit," journeyed away up unto the famous Mount Misery itself, to see the work being done by the state, in erecting an outlook station. From its summit the view is unsurpassed anywhere in eastern Connecticut. With tangled acres of woods at one's feet, far away in every direction is to be seen many miles of unbroken forests, a literal sportsman's paradise. Here, too, are vast tracts abounding with interesting sights for the nature lover, for those who have never wet a line or broke a gun, will discover the beauties of this nature's paradise. Those who climbed the mountain sides, report failing to hear or see a rattler, and some had feared would be the case.

Ida Romaine was surprised by schoolmates Monday afternoon when she was given a delightful party. Those present were: Beatrice Davignon, Alice Shea, Roseabelle Hoyt, Florence Jodoin, Pieriette Maynard, Germaine Tessier, Arthur and Emma Romaine, Gene and Lorraine Tessier, Eilleen Shipper. Games were played and refreshments were served by Julia Pryzborowski and Sarah Romaine.

The Hollywood Girls' club held a meeting at the home of Mary Nowakowski. Games were played and Eugenia Mislazek received the first prize and Felecia Kusek second. Refreshments were served.

The R. B. Girls' club met at the home of Miss Anna Ruszenas Monday evening. The prizes went to Misses Josephine Ambot and Mary Laizer. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Baptist church is to meet Thursday at Round Hill farm, Lisbon, where Mrs. James B. Palmer, the mistress, will entertain.

Mrs. G. H. Prior, state president of the King's Daughters and Sons, leaves Friday to attend the international convention to be held in New Orleans, La. She will be absent ten days or two weeks. Miss Ida I. Foster left Sunday to attend the same convention, but is including in her itinerary Washington, D. C., Richmond, Va., and Ashville, N. C. She will be away for three weeks.

NO. GROSVENORDALE

The managers of the teams of the "Big Four" Bowling league held a meeting to decide on the organization banquet. It has been agreed that the last Wednesday of this month, April 30, is convenient, for everybody concerned. The banquet will be held at Indian Lodge formerly known as Webster Lake hotel. Dinner will be served to about fifty. Those who wish to attend are giving their names to any one of the managers. Joseph Archambeault, local musician and comedian, has been selected as toastmaster. Mr. Archambeault was toastmaster at the baseball banquet last year. The managers are, Joseph Larocne of St. John team; Charles Lafontaine of Over the Top; Albert Rene of Artisans; Joseph Fournier of K. of C.

The Artisans will receive the first prize and the three high consecutive prizes; the St. John will receive the two consolation prizes; the K. of C. gets the high single prize and the Over the Top will receive the second prize.

There is to be a meeting of the Knights of Columbus Thursday evening.

The Epworth League of the Methodist church held a social Tuesday night in the church parlors.

Anita Page tells how to be Fascinating

ANITA PAGE, the young Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star whose beauty has won millions of hearts, says: "I always use Lux Toilet Soap. It keeps my skin so wonderfully smooth."

Anita Page

"FOR the girl who wants to be charming, one thing is essential," says Anita Page, the girl whose blonde loveliness has won her universal devotion on the screen. "It's smooth skin!

"No matter how lovely your figure—your eyes—your hair—you can't have that compelling something unless your skin is softly clear and glowing. And if it is, you're sure to be attractive!

"Screen stars, you know, have to keep their skin silky smooth and fine-textured every minute. Motion picture directors found out long ago that without lovely skin no girl can hope to win and hold the hearts of millions. The glaring close-up lights reveal even the tiniest flaws!

KAY JOHNSON, M. G. M., "Leaves my skin so smooth!"

"Several years ago, some of us discovered just the care our skin needs to keep it always at its best—Lux Toilet Soap! Then more and more of the stars began to use it, until now almost every girl I know is devoted to this delightful soap.

CATHERINE DALE OWEN M.G.M. uses Lux Toilet Soap

"Catherine Dale Owen, for instance. Did you ever see smoother, lovelier skin? And Kay Johnson, too. They both use Lux Toilet Soap regularly.

"Regular care with Lux Toilet Soap—that's my prescription for lovely skin—and any girl can follow it!"

9 out of 10 Lovely Stars use it—in Hollywood—on Broadway—in Europe

Of the 521 important Hollywood actresses, including all stars, 511 use Lux Toilet Soap.

The Broadway stage stars are devoted to it, too. And now even the European stars have enthusiastically adopted it!

If you aren't caring for your skin with this fragrant white soap, do try it—today.

NEW ENGLAND CAMPS

In the decades that have gone New England has been just as able to serve as a playground as it is today. Its rivers, mountains, lakes, beaches are not new. They have been here from time immemorial. Through the construction of more and better roads and the development of the automobile they have become more available, but the increased attention they are receiving seems to be due more to the fact that their charms are more appreciated.

A development which bears this out is to be found in the large number of camps for boys and girls in the New England states, in Connecticut and, in fact, in eastern Connecticut. Those who have made a study of the situation point to the fact that there are about 560 such camps in New England. Connecticut isn't a leader in this respect, but it is credited with 60. Many of these are private camps, while there are many which are sponsored by organizations interested in the boys and girls, and when we stop to realize that about 40,000 boys and girls are enrolled in them during the summer months it means that excellent though tardy use is being made of the natural advantages of this region.

Drive out into the country in most any direction and before you get really started there will be seen signs indicating that one or more such camps lie in that direction and as you go along there will be further evidences of the guides which point the way to the camping places. These remain up from one year's end to another, serving as one means of advertising the particular camps, but making it evident that the lakes and ponds of this vicinity, or some delightful location in the country, are getting a greater measure of appreciation than in years gone by. More than that, they are providing the much-needed opportunities for youth, especially those from the large cities, to get out into the great open spaces to enjoy nature and participate in a wholesome, health-giving vacation.

Camping is receiving more attention than ever before. It is a profitable business for many and it does a world of good for those who are fortunate enough to participate in its training and pleasures.

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING

How speculators can develop international incidents and how they can add two and three together and get four is interestingly illustrated in connection with the recent telephone conversation between President Hoover and the heads of South American countries.

When the time came for the inauguration of this new service it was arranged that there should be a brief talk between the head of this government and the presidents of Chile, Uruguay and Argentina. As the time approached information was conveyed to those in charge that President Irigoyen of Argentina would not be able to participate because of throat trouble. He had been advised against it by his doctor and respected the advice. President Irigoyen has his oddities and Argentina has shown evidences of aloofness, so that the incident was promptly magnified and interpreted outside official circles as meaning that Argentina and its president were displaying their resentment toward this government and President Hoover because of tariff action, the Monroe doctrine and various other things that could be made to create the impression that there was ill feeling. It was even used by some as an incident by which to warn this government that it should look well to what it was doing. There was an unwillingness on the part of such people to disregard the facts and dance with suspicions.

The opening of the new telephone service was carried through as planned without President Irigoyen and President Hoover exchanging greetings. A few days later, however, after Argentina's president had improved, the conversation between the presidents of the United States and Argentina took place. It was as interesting and enthusiastic as might be expected between two persons who do not speak the same language, but it served to knock the speculations into a cocked hat. It served to upset the inferences which had been too quickly drawn from the fact that the talk didn't take place on the day first scheduled. It is one of those cases which goes to show how the foundation for unfriendly relations between nations can be easily laid, and even though it did not affect the governments themselves it might easily develop public resentment which would not be easily overcome.

OPPOSED FOR DOING DUTY

When the name of Judge John J. Parker was presented for the vacancy on the bench of the United States supreme court caused by the death of Justice Sanford no objection could be raised to his confirmation. Even those who are recognized as only too eager to give opposition if it will be embarrassing to the administration were obliged to admit that they knew nothing against him. It was a nomination that seemed to take them by surprise and one that was expected to get early confirmation.

What might have been expected from many senates has long since been shown to be out of the question with the present senate. Action on the appointment has been delayed for the purpose of digging up something that could be used against him, but in spite of all the opposition that has been displayed there has been nothing to shake the confidence of President Hoover in the man he selected. Once again, as in the case of Chief Justice Hughes, there is a continuance of that policy to play politics and to embarrass.

The objection raised against Judge Parker is that in a certain labor case he rendered a decision that sustained an injunction obtained in connection with a strike. It wasn't a case where he had the opportunity or was expected to express his personal attitude. It wasn't a case where he issued the injunction. It was a case where he rendered a decision that was based upon a ruling that had been given by the United States supreme court, and it is doing no more or no different than is expected of a man on the bench when he follows the highest court in the land. It is getting to a pretty situation when appointments to the supreme court are going to be held up and opposed because of a decision he rendered when that decision was guided by the supreme court's ruling in similar instances. It is the man who knows and supports the law, that is wanted, not the man who ignores high court decisions and lets politics or personal likes guide his action on the bench.

The country wants men of high character, men of a judicial temperament, men who know and will uphold the law, men who will not be swayed by favoritism or prejudice as members of the supreme court, and throughout his career Judge Parker has created the belief that he is such a man.

RESTRICTING BRUSH FIRES

Fully realizing that many of the serious woodland fires are caused by burning brush or kindling fires in the open, the commissioner of conservation in Massachusetts has notified all fire wardens that no more permits should be issued. That should mean an effective bit of control over fires which result from such a cause.

It will, of course, have no effect upon those which are started by sparks from locomotives or lighted matches or burning cigarettes which are dropped into leaves by those walking through woods or fields, or those who cast them out of an automobile into combustible material by the roadside.

It is important, nevertheless, that as much of a check should be placed upon such fires as possible for, while those who secure permits for brush burning have no desire to damage property, repeated instances have shown that it has been impossible to control the fires once they are started.

Much in the way of prevention can be done by refraining from burning brush until after a rain has soaked the land surrounding the localities where the brush has been piled for burning. One of the great troubles is that too many of those who start fires place too great an estimate upon their ability to prevent them from spreading and when they get beyond control havoc results. It may seem at times that there is little justification for handicapping landowners in disposing of their brush, but the necessity of establishing protective measures cannot be overlooked in view of the heavy losses that have been sustained and the others that can be expected if preventive measures are not taken. It is a situation which calls for proper safeguards and a reasonable viewpoint, as anyone who has suffered losses of timber or buildings can readily understand.

YACHT RACING

With the launching of defenders and challenger, it brings us to a keener realization of the fact that we are due to witness another international yacht race, a contest in which Sir Thomas Lipton will once more try to lift the coveted cup.

It has been so long since there was such a race that interest may have waned a bit, but it should be quickly kindled, as the several yachts being constructed are brought to completion and engage in tests which will determine the fastest and most seaworthy under all conditions. If we can judge by the money which has been put into the building of the possible defenders there has been no lapse of interest for the retention of the cup on this side of the Atlantic. Rather does it appear that there is a determination that it shall not be lifted. With four sloops from which to pick the best there is being brought to bear all the skill of the shipbuilders on this side and, while the layman might not be able to discover much difference in the several designs, it is to be expected that each one displays what the designer regards as telling points.

Along with the yacht itself much will depend upon the captain and the crew. They play a vital part in any and every race and it is when the happy combination of the best yacht, captain and crew have been secured that confidence is bound to be given to their performance.

While much ceremony is attached to the launching of the respective yachts, it is to be realized that it represents only a preliminary which really has no bearing upon the decision. It indicates the approach of a contest in which the country never fails to display enthusiasm even though there are but few who can really witness the actual test of merit and skill.

EDITORIAL NOTES

It is highly probable that the delegates at London conference consider it anything but a vacation.

It ought to be possible to bring back a good story regardless of the number of fish.

Whether you crave it or not, it will be necessary to get busy with the lawn mower by the time the fire in the heater is allowed to go out.

The man on the corner says: It was that long, the handsomest fish I ever saw! It got away but it must have weighed three pounds!

A modification of the heat wave was produced as if someone had complained about the sudden spread of spring fever.

THE WORLD AT FIFTEEN

"To have charm," quoted Ernstine, "you must have interest. But how can you be interesting to other people when nothing ever happens and you have absolutely nothing to say?

"I'm exactly bored to death," she confided further, flopping into a chair with threatened disaster to the springs. "I never in my life saw such a dull town as this is. I can't see why Bud had to go to Omaha to a cousin's wedding, especially as he has just got his new roadster and everything. He doesn't care at all for this cousin, and why should he when she is at least 25 years old?

"It is my experience that the minute a woman gets to be 25 years old she is a total loss. She should head committees or go to board meetings and not be so silly as to have weddings and upset every one. I think a bride should be quite pretty and young and appealing, don't you? I suppose this cousin will wear white and try to look girlish—the older a woman is the more kittenish she becomes, I've noticed.

"I told Bud to be sure and remember what she wore and how she looked and everything, but he said Aw, what did I take him for? What did he care what she looked like? And there were to be six bridesmaids and a lot of men from New York and her father has given her a house and they're going to Hawaii on their wedding trip. That would be ideal, wouldn't it? I can't imagine anything more romantic than being on the beach at Wai—well, wherever it is that you sit on the beach in Hawaii and watch the surf riders and the moon and sort of hold hands and tell each other what you really thin...

"I said that once before my Aunt Helen—you know, the popular one who visited us a while ago—and she just laughed and said, heavens, if a woman ever told a man what she really thought all the papers would carry headlines of the national disaster. There are times when it strikes me she is actually cynical. I adore a cynical man, but I think it is a wrong line for a girl to take.

"Bud is frightfully cynical. I adore a cynical man, but I think it is a wrong line for a girl to take.

"Bud is frightfully cynical when you can get him to talking. He says there is not much use wasting words on the average human being because most of them are so dumb, and that when he really considers it, he doesn't see much use in living. Really, I have a terrible time getting him cheered up and sensible when he is that way. I have to argue simply for hours because he has a very keen mind and when he is in the depths, as he says, he isn't going to be hauled out for any silly little pollyanna argument that the sun is shining and the little birds are singing. I certainly admire that boy's brains.

"Of course, there are plenty of other boys, but they rather bore me. I can't seem to get interested in anything this week. Did you ever stop to think how few really interesting things there are in the world? I mean things that absolutely absorb you and make you forget your troubles. Just before I came over here I was realizing how sort of empty existence was and how tiresome most of the things I had to do were, such as history class and Indian clubs to music and applesauce, because it is good for you, instead of apple pie—and I had finished my book, and maybe I wasn't blue!

"It has been five days since Bud went away to that old wedding. All the girls do is giggle and talk foolishly about a lot of stupid small boys—why, Betty is crazy about that Lyons child, who can't be a day over 16! Can you understand such childishness? Bud was 18 the day he went away. Why, a boy is really a man when he is 18, isn't he? That's what makes Bud so much more serious and brainy than the ones the other girls run around with.

"I expect that is why I am quieter and more serious, too. I don't seem to take so much interest in childish things like having hysterics over the spiky ends of the French teacher's mustache and things dropped on the floor in class. I think if I were having a wedding dress, I would have it a deep, deep cream, because pure white makes a bride look so ghastly. I don't see why I feel so actually tired and limp. Just as though there wasn't any use in anything, if you can understand what I mean. It is terrible not to feel young any more—"

Ernestine sprang to her feet as an auto horn tooted outside. She reached for coat, book and vanity case with wild hands, her eyes sparkled and she was at the door in two leaps.

"It's Bud!" she shrieked as she fled. "Why—the little dickens! He never told me he would get back today! Why, the very idea!"—Exchange.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 15—Unemployment is something of a politically controversial subject these days.

Senator Wagner of New ork has been hammering away at it for months, which, of course, aroused suspicions as to partisan motives among republican regulars across the aisle.

His protestations that he was merely seeking to find out what the facts may be, to set up adequate federal machinery to assemble data on the number of folks out of jobs at any time, made little difference.

Bulldog

Yet, there's a good deal of the bulldog about this short, sturdy, square shouldered New Yorker who is in the senate despite the fact that he was entirely satisfied on the state supreme bench and harbored no senatorial ambitions. Gossip has always held that he most reluctantly entered the senatorial lists on demand of his intimate friend, Al. Smith, then governor.

He beat out former Senator Jimmie Wadsworth, also very friendly with Governor Al., although a republican regular. By drafting Wagner to oppose Wadsworth, the political wiseacres argued, the governor cleared his open campaign of any suspicion of trading with a friendly enemy.

When Wagner finally got his unemployment data bill up for committee heariing, President William Green was about the first witness called.

One aspect of the unemployment situation that has no political possibilities, it seems, was very clearly pictured by this big, quiet-voiced, bulky federationist and one time coal miner.

Green looks today like a prosperous industrialist. He has the dignified bearing and the adress of a trust magnate. He rivals the most calm and portly of senators in his look of solid, slow moving conservatism There is not much emotionalism about him, outwardly at least.

Seeking to explain the special problem of "technological unemployment," of the skilled workers thrown out of jobs, often in late middle life, by development of new machines to take their places and further speed the pace of American mass production, Green first spoke of glass blowers.

Finally he turned to professional musicians, routed from theater orchestra pits by the "canned" music of talkie films. There was reason to believe, he said, that perhaps 20,000 of these jobless are on the streets.

Soft Muscles

"They are not fitted to cope against ordinary labor for work," Green said. "They are often men of 50 or more, musicians since childhood, temperamental and emotional as musicians usually are. They are men of soft hands and flabby, little used muscles."

Neither Green nor Hiram Johnson, chairman of the senate committee, nor Wagner had a solution to propose to this special problem of technological unemployment. But it was a very effective picture of the price of progress the federation president drew.

It had an emotional quality to it only accented by the calm deliberation of the speaker who drew it.

YOUR HEALTH

The Importance Of Breast Feeding

By Mary D. Davis, R. N., State Board of Health, Concord, N. H.

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

From the birth of the Infant Welfare movement we have agreed and have been convinced of the fact that breast feeding is the best food for the infant. In spite of this there are still many babies artificially fed from birth, and many more weaned shortly after birth. Is this because mothers do not understand and realize the advantages of breast feeding, or is it because in our diversified health activities we do not spend time and effort enough on this fundamental phase of infant welfare work?

In many localities where a specialized and permanent parental and infant welfare program is carried on the breast feeding rate has been materially increased. There is no question but that more prenatal care would stimulate and promote breast feeding. Education regarding breast feeding and preparation for it must start during pregnancy. It is during this time that the mother should be taught the advantages of it to her baby and also to herself.

With a small percentage of mothers breast feeding is a physical impossibility, but that is not true of most women. So every mother should realize that although the food values of mother's milk and cow's milk are comparable, mother's milk was prepared for infant digestion; it is free from germs; it is always fresh and always ready; her baby has many more chances for life and for health and normal development than the bottle fed baby. She should understand the normalcy of completing her motherhood by nursing her baby, and about the sympathy between the breasts and the uterus which helps to bring the uterus back to normal, and which tends to promote the mother's return to normal condition.

Many times mothers have a mental inhibition against breast feeding, probably due to an unfortunate former experience, to poor advice, poor care, or to the experience of some friend or relative. So many babies that might be successfully nursed are weaned during the weeks immediately following birth, also when the mother is taking over the care of the baby, or her household duties, the milk supply is apt to be temporarily poor, the new baby cries from hunger, fails to gain, etc., increasing the mother's difficulty, and making her decide to wean it. That is the very time when the best advice is regular feeding, emptying the breast after feeding, more rest for the mother, regular, well-balanced meals, sunshine and fresh air, attention to elimination, satisfying the baby's hunger with a complementary feeding (prepared under the doctor's supervision). Don't wean the baby unless the doctor advises such proceeding.

"Accepting the Years"

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse: "That we may rejoice and be glad all our days" (Psalm 90:14).

MEDITATION: It is easy to rejoice and be glad in youth. It is not so easy as one's age comes stealthily upon one. There is a common reluctance to face age. This attitude is designed to destroy the joy that age should bring. The wiser way is to accept age when it comes and find its joys. Each period of life has its own satisfactions to bring and its own contributions to make. There are greater activities than physical ones. To grow old gracefully is a sign of the youthful spirit, for that spirit is one of hopefulness. The best way to keep young, both in feeling and appearance, is to believe in the peculiar value of each successive period of life as it comes, and to look for it.

PRAYER: O God of the seasons, Thou giver of days and years, we witness Thy providence in the coming of ever marvelous times in the hurrying calendar of our lives. For the fruits and colors of our own autumn days accept our thanks and may there be no sadness in our hearts at the departure of our spring and summer. Amen—Adapted.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

Murzuk.

"Murzuk, which Italians recently occupied, is a small desert city on the main caravan route between Tripoli and the Sudan," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Murzuk was nearly 200 years old when Columbus discovered America, but some makers of world maps still ignore it. The city can easily be located, however, by drawing a line due east from Miami, Florida, and another line due south from Naples, Italy. These lines will intersect within the shadow of Murzuk's wall.

"Travelers must choose one of two ways to reach Murzuk—by airplane or by caravan. A railroad company has boldly thrust steel rails from Tripoli southward toward the town, but the line halts after it has traversed 60 miles of almost barren terrain. The remaining 400 miles to Murzuk are sand-swept wastes infrequently dotted by small oases.

"Murzuk natives will tell you that they live in a desert city where there is too much water. The city lies in the so-called Hofra depression of the Sahara where water is obtained from shallow wells. The excess water is found in the salt marshes in the neighborhood which offer splendid breeding places for mosquitoes that harass the natives. Malaria takes its toll annually, and those who do not succumb to the disease are left in a weakened condition and are easy prey to other diseases.

"To the weary desert traveler Murzuk is a welcome sight, yet its fortresslike wall presents a somewhat hostile aspect. Inside the wall the visitor is welcome, for the natives exist on trade with travelers. Here the caravans replenish their supplies as well as 'hire and fire' camel men.

"While the marsh is a nuisance to the natives, it furnishes nearly all the building supplies for the town. The high wall is of the marsh mud, and the flat-roofed, one-story structures that line the narrow lanes within the wall are of the same material. Odd as it may seem for a desert town, when it begins to rain, the inhabitants begin to pray, and the harder it rains, the harder they pray. For about once in a generation Murzuk is nearly washed away. This perhaps accounts for the lack of ancient monuments on its site.

"When Murzuk is awake, most of its inhabitants are to be found in the main street. Here employer seeks employe, friend meets friend, loafers loaf, professional letterwriters ply their professions, fakirs gather in coins of the travelers, and beggars beg, while venders, children, shopkeepers and purchasers all join in a din of chatter and laughter.

"In the street crowds are natives of monotonous Burzuk brown. Their brown skin harmonizes with the brown walls, brown houses, and brown camels, all included in the panorama of Murzuk against the brown dust of the town's street. The facial color scheme also includes Sudan blacks and the lighter-skinned Berbers.

"The Mohammedan women laugh as much as they like, go into the streets without stirring the wrath of the Moslem priests, and do not wear veils. Their bright-colored, loose-fitting frocks, large earrings, heavy bangles and anklets, henna-dyed hands, coal-black eyes and shining white teeth add the only touch of color to drab Murzuk, for most of the men are clad only in white turbans and sheetlike desert garb."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

In Public Life

Mr. Editor: It certainly is refreshing to read of those women who are serving our country in a business way and to note that the majority are connected in some way with prohibition organizations. Let us quote a few of them. The first to be quoted is one who spoke here in our city last Tuesday—Grace Abbott. She says: Prohibition is a child welfare measure. It ought to be fostered and upheld. It has brought new problems but we are prepared to work together. It is a long, long road but the Woman's Christian Temperance union will be found on the way. Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, who was made republican candidate for senator from Illinois, said she had always been dry and there is no reason to change.

Then we find many in every state in the Union. In Washington, since 1860, there are 24,000. The most prominent are out and out on the temperance question. They are in department of labor, department of the interior, chief of the bureau of economics, chairman of the U. S. employes compensation commission. Alabama has five women serving in public ways, one who is superintendent of state training school for girls and a member of the state board of education is state president of W. C. T. U. In California a W. C. T. U. woman is one of the governor's council and has an office in the state house. In Colorado all but six of the 63 county superintendents of schools are women and most of them wear the white ribbon of W. C. T. U. Connecticut has five judges of the state probate court who are women. Florida has a woman as a state railroad commissioner, equalizer of taxes, county superintendent of public instruction and a judge, one of which is W. C. T. U. president. Here comes Georgia with 37 women, 16 are superintendents of schools, six are tax collectors, five are tax receivers, six hold the office of probate judge, two are clerks of the county court, and two are county treasurers. It is reported that most of these women ae dry, especially the superintendent of schools, most of which are white ribboners. Idaho follows with many in public office. Illinois, with 20 women in offices such as county judge, civil service commission, circuit court judges. Indiana gives us one as state treasurer, superintendent of the woman's prison and director of department of public health nursing and one who has been a life long W. C. T. U. woman, has a long list of achievements to her credit. Iowa has six women engaged as school superintendents, commissioner of finance, collector of customs and they are strong prohibitionists. Kansas has such a long list that only few can be mentioned. They have positions in all kinds of educational work, county treasurers, sheriffs, probate judges, a chief clerk in the state legislature who also serves as vice president of W. C. T. U. and a Kansas correspondent says that a woman who is given public responsibility in that state is always a dry. Kentucky gives us state treasurers, secretary of state, police judge and police women as ardent workers in W. C. T. U. Maryland has a chief of division of public health education, principal of state normal school, secretary of the state board of motion pictures and many commission members all being women. Massachusetts has an assistant attorney-general, director of immigration and Americanization, assistant commissioner of labor, the chief insurance examiner and the first woman member of the governor's council is an active member of the W. C. T. U. We would not forget Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former U. S. assistant attorney-general. One of the foremost women of our day is Mrs. Ella A. Boole, national president of the W. C. T. U. whose name is known from coast to coast and her book "Give Prohibition A Chance," is a book well worth reading. About the wets dealing in future she calls attention to the announced "national convention" of the women's committee for prohibition reform to have been held in Indianapolis last fall which failed to materialize. Another convention announced to be held in Ohio, likewise never became a matter of history. Together with the Women's Moderate union, the women's committee for prohibition reform announced that they would stage a mass meeting of women in Washington as the present congress convened to show the sentiment of American women opposed to prohibition. Mrs. Boole remarks that if such a meeting was ever held there was never anything about it in the newspapers and there are more than 200 newspaper correspondents in Washington, many of them eagerly awaiting such a piece of news as a mass meeting of women opposed to the 18th amendment. This failure of the organizations opposed to prohibition to put into operation plans and programs which have been given much publicity is nothing new, says Mrs. Boole. Ten years ago the Association Against the Prohibition amendment announced it would replace 200 dry congressmen with 200 wet congressmen. In every congress elected since then the dry majority has been larger and larger until the wets are able to list only 108 membes of both houses out of a total membership of 531. Instead of replacing 200 drys with 200 wets the great wet leaders of ten years ago are themselves out of congress including Senator Wadsworth of New York, Rep. Hill of Maryland and the senatorial "beer bloc" composed of Senators Bruce, Edge, Edwards and Reed.

Referring to the newspaper statement that the Civil Liberty league of Boston will sponsor parades in opposition to prohibition, in which 25,000,000 people will march in many cities on a date in April, Mrs. Boole recalls that a few years ago such a parade was organized for New York city. It was announced that 400,000 men and women were to be in the line of march. Special trains, and the advance publicity, would be run to carry the great crowds. An accurate count of the marchers taken by a machine manufactured for just such purposes showed scarcely 10,000 people in line. In view of all these facts, concludes Mrs. Boole, would it not be well to check up on the widely advertised promises and plans of the loud but diminishing wet group and give some attention to the wide difference between promise and performance.

We of Norwich are happy to know that there are women in our city who are doing things worth while to help make our city a good clean city to live in, clean in every way, morally, socially, spiritually, mentally, and to know that women all over our United States are banded together for this one purpose and one can be satisfied with being nothing but the best for we are living in a great day and age and women have a large part in it.

A PROGRESSIVE CITIZEN.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

Malleable Iron Fittings Company, Branford.

The Malleable Iron Fittings company is representative of many of the manufacturing corporations of New England which have grown from small beginnings. In 1845 the Totoket company was organized by Messrs. Elizur Rogers and B. H. Hadley, to do a general foundry business in malleable iron.

In 1864 James J. Walworth and Joseph Nason, pioneers in steam heating business in this country, together with Emil C. Hammer, Thorvald F. Hammer and other Boston men, organized the Malleable Iron Fittings company and purchased the plant of the Totoket company.

Malleable iron pie fittings was at first the only production, and the report of July 1865, covering the first full period of twelve months, stated the production of the year had been 304,833 3-4 pounds, equivalent to 152 tons, or approximately one half ton per day.

Later the production of miscellaneous malleable castings for machinery and general use became a large part of the business. In 1906 the manufacture of steel castings by a converter process was started. In 1918 an open hearth furnace was installed for the production of heavier steel castings, and in 1929 an electric steel furnace was placed in operation.

The present annual capacity of the plan is 6000 tons of pipe fittings, 7500 tons of malleable castings and 10,000 tons of steel castings.

The present officers are: Alfred E. Hammer, president, treasurer, general manager; V. T. Hammer, assistant treasurer, superintendent; L. J. Nichols, secretary.

FIGHTING FOR $30,000 PELATIAH MABREY ESTATE

Legal contest for the $30,000 estate of Pelatiah Ladd Mabrey, 75, who died in Franklin in 1928, was started in the superior court Tuesday at New London before Judge Allyn L. Brown in the trial of the suit of Mrs. Addie R. Barber of this city against Lloyd P. Ayer, administrator of the Pelatiah Mabrey estate.

The case is an appeal from the Norwich probate court, which has declared William H. Mabrey and Mrs. Margaret M. Semple, both of this city, to be the legal heirs.

These two heirs base their claim to the estate that they are the children of Stephen J. Mabrey, a son of William H. Mabrey by his first wife, Amelia Fuller, the said William H. Mabrey also being the father of Pelatiah Mabrey by his second wife, Caroline Ladd, of Franklin.

The appeal of Mrs. Barber, a niece of Caroline Ladd Mabrey, is on the ground that Pelatiah Ladd Mabrey was not of Mabrey blood at all, but was the illegitimate son of Caroline Ladd Mabrey and that his father was a Baltic man. She claims that this was well known in the Franklin family and that when William H. Mabrey died in Pennsylvania, where he lived for many years separated from his wife, there was a clause in his will which said, "not one cent to Pelatiah Mabrey, so-named, as I do not claim any relation to him as he is not my son."

Mrs. Christopher M. Gallup, of "Crissways", North Stonington has returned, after several days' stay in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. William T. Crandall are at the Natural Bridge, Virginia, for ten days.

Mrs. Gerard Lester Parker, of Brookline, Mass., (Fannie Arnold Carpenter, of Norwich) who sailed on the Leviathan Saturday for Paris, accompanied by her younger daughter, Miss Lester Parker, has announced the engagement of her elder daughter, Miss Annette Parker to Robert Eugene Otto, of Paris and Miami. The wedding will takep lace at the American Cathedral, Paris, late in April or early in May, Miss Lester Parker being her sister's maid of honor. Mr. Otto and his bride will reside in Paris, except as business interests call the former to Miami. Miss Parker is an accomplished musician. After being graduated from a Back Bay school she studied piano at the National Cathedral School, Washington, later at the Garland School, Boston. For upwards of two years she has been abroad, studying music in Paris and London. Mr. Otto, who is the son of Mrs. T. O. Otto, of Key West, Fla., attended the University of Virginia. While spending much of his time in Paris as a student of painting, he has business interests in Miami. Miss Parker's father was the late Gerard Lester Parker, of Brookline, a native of Norwich. She is a niece of Mrs. Martin E. Jensen, Mrs. Elizabeth R. Boss and Henry F. Parker, of Norwich. Her mother is a graduate of Norwich Free Academy and of Wellesley.

PROPRIETOR OF "CHICKENCOOP" AT JEWETT CITY GUILTY: SENTENCED

On trial here Tuesday afternoon in the common pleas court before Judge C. B. Waller and a jury, Alexander Behnke, 64, proprietor of a small store at 62 Mechanic street, Jewett City, was found guilty on two counts of violation of the liquor law, alleging sale of a pint of whiskey on Oct. 22, 1929, to Herbert Gray and James Eustis, two employes of a detective agency, and to keeping a place with the reputation for selling liquor.

He was fined $100 on the first count, $200 with costs on the second count and given a 60-day jail sentence. Behnke was defended by Attorney E. W. Perkins of this city and Attorney John J. Sarkewicz, of Worcester, who made a plea for leniency for him on the ground that his wife is seriously sick in a hospital in Providence under necessity for an operation. Attorney Richard Dudkowski, who assisted Prosecuting Attorney C. B. Whittlesey in the case, countered the plea for leniency by stating that the Behnke place had been one of the sore spots in Jewett City; a place hard to catch, and that Mrs. Behnke had at times been in court taking the blame for her husband.

Testimony In Case

Herbert J. Gray of 157 Fairmount avenue, Boston, an employe of a Bridgeport detective agency, was the first witness. He testified to being in Alexander Behnke's store at Jewett City twice before Oct. 22. The first time he was soliciting for the sale of electric irons and he bought a package of cigarettes. On the morning of Oct. 22, Gray said he went into Behnke's store with James Eustis. Each bought a round of drinks, which was "alki" splits, the witness said, and he also bought a half pint of whiskey. The drinks were 25 cents and the whiskey $1.

Prosecuting Attorney Whittlesey introduced a pint bottle containing a white liquid which the defense attorneys admitted was intoxicating liquor, but did not admit it came from Behnke's place.

The bottle, the witness said, was turned over to Mr. Forrest, head of the detective agency, who was also in Jewett City that day. Gray said that he is now employed with a concern in Boston, which is not a detective agency and that Eustis is now in Chester, N. H.

On cross-examination by Attorney Sarkewicz, Gray denied that he had a drink of ginger ale or orangeade on the day he bought the liquor. When they went into the store, Behnke came out from a rear room and Eustis asked Gray if he'd have a drink. Behnke produced the drinks and Gray said he then bought a couple of drinks and then the half pint of liquor. The witness was asked about any notes he made but he said he did not have them as they were in the possession of the detective agency.

Drunks On Minister's Lawn

Rev. John W. Carter, 52 Mechanic street, Jewett City, the Methodist minister there, testified that there were three homes between where he lives and the Behnke place. The place had a very bad reputation, the witness said, as to sale of liquor. From 25 to 30 men daily and about 100 on Sunday pass his home towards the Behnke place and after being there about two hours would return grossly intoxicated, some lying on his lawn so that he had to call the police. He had seen men exchange bottles in front of his house and at night his family had been disturbed by men who visited the place and used very abusive and bad language.

The witness was cross-examined by Attorney Perkins, stating that his home is on an alleyway in such a position that men going to the Behnke place had to go past his home and that he had watched them frequently going to and from Behnke's place.

Called the "Chicken Coop"

After the noon recess, L. D. Howe of 14 Palmer street, a belt fixer in the Aspinook bleachery at Jewett City, was the first witness. He said he goes past Behnke's place several times every day on the way to work and that the place was known throughout the town as the "Chicken Coop" and had a reputation of selling liquor. He had noticed men going to the Behnke place sober and coming away under the influence of liquor.

On cross-examination by the Worcester attorney, Mr. Howe said he had seen men going into the Behnke house at the back entrance, up from the railroad. Asked if he thought a man could get drunk in the flash of an eye, the witness answered, "Well, those knockout drops work pretty quick."

John T. Barry of Jewett City, judge of the town court in Griswold, was asked by Prosecuting Attorney Whittlesey if he knew the reputation of the Behnke place.

Attorney Sarkewicz objected on the ground that Judge Barry had set on this case involving reputation, and Judge Waller advised that the testimony be not received.

William M. Forrest of Wakefield, Mass., head of the detective agency, identified the liquor bottle exhibit in court as having been received from Gray in Jewett City on Oct. 22.

On cross-examination, the Worcester attorney stressed the point that Eustis was not here to testify, though he is still in the control of Forrest. The witness was grilled on his employment of "spotters" in liquor cases and why Eustis was not in court to testify.

Gray was recalled by the prosecution, testifying that he telephoned to Eustis at Chester, N. H., at 5:30 Monday afternoon. He said that Eustis said he could not get out of Chester till this (Tuesday) morning and it would take seven hours to get here.

County Detective William Lewis of New London testified to receiving the bottle of liquor from Forrest on the night of Oct. 22.

Defendant Denies Charges

At this point the state rested and the defendant, Behnke, was called to the stand. He described the place he lives in, consisting of the store and four rooms downstairs, and nine rooms upstairs occupied by roomers. There is a separate rear entrance to those rooms. The witness also described the adjoining property. He said he had seen drunken men on the street many times, but didn't know where they came from or went to. There is a house in the rear occupied by a family.

As to the time Gray and Eustis came to his place, Behnke testified that the two came in and one put a package on the counter. Then Gray asked for orange soda and Eustis asked for ginger. Eustis also asked for Pippin cigars and 50 cents was paid to Behnke, who gave back 20 cents in change. While they were in the place one of the two went around looking into the counters and shelves. Behnke denied that the two men asked for whiskey and paid him a dollar for a bottle or that he served them any liquor or he ever served liquor or had drunken men around his place. Behnke said Gray had been in his place only once.

With the testimony of Behnke the defense rested and the arguments were made before the jury by Prosecuting Attorney Whittlesey for the state and by Attorney Sarkewicz and Attorney Perkins for the accused.

Judge Waller handed the case over to the jury after delivering his charge, which occupied about 25 minutes.

The jury came back in 30 minutes, when Foreman Martin E. Jensen reported the verdict of guilty on both counts.

Behnke was then put to plea as a second offender because of a conviction in 1927, pleading guilty, and Prosecuting Attorney Whittlesey moved for sentence, asking a fine and a jail sentence.

Judge Waller made the sentence $100 fine on the first count, $200 fine with costs and 60 days in jail on the second count.

Court adjourned to this (Wednesday) morning at 10 o'clock for further business.

The jury on the Behnke case was Martin E. Jensen, Norwich; Jesse Crary, Frank Krug, J. Guy Ayer, Preston; Alvin D. Douglas, Griswold; Harry Gilman, Colchester; Edward J. Standish, Frederick C. Winchester, Salem; Frank K. Noyes, Frank B. Nye, Lebanon; Henry J. Kendall, Frank A. Mell, Lisbon.

TRIALS DEFERRED IN SUPERIOR COURT CASES

Six cases which were assigned for the superior court in New London on Tuesday were otherwise disposed of, three going off for re-assignment, two being excused for a day and one being deferred for a day when it is expected that a stipulated judgment will be reached.

The cases which were excused for a day are those of Lina Beckwith of New London, against Harriet J. Bishop, administratrix for the estate of Julia L. Sistare, late of that city, in which damages of $2,000 are sought for service alleged to have been rendered; and the $10,000 alienation suit brought by Frank Kesslar of Stonington against Edwin L. Wilkinson of Stonington.

In the suit for $1,500 damages brought by William L. Main of Stonington against the Sharaf Furniture company of New London, for alleged rent bill due, Attorney Benjamin Hewitt for the plaintiff, stated that a stipulated judgment would probably be entered into.

The cases which went off for reassignment are those of Julianna Ruszenas of Griswold against John Ruszenas of Griswold in which a divorce is sought on grounds of cruelty; Emilia Zelenski against Louis Zelenski, of this city, in which a divorce is sought on grounds of cruelty, and Nicholas Sammataro against Medeline Piscitell, both of New London, in which damages of $5,000 are sought in a suit which alleges that on November 5, 1928, the defendant assaulted the plaintiff with a meat cleaver, inflicted a deep cut on the right side of his face and inflicted other injuries with a broom.

CONSERVATION MEETING BY LEBANON D. A. R.

Gov. Jonathan Trumbull chapter, D. A. R., held its April meeting Monday afternoon in the parlors of the First Congregational church at Lebanon with the regent, Miss Annie Gillett, presiding. The meeting opened in the usual manner with salute to the flag and the Lord's Prayer. The regent gave a report of the state meeting held in Bridgeport which she attended. The report of the secretary, Miss Laura McCall, was read. Miss Clara Gillett was welcomed into membership.

As it was conservation meeting, different members brought things for exhibition. Several articles on the conservation of flowers were read. "The Vandals", by Mrs. Fred Bliss; "The Outdoor Code", "Protect Our Rare Native Plants", and "Laws of Connecticut About Wild Plants", were read by Mrs. O. L. Pults and an article about "Forest Fires" was read by Miss Clara Gillett.

The meeting closed with the D. A. R. pledge. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served.

GAVE RADIO BROADCAST FROM HARTFORD STATION

Miss Charlotte Brooks, soprano, and Walter Brooks, pianist, of Montville gave their fourth broadcast from radio station WTIC in Hartford last Saturday afternoon. Lasting 20 minutes the programme consisted of "At Dawning," "Sunshine of Your Smile" and "Love Here Is My Heart", Miss Brooks being in excellent voice and displaying a marked control of tone-color and phrasing. Her brother accompanied at the piano in a musicianly manner. His solo offerings were a paraphrase of "Old Folks at Home" and Louis Alter's composition in classical syncopation "Manhattan Serenade." Mr. Brooks played in his usual clean-cut style which showed technical mastery and artistic interpretation of a high degree. Miss Brooks received her vocal training in Hartford and has appeared in numerous engagements throughout Connecticut, and Mr. Brooks is a piano and harmony student with the Sparks' school of music and a member of a New London orchestra. Radio fans in several states together with local admirers are looking forward to another broadcast by these talented entertainers who have received many letters asking for request numbers.

LAUREL CASE INFORMER GETS HALF OF FINES

Judge Charles B. Waller in the common pleas court here Tuesday ordered that half of fines assessed against two persons last September in the criminal court of common pleas be turned over to the informer.

The persons fined are Peter Basius and Peter Patterson of Niantic, each being penalized $50 and costs for theft of mountain laurel. The informer is Theodore Trakas of Niantic. Atty. Henry L. McGuire, counsel for Trakas, appeared in court to petition for half of the fines. It was set forth that Trakas furnished the information leading to the arrest of Basius and Patterson, and that a provision of the public acts sets forth that the informer may collect one-half the fine levied in court.

NON-SUIT ORDERED IN AUDREY PALMER'S SUIT

Judge Earnest C. Simpson in superior court at Bridgeport Tuesday ordered non-suits entered in the action brought by Audrey Palmer of Stamford, against her sisters in law, Virginia and Theodora Palmer of New London. The action arose over the plaintiff's claim to a $400,000 share of the estate of her late husband, Charles T. Palmer, manufacturer of quilts.

The claim was made that the two defendants were illegally in possession of the one-half share of the estate that was claimed to have been taken through the perpetration of a fraud upon the plaintiff.

Opening State Trail System

The first completed portion of the Connecticut trail system will be formally opened next Saturday. The New Haven section has been working on the southern portion of the Quinnipiac Trail, and ten miles of through route from Mount Carmel to Mount Sanford, with some side trails, are now marked and ready for use. Members of the association and the general public are invited to the official opening. Bethany Gap has been selected for the opening, because of parking space and the opportunity to sample representative portions of the trail.

The programme will be as follows: 10:30—Start of 5 mile walk, over York mountain and return by road. 11:30—Short walk to cliffs on York mountain, about 2 miles. 1:30—Luncheon (bring your own, but hot coffee will be provided). 2:00—Presentation of Trail to the public, Col. T. S. Woolsey presiding. 2:30—Walk to cliffs on York mountain, repeated, about 2 miles. 2:30—Start of 6 mile walk, over Mad Man's Hill and return by road.

SOCIAL WORKERS' COUNCIL HELD AT BACKUS HOSPITAL

The April meeting of the Social Workers' council of New London and Windham counties was held at the nurses' home of the William Backus hospital, Tuesday afternoon, at 2.30 o'clock, with Miss Elizabeth Anderson of Willimantic, president, in the chair. Minutes of the previous meeting were read by Miss Grace Thomas and accepted. Treasurer's report by Miss Esther Hill also was accepted as read. Miss Julia Corcoran, chairman of the nominating committee, brought in the slate of officers for the coming year, all of whom were voted upon and accepted—President, Miss Elizabeth Anderson, Willimantic; vice president, Miss Gertrude Osborne, New London; treasurer, Miss Esther Hill, Norwich; secretary, Miss Gladys Taber, New London; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Niola Whiteside, New London; publicity, Miss Veronica Sweeney, New London; program, Miss Irma Hutzler, Norwich; legislature, Judge Frank H. Foss, Willimantic; social, Miss Kate McKenzie, Norwich; membership, Mrs. Nancy Kromer, Norwich.

Miss Margaret Bridgers, visiting teacher in the Norwich schools, made an announcement relative to the state conference to be held in New Haven during the month. She called attention to the dinner meeting to be held at the Hotel Taft, April 28, at 6 o'clock, the subject to be "Problems of Adolescence." The speakers will be Miss Ethel M. Cherry of the National Girls' Protective council, and William Lewis Butler of the New York Crime association. Sponsoring this meeting will be the following groups: Big Brother and Big Sister federation, Probate Officers' association, Visiting Teachers, Boys' Workers, Connecticut Girls' Protective association.

Miss Grace Thomas called attention to the forum meeting on social legislature to be held at the Center church parish house, New Haven, April 29th, 9:30 to 11 o'clock, a. m. This is open to members of the social groups of the state.

The meeting was then turned over to Frederic H. Wyant of the Connecticut Humane society, who introduced the speaker of the day—Principal Henry A. Tirrell of the Academy—who spoke on "Character," giving a most inspiring talk which was closely listened to by the large number present.

In attendance were the following from Norwich: Miss Nancy Tomlinson, Miss Margaret Bridgers, Miss Irma Hutzler, Miss Esther Hill, Miss Constance Raymond, Mrs. Nancy Kromer, Mrs. Frank A. Mitchell, Mrs. Albert H. Chase, Miss Kate McKenzie, Miss Helen Murphy, Mrs. Daniel Polsky, Mrs. Rose Hutzler, Miss Julia Corcoran, Miss Grace Thomas, Miss Durr, Miss Gadle, Miss Lucy Abbott, Miss Anslow, Miss Anna McGrory, William S. Murray, Frederic H. Wyant. From New London; Miss Gladys Taber, Miss Gertrude Osborne, Miss Desmond, Miss Sweeney, Miss Murphy. From Windham county: Miss Elizabeth Anderson, Miss Boomhower.

The next meeting is to be held in June at a date and place to be announced.

BRADFORD'S RESIGNATION IS NOW IN EFFECT

The resignation of Sheriff George H. Bradford of Montville as a member of the board of New London county commissioners, became effective Tuesday, but as yet Governor Trumbull has not named his successor, and in the opinion of many prominent republican leaders in this section of the county, the governor will refrain from filling the vacancy.

Bradford, who was appointed as high sheriff of this county, upon the death of Sheriff Sidney A. Brown, tendered his resignation as county commissioner on April 1, and, in accepting it, Governor Trumbull stated that the resignation would become effective on April 15th.

In support of their contention that Governor Trumbull could refrain from making an appointment of a county commissioner, those familiar with the situation say there is no real need for a full board at this time and the present commissioners, Charles H. Smith of Noank, and Elisha Waterman, of Lebanon, can carry on the work of the board until the legislature convenes in January. The principal business before the board right at this time is the new county home which is being erected in Norwich, but it was pointed out that all of the plans for the structure have been completed and that all that remains is the proper execution of these plans, and that this task which can easily be executed by Commissioner Smith and Waterman.

FINED IN MILK BOTTLE LIQUOR CASE

During a recess here Tuesday afternoon in the common pleas court in trial of the Behnke case, John J. Donahue of this city was presented before Judge C. B. Waller and pleaded guilty to the charge of sale of liquor on Nov. 7, 1929 to Herbert Gray and James Eustic, two employes of a detective agency.

He was fined $200 and costs, Attorney Thomas J. Kelly appearing for him and City Attorney Charles W. Cassidy stating to the court that Donahue went out of the liquor business the day after the evidence was secured against him at 35 North Main street.

The two detective agency employes visited the North Main street place, claiming to have bought drinks there and collected the evidence by pouring the liquor into an empty milk bottle which one of the men had in his coat pocket.

The non-support case of Herbert James was continued to the next term of court.

Modern Method Removes All Your CORNS At Same Time!

Who'd be so foolish to attempt to give each corn individual attention—to run risk of blood-poisoning by cutting corns— to be bothered with old fashioned plasters and harmful acids?

The safest and real modern way to remove corns, root and all—out to stay is soak them every night for 3 or 4 nights in an invigorating, stimulating Radox Footbath.

Then put on modish shoes again, walk and dance with greatest comfort because there's nothing left to ache. No pain, no trouble.

Radox liberates oxygen which softens hard outer layer of corn, each night penetrating further and further thru the pores, carrying the salts to actual root of corn, so loosening it that it comes right out. Nothing like healthy, free from corn feet to assure happy days! Get a 60 cent package of Radox at Lee & Osgood or any drugstore.

CHAMPION ATHLETICS CARRY ON FROM WHERE THEY LEFT OFF BEATING YANKS

PHILADELPHIA, April 15.—(AP)—Picking up the winning habit where they left off last October, Connie Mack's sprightly young band of Athletics started their 1930 American league campaign impressively today and to the complete satisfaction of 33,000 fans by trouncing the New York Yankees, 6 to 2.

It was a cold, gray day, more suited to football than baseball, but otherwise there was nothing to disturb the hometown enthusiasm for the dashing and effective manner in which the world's champions got off their marks at the expense of the club generally picked to make it tough for them.

Al Simmons celebrated the last-minute signing of his contract by clouting a home run on his first turn at bat, Robert Moses Grove southpawed the Metropolitan clan into an almost complete state of subjection and the A's collectively displayed every intention of going places and doing things this season. They jumped on the right-handed offerings of George Pipgras with considerable vehemence and made most of their eight hits count, aided and abetted by some very erratic Yankee defensive work. In short, the Mackmen looked and acted the part of the world's champions they are.

It was a typical Grove day with dark clouds overhead to make the field a bit hazy, and Robert Moses made the most of the favorable circumstances after a somewhat slow start. After the third inning when the Yankees scored both their runs, Grove was virtually invincible. He allowed only three hits in the last six innings and only six altogether, as he mixed a baffling curve with his smoke-ball, and collected nine strikeout victims, including everyone in the Yankee lineup except Koenig and Gehrig.

But for some sloppy fielding by himself and Jimmy Foxx in the third inning, Grove might have had a shutout, in spite of a tremendous clout by Babe Ruth that was kept from going over the fence by striking the loud-speaking device in deep right center.

Koenig walked with one out in the third and Ruth then belted one that was labeled home run all the way. It was headed out of the park, sailing a good six feet over the wall, when the ball suddenly bounced off one of the speaking cones and back into the field.

Ruth was held to a double and Koenig at third base. The amplifying device was silent at the time but Ruth had plenty to say when he found his prospective round trip of the bases cut in half. Gehrig then rolled one down the first base line to Foxx, whose throw to the plate was poor and then fumbled by Grove, allowing both Koenig and Ruth to score.

These two runs tied the score, offsetting Simmons' homer over the right field wall in the first with Haas on base, but the Athletics clinched the game in their half of the third, aided by a "double-bone" play by Lazzeri and Koenig that probably has had no parallel.

After Max Bishop scored what proved to be the winning run on his single, a passed ball and Haas' drive to center, Cochrane flied out and Simmons hit to shortstop for what looked like a certain double play. Koenig's throw to Lazzeri forced Haas but the Yankee second sacker assumed this to be the third out, made no attempt to throw to first and tossed his glove to the ground.

In the confusion, Koenig retrieved the ball and started galloping after Haas in the direction of third base, although the latter had already been put out. During this weird performance—reminiscent of Heinie Zimmerman's famous chase of Eddie Collins across the plate in an old world's series game—Simmons dashed to second base. He scored on Foxx's single to center.

The Athletics scored another in the fifth on Bishop's walk, Haas' sacrifice and Cochrane's single. They tallied their last run off Henry Johnson in the seventh, Bishop crossing the plate for the third time on another pass, a single by Haas and a wild pitch by Johnson. The Yankees meanwhile were swinging earnestly but with great futility at the offerings of Robert Moses.

PIRATES COME FROM BEHIND TO NOSE OUT REDS

CINCINNATI, Ohio, April 15.—(AP)—Heavy hitting and a lead which changed hands four times featured today's opening game which Pittsburgh won from the Reds, 7 to 6. Thirty-two hits were made for a total of 43 bases. Bartell and Hemsley hit consecutive home runs at the start of the second inning. Paul Waner led the Pirates' attack with four hits in as many times at bat. Both starting pitchers, Lucas and Kremer, were knocked from the box. The attendance was 30,112.

RESUME OF BALL GAMES BY RADIO EACH EVENING

NEW YORK, April 15.—(AP)—A daily resume of major league baseball scores compiled by the Associated Press will be given by the National Broadcasting company through WJZ, New York, throughout the season. Each program will last five minutes. The service was inaugurated last night with the results of the game between Washington and Boston at Washington.

Sunday nights the scores will be heard between 6:55 and 7 o'clock, eastern standard time; Mondays, 7:30 to 7:35; Tuesday, 6:10 to 6:15 until Sept. 29 when the period will be changed to 7:15 to 7:20; Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, 7:30 to 7:35 o'clock, and Saturday, 6:40 to 6:45.

Tea Barry Pays Long Odds

SAN FRANCISCO, April 15.—(AP)—The long odds of $305 on a $5 option ticket were paid at the Tanforan track today when Tea Barry won the third race, a 5 1-2 furlong sprint. Tanglefoot was second and Madame Valera, the favorite, was third. The time was 1:14 3-5.

SWEETLAND BLANKS ROBINS WITH 3 HITS IN OPENER

BROOKLYN, April 15.—(AP)—Lester Sweetland, Philadelphia southpaw ace, took complete charge of the opening game here today and shut out the Robins, 1 to 0. Sweetland held the Brooklyns to three hits, scattered through the first three innings, and his double in the eighth opened the rally which gave the Phillies their one run.

The largest opening day crowd on record for Ebbets field, estimated at 27,000, saw Sweetland and William Watson Clark, his left-handed rival, engage in a spectacular pitching duel. Sweetland needed help/only in the first inning when Hurst dived across the foul line to knock down Hendrick's bid for a single with two on base.

After the third inning, Sweetland retired 18 men in order. Clark kept his hits well scattered until the late innings with the run coming in the eighth. After the opposing pitcher's double, Clark nearly saved the game by fanning O'Doul on three pitches, but Klein came through with a hit.

CROWD OF 8,000 SEES SENATORS DOWN RED SOX

BOSTON, April 15.—(AP)—But 8,000 fans saw the Washington Senators defeat the Red Sox, 6 to 1, in Boston's big league opening game here today. It was cold and windy and such weather, coming after the hottest day of the present year, kept the attendance down.

Lloyd Brown, southpaw, held the Sox to three hits. Two of them came in the sixth when Ruffing doubled and Miller singled to give Boston its lone tally.

Joe Cronin, Washington shortstop, was the outstanding performer. Cronin scored two mates ahead of him with a homer in the first inning and in the eighth his sacrifice fly scored Meyers, who had tripled. His fielding was brilliant as was that of Bill Regan, Sox second baseman.

Gov. Frank G. Allen threw out the first ball.

ROOKIE PITCHER STARS IN TIGERS' VICTORY OVER BROWNS

DETROIT, April 15—(AP)—Whitlow Wyatt, recruit right hander, starred in the role of relief pitcher as the Detroit Tigers defeated the St. Louis Browns 6 to 3, in the season's opening game at Navin field today.

After the Browns had found George Uhle, Detroit starting pitcher for 12 hits including three home runs, Wyatt turned the visitors back hitless for three innings. Sam Gray started for St. Louis and was followed by Holshouser and Kimsey. The Browns failed i nthe pinches, leaving 13 runners on base.

Uhle, for Detroit, and Gullic, Kress and Schulte of St. Louis hit home runs.

Cold weather and flurries of snow and rain kept many fans at home, but 27,000 persons saw the game.

GIANTS TAKE LOOSE BUT CLOSE GAME FROM BRAVES

NEW YORK, April 15.—(AP)— The New York Giants opened the National league season here today by taking a close but poorly played game from the Boston Braves, 3 to 2.

Bill Walker, Giant left hander, continued his winning streak of 1929 by pitching a fine game. An error was partly responsible for the two Boston runs and deprived him of his chance for a shutout. Harry Seibold of Boston was a bit weaker and received even worse support.

Seibold walked in the first run after a contributing error and another misplay gave New York its second counter. From the fourth inning to the ninth it was a scoreless duel. The winning runs came after two were out in the ninth, Leach doubled to bring in Marshall, who had reached first on a fielder's choice. The Braves had the better of the hitting, eleven blows to nine.

Accept Challenge

The B. S. A. C. Juniors accept Jewett City's challenge for a game to be played in Jewett City on Sunday at 2:30. Please call the Baltic club and inform Baltic as to the field to be used.

Yesterday there were two kinds of fishermen, those who caught fish and those who didn't.

Scene in the home of him who did. The fisherman comes bustling in all pepped up and his face wreathed in smiles. He rushes over to the wife and grabs her up:

"Break out the old frying pan, Honey, the original Isaac Walton has returned home with his basket filled with young whales. Never saw such fishing. Why those hungry denizens of the brook acted like they hadn't seen a worm since last year."

"The only thing that stopped me from bringing home a wheel barrow full was the law. Now look at that baby, ain't he a beauty. And what a battle he give me. The minute he hit that old line I knew I had a big one, and say, you oughta see me play him. A coupla times I thought I'd lost him but it takes a spry fish to get off a line with me on the other end of it."

"And see that beauty there? Well I hooked him right out of a pool where a coupla other guys had fished and given it up. I hadn't anymore'n dropped my line in the water before he tore at it. He come so fast I could see the swirl in the water. Ain't he a dandy, huh?"

"And now look at this one. Oh, well, I just thought you'd like to see 'em before I cleaned 'em that's all. No, I wasn't going to tell how each one was caught but it ain't any worse for you to listen to me telling how I caught some fish than it is for me to listen to you tell how you make a grand slam in no trumps."

Oh, all right I'll clean 'em. And while I'm cleaning 'em you get the pan ready, and we'll have a feast fit for a king.'

And now the scene shifts to the home of the fisherman who didn't get any fish:

"Say, what's the matter, ain't dinner ready yet? What, you ain't got any meat 'cause you thought I was going to bring home enough fish for dinner? You're one of those kind of women who'd throw away her umbrella just as soon as the sun comes out."

"I never saw such fishing. I don't believe you could have caught minnow if you had a seine. This stocking brooks is a lotta bunk. If there's a trout in that brook I fished then I'm a Grecian dancer. And I wasn't the only one didn't get any fish, there's plenty of others besides me. And to think that we pay $3.35 for a fishing license because the state is putting fish in the brooks."

"Of course it was cold and I darn near froze. And now I come home and find there ain't nothing to eat for dinner. What, I should go down to the store for some meat? What have you been doing all day, playing bridge or going to the movies and not giving me a thought. Ain't that just like a woman.'

Well, rush something together. I'm starved and tired. I'll just camp on the couch while you're getting it."

And then we see them both later in the evening. Both are reclining on the couch in their respective homes. And both are complaining with sore feet, pains in the back, and emitting a sneeze or two. Both are paying in the same measure, but one caught fish and one didn't but both caught cold.

Blair Cormier, the Isaac Walton of Fancy Corner, pulled the prize one yesterday. Blair was up bright and early having gathered the worms and put up his lunch the night before. He starts out early in the morning and when almost to the brook finds he has the sandwiches but the worms are home. Blair says he might have used the meat in the sandwiches for bait but they were bean sandwiches so he had to return home for the worms.

CLOSE TO 200,000 FANS SEE OPENING GAMES

NEW YORK, April 15— (AP) —Although cold and threatening weather held down the attendance in some places, nearly 200,000 fans turned out today to see the opening games of the 1930 baseball season. New York's National league opener between the Giants and Boston Braves at the Polo grounds drew the largest crowd, estimated at 40,00. The struggle between the Athletics and New York Yankees at Philadelphia drew 33,000 fans. With Boston and St. Louis suffering from bad weather and the Chicago game postponed, the total attendance for seven games was estimated at 197,500.

The crowd estimates follow:

National League
At New York 40,000.
At Brooklyn 27,000.
At Cincinnati 30,000.
At St. Louis 12,000
Total—109,000.

American League
At Philadelphia 33,000.
At Detroit 27,000.
At Boston 8,500.
Total—68,500.

SWIMMING MEET SLATED FOR PLAINFIELD POOL TONIGHT

At the swimming pool at the Plainfield Community house this evening the Plainfield swimming team takes on the New London team in a fast program of swimming events. Having won over the Manchester Recreation team at the Plainfield pool last week, the Plainfield boys are confident of sinking the Whalers tonight. The Plainfield swimmers will be Burby, Connelley, Korab, Lang, Mette, T. Smith, J. Smith and Collins.

The events are: 40-yard free style, 40-yard backstroke, 40-yard breaststroke, 100-yard free style, 220-yard free style, diving and the 160-yard relay. New London is reported as having a fast team of swimmers who feel confident that they can swamp the Plainfield mermen.

SCHOOL LEAGUE OPENS AT WESTERLY TODAY

Play in the Eastern Connecticut-Western Rhode Island Interscholastic league will get underway today with the Chapman Tech-Westerly game at Westerly to be followed on Saturday with Stonington against Bulkeley at Stonington and Windham and Chapman Tech at New London.

The Academy, champs of the circuit for the past five years, will swing into action next Wednesday against Stonington and then follow with Chapman Tech the next Saturday, both games being at the campus.

CUBS TAKE SLUGGING MATCH FROM CARDS AS THEY GO AFTER ANOTHER TITLE

ST. LOUIS, April 15.—(AP)—The slugging Chicago Cubs, champions of the National league, pounded five St. Louis Cardinal pitchers for 15 hits and won the opening game of the season here today, 9 to 8, despite a ninth-inning Cardinal rally which threatened to turn the tide. Official attendance was 14,000.

The Cub attack included six doubles and a triple. Flint Rhem, who started on the mound for the locals, was knocked out in the third inning after he had allowed five doubles and three singles.

Then followed a parade of Card pitchers—Hill, Grabowski, Haid and Sherdel. The veteran Hill, who was released by the Pirates last year via the waiver route, proved the most effective, allowing only three hits and one run in five innings. He struck out four men, including Rogers Hornsby and Hack Wilson in succession in the seventh inning.

Hill was taken out for a pinch hitter and the Cubs landed on Grabowski and Haid in the eighth for four runs which seemed to put the game on ice. This rally came after the Cards had taken advantage of Guy Bush's wildness in the seventh to put over three runs.

In the ninth, Frisch tripled and Bottomley walked to start a rally. Fisher hit his fourth single of the game to score Frisch. Then Gilbert, with two men on, struck out.

Sheriff Blake pitched a masterful game for the Cubs until he tired and was taken out in the seventh.

Mayor Victor Miller pitched the first ball in simple opening day ceremonies.

Cloudy weather held down attendance but a slight sprinkle during the early innings did not halt the game.

LES CROWELL TOPS ACADEMY BATTERS FOR THREE GAMES

For the first three games of the season, all against non-scholastic opponents, the Academy has batted for a .295 average. This seems rather a low average for early season games but it must be remembered that two of the three teams that have faced the Wildcats are as strong, if not better, than the average high school.

Les Crowell, right fielder, is leading the team with a mark of .571, followed by Speed Reardon, second baseman, with .500 and Captain Gibbs, shortstop, with .400. Mickey Breen, third baseman, is fourth with .364 and a pair of pitchers, Butsy Weisgraber and Chuck Lavarge, round out the first five tied with .333.

Gibbs has two home runs which helped put him far ahead in total bases. He has ten. Gibbs, Crowell and Pepin are tied for runs batted in with four each. The leading run scorer is Bud Fontaine, catcher.

The averages:

CALIFORNIA STARTS A N INVESTIGATION OF CARNERA

SAN FRANCISCO, April 15—(AP)—Boxing circles buzzed today as the state athletic commission started to investigate conditions surrounding the heavyweight bout last night in Oakland between the giant Italian, Primo Carnera and Leon Chevalier, San Francisco Negro.

Carnera won on a technical knockout in the sixth round but the sudden and unexpected ending did not set well with spectators who started a small riot.

The commission's stated plans were to determine why Bob Perry, one of Chevalier's seconds, tossed in a towel thereby signalizing defeat for the Negro. Chevalier was in not much worse condition than his huge opponent at the time. Perry, hired for the evening, had no authority to throw in a towel, even if Chevalier had actually been in distress. Only the chief second is permitted to terminate bouts in that manner.

Infuriated spectators attacked Perry and severely beat him while many of Carnera's own countrymen mounted chairs and shouted "fake" meanwhile demanding that the bout be resumed.

Carnera's end of the purse totaling $13,239, and Chevalier's $1,500 were held up pending the investigation. Commission members were particularly interested in statements made by Mrs. Chevalier in which she declared her husband had been told he must lose the bout.

Questioning of Carnera and his retinue of handlers, including Leon See of France; William "Bill" Duffy of New York and Frank Churchill of Los Angeles was scheduled for tomorrow.

An offer of $150,000 made yesterday to Carnera to meet Jack Dempsey "somewhere in California." was withdrawn today by William P. Kyne, San Francisco sportsman and one of the officials of the Tanforan race track near here.

The National Athletic club at Seattle cancelled Carnera's scheduled appearance there April 25 as a result of last night's bout.

ACADEMY RELAY TEAM ADJUDGED WINNER OF RACE

The medals for the mile high school relay at the Hartford National Guard indoor meet at the Hartford armory March 10 have been awarded to the Academy by the state A. A. U. after an investigation of nearly a month.

New Haven Evening high finished first that night with N. F. A. second but because of the ineligibility of the Elm City team, the event being open only to full-time schools, the Wildcats will shortly receive the emblem of victory.

EASTERN LEAGUE SWINGS INTO ACTION TODAY

NEW HAVEN, April 15—(AP)—The cry of "play ball" which sounded today in the baseball parks of the major leagues, will be taken up tomorrow by Eastern league umpires, when they officially launch eight clubs in this league on their 15th annual pennant race.

Two of the three Connecticut teams in the league, will open the season on foreign territory, Hartford playing in Providence, and New Haven in Allentown. Bridgeport, the third Connecticut team will play host to Pittsfield, while Springfield will open the season with Albany on the latter's diamond.

The teams which begin the season on the road will open their home season Friday when Albany plays in New Haven, Allentown in Hartford, Providence in Pittsfield, and Bridgeport in Springfield.

Five of the Eastern league clubs will begin the season with new managers. King Bader, who piloted Providence last season, will guide the destinies of the Hartford club this year; Bill Gleason, former Senator, will be in charge at Springfield; oJe Bush, former American league pitching star, will run the Allentown club; Eddie Onslow, former International league first baseman, will have charge of the Providence club; while Pittsfield will be piloted by Otto Freitag, another former International leaguer.

The holdover managers from last year are Bill McCorry, whose Senators won the pennant last year; Hans Lobert, of Bridgeport and Gene Martin, of New Haven.

All of the managers with the exception of Lobert, are expected to see action in some of the contests

The split season will be given its first tryout this year. The first half will end in Jul yand the second half in September, when the winners of each half will meet in a seven game series for the championship.

Albany, the 1929 pennant winner, and the Bridgeport Bears, who ended the last season in second place, are regarded by experts as the pre-season choices of the 1930 campaign.

Since the close of the 1929 season, two clubs have lost their owners by death. The Albany club lost Michael J. Hawkins and Hartford lost Robert J. Farrell. The league will also begin its 1930 season with a new president, William Carey, of Springfield, who succeeded Herman J. Weisman, resigned.

President Carey believes that the prospects for a successful campaign this year, are "exceptionally bright."

"Efforts have been made by each and every club to put strong teams on the field," he said, "and I look for a real good race."

The umpires who will summon the Eastern league clubs to action for the season's openers tomorrow, were announced today as follows: At Albany, Gardella and McDonald: at Bridgeport, Kuhn and Stewart; at Allentown, Summers and Dooley; and at Providence, Dunn and Barnett.

DE MAVE REFUSES TO BOX BEFORE SMALL CROWD

ST. LOUIS, April 15.—(AP)—Jack De Mave, New York heavyweight, billed to meet Otto Von Porat of Norway in the feature bout of a card here tonight, "walked out" after taking a look at the slim crowd in the Coliseum and refused to fight. Von Porat was in the ring at the time.

Preliminary bouts had already been fought before the estimated attendance of 1,500.

Seneca C. Taylor, member of the state athletic commission, declared De Mave would be suspended tomorrow, probably for a year.

In the 10-round supporting number, Al Stillman, 160, of St. Louis knocked out Mack Henderson, 158, of Cincinnati in the second round.

Gill Sold To Baltimore

CHICAGO, April 15.— (AP)— John Wesley Gill, young Cleveland Indian outfielder, was sold to the Baltimore club of the International league today, it was reported unofficially tonight.

The amount of cash in the deal was not announced but it was said the deal was in cash only.

Gill was considered one of the best of the Indian recruits this spring. Last summer he did record-breaking batting in the Eastern league.

Wandle Guest Of Officers

NEW YORK, April 15.—(AP)—Frank Wandle, who has been trainer of all varsity teams at West Point since 1923, was guest of honor at a dinner at the Hotel Astor tonight, tendered by army officers who have been his associates. A number of sports writers also attended.

Wandle is leaving the school to start a health farm near Ottawa, Canada.

International Gets Away Today

NEW YORK, April 15.—(AP)—Anticipating an opening day turnout of close to 50,000 fans, the International league begins its 46th season tomorrow in the four southernmost cities of the circuit.

ACADEMY CLASHES WITH KILLINGLY HIGH HERE TODAY IN FIRST SCHOLASTIC GAME

Probable Lineups

Gibbs, ss	1b, Weigle
Fontaine, c	2b, Boyd
Flather, rf	ss, Slowik

Breen, 3b	lf, Haveles
Berghinzo, lf	cf, Ray
Weisgraber, lf	rf, Wagner
Lavarge, p

Game starts at 2:30 p. m.

The Academy gets away on its scholastic schedule this afternoon at the campus, after three preliminary victories, when it meets Killingly high from Danielson, one of the best little teams in these parts. The game starts at 2:30 and a large crowd is expected to greet the boys as they start out after another state title, or rather to regain the one they lost in 1928 to Warren Harding high of Bridgeport.

Lavarge Gets Assignment

Chuck Lavarge, "rookie" righthander, has been designated by Coach Brigham to start today's game. In two of the three games so far played he has been the starter and has shown enough stuff to convince the coach that he has the goods. Not too much can be expected of him as yet but with experience under his belt he may be able to make the Academy's big two of Butsy Weisgraber and Boots Greene, a big three hurling staff. He has only pitched parts of the other games but today is expected to go the route for Boots Greene is being saved for Deep River Saturday and Weisgraber is being allowed another week to get his arm in shape.

The team has had two good practice sessions this week and seems to be ready to start out on the road that everybody in the city hopes will lead to the heights. Although the hits have not clicked off the bats in the early games as most of the Wildcat supporters had hoped they would, it must be borne in mind that the opposition has been quite stiff, featuring as it has several of the leading ball players in the city. And then two of the team's regulars, Bud Fontaine and Alec Arico, have not yet struck their stride. The defensive work of the club has been all that could be desired, with only eight runs scored against the Red and White in 26 innings.

Killingly Has Seven Veterans

Killingly cannot be taken too lightly as an opponent by the local fans and that is what the Academy boys are not doing. They remember that it is these small schools that furnish the upsets and intend to open with a smashing victory. The visitors have high hopes of beating the Academy and are bringing down a club of seven veterans. Killingly, which was the first high school to make use of the new athletic building and then lost to the Red and White, is confident of making things take on a different aspect this afternoon and will have a large delegation to cheer them on.

WOLFF GIVEN DECISION WHEN OPPONENT QUITS

NEW YORK, April 15.—(AP)—Allie Wolff, former intercollegiate middleweight champion from Peen State, began his professional career at the Broadway Arena tonight with a victory by referee's ruling.

Meeting Jerry Garfield of New Haven, Conn., in the six round feature bout at the Broadway Arena, Wolff landed what Garfield thought was a low punch early in the second round. Garfield complained to the referee, Danny Ridge, but the latter ruled that the blow had been fair. Disgusted, Garfield walked to his corner as though to leave the ring. Then he turned around and indicated he wanted to continue but Ridge disqualified him and awarded the victory to Wolff on a technical knockout. There were no knockdowns.

Wolff weighed 165; Garfield 174.

Jail Hill Wildcats Win

The Jail Hill Wildcats, won a close game from the Lake street team, 10 to 9, Tuesday afternoon. Cox pitched a nice game for the winners allowing only a few hits. The Wildcats would like to challenge any team averaging 13 to 15 years of age for Sunday, April 27, at Jail Hill playgrounds. Answer through this paper.

WESTERLY

COUNTY RESIDENTS HAVE FIRST AIR TRIP

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., April 15.—Some 40 residents of Washington county, including Westerly and Wakefield people, had their first air trip above South county, Tuesday noon, making their start from Atlantic airport, Charlestown, R. I. They were passengers in the unique and flying office of the Automatic Washer Co., as the guests of President Harry L. Ogg, of Newton, Iowa, on his first visit to New England. The monoplane, "Smiling Thru," with wing span of nearly 49 feet and over-all length of a little over 31 feet, is a cabin type Travelair plane with a cruising range of 600 miles and top speed of 135 miles per hour. With its office equipment of dictaphone and typewriter it could carry four passengers and the pilot, who was Wilford Gerbracht, and who had made the trip from the Providence airport to the Charlestown field in 16 minutes. From the Charlestown field the plane went, Tuesday afternoon, to Newport and then to East Providence.

Real Estate Sale

The following transfer has been recorded: April 14. John W. Sweeney of Providence to James F. Sposato and wife, Santa M. Sposato of Westerly, land on the south side of the Noosebeck Hill road, adjoining lands of James E. Lanphear and the Smalley Granite Co.

At Providence Inspection

Members of Narragansett commandery, No. 27, K. T., visited Providence Tuesday evening for the official inspection of Calvary commandery, No. 13, K. T., Horace G. Belcher, commander, of that city, this being the mother commandery of the Westerly Templar body. The inspection was by Em. Sir Harold W. Sprague, Third division commander, and grand standard bearer of the Grand Commandery of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, assisted by his father, Em. Sir George W. Sprague, of Brockton, Mass., as deputy grand warder, who were the division commander and deputy warder for Narragansett commandery in 1928. Among those present from Westerly were Generalissimo George E. Leonard, Captain General Fred W. Harvey, P. Em. Sir David A. Lowry, assistant master of ceremonies, Arnold H. Burdick and Russell I. Sparks. Following the ceremonies of the evening, including a luncheon at 5:30, an entertainment and social was held in the banquet hall.

For their second police lesson of the season, members of Westerly police department, headed by Chief Thomas E. Brown, visited Providence Tuesday afternoon. At the Benefit Street arsenal they were put through a course of sprouts which included target pistol drill, and a continuance of the demonstration of the gaining and breaking of certain wrestling holds, with the accompanying demonstration of jui juitsu.

H. A. LITTLEFIELD ESTATE HOPELESSLY INSOLVENT

Twenty-nine claims against the estate of the late Harry A. Littlefield were allowed by Special Commissioner M. Walter Flynn, whose report was presented in Westerly probate court Tuesday afternoon. Commissioner Flynn also reported the estate as hopelessly insolvent. The total of the claims was not made public but was said to reach several thousand dollars, most of which is due Westerly business houses.

Judge Edward M. Burke ordered the case continued to June 3, at which time the creditors will probably be asked to be present with their attorneys. The court indicated that final settlement should await foreclosure of a mortgage held by Horace E. Burdick of Westerly and Watch Hill. Mr. Littlefield was engaged in the restaurant business for many years at Watch Hill and died about a year ago after a brief illness. The business ws continued last season by his widow, Mabel A. Littlefield.

A bequest of $100 to the Pawcatuck Congregational church was announced in the reading of the will of Susan Robertson at yesterday's court session. Mrs. Robertson left an estate estimated at $2,500, personal property. A granddaughter, Elizabeth A. Opie, received $200 and the residue is divided equally among three daughters, a son and the children of a second son. Mrs. Archie was named executrix with bond of $5,000 and no surety. Councilman Joseph Fraser was appointed appraiser. The will was admitted to probate without objection.

The will of Fred E. Boyington was admitted to probate without objection. Mrs. Annie Boyington was appointed executrix with bond of $500. E. E. Boyington went surety. The will gives all personal and real estate to his wife. Charles D. Maxson was appointed appraiser.

A petition for sale of part of the estate of Mary Pierson Saunders was continued to the session of May 6.

First and final accounting of the estate of Olive Nellie Wood was presented by the executor, G. W. Wood, and ordered received and recorded.

Final accounting of the estate of Fred L. Pierce was received and the case continued to May 6.

Receipts and release by Helen J. D. Smith to Orlando Smith in the estate of Sarah J. Doty were presented and received and ordered recorded. Mrs. Smith acknowledged receipt of her full share of the estate as sole heir at law.

Henry L. Burdick was able to return to his duties in Providence, Tuesday, after being confined to his Elm street home for several days by illness.

Patrolman George L. Seidell of Stonington police force has begun a two weeks' tour of duty. Adin R. Sheldon continues as night officer.

Murray Gates and John A. Phillips of South Kingstown and E. Lewis of Wakefield, R. I., were Westerly business callers Tuesday.

NEW HAMPSHIRE DRIVER IN STONINGTON COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, April 15—Helen M. Glazier, 13 daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert P. Glazier, of 37 Chester avenue, Westerly was badly cut about the face in an automobile accident on the Westerly-Ctonington road Tuesday night. As a result of the crash Connecticut state police arrested Stacey W. Caldwell of Portsmouth, N. H., and detained him in Stonington lockup on a charge of reckless driving.

Shortly before midnight CCaCldwell was brought before Judge William A. Wilcox of Stonington town court. He was released under $200 bail pending his appearance in court April 22nd.

The accident happened about a mile west of Westerly when Caldwell attempted to cut in ahead of a line of traffic and crashed into the Glazier machine.

Both cars were wrecked and the occupants were thrown out. The Glazier girl was the only one requiring medical aid. The state police were notified and a trooper from the Groton barracks arrested Caldwell.

As established in Continent-wide tests, by 5,000 New Essex Challengers

All motordom saw the amazing results of Challenger Week.

The New Essex Challenger set outstanding marks in every locality. It climbed hills seldom attempted by any car. It set new marks for acceleration. It established economy results never before associated with such performance. It made inter-city reliability and endurance runs that take place with the industry's great marks.

These feats were established—not by just a few hand-picked specially tuned cars—but 5,000 Essex Challengers in all parts of the country, many of them owner-driven. The results speak for what any and every New Essex Challenger can do.

We continue our invitation to Ride—Ride—Ride! Know from personal experience what this brilliant New Essex Challenger can do. Then no lesser car can satisfy.

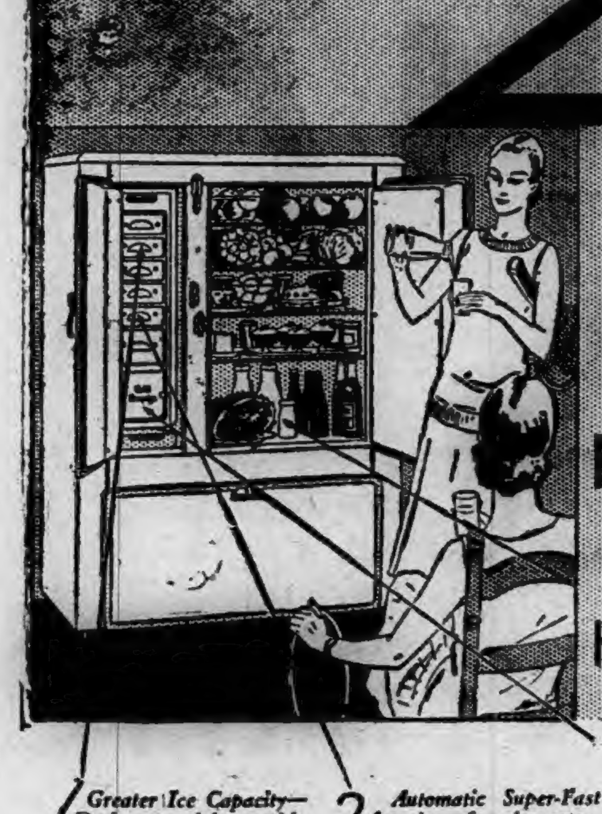
KELVINATOR'S Great New Gift to Home Refrigeration



1 Greater Ice Capacity—De luxe models provide more ice, size for size, than any other refrigerator, with capacities from 20 pounds in the smallest size to 34 pounds in the largest—at a single freezing.

2 Automatic Super-Fast freezing—for the extra-fast freezing of ice cubes and desserts. Merely placing a tray of water or dessert in a special fast-freezing compartment starts the quick freezing operation which stops automatically.

3 Automatic Cold Storage—For storing fresh or frozen meats, fish, game and those new frozen delicacies you now find at many markets. Cold always below freezing. Exclusive to Kelvinator.

4 Automatic 40° to 50° Food Compartment—Food compartments of Kelvinator are maintained between 40° and 50°—the temperature range which science says is correct for dependable and healthful preservation of foods.

Kelvinator now actually doubles the convenience and usefulness of electric refrigeration in the home

KELVINATOR now presents in its de luxe models, four distinct temperatures—each designed for a specific task of refrigeration. From first to last the new Kelvinators are entirely automatic—nothing for the housewife to regulate, nothing to trouble her memory.

In combination with these new automatic features, it retains the Kelvinator Cold-Keeper—a quality feature of the first Kelvinator, which has always been one of its great economy factors.

Acting as a constant reservoir of cold, this equipment cuts down the number of operating periods fully one-third.

See the new Super-Automatic Kelvinators, note the wide margin by which they increase Kelvinator's reputation for reliable, wholly automatic service.

You need not delay your enjoyment of Kelvinator's new automatic features a day longer. A small sum down with easy monthly payments installs a Kelvinator in your home. Let us tell you about Kelvinator's attractive ReDisCo monthly budget plan. 1117

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Unc' Billy Possum Suspects Something

By simply wandering around
Is much of value to be found.
—Unc' Billy Possum.

Unc' Billy Possum was wandering down along the Laughing Brook. Every now and then he stopped to pull over a stone along the brook, to see if he could find some insects under it. Once he was quick enough to scoop a minnow out of a little pool. Unc' Billy was thinking of eggs. He sure was egg hungry. "Ah wants some aigs," said Unc' Billy to himself in a querilous sort of voice. "Ah needs some aigs. Ev'ry springtime Ah wants aigs. Nothin' does taste so good as aigs in the springtime. Ah suppose Ah could go up to Farmer Brown's henhouse, but ev'ry time Ah go up that Ah gets in trouble."

Just then Unc' Billy managed to catch a small frog and for the time being he forgot all about eggs. He wandered on along the bank of the

"Ah wonder of thar's anything the matter with Mrs. Quack," said he to himself

Laughing Brook, down through the little swamp at the head of the Smiling Pool, and there he spent some little time hunting for frogs. Finally, he went out where he could look over the Smiling Pool. Right away he saw something of interest. It was of very great interest. Anyway, it was to Unc' Billy. What was it? Why, it was Mrs. Quack getting her dinner of yellow corn that Farmer Brown's Boy had left at the Smiling Pool. Unc' Billy recognized her at once. He climbed up in a little tree where he could watch better. A cunning look crept into those little eyes of his.

"Ah wonder if there's anythin' the matter with Mrs. Quack," said he to himself. "If there isn't, what is she doin' here in the Smilin' Pool? She's got no business hyar. She should be way up in the Far North by now. Ah craves to know why she is hyar in the Smilin' Pool. Ah reckon Ah'll jest pay her a little visit."

So Unc' Billy climbed down the trunk of the tree and made his way around on the bank of the Smiling Pool until he had reached the place where Mrs. Quack was eating her dinner. "Good evening, Sis' Mallard," said Unc' Billy in his most polite manner.

"Good evening, Unc' Billy," replied Mrs. Quack. "What are you doing over here at the Smiling Pool?"

Unc' Billy grinned. "Ah was jest goin' to ask you that ve'y same question," said he. "Ah thought you and Mr. Quack flew No'th long ago."

"Well, you see we didn't," replied Mrs. Quack. "The Smiling Pool was so inviting that we decided to stay here a while. It's a very pleasant place here, Unc' Billy. I hope you are feeling as well as you look."

"Oh, Ah's feelin' all right," replied Unc' Billy. "Ah jest came over hyar to look for some frogs. Pears like Ah always need a few frogs in the spring. When are you thinkin' of movin' on, Sis' Mallard?"

Mrs. Quack pretended not to hear that question. She stood on her head in the water while she got some more of that good corn that was down in the mud. Then she looked up at Unc' Billy and said: "Well, I guess I must be going along. I hope you'll catch a good dinner, Unc' Billy." She headed for the place where the Laughing Brook leaves the Smiling Pool to make its way to the Big River. The Black Shadows were deep and very, very black then. When she entered these and knew that she was out of sight of Unc' Billy, she hid between some tussocks of grass.

Meanwhile Unc' Billy was grinning. "She done stay over to have her nest hyar," said Unc' Billy to himself. "Nothin' is the mattah with Sis' Mallard. She done got a nest aroun' hyar somewhar, and a nest means aigs. I done got to fin' that nest. Yes, sah, I done got to fin' that nest."

AMERICA IS CHOOSING

BUICK

ACCEPT THIS INVITATION—

Prove BUICK supremacy in traffic, on hills, on the straightaway—choose the car that's winning two-to-one buyer preference in its field.

May we make just one suggestion: Take the wheel of a BUICK and experience the full measure of its abilities before buying any car. Then buy according to results!

Performance! That's what you want . . . performance plus the exceptional beauty of Body by Fisher . . . and a ride in any one of the 15 Buick models will prove a revelation of power, flexibility, swiftness, smoothness and stamina.

Fine car owners everywhere are preferring Buick. In fact, so marked is the trend to Buick that America is awarding it from 35 to 50 per cent of the combined sales of the fifteen makes in its price class. But be your own judge of Buick's performance and value. Come, take the wheel!

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

The Bird With the Broken Wing

Piercing the gloom of a darkened room
Came the song of a robin one day,
A child who lay ill, caught the gay little trill,
And it soothed all her sorrows away.

Each morning it came—in sunshine or rain,—
The bird, with its carol of cheer,
But one day the strain voiced a message of pain,
In the song the child held so dear.

Time passed away and one day at play,
Near the tree where the bird used to sing,
The little one found, 'neath the leaves on the ground,
The bird with a broken wing.
—Mrs. Roedel W. Childs.

April Prayer

I have been making little April songs
About a tree, a flower,—about a bird.
Is this the end of song—a pretty word,
A thought that to an idle mood belongs,
While any live thing languishes in thongs?
Is it not strange, my brothers softly furred,
That I, who by your want am ever stirred,
Fall silent in the face of speechless wrongs?

I'd have no hurt beneath the seeming good,
No creature cagel and cramped in a dark tomb,
Nor any wild thing feel the shot that kills,—
I'd have no snare nor hunter in the wood
When April on the earth is bright with bloom
And resurrection breaks across the hills.
—Alfaretta Lansing.

UNCLE JED'S TO THE WIDE AWAKES

Ants are farmers! That seems to be a rather queer statement, doesn't it. But is true. Ants are farmers and expert farmers at that. These farmer ants of which there are two kinds, collect the seeds of various plants in autumn and store them in granaries underground. Some special treatment by the ants hinders the germination of the seeds, though they are in a situation favorable to sprouting, and when the ants are prevented from having access to their granaries, germination takes place almost at once. Nothing is done to sterilize the seeds, for when it suits their purpose a portion of the stock is allowed to sprout—but only under control, as a maltster sprouts his barley, sufficiently to cause the transformation of the seed's starch into the sugar. Root and stem are then bitten off, and the seeds are dried in the sun for use as a food.

Several Indian ants have similar habits, but the go-ahead agricultural ants of Texas and Florida have improved upon the ancient methods of the Old World harvesters; the Americans not only harvest grain, but grow it first. On an area of about four yards in diameter surrounding the main entrance of their nest they extirpate with their jaws every plant other than the so-called antrice, which thus becomes a pure crop, and, in the absence of all competition, flourishes. These ants have also a clear idea of the importance of facilitating transport by making broad, straight roads through the bush and keeping them clear of encroaching weeds. Some of their grain stores are said to be at a depth of fifteen feet below the surface, apparently in order that seeds shall not be subject to the influence that normally brings about germination. In galleries near the surface they can induce germination when they wish. These agricultural ants have two classes of workers—major and minor—the majors conspicuous owing to their big heads and capable jaws, with which they crack the hard grain for general consumption.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES

Nicky

My Dear Uncle Jed: A year ago last May, my father bought a little pup. He was so smart that he could hardly reach his dish of food. He had a large white house of his own, which was full of hay. I named the sweet little puppy "Nicky." The little dog, small as he was, made a quick growth. Soon summer came with all its glory. All the flowers were blooming and the roses perfumed the air like magic. Nicky loved the outdoors and was never in his house. During the night he slept out on the soft, green grass.

Nicky is a black dog with tan and white feet. His tail is fluffy brown. His ears are of a deep golden hue. He is now a strong, husky dog. His coat is like a huge bunch of satin velvet fur. Sometimes, when I go to visit my neighbor, Nicky plays with "Lady Dina," our neighbor's beautiful tan and white collie dog.

We all love Nicky. He is so gentle and sweet. I am sure if all of the Wide Awakes saw him and knew him as I do, they would like him very much. With best wishes and a happy Easter to you all who read the Wide Awake circle, I remain

A Little Yellow Bird

Dear Uncle Jed: This is a composition I wrote at school. My teacher there asked me to send it to you for publication if it is all right. I go to the Broadway school. This story is made up about my own little bird and it is all true. A little yellow bird in a little yellow cage.

If you go into a certain house be sure you look up to the window. There you will see a little yellow bird in a little yellow cage. On each side of the cage a dish is fastened for the little yellow bird in the little yellow cage, to eat and drink from. That little yellow bird in that little cage has formed habits.

Some of the habits are good and some are bad. One of the bad ones is: When the family sits down to the table to eat, the little yellow bird in the little yellow cage begins to chirp and chirp.

He will then chirp until one person of the family gets up and gives him something to eat from the table.

One of the good habits is, when the clock strikes eight, the bird will sing a little song, and then chirp until he is covered up to go to sleep. Then the little yellow bird in the little yellow cage tucks his little yellow head under his little yellow wing and goes to sleep.

Dream Voyage

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about our imaginary trip to the Mediterranean countries. We went by bus to New York. We stayed two days at a hotel. We went to visit the most important places. Then we went aboard the Empress of France. We were on the ocean six days. One day we had a terrible storm. Some of the waves were ah high as the boat. The next day the sun was shining. What a difference it makes. Finally we landed in Spain. The countries we visited were Spain, France, Italy, Greece, Constantinople, Palestine, Turkey, Egypt, Africa, Tunis, Algeria, and Morocco. I liked the trip and the stay very much but still there's no place like home.

A Narrow Escape

Dear Uncle Jed: The story I am going to tell you this time is about a narrow escape. One day in June my friend and I were going to hang a June box for a birthday present to a little girl about six years old. We had to take a train. We started at one o'clock in the afternoon. When we came to the station the train had gone. We had to walk a mile and a half. When we came where the woods began it was getting dark. We were afraid but we kept on walking. Just then a great big dog came along. The dog jumped on my friend. He wanted to knock me over. I kicked him and he started yelping. I helped my friend and we started to run until we reached the little girl's house. We stayed there until morning. Then we went home in a train. Just then Bob came home and said, "I have a big bump on my head." Bob said, "I tried to scare two girls, so I dressed in a dog's suit and tripped one and the other kicked me on the head. Then we knew that it was Bob who had frightened us. Bob never tried to scare anyone else.

A Day's Outing

Dear Uncle Jed: I will tell you of our "Day's Outing."

Mary, Marie, Frances, Ruth and I decided to go out for a day's outing. We had worked hard and felt we deserved it.

Tuesday night we all spent the night with Ruth at her home. Before retiring we made all possible arrangements so that we might get an early start. The car was already, our picnic lunch partly prepared and our hiking clothes laid out. We could hardly sleep for planning the next day's fun.

At five o'clock the next morning the alarm brought us suddenly back from the land of dreams. We dressed hurriedly, finished packing the lunch, dug some fish worms, piled into the car and were off.

We arrived at the lake at eight, ate our breakfast and went fishing for three hours. No one caught any fish so we stopped fishing and rode till noon.

After eating our lunch we took a long canoe ride. It was three o'clock when we returned. Then we refreshed ourselves with a fine swim after which we rested till six. Then we made a fire and fried steak for supper. Shortly afterwards we left for home, feeling that we had a glorious day.

My Cats

Dear Uncle Jed: I have two cats and they are my very best pals. I have taught them many tricks and when they perform them nicely, I give them milk. One of the cats is a tiger grey and the other one is black and white. They are both very cunning and good. Every morning, noon and night I give them milk and sometimes fish. When I come home from school they are very glad to see me and when I sit down on a chair they jump up on me, then they curl up and go to sleep on my lap. I have had the cats since they were tiny little creatures that could not move about. I would not part with my cats for anything.

One day they went into the woods back of my house and caught a grey squirrel, then brought it home. I saw them fighting with the squirrel, so I made them let it go. I scolded them for that and didn't let them come in the house all day, for their punishment. I think I have taught them a lesson because never again have they brought home a squirrel.

Tire Trouble

Dear Uncle Jed: Last summer a neighbor's family and all of us took a trip to the river to get some fish 25 miles from our home. We first drove to St. Paul then three miles southwest from there. We took our lunch and made coffee While mother and the lady was getting dinner, father and the man who was with us walked one-half mile to buy some fish, but they didn't have any to sell. While they were gone, one of the tires went flat on the man's car and his oldest boy fixed it. We had our dinner and a very nice time. Started back to St. Paul, got only a short ways when the tire blew out. We went on to the village, bought a new tire, got two miles from St. Paul when that one blew out. They left all of us children there with the car and got another tire and got about a mile when that blew out. Then my brother and the three other boys and I drove that car home without a tire. Father, mother, the lady and man who were with us and the five girls all went back in our car. We all got home about 11:30 p. m. I tell you it isn't much fun to ride 25 miles on a flat tire.

Africa

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you and the Wide Awake circle. I hope you will enjoy reading my story. I am going to tell you about Africa. The Negroes live there. They are caled Negroes because they are black. Their clothes are different from ours, and their houses are, too. It is hot there because it is near the equator. There are many wild animals there. If we were going to Africa we would have to cross the Atlantic ocean.

Story of Silk

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first letter to you. I will tell you the story of silk. After the silkworm gets through eating, he looks for a place to skin his cocoon. On each side of his mouth there are two little bags. These bags are full of gum. These are what the silkworm spins his cocoon with. He spits all that gum out of his mouth. Then he moves his head around and around. Then he covers all of his body. That is how he makes silk.

Camping

Dear Uncle Jed: I would like to get a book for this letter. Last summer my friends and I went to camp in July. We went for two weeks and had lots of fun. One of the girls was sick and I had to care for her. It was the day before we had to go home and something very serious happened. We went to bed that night and slept sound and about one o'clock in the morning our camp blew away. We all awoke, started to pack up our things and started to walk. We saw a farmhouse and went up to it. There was a man. He saw us coming up the path. He let us come in and sleep over night. In the morning we started toward home.

An Original Story

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about a story that I made. One pleasant day as my friends Helen, John, Mary, Joseph and I were walking along a lonely country road, John exclaimed pointing in the distance, "Do you see that old red mansion behind those bunch of trees?" Well, the owner, a rich man, was robbed and then killed. Since then no one has ventured to go near it because it is said to be haunted. As we were seeking a thrilling adventure we quickened our steps in the direction of the house. We arrived at the house just in time to hear a door slam. We entered bravely, went down stairs and then up. In looking around we discovered a hole. Joeph looked through and then called Mary and said, "Do you see what I see?" Mary made no answer, but continued looking. Then she shouted, "He is coming up stairs." They hurried into the closet. They peeked out of the closet and recognized from the pictures they had seen in the paper that it was the man who had killed the rich owner of the house. We found a rope in the closet and with the good aim of the boys, caught him. We later received a large sum of money.

A Squirrel

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you and hope you will enjoy reading it. I am going to tell you about a squirrel on our piazza. One day as I was sitting on the piazza reading the paper I heard a noise on the steps that lead to the piazza. I turned around and there I saw a squirrel nibbling at a nut. I ran to tell my mother and she came out to see it. Before we could look at it long enough it hopped away.

My Home

Dear Uncle Jed: We have a nice home, with a nice big fireplace that we can sit around. In the evening we can sit and read or play dominoes or other games. There are nine in our family. There are six windows in our living room. The sun shines in the living room all day. I go to the Kick Hill school. I am in the third grade. My sister is in the fourth grade. The third and fourth grades do their work together. I hope the Wide Awakes will all be sorry for me because I was sick Christmas day and did not have any Christmas dinner.

My Visit To Washington

Dear Uncle Jed: I am now home well and happy from my visit to Washington. I thought I would write and tell you about my happy Easter vacation.

I walked up as far as the corner of the Waterman school, there I waited for the nine o'clock bus. I went on the bus as far as New London. There I changed my bus and took another bus to New York. From New York I changed my bus but it was growing late so I stayed at a hotel in New York.

The next morning I had my breakfast and then I got the bus to Philadelphia, there I had lunch and I got another bus to Baltimore, and what do you suppose. There I was well and happy in Washington.

In Washington I ate my lunch. My whole journey was very interesting, and at a very small amount too. Just think, Uncle Jed, it is over a distance of 300 miles. I have had a lovely time.

I will now tell you about my visits. First of all my interest was turned to the union station. It is constructed by different railroads. They are as follows: Pennsylvania R. R., B. and O. R. R., the United States and the District of Columbia. The union station is greater than the capitol. The exterior is made of granite which was brought from Vermont. The waiting room in the union station is 220 feet by 130 feet by 120 feet. There is a circular window in each end. It is 75 feet in diameter. Then I went into the passenger concourse. It is the largest room in the world; 50,000 men can stand on its floor all at the same time.

The Hotel Mayflower in which I stayed is on Connecticut avenue at L street.

The next place I visited was the white house. The guide took us into the hall and told us the names of the rooms. They are as follows: Red room, green room, blue room, east room, and the banquet hall.

The place I visited next was the national capitol. It covers 3 1-2 acres of land. The capitol is about 750 feet long by 350f eet wide.

Well, Uncle Jed, I hope you enjoyed reading my letter as well as I enjoyed my trip.

April

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you in a long time. The name of my story is April. At last April has come and with it flowers and birds. The sky is a delicate blue, beautiful to look at. Here and there are clouds floating about at ease. The clouds are white with a slight tint of pale blue.

The clear blue sky is specked with little and big birds of all colors. As we look out of our window we see birds flying to and fro. Many birds will be looking for nests and mates. It will not be long before little chirps will be coming from the nests.

The flowers shout for joy when they hear and feel the warm April rain. It will not be long before the world will be decorated with flowers. As we walk along the paths in the woods we see violets on either side. As we pick violets to our great surprise we see flowers we never dreamed were out.

The trees are a brownish color with the sun shining its bright rays to wake them up. On the bare boughs are little places which look like little lumps. The lumps swell on the tree until it bursts and out comes a little green leave. In a short time the whole tree is dressed in green. Do you wonder why the children like April?

The Indians

Dear Uncle Jed: Long, long ago, Indians lived in America. They had red skin and lived in wigwams made of skins of animals. The women planted the garden and did all the work. When the tribes moved the women carried the bundles and wigwams. They did all the work, while the men hunted animals for food and went to war with other tribes. The baby is called a papoose and the mother carries the baby on her back. The boys are taught how to hunt and the girls learn how to do housework. If I could be an Indian I would rather be a boy. He has more fun.

My Baby Sister

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the second time I have written to you and I will tell you about my baby sister. Her name is Mildred and she is ten months old. She is the only light one in our family. Mildred has brown hair. She can always find something to break. One day we sat her in her high chair. She was playing with her toys so we didn't pay any attention to her. Pretty soon Mildred spied a cup on the table. She reached forward to get it. She could just get hold of the handle so she lifted the cup into the air off the table. Then she let go of the cup and it fell to the floor with a crash! I just came in time to see it drop and break. After that my mother always put her where she can't reach anything that breaks.

A Red Hen

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about my pet hen. She is all red. She is a small hen and is a great pet. Every night when I feed all the other chickens I pick up the eggs after, and this little hen walks along side of me and watches me pick them up. After I pick them up, she walks as far as the door with me. She is a nice little hen and is a great pet of mine.

PRICE INDEX OF 90 LEADING STOCKS GAINED TENTH OF A POINT YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, April 15—(AP)—An axe that had been hanging over stocks for some time finally dropped today, but found the market well armoured. The long expected reduction in copper prices appeared, and the market sold off substantially for a time, only to accomplish brisk recovery in the last hour, which more than cancelled the day's losses.

The cut from 18 to 14 cents a pound in copper, while reducing the red metal to the lowest level in more than a year, is expected to end the consumers' buying strike and help to reduce the heavy stocks of the metal that have been piling up during recent months. Wall street has been growing increasingly certain that the 18 cent level could not be maintained.

Other unsettling factors were the break in the London stock market in response to the increased income taxes, and the passing of the Willys-Overland dividend.

The selling was orderly and for the most part well absorbed. Trading continued in moderate volume, sales aggregating 4,218,550 shares. The price index of 90 leading stocks gained 1-10 of one point for the day.

Directors of Jewel Tea declared an extra dividend of $1.

The copper shares generally sold off 1 to 3 points to new lows for the year, but several rallied later. Anaconda closing steady. Case Threshing jumped 10 points to a new high for the year at 309, and American Can, Best and Company, Standard Gas, Starrett corporation, and Westinghouse Electric sold up 2 to 6 points to the best levels of the year, although several of these gains were whittled down before the close. U. S. Steel, American and Foreign Power, Eastman Kodak, Electric Power and Light, Foster Wheeler, General Electric, Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck were also well bought. Allied Chemical, Atchison, American Telephone, Missouri Kansas Texas, National Air Transport, and National Biscuit, lost 2 to 5 points, while Peoples' Gas lost 9.

Commodities were inclined to sag. Wheat futures closed 1 1-4 to 1 7-8 cents lower, reflecting further bearish weather reports, and a slack demand from flour mills. Corn closed barely steady. Cotton lost $1.15 to $1.70 a bale, in sympathy with foreign markets.

WALL STREET BRIEFS

NEW YORK, April 15—(AP)—One of the day's interesting financial events was the sale of a $31,550,000 issue of New York State one to twenty-five year 4 per cent bonds, to J. P. Morgan & Company for private account on a bid of 102.077. This represented a premium to the state of $655,293 and was the best price on a New York issue in six years. Bankers were interested in the announcement that the bonds had been taken privately and also in the fact that ten bids were submitted emphasizing the current lively interest in securities of this type. The high price paid was regarded as evidence of an opinion that interest rates are to remain easy.

The Cities Fuel & Power Co., a subsidiary of Cities Service Co., has notified the North European Oil Corp., that it does not intend to acquire an interest in that company for which it held an option. The company was organized to develop properties in northwestern Germany, which were believed to contain vast oil deposits.

Paramount Famous Lasky Corp. estimates that its consolidated net income for the first quarter, including earnings of subsidiary companies, will amount to about $4,800,000, equal to approximately $1.79 a share, and which would be 86 per cent greater than the profit for the first quarter of last year.

A contract for the entire valve requirements for six months for the Graham Paige Motors Corp., has been received by Thompson Products, Inc., of Cleveland.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, April 15—(AP)—Price movements on the New York Curb market continued to show marked irregularity today, but in view of the unsettlement created by the drastic cut in the price of copper, operators for the advance expressed the opinion that the market gave a good account of itself. There were few points of acute weakness, although many issues showed moderate declines as a result of rather heavy profit-taking. Trading was only moderately heavy in volume, the day's sales falling below 1,300,000 shares.

Strong buying support again developed for several of the leading public utilities. Electric Bond and Share was marked above 115 to a new high level for the year, showing a net gain of about two points. Duke Power soared to a new high at 209 and then eased to 204 3-4, up 11 points. American Light and Traction jumped 4 points to a new high at 240 and Italian Superpower touched a new top at 18, or nearly double the year's low. Appalachian Gas corporation common stock was admitted to trading and was turned over in large volume between 13 1-4 and 13 5-8.

Cumberland Pipe Line jumped 9 points to 50 in response to the declaration of an extra dividend. Most of the oils were reactionary. Vacuum dropped 2 1-2 points and Humble 1. Anglo-American Oil touched a new high.

Wide fluctuations took place in some of the high priced specialties. Aluminum Limited jumped 12 points to a new high at 232, but Aluminum Company of America, dropped 5 1-2 points. Newmont Mining closed nearly 2 points higher at 121 7-8 after having dipped to 116 3-8 in response to the cut in copper and then rallied as high as 123.

New peak prices for the year were registered by Benson and Hedges, National Steel, Schulte-United preferred and a few other inactive specialties. Investment Trust shares received little attention with price changes nominal. Airplane stocks held fairly steady.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, April 15—(AP)—Fresh downpours bringing relief to drought stricken grain fields southwest led to a lively setback in wheat prices late today. The extra drop in values was in the face of authoritative mid-month unofficial Nebraska-Kansas-Oklahoma-Texas crop summaries indicating 11,000,000 to 26,000,000 probable reduction of wheat yield since the government forecast of April 1. The general run of crop reports from the southwest and west implied that wheat would show improvement in the sections where rains have been received.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous at virtually the day's bottom level 1 1-4-2 1-8c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1-4c off to 1-2c up, oats 1-4-3-8c down, and provisions varying from 5c decline to a like advance.

Collapse of wheat prices toward the close promptly followed word of rain in Oklahoma. Buying power seemed to have exhausted itself in establishing advances earlier, and the market gave way in earnest when selling broadened out on account of news of more moisture.

Further bearish influence was the fact that export demand today for wheat from North America remained of disappointing volume, total purchases for overseas being figured at not more than 500,000 bu.

Transient strength which developed here early was associated with relative firmness of Liverpool quotations and with assertions that unless further rains were received 2,000,000 to 4,000,000 acres of wheat in Kansas would have only a short crop. Temporarily, the market was affected bullishly by reports that a steady export demand for domestic hard winter wheat was in prospect because foreigners preferred this wheat owing to its high protein content. However, the weather map showed rains had fallen nearly everywhere throughout the North American grain belt, and many holders of wheat appeared to lose backbone completely after late advices came that threatened to remove drought altogether as an immediate market influence.

Wet weather checking field work tended to strengthen the corn market. There was also buying of corn against selling of wheat to close spreads. Oats sympathized with wheat rather than corn.

Provisions averaged slightly lower, responsive to downturns in the value of hogs.

Closing indemnities—Wheat — May 1.03 5-8, 1.08 1-2; July 1.04 1-8-1-4; 1.08 3-4-7-8. Sept. 1.07 3-8-1-2. 1.11 3-4-7-8; Dec. 1.11 3-4, 1.15 3-4. Corn—May 81 3-4, 83 3-8; July 83 1-2-5-8; 85 1-4; Sept. 84 5-8-3-4, 86 3-8; Dec. 79 3-4, 81 3-8.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, April 15—(AP)—The bond market drifted lower in a sluggish session today. Representative domestic corporation issues sold off by small fractions, while United States governments again sagged. Foreign bonds were irregular and the convertibles generally heavy.

Sale of the $31,550,000 issue of New York State 4s was the outstanding development of the day marketwise. Purchase of the entire offering by J. P. Morgan & Company for private account on the high bid of 102.077 was somewhat above the expected price, although a substantial premium had been anticipated. Nearly a dozen syndicates or banks participated in the bidding and the successful tender, representing a premium of about $650,000 to the state, was the best price received by the state since 1924. The previous flotation, made slightly more than a year ago, brought just a shade above par.

Bankers pointed out that the success of today's sale indicated a belief that money rates would continue easy. The keen bidding also demonstrated the current popularity of state and municipal securities, demand for which continues despite the apathetic attitude toward corporation bonds.

Money remained firm throughout the session, but an easing in the demand rate would be logical now that the customary mid-month requirements have been met.

Losses of 1-4 to 3-4 of a point developed in such standard obligations as Baltimore & Ohio gold 4s, American Telephone 4s, Armour Real Estate 4 1-2s, Rock Island 4s, Delaware & Hudson 4s, International Match 5s, Missouri Pacific general 4s, Northern Pacific 6s, and West Shore 4s. Nickel Plate 4 1-2s, Morris & Essex 3 1-2s, Lehigh Valley (Pennsylvania) General 4s, and Southern Railway 4s, Utah Light & Traction 5s and Utilities Power & Light 6 1-2s sagged a point. Exceptions to the general downward trend included St. Louis & Southwestern first 4s, up 2 1-4 on fair trading, and Wabash second 5s, up 1 1-8. St. Paul adjustment 5s made a new low.

American Telephone convertible 4 1-2s responded to the early pressure against the stock by dropping 6 points to 186, but picked up strength in the later dealings and closed only 1 3-4 lower. International Telephone 4 1-2s, American International 5 1-2s, Southern Pacific 4 1-2s, with warrants, Atchison 4 1-2s, and General Theatres 6s were also heavy.

Berlin City Electric 6 1-2s encountered further liquidation on the appearance of a $15,000,000 issue of 6s at 90 1-2. Brazil 8s, Chile 7s, New South Wales 5s and Oriental Development 6 1-2s were other heavy spots. European government loans held firm.

WASHINGTON, April 15 — (AP) — Treasury receipts for April 13 were: $7,720,493.22; expenditures $23,225,116.17; balance $268,578,613.37.

COTTON

NEW YORK, April 15—(AP)—Cotton futures closed barely steady, 18 to 24 points lower. Spot quiet; middling 16.00.

Bousch Tovi, Greek silk and cotton merchant fined $500 at Dover, England, for violation of the customs law, told officials that he was wearing twenty-seven silk slips between his shirt and undervest because he was cold.

COLCHESTER

NO ACTION IS TAKEN REGARDING RECORD HALL

A large number was in attendance at the special town meeting in Grange hall, Tuesday afternoon, to listen to the report of the town record building committee. Selectman C. A. Kramer was chairman and John Condren was clerk. James F. Purcell, chairman of the building committee, addressed the gathering, saying that after considering various possible sites, the committee now looks with favor on the plot of ground north of the Hudson property, North Main street, which can be purchased for $600. He presented an estimate from the L. Suzio Construction Co. of Meriden for the construction of a fire-proof building at a cost of $3,475. This figure would not include plastering the walls and various other incidentals. A number of those present spoke in opposition to the plan. S. H. Kellogg, C. A. Kramer and Joseph Dember favored having the building located between the fire house and Bacon academy. By so doing, it was thought that the expense would be reduced, as borough land would be used as a site. It is understood, however, that the Bacon academy trustees are opposed to the erection of a building so near the school. Samuel McDonald, member of the building committee, spoke in favor of purchasing the former Kinney saloon building on Merchants row and urged the building of a fire-proof vault at the rear of the building, the front room to be used for the town clerk and judge of probate office and the upper floor for the supervisor and school book room and a meeting place for the assessors, selectmen and tax collector. It was stated that the building could be bought for $3,000, which sum would be lessened by a back town tax of about $750 due on the property. It would be necessary to purchase a piece of additional ground at the rear of the building for the erection of the vault and several voiced the opinion that considerable repairs would have to be made to the building. The principal advantage in the purchase of the building seemed to be that it was centrally located. S. P. Willard, Fire Chief Brown and George N. Lyman also made many helpful suggestions. The discussion was quite heated throughout the meeting and although many valuable suggestions were offered by those present, the meeting finally adjourned without any definite vote of approval being given the committee's report.

A crowd estimated at nearly 400 attended the house-warming at the grand opening of the new A. & P. market in the Lazinsk building Monday evening. Music for dancing was furnished by a Middletown orchestra. Visitors were present from Norwich, Hebron, Willimantic, Colchester, Middletown, Hartford, Marlborough and other places.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack M. Lazinsk visited, Sunday, with Mrs. Lazinsk's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Snitkin, in New London.

There was a surprise party Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Kashkin on Norwich avenue, in honor of Miss Nettie Krupnick, daughter of Mrs. Yetta Krupnick of Lebanon avenue, who is to become the bride, May 15, of Nathan Katz, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Katz of 705 East Ninth street, New York. The affair was arranged by Mrs. Kashkin and her daughter, Miss Edith. Refreshments were served and humorous stories and songs were enjoyed during a social hour. Miss Krupnick received many beautiful gifts from the large number of friends and relatives present. Among those in attendance were: Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Miller, of Norwich; Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Chorches, Misses Rose Wallach, Silvia Jaffe, Molly Kalman and Bertha Goldberg, Hartford; Miss Esther Krupnick, of New York; Misses Vivian and Nettie Cohen, Rose and Eva Strick, Eva and Dora Levine, Mrs. Nellie Rybitski, Mrs. Rose Schwartz, Misses Yetta and Bertha Levine, Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Miller, Mrs. Anna Mintz, Misses Sarah Rabinowitz, Bertha Mintz, Helen and Anna Welch, Helen Zeleznicky, Rose Einhorn, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Kashkin and daughters, Misses Edith and Edna, Miss Rebecca Cohen, Mrs. Yetta Krupnick, Miss Rachel Slopak and Mrs. Samuel Slavkin, of Colchester.

The first streak of daylight Tuesday found dozens of local ardent trout fishermen wading into the brooks about town, praying that they might be lucky enough to pull in a trout of sufficient size to grace the breakfast table on the opening day of the season.

Among local enthusiasts who ventured forth were Eugene P. Beebe, Lloyd W. Brown, John Welles Goodrich, Joseph Ezekiel Falk and George M. Case. Messrs. Beebe and Brown returned with a fine string of beauties, several being ten inches long. As usual several big ones got away before they could be hauled in and Mr. Beebe asserts that they would have caught more only for the fact that their supply of bait became exhausted. Principal Goodrich returned with only one small trout and George Case caught a large string, several of which measured ten inches.

NEW LONDON COUNCIL COMMITTEES CONSIDER TWO PETITIONS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, April 15.—A joint hearing by committees of the city council was held this evening to act on petitions of residents on Maple avenue and vicinity for the establishment of a crossing from Maple avenue to Pequot avenue and on the application of the Dumont Marine Service for the establishment of its business at the foot of State street by the location of gasoline tanks, the same to be what is known as the Aqua system of tanks.

On the Maple avenue petition, City Engineer Watters showed maps of the locality and explained them with drawings of the work which would be necessary. He explained in detail all the proposed work of three plans that had been considered and which were possible to provide the crossings asked for. One of the plans, an underpass, would require an estimated expenditure of $23,000; another, an overhead such as exists at the union railway crossing at State street, would cost, it is believed, some $8,000, and a third, the securing of a right of way for the crossing which must have heavy construction work with abutments, etc., would involve an outlay of some $9,300. Councilor Chappell presided at the hearing and expressed the opinion that the $23,000 outlay was out of consideration. Morris Rosenberg, a property owner on Maple avenue, and owner of a small store there which depends upon trade from Pequot avenue, read a statement as to what was needed and stated the reasons for asking for it. He said the crossing from Maple avenue had been maintained for forty years till a fatal accident led the New Haven railroad company to close the street to traffic. He cited dangers that existed to school children and others and insisted that the city should provide relief for the users of the street. Lafayette Rudd, also a property owner, declared that if Wightman street was put in proper condition and made safe for pedestrians and autos the change would be all that was absolutely necessary. He said Mr. Rosenberg was a victim of circumstances and declared that the outlay of $23,000 was unreasonable. He is the owner of quite as much property as Mr. Rosenberg owns and that he would not ask for such unreasonable expenditure of money. Other property owners, Mrs. Simms, Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Clona asked for relief, though they did not insist upon the larger expenditure.

The Dumont Proposition

The hearing on the application of the Dumont Marine company was interesting in that Mr. Dumont explained what the company desired and said the purpose was to establish a business that would grow and eventually improve the activities of the city. He said the tanks for gasoline that would supply boats would be under water, some foot and a half at low water and that there was little element of danger. The company would operate a marine tax service, sell boats and supply gasoline and do a general business in that line. The system he proposed to establish had the approval of experts in the business and yachtsmen and vessel operators would be brought into the city where they now only came to the lower harbor. Manager Boutwell, of the Gulf Gasoline station to be opened on Pequot avenue, endorsed the plan of the Dumont company without reserve, saying that a considerable sum of money was to be expended and that there would be an increase in the business that came to such a station. There is no fire hazard attached to it and he gave approval to the plan unreservedly. Oliver Woodworth also asked that the petition be granted, saying that there was too little business along the water front now. He reviewed the situation and asked for the granting of the petition. He was enthusiastic over the prospects. City Manager Holt explained the situation and said the plan had the endorsement tacitly of the New England Board of Fire Underwriters. He is to get approval of the plan in a day or two from the fire underwriters, they having the matter under consideration. Mayor Twomey said the only phase of the matter that was considered was whether the fire hazard would increase the insurance rate on other property and that appeared to be removed by the statement of the fire underwriters.

No decision was reached in either matter, as the committees will report to the city council at the meeting to be held Monday evening next. The opinion of spectators was that the Maple avenue petition would be reported adversely while the Dumont petition would receive endorsement.

Norwich Boys in Springfield

The Springfield, Mass. police tonight made request of the New London police that the authorities of Norwich be informed that two youths who claimed to reside in Norwich, had applied for assistance at the Rescue mission and said that they were without funds. The boys said they were John Sullivan and Frank Smith, both 17, but did not give their street address. The Springfield police desired to ascertain information as to whether the boys were runaways. The Norwich police were informed of the request of the police of Springfield.

Patrolman John Foley, of Huntington street, is critically ill at Lawrence-Memorial hospital with pleuro-pneumonia. Patrolman Foley has been on his annual vacation since April 1. Ten days ago he contracted a severe cold and three days ago pneumonia developed.

Demented Woman Missing

The New Haven police tonight requested the New London police to maintain a watch for Concetta Rossi, who is demented and missing from her home. The woman is described as being 42, about six feet, two inches in height and weighs about 240 pounds.

At the annual meeting of Union chapter, No. 7, Royal Arch Masons, last night in Brainard lodge temple, the following officers were elected: High priest, Harris S. May; king, Oliver H. P. Young; scribe, Robert H. Baum; treasurer, George S. Gadbois; secretary, Frederick W. Edgerton; captain of the host, John L. Aitchison; principal sojourner, John T. Manion; royal arch captain, James Greig; trustee for three years, Ellery N. Edwards. High Priest May appointed the following: Third vail, John A. Harvey, Jr.; second vail, Roger N. Daboll; sentinel, David Connor. The officers were installed by Colin S. Buell, past most excellent high priest; Past High Priest Henry R. Tisdale, acting as marshal.

FISHERS I. AND N. Y. PLANE SERVICE POSSIBLE

Representatives of the Ireland Aircraft company were in New London this afternoon for the purpose of ascertaining the feasibility of establishing an amphibian plane service between New London, Fishers Island and New York, the plane coming here from Hartford and arriving shortly before 1 o'clock. Whether the service will be established in New London has not been determined, but the officials of the aircraft company were strong in their commendation of New London as being ideal for such a service. As a visit is to be made to other New England cities the selection of such a port will not be determined hurriedly. The plane came to New London from Hartford and made the trip in 35 minutes. It was piloted by P. H. Spencer. One of the passengers was Clark Withers, formerly commander of a submarine and stationed at the submarine base. Mr. Withers is now general manager of the Curtiss Wright flying field, Hartford.

Frank Woodworth, U. S. Coast Guard academy; Leo O'Neill, 57 Mountain avenue; Mrs. Richard Crable and infant daughter, 29 Cottage street; Miss Margaret Goff, Lyme; Miss Jennie Silvia, 33 Central avenue; Mrs. Clarence Cabral and infant son, Waterford; Joseph Samuel, 147 Winthrop street; Mrs. Josephine Syracuse, 222 Montauk avenue; Mrs. Philip Marquard, Niantic; Frederick Caron, 187 Willetts avenue; Mrs. John Bisconi, 7 Richards street; Michael Sullivan, Blackhall street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

OBITUARY

Charles E. Wilcox

Charles E. Wilcox, 74, of 60 Golden street, died late yesterday at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, after a brief illness, although he had been a patient at the hospital for about three weeks. So far as is known Mr. Wilcox, who was a canvasser, leaves no near kin.

Burial Of Leonard S. Howard

The body of Leonard Smith Howard, who died last October at Pasadena, Cal., was brought to Niantic this afternoon at 3 o'clock for burial in the family plot in Union cemetery. The committal service was conducted by Rev. Charles F. Eldridge.

DOCTOR'S BILL OF $800 ALLEGED TO BE UNPAID

Dr. C. John Satti today brought suit for $800 damages against Salvatore Mugovero, the physician alleging that he has not been paid that sum for professional services rendered the defendant and members of his family. Property on Konomoc street, owned by the defendant, has been attached and the action is returnable before the next term of the court of common pleas. Mugovero, who recently conducted a restaurant business on Railroad street, last week filed a petition in bankruptcy.

The Groton fire department was called out this afternoon by an alarm sent in from a box in the vicinity of Ailyn street, but in reality no fire existed. The alarm was unconsciously sent in as a result of telephone linemen changing wires from one pole to another.

There was no session of the police court today, although two arrests for trivial offenses were made during the night. One man, who was arrested on a complaint of a Hill street resident, alleging breach of the peace, was ordered discharged by Prosecuting Attorney Max Boyer. The other offender, a Coast Guard sailor, charged with intoxication, was given into the custody of a shore patrol and taken back to the state pier for discipline.

Stole Pastor's Car

Last night, Nash car owned by Rev. Richard J. Porter, pastor of Huntington street Baptist church, was parked on Huntington street and during the absence of the clergyman it was stolen. The auto was later found abandoned on Brewer street and undamaged.

Stole Suits For Easter

The tailor shop of Herman Braverman, 55 Prest street, was entered last night and two suits of clothes were stolen. The burglary was discovered by Braverman when he opened the establishment for business this morning. Braverman reported the theft at police headquarters, but no trace of the crook was obtained by Detective Sergeant Nelson Smith. Entrance to the tailor shop was obtained by forcing a rear window.

TAXPAYERS' LEAGUE IS TO MEET TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, April 15.—Another meeting of the New London Taxpayers' league, recently formed, has been called for tomorrow night. It is believed that the meeting will be attended by a large number of those property owners who are deeply interested in the success of the league. Three petitions tending to boost membership in the league are in circulation and these are being freely signed by leading business men, among whom are many large property owners.

Simon DeLong, 271 Crystal avenue, captured one of the dogs that has been killing hens and chickens in that vicinity of late. This morning the dog, which was known to have killed much of the poultry, entered his hencoop. DeLong made the dog a prisoner and then notified the police of his capture. Dog Warden Tryon was notified, went to the Crystal avenue house and took charge of the animal. Residents of Crystal avenue have been annoyed several weeks because of dogs gaining admission to roosts and killing the fowl. One resident less than a week ago, suffered the loss of 12 hens, the poultry being found dead on the roost and in the yard the day after the killing.

The New London police today were requested by the Hartford police to assist in finding Miss Ruth McNaught, a nurse, who has disappeared from her home.

OBITUARY

Miss Anne Sullivan

Miss Anne Sullivan, 63, of Brooklyn, N. Y., died yesterday at Lawrence-Memorial hospital. Miss Sullivan, for several years, was a summer resident at Hadlyme.

Mrs. Mary Tyler Miner

Mrs. Mary Tyler Miner, 70, formerly of New London, died yesterday at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Ralph S. Martin, at Sound Beach. Besides their daughter, Mrs. J. W. Boylston, of this city, another daughter survives. Mrs. Miner was born in New London, the daughter of Captain Louis and Elizabeth Potter Beckwith. About 10 years ago Mrs. Miner moved to Whitneyville, where she made her home until about three months ago when she went to the home of her daughter, because of her declining health.

Property on Atlantic street, owned by the estate of Bartholomew Daly, was sold at auction this afternoon by order of the superior court, the sale being authorized in connection with a foreclosure action of the Savings Bank of New London. Although there were about 40 persons present the only bidder was George Whittlesey who represented the bank. Mr. Whittlesey's bid was $1,500 and the property was sold to the bank. The property consists of a building lot, has a frontage of 30 feet, with a depth of 50 feet on one side and 80 feet on the other.

Louis Gingras, of this city, was tried in the Groton town court yesterday, charged with operating a steam roller without having a license. Gingras, who is employed by N. Benvenuti & Son, local contractors, was fined $3 and costs, the latter amounting to $11.55 and $7 of this sum was ordered remitted. Gingras was arrested a week ago by State Police Officer John Smith.

Roman Wiecvorek, of this city, charged with driving an automobile which was not equipped with a reflector, was fined the costs of the court, $11.55.

Kenneth O'Brien, of New York, was charged with speeding. The driver failed to present himself in court and his bond of $25 was forfeited.

Dominic Castagna, of Westerly, charged with speeding, was fined $10 and costs of $12.55. The fine was ordered remitted.

Let City Collect Their V

Walter Slocum, New London; Emil J. Rajala, Townsend, Mass.; Lewis J. Powers, Springfield, Mass.; Sarah Witt, New York; Merritt P. Smith, Cranston, R. I.; Louis I. Schvimer, Bluff Beach, Mass.; Albertus E. Shippee, Pawcatuck; Nathaniel Bryor, New York, B. Malcolm Harris, New Haven, were charged with passing an automatic danger signal. As none of the drivers apeared in court their respective bonds of $5 were declared forfeited.

CONNIE BURT RELENTS— ROBT. COLEMAN RETURNS

Connie Burt, Negress, residing at 17 Hill street, has withdrawn her complaint against Robert Coleman, a Negro residing at the same address, charging the latter with felonious assault. As a result of the woman's action, Coleman has returned to New London and will not be prosecuted. The police have been conducting a search for Coleman for three weeks or more, since he engaged in a quarrel with the woman at the Hill street house. At the time of the brawl, Albert Pijeaux, of Hempstead street, was in the house and when Coleman attacked the woman with a bread knife, Pijeaux interferred. The woman escaped injury, but Pijeaux got a lacerated hand. Coleman disappeared following the assault and remained in hiding until after the Burt woman notified the authorities that she desired to withdraw her complaint.

Result Of Exams In Doubt

City Manager William A. Holt is yet to announce the successful candidates for appointment to the supernumerary force of the police department, for if there are any who obtained a successful percentage in the recent examinations that official has not made it known. All the nine candidates passed creditable physical examinations and it is understood that in the mental test, which were exceptionally difficult and different from all other like examinations, that the seekers for police duty had but a low average. Whether any attained a mark which would qualify them for appointment is not known, but is considered doubtful.

FUNERAL

Leon Gravel

The funeral of Leon Gravel was held from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Daly, of Palmertown, at 8:30 Tuesday morning. At 9 o'clock requiem high mass was sung at St. John's church, Uncasville, by the pastor, Rev. Father James A. O'Meara. The services were attended by many friends and the floral tributes were beautiful. The bearers were Milton Rogers, Albert Buckley, Paul Clifford and James Daniels. Burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery, Uncasville, where the committal prayers were read by Father O'Meara. Undertaker C. A. Gager was in charge of the arrangements.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

ART DISPLAY IN WINDOW OF THE PORTEOUS MITCHELL CO.

Art lovers of this city and adjacent cities should be interested in a display being made this week in one of the windows of the Porteous & Mitchell company's store. Not only is it very attractive but it is unique from a constructive standpoint. This poster is composed of over 2500 pieces of leather, from which the gloves on display in the same window, are made.

You will notice that there is not a particle of paint used in the entire poster, which certainly is surprising and should interest anyone who is interested in art!

We would call your particular attention to the way in which the eyes, nose and mouth of the young lady displayed in the poster are formed—with tiny pieces of colored leather. It is worthwhile seeing.

Demonstration at Porteous & Mitchell

Over the teacups in a smart Park avenue restaurant some years ago was created an unique institution. An exclusive group of society women, who wanted more facts and less guesswork about beauty, agreed to endow an institution to make a scientific study of the complexion and its needs

So Primrose House was founded, as a laboratory of beauty research. There was no thought of money. These women were interested in securing the finest beauty preparations and the best method science could evolve.

Julia Marlowe's charming old home just off Fifth avenue was secured, and in this lovely old town house was established the most exclusive beauty salon the world has ever seen.

The news of these finer preparations spread swiftly.

Great dermatologists were employed to study the complexion and its needs and to originate finer preparations. Trained nurses were employed to administer the famous Primrose face molding treatment which these scientists had evolved.

The news that Primrose House had revolutionized beauty methods spread beyond the little group whose vision had created Primrose House for their own needs. The great department stores came seeking the Primrose preparations. The demands for treatments at the salon outgrew the limited space of the old Marlowe home and Primrose House was forced to move to its present quarters on Fifth avenue.

Primrose quality is now available to every woman who prizes youth.

Today, Primrose House preparations are no longer restricted to a limited few. So tremendous has grown the demand for these products that the finest department and drug stores throughout America sell the Primrose House preparations.

So thoroughly has Primrose House gone into the study of the complexion and its requirements that a complete group of Primrose preparations has been created to meet the needs of every type of skin.

For the woman whose skin is neither too dry nor too oily, selection is extremely simple. There are only four steps in the home treatment for the normal skin and only four preparations necessary.

The Porteous & Mitchell Co. take pleasure in announcing that Primrose House preparations are now available at their store and recommend these preparations to their most discriminating patrons.

Until Saturday, April 19th, Miss Mary Jane McGrath, expert consultant from the salon of Primrose House will be in attendance at the toilet goods counter and on Wednesday and Thursday, April 16th and 17th, at 3 p. m., on the third floor, will give a practical demonstration of the Primrose House method. The Porteous & Mitchell Co. cordially extend an invitation to the women of Norwich and vicinity to attend these demonstrations.

Palace Theatre

Variety is the keynote of the double-feature bill which opens at the Palace theatre today and which will be continued through Friday. "New York Nights," the screen version of the popular stage success "Tin Pan Alley" starring Norma Talmadge and Gilbert Roland and "Troopers Three" are the two pictures comprising this excellent offering.

"New York Nights" is a lively tale of hardworked chorus girls, struggling song writers and racketeer producers. It tells the story of Jill Deverne, (Norma Talmadge) who sings and dances in the chorus of a big show and who is the sole support of her song-writing husband (Gilbert Roland) a loveable chap but unsuccessful and very fond of drinking.

Arthur Guy Empey has scored another triumph in his latest screen story "Troopers Three," a narrative about the army with no war, featuring a brilliant cast headed by Rex Lease, Roscoe Karns, Slim Summerville and Dorothy Gulliver.

Eddie Haskins, (Rex Lease), is a song and dance man in vaudeville who decides to have a thirty day's vacation at the expense of Uncle Sam by signing up for the Citiezn's Training camp. His amazement is stupendous when he learns that he has enlisted in the cavalry for three years. Two other rookies, Bugs and Sonny are his pals. The three bear the brunt of all the jokes of the regular troopers and provide side-splitting comedy for the audience.

All is well until Eddie falls in love with Dorothy the charming daughter of an officer and steals her away from a trooper. Eddie at last must prove his worth which he does, of course, and a beautiful theme of romance is cleverly brought into the story.

Broadway Theatre

"Contact! On! Off! On! Give her the gun!" and the breathless pursuit of the notorious "Gray Eagle," the Nemesis of the allied fliers is on Seventeen thousand feet in the clouds, zooming, wing-slipping, looping, with Lewis guns beating a deadly tattoo, roaring motors, screaming wires, rattling anti-aircraft guns, a sudden hit, a shattered prop, a racing engine—and the "Eagle" had taken another toll! Time then, for the "suicide squadron" to take the air, and relentlessly hunt down that hated Hun killer, and it befell Buddy Rogers, as Lieut. "Bobby" Banks to capture his assailant—and alive!

You haven't heard the half of it, though, for the Broadway has for good measure, included Hal Skelly's latest comedy feature "Men Are Like That," on the same program. This being filmed from George Kell's stage riot, "The Show Off," depicts Skelly as the wise-cracking "kid from West Philly," a humble clerk in the Penn. railroad offices. There isn't much he can't do, according to his own tell, but he spells nothing but trouble to his charming wife and her thoroughly familiar family. The talky four-flusher skids his wordy way from bad to worse, but finally one of his colossal bluffs succeeds, and he wins a fortune for himself and the family. The little wife, admiring but thoroughly scared most of the time, is Doris Hill, and the other roles are in the hands of Morgan Farley, Charles Sellon and Clara Blandwick as "Ma and Pa," George Fawcett, and Eugene Pallette. This thrilling and amusing twin-feature bill holds through Friday, when it will give way to the Broadway's New England popular price premiere of the long waited for super-production, "The Vagabond King," which opens Saturday.

Contract Bridge Classes

Mrs. Florence H. Fitch who has been successfully teaching large classes in contract bridge at the Mohican hotel, New London, will be at Mary Elizabeth's Salon, 40 Broadway, Norwich, every Tuesday. See adv.

TAFTVILLE

Mrs. Aubrey Potter and her daughter, Miss Evelyn Potter of Jewett City road spent the week end in Hartford, the guests of Mrs. Potter's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Christian Bayreuther.

Quintin Atkins of South Second avenue is the guest of his sister, Miss C. Evelyn Atkins in Fort Worth, Texas. Before returning home he plans to visit his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Atkins in Florida.

Following the account in the Taftville columns of the two bills of Continental Currency dated 1776; a number of other ancient coins have been brought into Weller's store. Among them are:

A Spanish silver coin bearing the date of 1798, bearing the head of Carolus IIII. The royal arms of Spain appear on the reverse side with the words Hispana et Ind.

A five franc silver piece of 1818, with the head of Louis XVIII, Roi de France; and the Bourbon coat-of-arms on the reverse.

A copper coin dated 1816, with the words Ein Kreutzer. This coin has the arms of the Austro-Hungarian empire on the front.

An Argentine "Decimo" coined in 1822, and bearing the stamp of the red cap of liberty.

A British half-penny of 1815, with the figure of Brittania on the front and a wonderful representation of a full rigged ship on the reverse.

People on their way to work early Tuesday morning met a number of fishermen who had been out early whipping the streams and were returning with fine strings of the fish. Throughout the morning, cars passed through the town with fish poles protruding from the automobile windows.

Mrs. Thomas Perkins Sears of North Fifth avenue was in New Haven Tuesday.

The Thimble club was entertained at a sewing hour and supper by Mrs. Albert J. Aberg of North A street.

METHODIST SUPERINTENDENT HAVING BUSY WEEK

District Superintendent Myron E. Genter is having a busy week following the annual conference in New London.

On Monday he was in New Haven and as president of the Connecticut Temperance and Anti-Saloon league, introduced the new state superintendent, E. C. Prettyman, who has just been transferred from Delaware, to the group of women, business men, directors and ministers and educators, who in turn looked with high favor upon the broader programme as proposed by the superintendent.

Tuesday Mr. Genter spent in Boston, as a member of the Area World Service Council of New England, and also as serving on the special commission for the revision of the appropriations of the Board of Home Missions for New England.

On Wednesday he meets in Willimantic with the district stewards for the usual business in their annual session and at 11 a. m. will meet with the Willimantic Camp Meeting association executive committee at the Methodist Episcopal church at the same place to submit the programme for the next camp meeting, to be held from Aug. 16-24.

The superintendent reports that all pastors appointed to churches new to them, at the last conference in New London, are entering heartily upon their work. He has arranged for Dr. E. M. Conover, head of the bureau of architecture of the denomination and resident in Philadelphia, to spend several days on his district, visiting churches which have already expressed a desire for him and which are looking forward to making alterations in their church buildings.

TROUT FISHERMEN CROWD SNAKE MEADOW BROOK

Advance publicity on the heavily stocked Snake Meadow brook in Windham county had a telling effect upon the desciples of Isaak Walton for the opening day of the trout season Tuesday the stream literally seethed with humanity. By actual count 60 carriers of the rod and line were stationed along public shore of lower pond near the Meadow Brook club house in the early hours of the day, reports a patrolman. How the were able to cast their lines into the waters without disturbing the peace of the vicinity is a question, but that is beside the point. In addition to these early risers, there were others who came later and tried their luck here, too. How many more is not known.

GURDON MILLER MAKING RECOVERY FROM INJURIES

Gurdon Miller, who has been visited weekly at Grace hospial in New Haven by his mother, Mrs. Frelove A. Miller, of 20 Penobscot street, since he was very severely injured by electricity burns in the New Haven railroad yards at New Haven on September 11 last, is making progress towards recovery although it is necessarily slow.

Since he has been in the hospital he has had six operations, the most recent of which were skin grafting on his eyebrow and an operation to improve the use of the fingers of his hand. It is expected that several more minor operations will be necessary, all contributing to Mr. Miller's ultimate recovery from the injuries he received.

Backus Hospital Dismissals

Patients discharged Tuesday at W. W. Backus hospital were the following:

Bernice Burdick, 79 Spring street, Westerly; Mary Stevens, Taftville; Felix Duhaime, 8 South C street, Taftville.

Catch of 19 Trout

Jean Kieffer, X-ray expert at Uncas-on-Thames, was out whipping the streams on the opening day and returned with 19 fish, a number of good size.

NORWICH TOWN

MANY MOURNING FRIENDS AT MRS. CHESEBRO'S FUNERAL

Funeral services for Mrs. Lucy Geer Chesebro, of Norwich Town, were held Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock at the funeral parlor of George G. Grant at Taftville, in compliance with Mrs. Chesebro's request. Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., pastor of the Central Baptist church, Norwich, of which Mrs. Chesebro was a member, conducted the service during which he read a beautiful poem. There were choice floral remembrances. The bearers were four neighbors on Scotland road where Mrs. Chesebro had resided practically her life-time—Albert Lillibridge, Christian Hansen, Herbert Bushnell and Thurston Lillibridge. Burial was in the family plot in the Ray-Yerrington cemetery, near Occum. Rev. Dr. Pitt read the committal service. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends from Providence, Westerly, Willimantic, Canterbury and Norwich Town. The tragic death of Mrs. Chesebro has cast a gloom over her relatives and friends. Down-hearted because of an incurable disease she had finally made up her mind to end her life and took the time when members of her family were away. Mrs. Chesebro was Lucy Geer, daughter of Elisha P. and Elizabeth Ray Geer. She was born in Norwich Town and when a young girl attended Podgum school. Among her schoolmates were Mrs. Dwight L. Underwood and George G. Grant. From this rural school, she entered the Backus hospital training school for unrses, being a member of the first graduating class. At the time of the influenza epidemic in Norwich when Bushnell chapel was thrown open as an emergency hospital, after the town of Norwich made an appeal for volunteer nurses, Mrs. Chesebro was among the first to reschool for nurses, being a member of care back to normal health. This was one of her heroic and noble deeds. She also took care of her parents, grandparents and her husband in their severe and final illnesses. She made her home with her niece, Mrs. Stanley Wilowski on Scotland road. Besides her brother, Adelbert Geer, Mrs. Chesebro is survived by nieces and nephews, also by two aunts, Mrs. Elisha Baldwin of Providence and Mrs. Frank Allen of Willimantic Camp Ground. Mrs. Chesebro owned a cottage on the Camp Ground and often spent the summer there. Mrs. Chesebro's husband was Amos Chesebro whom she married many years ago. She was a loyal friend, skilled in her profession, ready and anxious to be of service at all times. She is sincerely mourned by many friends.

WESTERN UNION WILL LENGTHEN OFFICE HOURS FOR CITY SERVICE

Week-day office hours of the Western Union Telegraph company in this city are to be extended to 11 o'clock at night, an increase of two hours over the present time, according to what Superintendent Morrison from the New York office of the company told the directors of the chamber of commerce when he appeared before them at their meeting Tuesday night.

President Frank R. Murdy presided at the directors' meeting which was attended by Benjamin H. Palmer, Jr., William J. Fitzgerald, Henry D. Johnson, Abner Schwartz, George R. Fellows, W. H. Stebbins, A. M. Van Wagenen, Harry F. Powers and John R. Tarrant.

Superintendent Morrison explained that the reason for the present business office schedule of the company's office here, closing at 9 o'clock on week-day nights, was because of lack of sufficient business from Norwich to warrant additional hours, but said the company was willing to make the extension mentioned as soon as the necessary operator could be secured to take over this work, which would be in thec ourse of the next two months.

Armed with the records of the amount of business actually filed by telephone after the local office was closed under the present management, Superintendent Morrison showed beyond a doubt that the volume of business from Norwich after hours was far below New London and other cities of like size. However, it was felt by the telegraph company's representative that they wished to give every co-operation and a full complement of service where it was at all justified by the volume of business and to this end he made the suggestion mentioned which was accepted by the directors.

The following new members were unanimously voted to membership in the chamber of commerce: Virtume P. A. Quinn, attorney at law, and Simon Mandell, merchant.

Post Cards and Tourist Bureau

Favorable action was taken upon the matter of having better and a more varied line of post cards of local scenes issued, which project was referred to the chamber of commerce by Miss Elizabeth Huntington acting for the Women's City club. This club also referred to the chamber of commerce the matter of establishing an information bureau for tourists information. The directors instructed the secretaries to take this matter up and in addition to get necessary information for such a bureau to have a proper sign denoting "Tourist's Information Bureau" at the chamber of commerce. In connection with opening of tourist season, the board of directors considered the proposition of having new signs of suitable size and located at the five entrances to Norwich erected, these signs to welcome tourists, guide them to points of interest and refer them to the information bureau. This modern type of sign is now in use in many cities and as soon as the items of expense involved are secured the matter will again be considered by the board.

Trade School Survey Deferred

A communication was read from W. J. Wilcox of Meriden, secretary of the Open Shop association of Connecticut, Inc., to the effect that the trade school survey of Norwich had been deferred temporarily due to the recent resignation of Mr. Clark, their secretary. A new secretary is about to take Mr. Clark's place and among his first assignments will be the completion of the trade school survey of Norwich, with a report to the chamber of commerce.

SHOWED 4-H CLUB WORK FOR WOMAN'S CITY CLUB

A demonstration of 4-H club activities in New London county featured the monthly business meeting of the Woman's City club Tuesday evening at the Wauregan hotel. The business session, with a large attendance, was called to order at 7:30 o'clock by the president, Mrs. C. B. Gilbert, and the usual reports were heard and accepted. Routine busines was transacted after which the remainder of the evening was devoted to the 4-H club demonstration. Randolph W. Whaples, county club leader of the New London County Farm Bureau, and Miss Elizabeth Grover, assistant county club agent, personally supervised the demonstration.

After speaking briefly of the club aims, Mr. Whaples introduced Paul Holdridge of Ledyard, one of the few Connecticut boys who is going to the boys' meeting to be held at Washington. He gave a detailed outline of the club work in thec ounty. Winifred Burdick of the Duwell Cooking club of Preston and Nathaniel Manning of Franklin each spoke of the activities in their respective clubs after which there was a demonstration of a 4-H club business meeting by the Smith School Better Bodies club of Franklin. Those taking part in this demonstration were: Arthur Davis, Felix and Alice Zaniewski, Henrietta Szczepaniak, Joseph and Helen Straus, Charlotte Duerr, Jennie Sachonchik, John Sachonchik, Irving Bowers, Tony Carboni, Dominick Fatibene and Saverio Laterra.

The aims of the girls' clubs were then described by Miss Grover, following which there was a sewing club demonstration. Those taking part were: Vivi Bergius, first year class, North Stonington; Mary Manning, second year class, North Franklin; Ruth Robinson, third year class, North Franklin; Edna Lamb, fourth year class, North Franklin.

William Wilcox of Norwich Town described his club poultry work, and Harold Gray of North Stonington told of his sheep club work. The meeting adjourned about 9:30 o'clock.

SPOKE BEFORE MEETING OF BUSINESS WOMEN

Secretary John Richardson of the Norwich chamber of commerce addressed a meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club held Tuesday noon at the Wauregan hotel. He outlined in an interesting way the proposed Norwich programme to be broadcast over radio station WTIC, Hartford, for a period of ten weeks, starting Friday evening. This project, the secretary explained, would advertise Norwich throughout the country. Secretary Richardson also urged the members to patronize Norwich stores, stating that numbers of people go elsewhere to purchase articles that can be secured here. The speaker was accorded a rising vote of thanks for his instructive talk.

WHITE CROSS COUNCIL FAVORS LAYMEN'S RETREATS

At the regular meeting of White Cross council, K. of C. held Tuesday evening at the K. of C. home on Broadway and presided over by Grand Knight James P. Sheridan, a class of candidates was initiated in the first degree. Rev. John J. Reilly, chaplain of the council, speaking on the laymen's retreats now very popular among Catholic men, noted specially that conducted by the Dominican Fathers at Charles Island, Milford. These week end retreats, besides being intellectually beneficial, provide the Catholic layman with a glimpse of the spiritual life. A group of council members is expected to be formed in the near future to attend these retreats.

Called for Rubbish Fire

Acting Chief D. J. Brennan, Squad A, and Engine No. 2 responded about 8:30 o'clock Tuesday evening to a telephone call to extinguish a rubbish fire in the rear of the old carshops, No. 95 North Main street. Water pump cans were used on the fire. Jacob Slosberg is the owner of the property.

DECLARES PROHIBITION SHOWS VALUES IN THE NATION

A talk on "Sidelights," dealing with prohibition, was given Tuesday afternoon by Miss Nellie J. Starr of Montville, county president of the W. C. T. U., at the Woman's Crusade meeting at the Central Baptist church. The speaker said that the results of prohibition have been marked, despite the fact that the law has been but imperfectiy enforced. The saloons have disappeared, she said, and there is less drunkeness, less vice, less poverty, higher wages, and happier homes, and the highest living standard of any country in the world.

There are several times more automobiles in this country, she said, than in the rest of the world combined. There is an automobile for nearly every family in the country. It is not only material welfare that follows prohibition in the first decade, there are moral and spiritual values. Prohibition is a child welfare measure. Cases of cruelty, disappearing and neglect of children, measured by court, and charity cases, have been cut in half. Prohibition has increased our health, the general death rate being lower while the enormous expansion in education is well known.

All around the world people are looking enviously at America which is free from the curse of the saloon continued Miss Starr. The world knows we are the wealthiest nation. Much of our wealth is due to the fact that money once spent in saloons is mainly spent towards better home betterment or invested in valuable property. We work better, produce more and get more out of our work. Our churches are gaining in members and in spirit. While other nations are devising ways and means of meeting untold burdens we alone have had a surplus in our national treasury. We have eliminated practically all war taxes and have made heavy reductions in our federal income taxes. The people of this country are happier, wealthier and healthier than any other people in the world.

COMMON PLEAS COURT FINES AUTOMOBILE DRIVERS

Six cases were disposed of without trials here Tuesday morning in the session of the criminal common pleas court with Judge C. B. Waller presiding.

A fine of $100 and costs was imposed upon John Hines of this city and Baltic on a reckless driving charge. A charge of evading responsibility was dropped. Hines was in an accident on Dec. 19, when his machine crashed into a team on the Occum-Baltic road. He was represented by Attorney V. P. A. Quinn.

A nolle was recommended by Prosecuting Attorney C. B. Whittlesey in the case of Angelo Panagiotis of 27 Thames street, who was accused of violation of the liquor law on the testimony of a Negro spotter who has now disappeared. Panagiotis appealed a city court fine of $200 and costs and a 10-day jail sentence.

A charge of evading responsibility was dropped against Albert Martin of this city, but he was fined $50 and costs for violation of the motor vehicle law. His car struck a hydrant on Boswell avenue on the night of Dec. 21. It was so badly damaged, according to what Attorney Thomas M. Shields told the court, that the $600 car was junked for $25.

A nollee upon payment of $10 was made in the case of J. L. Gaynor of New London, on a charge of violation of the motor vehicle laws. Gaynor, in a heavy fog on Dec. 2, last, while driving to New London from this city, struck a pole on the Norwich-New London road at Quaker Hill, when the car left the highway.

George J. Brown of Griswold, who had elected jury trial last week after pleading not guilty to a charge of non-support, obtained a nolle in his case upon recommendation of the prosecutor, who said that Mrs. Brown desired to withdraw the charges.

A charge of violation of the motor vehicle laws against Henry Squires of New London was postponed until the next term of the court.

Doctor's PRESCRIPTION when system is sluggish; costs nothing to try

When your bowels need help, the mildest thing that will do the work is always the sensible choice. Take a laxative that a family doctor has used for all sorts of cases of chronic constipation. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is so pleasant to the taste, so gentle in its action, it is given children of tender age and yet it is just as thorough and effective as stronger preparations. Pure senna, and harmless laxative herbs; ingredients that start a gentle muscular action. Avoid a coated tongue, laden breath, bilious headaches, etc. Every drug store has Dr. Caldwell's famous prescription in big bottles. Or just write Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, Monticello, Ill., for a free trial bottle.

POETRY

On Lynn Terrace

Once more I halt in Andalusian Pass,
To list the mule-bells jingling on the height;
Below, against the dull esparto grass,
The almonds glimmer white.

Huge gateways, wrinkled, with rich grays and browns,
Invite my fancy, and I wander through
The gable-shadowed, zigzag streets of towns
The world's first sailors knew.

Or, if I will, from out this thin sea-haze
Low-lying cliffs of lovely Calais rise;
Or yonder, with the pomp of olden days,
Venice salutes my eyes.

Or some gaunt castle lures me up its stair;
I see, far off, the red-tiled hamlets shine,
And catch, through slits of windows here and there,
Blue glimpses of the Rhine.

Again I pass Norwegian fjord and fell,
And through bleak wastes to where the sunset's fires
Light up the white-walled Russian citadel,
The Kremlin's domes and spires.

And now I linger in green English lanes,
By garden-plots of rose and heliotrope;
And now I face the sudden pelting rains
Of some low Alpine slope.

All this is mine, as I lie dreaming here,
High on the windy terrace, day by day;
And mine the children's laughter, sweet and clear,
Ringing across the bay.

—Thomas Bailey Aldrich, Poems

Remembrance.

Lilacs in my window peering,
Columbines, with airy grace,
And the stately swords of iris
Pansy of the saucy face,
And a red, red rose is climbing,
Climbing o'er a trellis tall;
Oh, it seems as tho' this sweetness
Did my heart and soul enthrall!

Now I see, in sunlight shining,
Gorgeous foxgloves all abloom
And sweet mignonette, the darling
O'er the air casts her perfume,
Just a dream of yesterday,
For the window is remembrance,
And a broken prayer I'm offering:
"Pour their fragrance o'er my way,
In their beauty ever keep me
Till life blooms in endless day."

—Martha B. Donaghy, in the Philadelphia Bulletin.

PRISONS OVERCROWDED BY VIOLATORS OF DRY LAWS

Attorney General Mitchell Warns Against Passing Any More Federal Statutes That Make Things Crimes That Are Not At Present—Attributes Overtaxing of the Federal Machinery to the Prohibition, White Slave, Narcotic and Automobile Theft Laws—Is Opposed to Senate Investigation of Prohibition.

WASHINGTON, April 16.— (AP) — Ready to take over the enforcement of prohibition, Attorney General Mitchell wants to "get our house in order" before any new statutes are enacted making more crimes.

Giving this view to the senate judiciary committee in testimony made public today, the attorney general warned that the prison population of the United States is so great today that it is inexpedient to stimulate any further prosecutions.

Mr. Mitchell reported that the federal prisoners had increased during thee last nine months by 6,277 including those confined in county, city or state institutions. He said every federal institution was overcrowded. He attributed most of the new prisoners to the prohibition law.

He appeared before the judiciary committee to talk on the resolution for a senate investigation of prohibition and he opposed this on the ground that it would "paralyze" enforcement work during the inquiry. He urged, instead, that congress enact the prison relief legislation and the measure transferring prohibition from the treasury to the justice department.

Presenting data showing considerable increase in federal prisoners during the last 20 years, the attorney general attributed the "overtaxing of the federal machinery" to the prohibition, white slave, narcotic and automobile theft laws.

"It makes me feel," he said, "that we ought to get our house in order and increase our facilities for handling the criminal business we already have before we start passing any more federal statutes that make things federal crimes that are not at present."

Pointing again to the overcrowded condition of the penitentiaries. He said, "We have reached a point where of course, further stimulating activities of prosecution under any law will get us into difficulties."

The attorney general proposed increased pay and numbers of district attorneys as a step in improving enforcement. He listened attentively to a discussion by the senate committee of a proposal by Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, to establish "auxiliary" federal judges to take care of the so-called police court work now falling upon federal district judges. He gave no opinion on this point.

Senator Steiwer, republican, Oregon, as chairman of a judiciary subcommittee is planning early hearings on legislation aimed to relieve congestion in the courts. He said the Walsh proposal would be taken up.

Since the appearance of Mr. Mitchell, the judiciary committee has begun consideration of prison relief bills and an early report to the senate on these is in prospect.

SEN. BINGHAM TOO BUSY TO SERVE ON COMMITTEE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, April 16—Senator Bingham who was named as a member of the special committee to investigate recent campaign expenditures declined to serve on account of lack of time to attend to the duties of such a committee. Bingham made his decision known in a brief speech immediately after his appointment was made known to him.

Bingham was selected to fill the vacancy caused by refusal of Senator Goldsborough of Maryland to serve.

Senator Bingham is chairman of committee on territories and insular affairs, member of committee on finance which has kept him tied to tariff revision for a full year. Also is on committees on appropriations, rules and library, all of which require much time.

In addition Bingham heads the National Aeronautic association, and is chairman of several committees on subcommittee and commissions handling aviation and District of Columbia affairs. To add to these duties the exacting ones of the new investigating committee would be a physical impossibility so Senator Bingham wasted no time in declining to accept the appointment.

HOUSE RATES ACCEPTED ON HIDES AND LEATHERS

WASHINGTON, April 16—(AP)—Ignoring a quartet of decisive senate votes against any duties, the senate republican conferees on the tariff bill today receded and accepted the house rates on hides, leathers and shoes, which for years have ben allowed free entry into the United States.

Thus, the house rates of 10 per cent on hides, from 12 1-2 to 30 per cent on leathers and 20 per cent on boots and shoes—long in bitter controversy in both houses—were restored to the Hawley-Smoot bill. With one exception, the house increased tariffs on leather gloves of all descriptions also were agreed to.

The proposed senate increases in rates on narrow laces, against which demonstrations have been staged in French lace centers were discussed again but no decision was reached. They are expected to be settled tomorrow. The vote on hides and shoes was along strict party lines with the three republicans from each house voting for duties and the two democratic conferees in each group opposing them.

D. A. R. PASSED NATIONAL DEFENSE RESOLUTION

WASHINGTON, April 16—(AP)—Opposing reduction of American armament through the London naval conference, the Daughters of the American Revolution today adopted a sweeping national defense resolution calling for adequate appropriations for all branches of the service.

The resolution was accepted after an address by Mrs. Fred C. Morgan, of Saco, Maine, chairman of the legislative committee of the organization, in which she said, "The enemy is not only within our gates, but without, and we do not feel the time has come for us to scrap our ships and render ourselves defenseless as a nation, in the face of the present conditions of unrest."

$300,000,000 MELON CUT BY THE AMERICAN T. & T.

NEW YORK, April 16—(AP)—The American Telephone & Telegraph company, the world's largest utility and America's only $4,000,000,000 corporation, today cut a melon worth more than $300,000,000 to its 475,000 stockholders.

It announced an offering of new stock to be sold to shareholders at par, $100, in the ratio of one new share for each six held on May 23. Walter S. Gifford, president of the company, said that on the basis of stock now outstanding the amount of capital raised through the sale would approximate $225,000,000. The new funds will be used in expanding the Bell system of which American Telephone is the parent company.

THREE BANDITS ROBBED BANK IN NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, April 16.—(AP) — Three bandits with shot guns and pistols held up the Broadmoor branch of the Hibernia Bank and Trust company, locked four employes of the bank in the vault and escaped with an undetermined amount of money.

NEGRO, FATALLY WOUNDED, FOUND CLINGING TO TREE

SCOTTSBURG, Indiana, April 16.—(AP) —E. D. Pierson, 80, Negro of Chicago, today was found clinging to a tree in the Miscatatuck river, his hands and feet tied, a heavy suit case suspended from his neck and his body marked by four bullet wounds. Though still living when found, Pierson died before he could receive medical attention.

The coroner expressed the opinion that Pierson had died from the bullet wounds rather than drowning.

The man was found when J. H. Taylor and two boys went to the river to examine fish lines. They heard faint cries and, upon locating Pierson, Taylor attempted to pull him from the stream. The Negro sank back into the water, however, and was dead when taken from the stream.

Auditor Of Baptist Convention

CHICAGO, April 16.—(AP) — E. D. Pierson, 54, Negro, who was found mortally wounded clinging to a tree near Scottsburg, Indiana, today, his hands and feet tied, was identified here tonight as an auditor of the National Baptist convention. Pierson was a resident of Chicago.

Mrs. Pierson, wife of the slain man, who made the identification, told police she believed that discoveries made by her husband while auditing books in the Nashville, Tenn., office of the National Baptist convention may have been cause for the slaying. She declared there was some dissension in the convention and expressed the belief that "some one was hired to kill my husband."

DELEGATES TO HIGHWAY SAFETY CONFERENCE

HARTFORD, April 16—(AP)—Former State Senator Huntington P. Meach, of West Hartford, Prof. Mark A. May, of Yale university, and R. E. Steele, secretary of the Automobile club of New Haven county, were appointed representatives of the state of Connecticut to the third national conference on street and highway safety to be held in Washington, D. C., May 27 to 29, inclusive, it was announced by Gov. John H. Trumbull this afternoon.

The Connecticut delegation will be led by John A. MacDonald, highway commissioner, and Robbins B. Stoeckel, motor vehicle commissioner, who were appointed by the governor previously.

OFFICERS OF REBEKAH LODGES OF CONNECTICUT

MIDDLETOWN, April 16—(AP)—Mrs. Harriet W. Wilson, of Bridgeport, was elected president of the Rebekah lodges of Connecticut, at their annual convention here today.

Mrs. Mildred J. West, of Hampden, was chosen vice president and Mrs. Lillian N. Fowler, of Thompsonville, was elected warden. Two officers, Mrs. Mary E. Johnson, of Torrington, and Miss Clara B. M. Douglas, of Bristol, were re-elected.

Bridgeport was selected for the 1931 convention.

Mrs. Maude G. Briggs, of Middletown, elected a delegate to the national assembly.

Degrees were conferred at the closing session tonight.

MRS. HOOVER'S BACK WRENCHED IN A FALL

WASHINGTON, April 16—(AP)—Mrs. Hoover suffered a painfully wrenched back in a fall this afternoon at the white house.

Dr. Joel T. Boone, white house physician said tonight that Mrs. Hoover's injury, however was slight. She fell in her living room and was injured sufficiently to kep from standing when she received the children of the American Revolution who visited her this afternoon.

UNION PACIFIC OPPOSES MERGER OF RAILROADS

WASHINGTON, April 16—(AP)—Opposition to the proposed connection of the Western Pacific and the Great Northern railways in Oregon and California arose late today before the interstate commerce commission with Dana T. Smith, attorney for the Union Pacific, attacking the plan as unnecessary and likely to place a burden upon traffic of the Union Pacific and the South Pacific railroad.

MADURA, Madras, India, April 16.—(AP) — Forgetting any interest they may have had in the Indian independence movement, Hindus of the Sourashtras community and Moslems fought viciously here today in connection with a Hindu religious festival. One Moslem was killed and many of the combatants on both sides were injured.

LONDON, April 16—(AP)—A dispatch from Egypt to the Daily Express said the airplane of the Duchess of Bedford, who is flying by easy stages from England to Cape Town, had been forced down in a bog near Juba in upper Egypt, 700 miles south from Khartoum, Anglo-Egyptian Sudan. The airplane had to be hauled out by natives.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, April 16.—(AP)—Bolivia and Paraguay made a step forward in settlement of their long standing boundary dispute. It was officially announced here that the two countries have exchanged diplomatic representatives and re-established relations broken off in December, 1928, when Paraguayan soldiers attacked the Bolivian Fort VanGuardia.

TWO MEN KILLED BY EXPLOSION IN FIREWORKS PLANT IN NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, April 16—(AP)—The Connecticut Fireworks company, a one story plant, was totally destroyed and two men, the owners, were instantly killed this morning by an explosion, followed by a series of lesser force, which shook nearby homes in Northford.

Pasquale Passariello, 45 and Alessandro DeMarco, 45, were alone in the building when the stored contents of fireworks and powder was touched off in an unexplained manner.

Firemen from North Haven and ambulances from New Haven were summoned. The firemen were able to prevent a spread of the resulting fire to nearby buildings, both of which also contained explosives. One, 300 feet away, was filled with dynamite.

AIR PILOT AND HIS WIFE KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

HAYS, Kansas, April 16—(AP)—A young pilot and his wife, flying in heavy fog lost their lives today in the crash of an airplane nine miles southwest of here. Two passengers were injured, one seriously.

The dead are A. J. (Steve) Lacey, 27, of Wichita, well known exhibition flyer, and test pilot for the Cessna Aircraft company, and Mrs. Lacey, 20.

Russell Guild, 22, son of a Holyoke, Colo., motion picture theatre owner, suffered serious internal injuries, and Dr. H. C. Hill, also of Holyoke, escaped with a broken nose and several fractured ribs.

The party was bound for Holyoke from Wichita. Dr. Hill said Lacey after flying in dense fog since 20 minutes out of Wichita and being forced to make one landing, apparently lost all sense of direction. Flying "blind," he nosed the ship down instead of up. With its engine racing the plane speeded 3,200 feet and buried itself in a pasture. The engine was found 200 feet from the fuselage.

Lacey was an entrant in last summer's national Ford reliability tour.

ARRESTED IN NEWTON, MASS., ON SUSPICION OF BURGLARY

NEWTON, Mass., April 16—(AP)—Fred G. Hughes, 47, who gave his address as the Hotel Sherman, Chicago, was arrested here tonight on suspicion of burglary. He told police to investigate his room at the Hotel Statler and officers found there three trunks filled with jewelry valued by them at $100,000.

New Haven Road To Raise $50,000,000

Stockholders Voted $10,000,000 For Rolling Stock and Marine Equipment.

NEW HAVEN, April 16.—(AP)—Prof. Albert Levitt, of Redding today unsuccessfully attempted to have the stockholders of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad co[illegible]pany at their annual meeting in[illegible] the directors and officers of th[illegible]pany to "proceed with the [illegible]tion of grade crossings [illegible] by the law of the state [illegible]cut."

The stockholders [illegible] authorized the company [illegible] $50,000,000 for the purpose of [illegible]ing off indebtedness and for the financing of improvements. This increase in the capital structure will be effected, according to the action taken by the stockholders, by the issuance of 500,000 shares of common stock at $100 par or of convertible mortgage bonds or debentures.

The stockholders also voted $10,000,000 for rolling stock and marine equipment.

Prof. Levitt, attending the meeting as a stockholder, introduced the subject of crossings when the ballot calling for the approval of the acts of the directors was presented. He moved to amend the ballot so that approval of the directors' acts would have also carried the instruction for the elimination of the crossings. The motion, however, was not seconded.

Prof. Levitt, who is seeking to have the public utilities commission removed for its alleged failure to enforce the law governing the elimination of crossings, charged that the railroad company had failed to remove any grade crossings since 1925 and has not made any provisions in this respect for the future. The law, he said, requires the railroad to remove annually one crossing for each fifty miles of track, or a total of 50 crossings a year.

E. G. Buckland, chairman of the board, replying to Prof. Levitt denied that the railroad company had violated the law regarding grade crossings.

In a statement made to the stockholders previous to the presentation of the charges by Prof. Levitt, Buckland had pointed out "some of the errors which we believe are being committed by an unknowing and therefore and unintending public." One of these errors, he said, was the "demands that are made for non-productive expenditures for improvements."

"Your company," Mr. Buckland said, "as a law-abiding citizen will continue to do its full and fair share as a taxpayer toward the support of government, state and national, and toward making safe highway crossing for the traveler exercising the same degree of care toward each other. Further than this, reason and the law ought not to require your company to go, at least until it shall have earned a real profit from its operations beyond the fair return to which you are entitled."

PAID $10,000 OR $20,000 FOR PERMIT TO MAKE NEAR BEER

NEW YORK, April 16.—(AP)—An upstate politician testified in federal court today that the "arrangements" whereby the Columbia County Cereal Beverage Company, Inc., Hudson, N. Y., obtained its permit to manufacture near beer cost either $10,000 or $20,000.

The witness, Joseph F. Walsh, of Newburgh, N. Y., president of the company, had testified that the permit was obtained from Palmer Canfield, then prohibition administrator for the northern part of the state, and that the "arrangements" were made at a meeting with Canfield in New York late in 1928, before the latter took office.

Michael Devasto, one of the 25 persons on trial with the brewery company for conspiracy and liquor law violation, told him the details of that meeting, Walsh said.

"A sum of money was taken there," Walsh testified, "$10,000 or $20,000, I would not say for sure which. It was placed on a table and they (Devasto and another defendant, George H. Burt) left the room. When they returned it was gone."

Spent $427,213 Last Year Against Dry Law

President Curran Tells of Activities of the Association Against 18th Amendment.

WASHINGTON, April 16— (AP) — Charging that the 18th amendment had made the government a "murderer and invader of people's rights," Henry Curran, president of the Association against the Prohibition Amendment, told the senate lobby committee today, that his organization spent $427,213 last year in advocating repeal of the dry law.

Curran predicted that the prohibition amendment would be repealed and asserted that three out of four persons in the United States, as well as five states, already were in revolt. Questioned about this phase of his testimony, he said he hoped there would be no armed revolution against the government as a result of the law.

Speaking in a calm, even tone most of the time, except for a few brief encounters with Chairman Caraway, the witness testified that the purpose of the organization was repeal of the 18th amendment in order to restore to the states "their former right to handle for themselves according to their own desires the control of the liquor traffic.

The association, he said, proposed to bring about repeal by "assembling and distributing to the American people information of the workings of the amendment," and "by supporting the candidacies of those whose agree with the object of the association."

Questioned about the political activities of the organization, Curran said it had contributed $1,500 to the Liberal Civic League of Massachusetts in behalf of the recent candidacy of a candidate in the western district of that state and that it now was advocating the election of three Pennsylvania officials.

The Pennsylvanians, he said, were Francis M. Bohlen, running for senator; Thomas W. Phillips, a candidate for governor, and Charles Dorrance, running for lieutenant-governor.

Curran said any activity of his organization in the forthcoming senatorial election in Illinois depended on the attitude of Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick, dry republican, who is running against former Senator James Hamilton Lewis, a wet democrat.

"Do you think she might change her mind?" Chairman Caraway asked.

"A woman always has the right to change her mind," Curran replied, amid laughter from the large crowd that packed the committee room.

Explaining the contributions to the association, Curran said funds were received last year from 10,000 persons. He added that of the total $427,213 received more than $250,000 was paid out as salaries to approximately 100 employes in twelve offices.

He said his salary was $25,000 a year and that it was guaranteed by five men who paid $5,000 each. He named them as John J. Raskob, chairman of the democratic national committee; Pierre DuPont, Lammot DuPont, Charles H. Sabin and Edward S. Harkness.

Senator Robinson, republican, Indiana, read from records of the association that $166,554 had been contributed during the first two months of the year. Among the contributors were Raskob, $17,500; Irenee DuPont, $20,000; Pierre DuPont, $12,500; Lammot DuPont, $17,500; Richard T. Crane, $12,500; Arthur Curtis James, $12,500, and Sabin, $7,500.

RADIO MERGER INVOLVES RADIO CORP., GEN. ELECTRIC AND WESTINGHOUSE

NEW YORK, April 16—(AP)—The Radio Corporation of America today announced a plan under which it will take over the radio manufacturing, engineering and licensing activities of the General Electric company and the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, in exchange for large blocks of its stock.

The plan will result in doubling the outstanding common stock of Radio corporation and will give General Electric practical control of the corporation through increasing its holdings to more than 40 per cent of the stock outstanding. General Electric is already the largest stockholder, with more than 20 per cent of the present stock outstanding. Westinghouse interest in the company will be increased from about 2 1-2 per cent of the common stock, to more than 22 per cent.

The plan is regarded as a means of simplifying the rather complicated relationships of the three companies, and of concentrating their several radio manufacturing interests. General Electric will turn over to Radio Corporation its 30 per cent and Westinghouse its 20 per cent interest in the R. C. A.-Victor corporation in which the radio manufacturing activities of the companies has been centered, at the former Victor Talking Machine company plants at Camden, N. J. Radio Corporation already holds the remaining 50 per cent interest.

Stockholders are asked to approve of the plan at a meeting on March 6.

The stockholders are asked to increase the authorized common stock from 7,500,000 shares to 15,000,000 shares. Of that amount, Radio will issue to General Electric and Westinghouse 6,580,371 shares, an amount equal to the number now outstanding. General Electric will receive three-fifths and Westinghouse two-fifths of these two new shares.

TRANS-OCEANIC AIR LINES LOOKING FOR FEDERAL AID

Proposals For Governmental Assistance In Establishing Privately-Owned Airship Lines Were Offered In Both Branches of Congress Yesterday—Three Such Lines Already Are Planned—Aid Measures Are Patterned Along the Lines of the Merchant Marine Act.

WASHINGTON, April 16—(AP)—Legislation proposing federal aid in the establishment of privately-owned airship lines to carry American commerce to all corners of the world, is provided in identical bills offered today in both branches of congress.

Senator McNarry, of Oregon, assistant republican leader, introduced the measure in the senate and Representative Parker, republican, New York, offered the same proposal in the house. Both were referred to committees.

The measures are patterned along the lines of the merchant marine act. They would create an airship construction loan and insurance fund to assist private enterprise in the establishment of the lines; authorize army and navy personnel to volunteer for service in their operation, and permit the use of the services of existing army and navy aviation terminals.

Further, the air carriers would be exempt from the operation of the anti-trust laws provided any agreement entered into were first approved by the secretary of commerce.

To be eligible for mail contracts, the airships would be required to have a capacity for not less than 10,000 pounds of mail and a suitable commercial load and be able to transport such cargoes great distances.

Senator McNary said three trans-oceanic air lines already are planned and all depended upon enactment of a bill such as he proposed. He listed the projects as those of the Pacific-Zeppelin Transport company for a service between the Pacific coast and Hawaii; the International-Zeppelin Transport corporation for a line across the Atlantic, and the Aircraft Development corporation for a Caribbean trade route.

BARRICADED NEGRO MYSTIC WAS SHOT DEAD BY POLICE

KANSAS CITY, April 16—(AP)—A self-styled Negro mystic was shot to death here today among his voodoo charms after a shot-punctuated two-hour siege by 25 policemen.

Patrolman Morris Cole was injured by a shotgun charge from the Negro's shanty on the banks of the Blue river.

The Negro, Tom Sims, recently discharged by a steel company for preaching voodooism to other Negro employes, was reported by neighbors to have ben shooting at ghosts the last few nights. Today he barricaded himself in his hovel and shot through windows at passers-by.

The first charge penetrated the home of Frank Crawford, endangering Mrs. Crawford and her children. Crawford fled and telephoned police.

Sims was ordered to surrender. "No," he shouted, leveling his shotgun. Patrolman E. C. Britton dodged, escaping the charge and then fired one shot through the window.

Police reinforcements arrived, deploying behind fences and buildings. Both sides kept up a desultory fire as the officers planned to burn the house by tossing oil soaked rags at it.

Finally an officer hurled a large stone, forcing the door open and bullets tore off the hinges, exposing the interior.

Sims was sen crawling along the floor apparently by tear gas and wouded but still carrying his shotgun. Detective R. K. Cole fired the fatal shot from a riot gun.

DANGER OF AUTO ACCIDENTS WHEN TRAFFIC IS LIGHTEST

HARTFORD, April 16—(AP)—A new and startling theory of the cause and prevention of automobile accidents was advanced today by Motor Vehicles Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel, to account for the phenomenal decrease of 100 per cent in the total number of motor vehicle accidents reported to the department for the first quarter of the year. In the face of an increase of 17,957 in the number of automobiles registered to March 31 as compared with last year and an increase of 32,725 in the number of operators' licenses issued to that date, the number of accidents reported in 1930, was 446 less than the total to the same date in 1929.

Commissioner Stoeckel's theory, in brief, was as follows: After a certain volume of traffic is reached accidents decrease in an undetermined ratio to the further increase in traffic, and the danger period for serious accidents becomes the period during the day when traffic over a given highway is lightest.

In support of his theory, the motor vehicle commissioner pointed out that it is a well known contradiction that, from the standpoint of accidents, "if a road is absolutely dangerous it is safer from danger of accidents." A narrow, winding road will often show fewer accidents than a broad, straight highway, he pointed out.

FLIER DROWNED WHILE DEMONSTRATING SEAPLANE

PORT WASHINGTON, N. Y., April 16.—(AP)—Its right wing suddenly collapsing as it was being put through stunts, a seaplane plunged from a height of 2,000 feet today and carried its pilot to death in the waters of Manhasset bay.

The body of the victim, Peter Talbot, 43, test pilot for the American Aeronautical corporation, was thrown out as the craft hit the sea. Later the body was recovered by coast guardsman.

Meanwhile the shattered plane, the property of the corporation for which Talbot worked, was towed to the New York police seaplane base.

The plane had been tested and passed this morning by an inspector of the department of commerce. Talbot had been in the air 45 minutes and had gone through several barrel rolls and a loop, and was starting another loop when the wing was seen suddenly to fold back. The machine hurtled downward leaving a trail of wing fragments.

Talbot was married and lived in New York.

COUPLE HELD FOR RANSOM UNDER THREAT OF DEATH

MEXICO CITY, April 16.— (AP) — Military authorities have been asked to rescue Enrique Andradae and his wife who are held near Nazatlan by bandits. The latter demand ransom of 5,000 pesos under threat of death to the couple.

According to a letter sent by the prisoners to friends here, the bandits threatened to kill them yesterday unless the ransom were paid. The letter also enclosed a note signed "E Estra, chief of division of the north" saying that unless the ransom was forthcoming, "the communist proceedings" would be applied to the prisoners and their relatives would then be abducted and face the same fate. The note said that the captors represent "a great cause" which would be made known in detail later.

GRAF ZEPPELIN ON RETURN FLIGHT TO ITS HOME BASE

SEVILLE, Spain, April 16—(AP)—The German dirigible, Graf Zeppelin, after a stop of one hour at the Tablada air field here, started back for Friedrichshafen at 7 o'clock tonight. During the one hour wait the airship discharged passengers and mail and took on new passegers for the return flight.

A big crowd cheered as the airship rose gracefully, circled the city and disappeared over the northern horizon. It was believed that the homeward flight would be made northward through Spain and thence into France. The entire trip is preparatory to the trans-Atlantic flight which will take the airship to South America and then to the United States, starting about the middle of next month.

A mooring mast for the Zeppelin was begun here but was not completed in time. As a consequence Spanish troops hauled the airship to earth by means of ropes and patiently held the craft throughout the hour that she tarried here.

SAYS PARKER NOMINATION IS AFFRONT TO NEGROES

WASHINGTON, April 16. — (AP) — Senator Patterson, republican, Missouri, was told in a telegram today from B. G. Vorhees, republican state chairman for Missouri, that confirmation of Judge John J. Parker, of North Carolina, as an associate justice of the supreme court "will be the first great affront given by a republican president and a republican senate to the Negro race since the days of Abraham Lincoln."

Vorhees said in his telegram to Senator Patterson that in his judgment the confirmation of Judge Parker "means that the republican party might just as well say good-bye to Missouri for the next two or three elections at least."

The Association for the Advancement of the Colored People has protested against a speech attributed to Judge Parker when he was a candidate for governor in 1920 and in which he is charged with remarks showing prejudice to the Negro race.

FIRST AERIAL EAGLE HUNT SUCCESSFUL

EL PASO, Tex., April 16.—(AP)—The first aerial eagle hunt in the southwest ended successfully today when Clarence Robey, pilot, and H. S. Bernhardt, marksman of the El Paso police department, returned from Marfa with nine sheep-killing birds to their credit.

An entire flock of eagles on the Leroy Cleveland ranch was killed in eight hours of flying time. The birds had been carrying off a dozen or more lambs daily.

The plane hunt was arranged when Cleveland was unable to get within shooting range of the birds from the ground.

Robey declared it was "hard work," but said with a powerful plane and quick maneuvering, the birds were easily overtaken. He said the eagles paid little attention to the plane until it was within ten feet of them.

AVIATOR PROSPECTOR TO WEAR LIGHT ARMOR

HARTFORD, April 16.—(AP)— Jack Crain, New Jersey aviator, today at Colt's factory here, outfitted himself with the most modern light armament as the last preliminary to taking off from the Newark airport tomorrow on a gold prospecting expedition in which he will seek to outwit the desperate men and unfavorable weather conditions by automatic revolvers and aerial transportation.

He expects to penetrate the canyon fastnesses of New Mexico by airplane—his exact goal a secret shared by Crain with an old "desert rat," who returned to civilization two years ago with nuggets valued at $75,000.

Crain's clue to the rich deposits he said, came from the old prospector who escaped with his wealth only after being forced to live eight years as the captive of a renegade band.

NEW YORK, April 16—(AP)—Frieda Hempel, Inc., which manufactures cosmetics, and in which the opera and concert singer is a director, was sued in supreme court today by Thomas La-Prelle, sales manager since last June. He says $2,958 is due him under a contract.

WILLIMANTIC

Office 824 Main Street Telephone 1131-3

SPECIAL CITY MEETING CALLED FOR MONDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, April 16.—The call for a special city meeting to be held next Monday night at 8 o'clock in the town hall was issued today by Mayor Walter R. King, for the purpose of voting on an appropriation of $5,000 or such part thereof necessary for repairs to the footbridge. The voters will be asked to authorize the common council to have the work done as soon as possible.

The issuance of a call for a special meeting to appropriate money for repairing the bridge has done much to relieve the pressure of agitation against the sudden closing of the footbridge Tuesday morning. It will be recalled that the bridge was ordered closed by the common council after hearing a report on its condition presented by Alderman Sanderson on behalf of an expert of a Berlin construction company.

This morning, at the request of Mayor King, two inspectors of the state highway department came here to examine the long span. One inspector worked from the outside, checking all defects and joints in the iron work, while the other noted the flooring and other points of construction. The inspectors then notified Mayor King that they would compile their findings at the highway department office, which findings they will turn over to Commissioner Weldon for release with suggestions. While refusing to give any definite statements on the condition of the bridge, the inspectors said that the section most affected was that over the railroad tracks. The bridge, which accommodates pedestrians only, spans the railroad yard and Willimantic river to link Pleasant and Main streets.

COMMISSIONERS TELL OF COUNTY HOME CONDITIONS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, April 16.—Conditions at the Windham County Temporary Home for Children at Putnam were disclosed in an informing and comprehensive talk delivered before the Exchange club at its weekly meeting in the Nathan Hale hotel Tuesday night, by Urgele LaFrance of Central Village, one of the county commissioners. Senator LaFrance was accompanied by A. C. Keith of Putnam and Burt Johnson of Woodstock, the other two county commissioners. Some time ago a committee of the Exchange club inspected the home and reported favorably on the methods of administration.

Commissioner LaFrance said that the Windham county home was opened at Putnam Heights on Nov. 1, 1883. The plan has always been to place the children in some able, respectable private family, as soon as consistent with good judgment. The object of the county home is to receive children between the ages of four and 18 years, who are neglected, deserted, cruelly treated or dependent. They are committed to the home for their better protection and care. None of the inmates are demented, idiotic, or suffering from any incurable or contagious disease. The committing authorities are judges of juvenile and probate courts and a thorough physical examination by a reputable physician is necessary before a child is received.

Members of the Child Welfare bureau now do the investigating of homes before a child is placed in one. The homes are selected within the county so that mothers and fathers who lost possession of the child because they were unable to provide for it can then continue to find it possible to see the child, at least occasionally.

Authority over these children ceases when they reach the age of 18 years, but a child is not necessarily discharged summarily and turned loose into the world without a place to go, however, at that age. In fact, Commissioner LaFrance stated, a suitable place is found before a child leaves the home.

The present institution consists of a three-story frame main building, built in 1893, barn and outbuildings. It has 40 acres of land which is operated on a farm basis. Plans are being formulated for an improved water supply to guard against extended droughts such as was experienced last year. In line with improvements, new fire escapes are being installed at the home at a cost of several thousand dollars. The home is financed from a tax imposed upon the towns in the county and from a portion of the tax on unincorporated business, which portion is annually determined and paid over to the state treasurer. The home is now under direct supervision of management of Superintendent Provendie and Mrs. Provendie as matron. There are now 169 children at the home, said Mr. LaFrance, 29 of whom are from the town of Windham.

Gold Star post No. 1724, Veterans of Foreign Wars, has named as delegates for the state encampment in Danbury in June, Commander James J. Lee, Fred R. Duprey, William O'Brien, Timothy Casey, Florimond N. Normandin, Samuel Guilford and Edward Donovan. It is planned to stage an entertainment soon with the proceeds to be turned over to the local G. A. R. post to assist in defraying convention expenses next month. A group of members of the post went to Danbury tonight to attend a banquet in honor of National Commander H. N. Duff.

John Clair Minot, literary editor of the Boston Herald, appeared for the third time before the Willimantic Woman's club at its meeting in the Model school Tuesday afternoon in one of his delightful hours of comments on current books. Editor Minot was introduced by Mrs. Arthur W. Gates, chairman for the afternoon. The meeting was in charge of the new president, Mrs. Charles W. Tryon, and the minutes were read by Mrs. W. A. Buck. Musical entertainment was by Clarence W. LaFleur, who was heard in charming piano renditions of Romance in F Sharp by Schumann and Debussy's De Gradus Ad Parnassum.

OBITUARY

Frank Wilson Greene

Frank Wilson Greene of Ashford town died at his home there about 2 o'clock this morning. He was born in Exeter, R. I., Jan. 23, 1863, a son of John T. and Lucy Davis Greene. He is survived by his wife; one sister, Miss Anna Greene of Providence, R. I., and his mother, Mrs. Lucy D. Greene, also of Providence.

Mrs. Phoebe E. Hall

Mrs. Phoebe E. Hall, widow of Frank Hall, died at her home in Windham Center Tuesday night. She was born in South Coventry, Aug. 8, 1843. The deceased, who has resided in Windham for many years, leaves two grandsons, Fred N. Brewer of Springfield, Mass., and Byron M. Brewer of New York city.

Alderman William E. Webber, chairman of the street committee of the common council, today stated that the first permanent street work of the season will be on Jackson street, from the railroad crossing at Union street to Valley street, where a new surface will be laid for a distance of 550 feet. Street Superintendent Edwin O. Sumner is making arrangements to start the work as soon as possible. The cost of this work is covered in the annual appropriation of $10,000 for permanent street construction. It had been originally planned by the street committee to start permanent work on lower Main street at a point near the American Thread company garage, where such work ceased last year, to the junction of Capen lane, to meet the proposed new highway layout.

The second of the series of union services to be held by Protestant churches during Holy week was held at the First Baptist church tonight with Rev. Frederick C. Williams of St. Paul's church preaching the sermon.

The enumeration work in this district slowed up considerably today as the workers invaded the sub-districts in the cities where they came in contact with many foreigners unable to speak English and causing much delay. Interpreters were used in many of these cases. Much evening work has been necessary, when the enumerators found all members of the family at work during the day.

The directors of the Willimantic Camp Meeting association held their annual meeting in the local Methodist church at 11 o'clock this forenoon with District Superintendent Myron E. Genter of Norwich presiding. The annual camp meeting services to be held in August were discussed and other matters pertaining to the camp ground property were taken up. The property belongs to the Norwich district of the New England Southern Methodist conference. Among those attending was the new pastor of the local church, Rev. Wilfred D. Hamilton.

Anglers, in scores and including not a few women, invaded the haven of the elusive trout in this section again today. In a patrol of the Bigelow brook and Natchaug river, Warden George A. Willis of Chaplin checked up on 143 fishermen who had a total of 1,496 trout in their possession. Many had the limit of 20 trout allowed for any one day. Nicholas Blanchard was over the limit and he was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Miss Theresa Daubeneck of Chaplin, who imposed a fine of $2 and costs, amounting to $14.96. Blanchard's fishing license and outfit was ordered confiscated by the court.

FUNERALS

Bert H. Gardiner

The services for former Representative Bert H. Gardiner were held at the Warrenville Baptist church at 2 o'clock this afternoon with Rev. T. Hawthorne Jones of Mansfield Center officiating. COLCHESTER

Mrs. Gussie Schwartz of Norwich avenue recently received an interesting letter from her son, Oscar Allen Schwartz, a private in Service Co., 5th regiment, U. S. marines, now stationed at Managua, Nicaragua. He has recently been assigned to duty on the military police force and is in training for boxing bouts with some of the leading Nicaraguan lightweights during the coming weeks. The following excerpt from the "Brigade News," a U. S. marines publication, is of interest to Colchester friends: "Oscar Allen Schwartz is still waiting for an opponent. Schwartz's weight is 138-140 pounds, and he's looking for someone to swap blows with. If there's an ambitious lightweight around with nothing to do, we can recommend him for a warm evening's entertainment if he'll just get in touch with the "Brigade News" or with Lieutenant Jordahl in the headquarters regiment."

Schwartz writes that he is enjoying his stay in Nicaragua and is looking forward to being promoted soon to the rank of officer in Guardia Nationals (the army of Nicaragua). He speaks Spanish fluently and has an enviable record as a soldier. He expects to be stationed fourteen months longer in Nicaragua and is planning to spend several weeks' furlough at his home here in September.

CHATELLE CHILD DIES OF INJURIES WHEN HIT BY CAR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, April 16.—The body of Leon Romeo Chatelle, Jr., a child in his third year, was brought here in charge of Undertaker L. E. Kennedy this afternoon from the Day Kimball hospital at Putnam, where the child died during last night of injuries sustained when struck by an automobile while running across the state highway near his home in Attawaugan early last evening. It was the first time for many weeks that a fatal automobile accident has occurred within the limits of this town.

Stephen Subolski, who lives on rural route No. 2 in the neighboring town of Foster, R. I., was operator of the touring car that struck the little boy. Subolski's version of how the accident came to happen is to the effect that while he was driving his car northward along the concrete state highway, the child ran out from the left side of the road. Subolski applied his brakes, but was unable to prevent the machine striking the child, who lived but a few hours after the accident. The circumstances surrounding the accident were investigated by a state officer from the Danielson barracks. Subolski was not held. Coroner Arthur G. Bill said this afternoon that he will hold an inquest in the case within a few days. The body of the dead child was taken this afternoon from the Kennedy funeral home here to the home of the parents of the child, Mr. and Mrs. Leon R. Chatelle.

Gets Suspended Sentence

Raymond Saucier, accused of stealing three saxophones from the home of George Phaneuf of Mechanic street last summer, was before Deputy Judge Charles S. Francis in the town court this morning and was given a sentence of six months in jail, execution of the sentence being suspended. The accused was represented by Attorney Harry E. Back. It has developed that Saucier came into the hands of the Worcester police who turned him over to Danielson state officers, through being arrested on an assault charge, which is still pending against him in the Massachusetts city.

Defends The Lowly Snake

Now here is something interesting about snakes, and it gets into the news this morning on account of there having been a story in this column during the current week of a man killing 48 black snakes on a farm place between East Killingly and Ballouville.

Judge James N. Tucker, who has lived around these parts upwards of 80 years, arose at his home in East Killingly this afternoon as the defender of the black snake, a harmless reptile and a great friend of man, he will tell you.

Insisting that he is no naturalist, nor even an authority on such subjects, Judge Tucker is, nevertheless, firm in his belief that the black snake is to be credited with the disappearance of the deadly rattlesnake from the town of Killingly.

Even within the life-time of Judge Tucker there were areas of this town that were infested with the hideous rattlers. One of these areas, the most noted of them, in fact, was in the Mashentuck district, and more particularly in the section northeast of the farm now owned by John W. Gallup. It is a rocky section with much ledge, ideal habitat for the snakes that can and have killed human beings. Judge Tucker personally recalls having seen with his own eyes ten large rattlesnakes being brought along the Mashentuck road in a wagon by the men who had killed them up there. Encountering rattlesnakes in sections of this town was not an uncommon experience back in those days, but a generation has since passed without a single one being reported. Judge Tucker says he believes, with many others, that the black snakes drove them out—probably killed them off in a merciless warfare of extermination. And he further believes that were the black snakes to disappear from this territory rattlers eventually would work their way back in here again. Further, the judge will tell you, that black snakes kill rats and mice and do other helpful work for man. He is for the black snake, and would not kill one under any ordinary circumstance.

Louis H. Bergeron, 16, of Harrisville, R. I., and Thomas Watson, 19, of Pocassett, R. I., were in the town court this morning to face vagrancy charges. These youths appeared at the state police barracks last night, asking for food and were held. Evidently they had been tramping about the countryside. Attorney Harry E. Back was appointed as their guardian this morning when the cases came up in court, both being minors. Attorney Back's contention was a status of vagrants had not been clearly established against them, so they were discharged from custody, and soon thereafter are said to have left the territory.

Frank Slavnskas of the Mashentuck district also came to court this morning. He was charged with having been intoxicated and with breach of the peace. The charge was that he took a sock at his wife co-incident with the opening of the major league baseball season, though that may have had nothing to do with it.

On the first charge Deputy Judge Francis fined Slavnskas $5.00 and on the breach of the peace charged sentenced him to serve 30 days in jail, execution of the sentence being suspended during the good behavior of the man.

Reports from various sources would indicate that residents of Danielson are being subjected to a high pressure epidemic of soliciting and canvassing, for one thing and another, and in some cases the canvassers have come under suspicion that all is not on the up and up with them or the proposals they present. It appears, too, that depressed business conditions is responsible for some of those who are out of work taking to house to house canvassing in order that they may earn a living.

The main point about the whole thing is that police should be advised immediately by telephone, if possible, when any proposition that looks at all suspicious to them is presented.

Last evening officers of Danielson chapter Order of the Eastern Star, were at Sergeant and Mrs. G. L. Gardner's new place of residence on Maple street for a house warming. There were entertaining diversions during the evening and refreshments were served.

From now on a daily check will be kept by borough police on School street, between Academy and Cottage streets, with a view to enforcing the pronouncement of Chief John McFarland that those who park their cars on sidewalks in the street will have their machines tagged and an order to appear in court issued. The section mentioned is a favorite parking place, and because the street is none too wide machines have been for months past partly parked on the sidewalks, chiefly to keep them from being hit and damaged by passing machines.

Joseph Birch of Danielson has been elected an honorary state vice-president of the Bull Dog club of New England.

The annual report of Frank T. Preston as borough treasurer shows that the indebtedness of Danielson as of March 31 last was $26,393.10, an increase of $2,832.93 during the past year. The indebtedness is distributed as follows: Notes, Brooklyn Savings bank, $18,000; notes, A. V. Woodworth, $5,000; notes, Nellie A. Cundall, $5,000; notes, Danielson Trust company, $6,000, a total of $32,000. Against these are the following receivables: Sewer assessments, uncollected, $1,120.42; sidewalks, $2,566.69; uncollected taxes, $813.80; cash on hand, $1,100.99. Of the uncollected taxes $67.60 is on the list of 1928, and $751.20 on the list of 1929.

Reporting as borough tax collector, Sidney H. Perry says that he wishes to thank the taxpayers for their prompt payments, and "to those who find it hard to meet the payment when due 'plan ahead'".

During the past year Collector Perry collected overdue taxes on the lists of 1924, 1925, 1926, 1927 and 1928, as well as the 1929 taxes, for a total of $23,115.58. Interest on overdue taxes collected during the year amounted to $219.41. It was found necessary to abate taxes to the amount of $375.56 on the list of 1928.

Miss Ruth Mellor was the Tri-Y leader and Harold Alvord the Hi-Y leader this morning at the Holy Week service at the Baptist church.

Dance tonight, town hall, Brooklyn. Polly and Her Pals orchestra.—adv.

Fishermen gazed with envious delight today on a pair of trout, each weighing a pound and three-quarters, on display in Meech's window. The fish were caught yesterday by Claude Chase of Broad street in Mt. Misery brook.

Rev. Albert Abbott, of the Methodist Episcopal church, was the speaker this morning at the Tri-Y-Hi-Y services at the Baptist church. Tonight's Holy Week services under the auspices of the Danielson Federation of Churches was at the Methodist Episcopal church. Rev. A. E. Tingley, Ph. D., of Moosup, was the preacher.

Next Monday Tax Collector James R. Walsh will begin the collection of town taxes, and will be regularly so engaged for a month thereafter.

Borough officers are being subjected to a very considerable demand for the construction of sidewalks under the arrangement whereby the borough pays half the cost and the benefited property owner the other half. While it may be impossible to comply with every request for construction during the current year, as much building as possible will be done this year, Warden Gaston A. Maindon said today.

Mrs. Hugh Mason of Brooklyn, as delegate, Miss M. J. Mendell, regent, Mrs. A. L. Cundall, members of Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., are in Washington attending the continental congress of the organization. The local chapter also is represented by Mrs. Eliza C. Kingsley and her daughter, Miss Louise Kingsley, members of the chapter here, but resident in Washington the greater part of the time.

Schools throughout the town of Killingly will close Thursday for the remainder of the week, Good Friday, being a scheduled holiday for the schools. Numbers of the teachers in the town's schools will go to their homes in various parts of New England for the brief Easter recess.

It was also voted to grant to John H. Bulger, chairman of the building committee, an additional sum of $200 to be expended in the work of eliminating the debris in the rear of the new Putnam high school athletic field on School street, which for a number of years has been dumped on the grounds creating an ugly eyesore there.

County Commissioners Arthur C. Keith, this city, and Burt J. Johnson of Woodstock, with Commissioner Urgele LaFrance of Central Village, attended a meeting of the Exchange club at Willimantic last evening. During the session Commissioner LaFrance addressed those present and in his talk defended conditions and policies of the board of commissioners in managing the county home in Sawyer district. In the past two months, Kenneth L. Messenger, commissioner of the state bureau of Child Welfare during talks before the Exchange club has brought the policies of the county commission in discharging affairs at the home under fire. Mr. LaFrance refuted charges that the home is a fire trap and explained that fire escapes necessary to afford ample means of escape for inmates in case of fire have been provided.

Mr. and Mrs. William Kirk, and Mr. and Mrs. Leon S. Hart of Syracuse, N. Y., Mrs. Georgianna Sponcey of Scotia, N. Y., and Mrs. Albert Servant of Southbridge are the guests his week of Sergt. and Mrs. A. J. Sponcey at their home on Water street.

Official fire drills conducted in the schools in accordance with the state fire laws, by Fire Chief Ralph E. Thurston recently show that students in the various schools are well trained with regard to responding to fire alarms in a safe and efficient manner. Putnam high school set the highest record, the report showing that the student body cleared the building in 49 seconds. The time required by other schools follows: Israel Putnam school 1 minute 29 seconds; St. Mary's parochial school (old), 1 minute; St. Mary's (new), 1 minute 34 seconds; Smith street school, 33 seconds; State Trade school, 1 minute 22 seconds. Chief Thurston expressed himself as being elated over the standard of efficiency established by students in all of the schools.

Leon A. Trudeau, 26, of 26 Pearl street, Webster, alleged murderer of his wife, Cecelia, indicates he expects to launch a strong offensive in May before the Worcester county grand jury, to clear his name of murder charges, by his retaining of Attorney Fred W. Cronin, Worcester lawyer who has already been engaged to defend Miss Lena Wieczek, 17 year old Worcester girl, who is being held as a material witness in the case. Attorney Cronin will assist Attorney Telesphore Leboeuf, Webster lawyer, who is counsel for Trudeau. The Trudeau murder case which developed at Webster on the night of February 23, with the finding of the strangled body of Mrs. Trudeau on the Putnam-Thompson road, is expected to come to the grand jury on May 11, when it sits at Worcester. It was said today that the case would possibly come to trial later in the month if an indictment is returned against Trudeau, now being held in the Summer street jail in Worcester. The police claim that Trudeau killed his wife during a quarrel while they were riding in an automobile between Wilsonville, Conn., and Webster.

A delightfully interesting and entertaining musical programme featured the social side of the weekly meeting and luncheon of the Putnam Rotary club held at noon today at the Putnam Inn. The entertainers were Ensign and Mrs. W. J. Lawrence and family of the Salvation Army post at Middletown. The family proved to be a highly talented and versatile group. They rendered selections on an assortment of musical instruments. Chief among the instruments which they played upon were piano, cornet, xylophones, musical bells, rods and saws and bass horn. During a number Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence and family brought out the beautiful tones and musical color of many famous compositions with the queer instruments. A daughter of Ensign and Mrs. Lawrence, an artist of exceptional ability, who is only 18 years of age rendered selections on a number of the twenty-five instruments of which she is capable of playing, during the programme.

President S. Nickoloff presided at the executive session, at which Mr. Nickoloff, with Alexander Gilman, vice president of the club were named delegates to the annual spring conclave of Rotary to be held in Holyoke, Mass., on May 1 and 2. It was announced at today's meeting that a new board of directors for the ensuing year would be elected at the meeting of next week.

It was reported this afternoon that a slight improvement was noted in the condition of Miss Alice Young, 18, 343 South street, Southbridge, patient at the Southbridge hospital, who was seriously injured in an automobile collision in North Woodstock, Saturday evening.

Mayor Charles A. Richard of Putnam is seeking information concerning the whereabouts of relatives and descendants of Mary E. Parsons, who was born in Wilsonville in the year 1850. According to Mayor Richard, he is in possession of information of vital importance to relatives or heirs of the former Wilsonville resident. Mayor Richard in asking the assistance of The Bulletin to aid in his search for persons to whom the information which he possesses concerns, he requested that they communicate with him at once.

The mayor stated that he was informed Mary E. Parsons, who was born near Wilsonville in the middle of the 19th century, emigrated to Ohio when a young woman and there married Judge John Garver of Fremont, Ohio. In playing the role of an investigator Mayor Richard has thus far learned that persons next of kin to the wife of Judge Garver were Wilsonville residents, Ida Cobett and I. S. Cobett, but has no trace of their whereabouts at the present time and would appreciate any information concerning them or their heirs.

JEWETT CITY

SOUTH CAROLINA POLES REPLACE STONE HILL ONES

The Southern New England Telephone company's linemen were erecting new poles in the Main street section Wednesday. When this line was first established here, the poles were cut from the chestnut forests on Stone Hill and were bought for $5 each. Today the new settings are from South Carolina and are costing one dollar for each foot in length. Plans were being made Wednesday by the telephone people and the municipal light and power plant, to give all wires that cross Main street, between Slater avenue and the north borough line, a 25-foot clearance from the road bed. This arrangement, which will be temporary, is necessary to allow for the operating of the big steam shovels and cement mixers that will be used on the road construction job through Main street, which is to begin at once.

The big 40-foot, 40-dollar pole at the corner of Main and School streets, like the other replacements is to be set on top of the curb and lashed to the old pole, in order to furnish added peak clearance. The top rigging for wire carrying is to be made permanent for both the telephone and light circuits. When the cement highway is completed the poles will be dropped into new holes with minimum disturbance of the phone cables and current wires.

During this road construction it will be necessary to establish a system of detours to handle the Main street traffic at different points as the new sections are closed for travel.

The new granolithic walk on the Main and Ashland street fronts of the new Jewett City Savings bank was completed Wednesday. The grading plans on each side of the main entrance will include a granite curb from which the lawn will slope back to the under-pinning. The walk has been poured, with spaces cut out to leave no crowding of the roots of the five big maples which were included in the bank's purchase. A tree surgeon has been engaged who will trim and "doctor" these trees, so that for many years they may stand as an enhancement to the architectural beauty of the building, which is presenting each day some new attractive feature, as it nears completion.

Mt. Misery Trout 2 Lbs.

Mount Misery brook came into its own Tuesday. According to official reports sent in by telephone to the fish and game commission in Hartford, the largest trout reported as having been caught in the state weighed 2 pounds, and was taken from Mt. Misery brook. Nobody secured the lucky angler's name, but Dr. F. D. Browning and L. E. Boucher, who were engaged in hauling in their quotas from a nearby pool, witnessed the landing of the prize winner. Last season, from this same brook, Steve Duffy caught one in May that weighed 2 pounds, eight ounces. This fish won the prize of a $50 outfit offered by the Hanover-Curland Co., of Norwich. Nor does the foregoing report from Hartford tell of all the distinction that was claimed for Mount Misery.

Woman Angler's Rig

Among the checked-up anglers who lined the stream were two who were qualified in the Miss or Mrs. Walton class. One of these fair anglers wore boots that were possessed of astonishing possibilities. These peculiar gear were a cross between hip wading boots and a balloon. After the tops was fastened tightly around the waist, they were inflated, after the manner of an automobile tire, then, what matter that the water was like ice, the warmth of the body was communicated to the air cushion, and although the wearer presented somewhat the appearance of an animated Zeppelin, fishing was carried on with comfort. It was explained, however, that one must keep on an even keel, as a capsize would be accompanied with disastrous results.

She Lost 19 Pounds of Fat In 27 Days

During October a woman in Montana wrote: "My first bottle of Kruschen Salts lasted almost 4 weeks and during that time I lost 19 pounds of fat—Kruschen is all you claim for it—I feel better than I have for years."

Here's the recipe that banishes fat and brings into blossom all the natural attractiveness that every woman possesses.

Every morning take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast.

Be sure and do this every morning for "It's the little daily dose that takes off the fat"—Don't miss a morning. The Kruschen habit means that every particle of poisonous waste matter and harmful acids and gases are expelled from the system.

At the same time the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels are toned up and the pure, fresh blood containing Nature's six life-giving salts is carried to every organ, gland, nerve and fibre of the body and this is followed by "That Kruschen feeling" of energetic health and activity that is reflected in bright eyes, clear skin, cheerful vivacity and charming figure.

If you want to lose fat with speed get an 85c bottle of Kruschen Salts from Lee & Osgood or any live druggist anywhere in America with the distinct understanding that you must be satisfied with results or money back.

ITS VIGOR AND HEALTH APPEAL TO SPORTSMEN THE WORLD OVER

1. The very foundation of "Canada Dry" is "Liquid Ginger"—which we make from selected Jamaica ginger root by a special process.

2. This process is exclusively controlled by us and, unlike any other method, retains for "Canada Dry" all of the original aroma, flavor and natural essence of the ginger root.

3. Therefore, this fine old ginger ale has basic excellence, a quality exclusive to "Canada Dry," and the property of the makers of this ginger ale.

The lithe, active men and women of this country find exhilaration and vigor in its crystal depths. It has the quality of the game well played. It has the quality of sportsmen. It is unquestionably the sportsmen's beverage.

No wonder it is served all over the world. No wonder it has won the approving nod of connoisseurs. No wonder it is a drink of distinction. Remember to order it today!

CLEAN UP AND STAY CLEAN

In a communication where the clean-up idea is endorsed, a Boston letter writer gives his approval to the plan to get the city in shape so that it will be attractive to the thousands of visitors who will visit that city during the tercentenary of the Massachusetts Bay colony, but he suggests that "when we become clean, we remain so for the sake of those who live in Boston, who should have sufficient pride in their city to wish to have it clean at all times rather than put on company manners before strangers."

There is, of course, much to be said in behalf of this advice. It likewise applies to other cities as well as Boston. It doesn't amount to much to get everything spic and span this week if it is going to be just as bad as it was, or nearly so, next week. In the clean-up there are expectations that it will be more or less lasting.

For many residents there is nothing needed in the way of cleaning up much more than the removing the deadwood of shrubs, trees and last year's flowers, or raking up the leaves which have been serving so efficiently to protect the shrubbery or flower beds during the winter. Once that is done it will not be necessary to do it again until the leaves fall in the autumn. But that isn't what the Boston writer has reference to. He unquestionably refers to those who are constantly using their yards for a dumping ground and make a practice of beginning it all over again about as soon as they participate in a clean-up campaign.

For the most part there is little or no excuse for disgraceful conditions. By a little effort good appearances can be maintained from one year's end to another. There is no good reason for leaving rubbish where it makes a bad appearance, no excuse for putting it where it will be an eyesore to others, no justification for getting it out of one's sight only to have it jar the sensibilities of others who must pass it.

Get a city clean and keep it clean is nevertheless a goal for which every city has reason to strive. It means a better place in which to live as well as a better community in which to receive visitors.

DANGEROUS CONCOCTIONS

Poisonous liquors, or concoctions which are being used as substitutes for liquor, have been the cause of much investigation, many arrests and an untold number of deaths. Those who have gone from one thing to another since the coming of prohibition must realize that the decision has rested with them, but the effect upon health has caused much alarm throughout the country.

First there were those who were killed by the drinking of wood alcohol. It was sold to them for drinking purposes. They were ready to buy whatever resembled liquor and what could produce a kick and they continued to buy it even though the kick was as deadly as that of a mule. Gradually there was a reduction of that death-dealing stuff only to have another alarm spread because of the deadly character of the fusel oil that was to be found in the products of the home distillery. This, too, was overcome, or the cry against it subsided, and now the interest centers about the paralysis that comes from the drinking of Jamaica ginger. It made its appearance first in the middlewest. Now it is the cause of much concern in Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

Jamaica ginger is nothing new and a study of the cases indicates that the paralysis was not caused by wood or grain alcohol. Through the testing of samples of the concoctions it seems probable that the real cause of the trouble will be located in time, so that it will be known whether poisonous material has been included in what was not hitherto considered dangerous or whether the demand for this type of drink that intoxicates has led certain makers to actually manufacture and distribute a dangerous article.

It may be said that those who use intoxicating beverages do so at their own peril. The resort to all sorts of substitutes has been one of the developments of prohibition. There have been those who have produced them to encourage and to satisfy a demand and there have been those who have been only too glad to appease their thirst by imbibing such frightful stuff. It is unquestionably because of such concoctions that the demand for different conditions has arisen.

THE WORLD COURT

Even though it might have been felt that the outcome of the Illinois primary was going to be the straw that would cause this country to turn against the world court, such is not the case. While the world court was one of the matters harped on in Illinois, it is improbable that it was the issue on which the primary hinged.

It was quite evident following the visit of the successful candidate in the Illinois primary to the president that the primary result had not influenced his attitude in regard to the court. In his address to the Daughters of the American Revolution, he took occasion to make it clear that he is still favorably disposed toward it and confident that it is the desire of the country that the United States should become a member.

In this address the president made it clear that it is a desirable thing that we should adhere to the court and that it is a logical step in connection with the efforts and actions in behalf of international peace.

The objection which has been raised in this country to membership in this tribunal was set forth in the reservations which were adopted when the question of joining was up for action. While there were nations which were willing to accept our reservations, others were not. Consequently, we did not join. But recognition was given to the fact that the differences were susceptible of adjustment, a conference was held and under the plan suggested by Elihu Root, our representative, a way was found.

The objections concerned the matter of advisory opinions by the court. There was objection to making the demand for such opinions unanimous before action was taken, but it was agreed that if opinions were asked to which this country was opposed it could withdraw from the court without having it considered an unfriendly move.

That is the way the matter stands today. Under such conditions we cannot be taken at a disadvantage. We have secured virtually all we sought under the reservations except actual unanimity in seeking court opinions. Such objections as exist to the existing stipulations the president believes are removable, that entrance into the court for the settlement of justiciable controversies is a logical step and that entrance does not involve entanglement or limitation of independence by this country. The president hasn't said when we shall join but it is apparent that he has not seen any reason for changing his mind.

TROLLEYLESS CITIES

It may have been thought that the time would not come in this generation when the cities would see the disappearance of the electric cars. This was because it was believed that there were too many who depended upon the service which they furnish to permit them to stop. But the petition is before the utilities commission for the abandonment of the trolley line into and through the city of Middletown.

What the outcome will be will depend upon the disclosures that are made by the petitioners as to the number who are being served by the cars and the objection that is raised in behalf of the public.

It is to be realized, however, that it is not the complete abandonment of service that is sought. While it is the ending of the trolley service that is sought, the desire is that bus service should replace it. It thus becomes a matter of disclosing whether proper accommodations, possibly better, can be given the patrons of such public service through the operation of busses instead of electric cars.

Such a substitution creates less surprise today than it would have a decade ago. In suburban service, bus lines have to a large extent replaced the trolleys. It is conceivable that the removal of trolley service in many of the city streets would be a great relief to the traffic situation in cities where streets are narrow and getting more and more congested. On the part of the trolley companies it is not improbable that just as good a schedule can be maintained and that busses can be operated at less expense than electric cars with their heavy overhead.

Middletown is not the first city to face such a situation and it will not be the first to have electrics replaced with busses if that action is authorized. It is, nevertheless, a change that is coming earlier than it was believed it would a few years ago, but one that seems less radical as transportation improvements develop.

PAY-AS-YOU-GO

There comes a time in every city when there is a rush to indulge in bond issues and in time there comes the reflection that it is a costly proposition, especially when those bonds run on and on forever and new ones are added frequently. In the course of time the reflection is that the money which is being paid on those bonds is taking a large share of the city's revenue and taxes are steadily going upward.

In New Haven at the present time the city is being urged to sanction a $350,000 bond issue for park development, a request has been made for a $100,000 bond issue for permanent pavement, while the city has several other sizeable public improvements underway or projected.

This moves the New Haven Register to declare that "We have a regular succession of bond issues for permanent pavements . . . It would be a far sounder and more economical practice to finance these expenditures with current revenues. A little careful planning on the part of the paving commission and of the budget makers should enable the city to adopt that practice without imposing undue burdens on the taxpayers and without detriment to the condition of the streets."

New Haven is apparently one of those cities which has reason to give more serious thought to the policy of pay-as-you-go, a policy whereby the outlays are devoted more particularly to the necessary work than to the interest account and a practice which should have, in time, a pleasing effect upon taxation.

A STRONG SITUATION

Two human beings may disagree on politics, auto makes and brands of toothpaste and still present to the world a happy matrimonial front. But when it is a question of the onion—to have not or to have—that is something else again.

All her girlhood life Clare had been just as fond of that vegetable bulb as of the smallpox. It was never served on the family table. She grew up without knowing the gastronomic delight lurking in tiny green onions annexed to salt and a slice of homemade bread and butter. She abhorred salads with the epicurean touch of onion juice in the dressing or the subtle, unnamable tone of just little enough garlic.

And here was Gregory, whose social grace always had thrilled her, looking up from the platter of liver and bacon at this third dinner in their honeymoon apartment and saying these words: "Tastes just fine, angel—but next time let's have it smothered in onions. That's the only way to serve liver and bacon, don't you think?"

It was true, what elderly feminine misanthropes had fiendishly hinted, that men were disappointing without exception. All of them. Even one's own husband. She sighed. Gregory must be pleased and catered to even though it meant wretchedly perfumed draperies. She served every remembered variety of protein food before it was again time for the liver and bacon dish. She marketed.

"I want," she confessed in a tense voice to the man in the fruit and vegetable shop, "an onion."

"H'm?" parried the clerk. "Just what kind of an onion do you wish, lady?" There was no false pride about Clare.

"The kind of an onion," she explained, "that goes with liver and bacon. No—one is enough. I do not eat them myself."

Gingerly she extracted the onion from its nest in the head of lettuce and set it on the farthest corner of the service window sill. It was silver skinned and the size of a small lemon and all day it winked malignantly at her. If Gregory did but know it, that onion was more than a vegetable. It was a symbol of wifely devotion, of self-abnegation.

Somebody, she had always heard when matrimony was discussed, somebody had to do the giving in, the adjusting. It could not be expected that two persons would be equally unselfish. Perhaps some day when Gregory came, hat in hand, to look at her tombstone, he would take time to realize how she had never thought of self, always of him and his comfort and wishes.

And just as she reached for the hated onion it was not there. The janitor had removed the papers and debris through the service window an hour before and probably had knocked it down behind the refrigerator. She could not open the service window from the hall without unlocking it and the janitor had the key. She summoned him.

"It was just one onion," Clare explained with dignity. "I was going to give my husband liver and bacon smothered in onions for dinner tonight. I don't eat the things so I just bought one."

"Sweet cookies!" stammered the janitor or words to that effect. He often ate fried onions at his own table. He vanished and was back shortly with a bagful of onions, two pounds of them from his own larder. But he was diplomatic, knowing the whims and dignities of bridal cooks. "Don't be afraid to use all you want," he suggested as he left.

Clare peeled and sliced three onions, urged on by some warning in the janitor's tone. It seemed a frightful lot. She fried them gently as the cookbook recommended. She watched them shrink with amazed eyes. Onions certainly were queer but, then, Gregory wanted them. His nostrils twitched with delight the instant he entered the house.

"Fried onions!" he cried ecstatically.

"What's this?" he inquired in pale disappointment ten minutes later, touching with a fork the teaspoonful of brown stuff on the center piece of meat. Clare burst into tears. She had been wanting to weep ever since she had peeled the onions, so it was a relief.

"You horrid thing!" she stormed. "After all I've gone through to get what you wanted! Why, it's the onions smothering your hateful old liver and bacon! Don't—don't touch me!"—Exchange.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 16—From dusty files in Washington, the stuff of a new book of heroes is being drawn.

It is the story of the bravest of the brave of those who wore the gray in the war between the states.

So utterly has that rift of the 60's been swept into the past by time or washed out by the blood of men from both sides the Mason-Dixon line spilled under the Stars and Stripes on foreign soil in later wars, that Uncle Sam is lending his full aid to the task of writing this roll of honor of "the lost cause."

Heroes All

Soldiers of the confederacy never knew the distinction that now comes to American military heroes in the awarding of valor crosses or medals of honor.

The war was over, the archives of the confederacy in enemy hands in Washington before plans for such decorations became effective.

But there was provision made for recognition of great gallantry.

Among those old books from Richmond, now worm-eaten and all but falling apart, is the roll of "Promotions for Valor and Skill," usually made in the field.

Probably it numbers less than 400 men although the search of the records, made at request of a southern writer who is preparing to publish this account of amazing deeds, is still incomplete.

The books themselves do not tell the story. They refer merely to "personal papers" in the archives. And it is to these original hand-written documents, often drawn up on odds and ends of paper, frequently rain-spotted and now and then touched with darker, perhaps more sinister stains, that the researcher must turn.

They are now so old that they tear easily at the creases where they have lain folded for decades. On the backs are the endorsements from company or battalion commander all down through a roll of famous names, Breckinridge, Hardee, A. P. Hill, Bragg, Wilcox, Robert E. Lee. And the last signature of all, usually, is that of Jefferson Davis, approving the promotion as president of the confederacy.

Gallantry

Picking over a handful of these invaluable old documents at the war department, the Bystander came upon one approving promotion of Sergeant Luke E. Wright, of Wright's Battery, Tennessee artillery, to commissioned rank for gallantry in action at Murfreesboro in January, 1863.

"He fought his piece when the enemy was within 75 yards of his position with only two cannoneers using double charges of canister with great effect," the battalion commander, Major R. E. Graves, had written. Wright's older brother, the battery commander, was killed in that action.

It bears the approving signatures of Major General Breckinridge, Lieutenant General Hardee and General Bragg.

And years later that sergeant was a democratic war secretary in Washington in a republican administration, that of President Taft.

YOUR HEALTH

Hobbies Viewed From A Medical Standpoint

By Norman C. Yarian, M. D., Cleveland.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

I am a firm believer that "All Work and No Play Makes Jack A Dull Boy," and that the statement has a far deeper meaning than is usually attributed to it. Not only does every one need occasional cessation from labor in order to follow the pursuits of happiness, but it is equally necessary as a health measure.

For the same reasons we should all possess at least one "hobby" which is capable of absorbing our interest and to which we may turn for recreation and diversion. A hobby need not take much of one's time, but should be something which can be taken up when spare moments are available and which will serve to cause complete forgetfulness of work and worry. I know of nothing which will so completely restore a mind and body worn with care and work as rest combined with some form of agreeable diversion, preferably something entirely foreign to one's daily occupation.

Physicians generally recognize this and are much given to cultivating hobbies themselves. The Cleveland Academy of Medicine recently held "An Art and Hobby Exhibit" at which the members displayed the various products of their hobbies. The exhibit proved to be an exceedingly interesting one and we were all amazed at the variety and the high quality of the hings exhibited. The display included oil and water color paintings, pen and ink drawings, photographs of unusual interest and artistic value, silver and gold work, plants and flowers grown by the physicians themselves, and many other beautiful objects of their handiwork. The exhibit did credit to our profession and revealed interests and abilities more or less a surprise to all who viewed products of the doctors' recreation.

"What's sauce for the doctor is sauce for the rest of men. Most persons take life too seriously and need something which will so take hold of them as to cause them to forget themselves, and in so doing allow nature a better chance to perform her functions naturally and without inhibitions.

The "Ideal Hobby" should conduce to health of both mind and body and gardening meets those requisites to a remarkable degree. Gardening is healthful to not only mind and body because they are agreeably occupied at the same time but especially because that occupation is mostly pursued in the open air and sunshine.

The health giving qualities of sunshine are being more and more understood and appreciated and by many persons whose health is below par would be greatly benefitted by more sunlight.

Of course each person will determine for himself just the thing which suits his own tastes best but let me urge upon you to cultivate some sort of hobby. It will help to make life worth the living and you will find it an invaluable source of diversion when tired and worn by the everyday routine of work and worry. Learn to play.

"Help Through Hope"

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse: "They feared as they entered into the cloud; and a voice came out of the cloud" (Luke 9:34, 35).

Read: Luke 9:28-36.

MEDITATION: The cloud was not as fearful as the disciples thought. A voice came out of it showing that God was in it. Few situations are as dark as they at first appear to be. If we enter the situation bravely we find good in it that we had not suspected, and could not see from outside. Resources come to us in hours of crisis. Peter found the iron gate open when he got to it. Dr. Gunsaulus in his early days preached a memorable sermon on the two words: "Nevertheless—afterward." What seems catastrophe may appear far otherwise in the light of subsequent events.

Ye fearful saints, fresh courage take;
The clouds ye so much dread
Are big with mercy and shall break
In blessings on your head.

PRAYER: O Thou, who lovest the strength of men and whose rewards are for the seeing eye and the pathfinding spirit, inspire us to trust Thee greatly and be unafraid. In days of cloud teach us to listen for a voice that is within the cloud. Amen.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Unc' Billy Wastes a Lot of Time

A lot of time some people waste
While thinking they are making haste.
—Old Mother Nature.

Unc' Billy Possum could think of nothing but fresh eggs. No one likes eggs better than does Unc' Billy Possum. Now that he suspected that Mrs. Quack the Mallard Duck had a nest somewhere around the Smiling Pool or down the Laughing Brook, his one and only thought was to find that nest. He smacked his lips as he thought of the delicious big eggs that must be in that nest.

"Ah reckon there mus' be a lot of 'em too," said Unc' Billy to himself. "Yes, sah, Ah reckon there mus' be a lot of 'em. Sis' Mallard believes in big families and Ah agrees with her there."

Now, Unc' Billy is very sly. Some people think him stupid, but he isn't at all stupid. Often when he appears most stupid he is in reality most clever. It is part of his cleverness to appear very stupid at times. He is smart enough to know a great deal about his neighbors. He knows a great deal about Farmer Brown's hens and about ducks and about other birds that nest on the ground, and even about many that nest in trees. The reason he knows so much about them is because of eggs. If you would have eggs you must know about those who lay eggs and where they make their nests. So Unc' Billy has paid considerable attention to these things.

He noticed that when Mrs. Quack left him, after he found her getting her dinner in the Smiling Pool, she slipped away into the blackest of the Black Shadows, just where the Laughing Brook leaves the Smiling Pool. He had grinned when he saw that she tried to slip away when she thought he wasn't looking. Right away he guessed that that nest was somewhere along the Laughing Brook, below the Smiling Pool. You see, he knew that there is a little swamp through which the Laughing Brook flows on its way from the Smiling Pool to the Big River. Unc' Billy was sure that somewhere over there Mrs. Quack had her nest.

"All Ah done got to do is to look aroun' over there. Ah reckon Ah can fin' it," said Unc' Billy.

So Unc' Billy shuffled around the Smiling Pool to the back of the Laughing Brook. Once there, he began to move very carefully. He used his ears. He used his nose. He used his eyes. Unc' Billy can see fairly well in the dark, but he didn't depend on his eyes. He depended a whole lot more on his nose. To a good nose it makes no difference whether it is light or dark. Every time Unc' Billy heard a leaf rustle, he turned in that direction to investigate. He worked down one side of the Laughing Brook for a long distance. He was looking for the place where Mrs. Quack left the water to go to her nest. He knew that if he could find that he would find the nest.

He didn't find it on that side of the Laughing Brook. By and by he came to where a tree had fallen across the Laughing Brook. Unc' Billy crossed on this tree. Then he started up the Laughing Brook on that side. Slowly he shuffled along, listening, looking, smelling. He began to wonder if he could be mistaken after all. He began to wonder if it could be that Mrs. Quack had no nest, but was simply stopping over longer than usual. He ought to have found some trace of Mrs. Quack by this time.

Unc' Billy was wasting time, but he didn't know it. All the rest of that night he hunted around in that swamp below the Smiling Pool. And for all his hunting he didn't find so much as a feather which might have belonged to Mrs. Quack. When daylight came Unc' Billy decided that he was too far from the Green Forest to go back there; so he hunted around until he found a hollow log and into that he crept. He was disappointed, but he was not discouraged. He had wasted a lot of time, but Unc' Billy is one of those persons with a lot of time to waste.

He worked down one side of the Laughing Brook for a long distance

Stories That Recall Others

Whiskers

A large branch fell from the tree in the front yard of two-year-old Don.

"Whazzat?" said he, pointing to the twigs on the limb.

"Why, it's the tree's whiskers," answered his sister, with all the wisdom of her five years.

Going With Dad

Joseph was found filling his father's traveling bag to its full capacity with his various possessions. His mother inquired what it was all about.

"Daddy said when you started house-cleaning he was going to leave home and I'm packing to go with him," replied the counterpart of the man of the house.

He had joined a golf club, and on his first round he hit the ball a mighty swipe which by some miracle landed it in the hole in one.

At the second tee came another miracle. Again he did the hole in one, and as the ball disapeared into the hole he turned round, white and trembling.

"Gosh, he breathed. "I thought I'd missed it that time."—Judge.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut.

The Montgomery Company, Windsor Locks.

The present Montgomery company, of Windsor Locks, was established as a partnership in 1871 and started business March 2 of that year, with J. R. Montgomery as the active partner.

In 1885, George M. Montgomery joined the company. The line of manufacture, at that time, was somewhat expanded over the original production of cotton warps.

In 1891 a corporation was formed under the name of The J. R. Montgomery Co., which purchased the business, then conducted by J. R. Montgomery & Co.

In 1896 the organization began the manufacture of tinsel products and has continued to develop that line until at the present time it is the largest manufacturer of this line of goods offering its products to the United States market. It includes tinsel conductor cordage used in telephone and switchboard cords, as well as tinsel for decorative purposes, Christmas ornaments, etc., and in various fabrics such as draperies, upholstery, dress goods and knit fabrics. It has thus added to Connecticut another thriving metal industry, the manufacture of metal in various forms, being one of Connecticut's outstanding productions.

The company occupies six stories of large, modernly constructed buildings, including a well appointed dyehouse, as well as a large brick storehouse.

In October, 1928, the company was reorganized and is now doing business under the name of "The Montgomery company."

The present officers are: George M. Montgomery, president; C. H. Pomeroy, vice president; Spencer Montgomery, treasurer and general manager; J. Robert Montgomery 2nd, assistant treasurer; and G. Milton Montgomery, Jr., secretary.

STONINGTON HUSBAND'S SUIT FOR ALIENATION SETTLED

A statement was made Wednesday in the $10,000 alienation of affection suit brought by Frank Kesslar of Stonington against Edwin L. Wilkinson of Stonington, which was to have gone on trial before Judge Allyn L. Brown in the superior court at New London.

In the complaint the plaintiff alleged that he had been married to Mary S. Kesslar for six years and had been happy, when the defendant alienated her affections and broke up his home.

Four of the eight other cases scheduled for trial Wednesday were listed as ready when court opened Wednesday morning. A settlement was effected in one other. This was in the suit brought by Kate T. Burrows of Groton against Helen B. Croff, Ada M. Donnelly, the Groton Savings bank and William L. Main, to recover $575 damages and to obtain possession of a tract of land in West Mystic avenue, Groton, on which the suit was based.

The plaintiff claimed that Leila A. Bentley and Edward Bentley conveyed the land in question to her in September of 1911. It was then claimed that on July 11, 1927, Arthur P. Anderson, administrator for the estate of Leila A. Bentley, gave a deed for the land in question to defendants Croff and Donnelley. According to the allegations, the latter defendants took possession of the land July 18, 1927, using the property with other property to secure notes of $2,350 with the Groton Savings bank and $2,150 with William L. Main.

New London—Alfred H. Miller, Charles Sisk, Raymond L. Vallee.

Plainfield—Earl Leino.

MAKING TEMPORARY CHANGES IN FIRE DEPARTMENT

Several temporary changes went into effect in the local fire department Wednesday, due to the illness of Chief Henry R. Taft. Captain John E. Blackburn of Engine No. 3 was, Wednesday evening, transferred to the central fire station as acting deputy chief, taking the place of Deputy Chief D. J. Brennan who is now acting chief of the department. Lieut. Arthur Porter has been transferred from the central station to Engine No. 2, as acting captain. William Burns has been made acting lieutenant, taking Lieut. Porter's regular assignment. Walter Krzesicki, call man, has been assigned to Truck No. 1, as substitute. Chief Taft is improving rapidly at his home, No. 18 Coit street. He is now able to be up and around.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Charles D. Swain

After an illness of long duration, the life of Mrs. Mary Katherine Holland Swain, 71, widow of Charles D. Swain, came to a close Tuesday evening at 7:55 o'clock at her home, No. 12 Maple street. She was born in Dudley, England, December 24, 1858, the daughter of the late John and Susannah Woodall Holland. She came to this country when a young girl and in 1877, in Preston, was united in marriage with Charles D. Swain.

Surviving are four sons, Herbert, Arthur, Clarence and Maurice Swain, and one daughter, Edith Swain of this city. There are also two brothers, John and James Holland of Kingston, Wash., and two half-sisters, Mrs. John Benton and Miss Lillian Holland, both of Norwich. There are also four grandchildren.

Fined In Norwich City Court

At the city court session Wednesday morning a fine of $5 and costs was imposed on Charles Peterson of No. 103 Merchants avenue, on a charge of driving an automobile with defective brakes. He was stopped Tuesday by a motor vehicle department inspector who was examining automobiles for defective equipment. The inspector claimed that the car was almost entirely without brakes but the accused claimed that the brakes were in good order.

The season for heated arguments is now open.

FINE GIFTS TO GOVERNOR TRUMBULL AT NORWICH SPORTSMEN'S BANQUET

The Norwich Fish and Game association turned out an enthusiastic gathering of close to 200 to greet Governor John H. Trumbull, who was the guest at the association's annual banquet Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the Wauregan hotel.

Governor Trumbull's informal talk, "as one sportsman to another," which was the way he put it, was followed by several very agreeable surprises for him, when he was presented with a two-pound trout for his breakfast, a gift from Engineer Holmes of the Inland Paperboard company at Versailles, a present for Mrs. Trumbull consisting of five yards of the finest black velvet from the J. B. Martin company, and a Thermos luncheon kit from the American Thermos Bottle company. The last named was contained in a bench-made leather case and consisted of two one-quart Thermos bottles, with nest of cups and a porcelain lunch box.

The gifts were made through the association president, former State Senator Hermon J. Gibbs, and Arthur E. Story, a former president of the association, to whom Governor Trumbull expressed his sincere thanks and desired them to convey to the donors an expression of his deep appreciation of the gifts.

President Gibbs, who had been elected to the office at the annual meeting preceding the banquet, expressed a cordial welcome to the governor when the post-prandial part of the evening was reached, and presented Mayor Lee Roy Robbins as toastmaster.

Mayor Robbins congratulated the members upon the gathering and their choice of Senator Gibbs for president and introduced the different numbers on the entertainment programme with humorous touches.

Lang's orchestra, which had played "Hail to the Chief" as the governor came into the room, also played for Edward T. Connelly as song leader and Mr. Connelly rendered "Mother Machree" and then sang an old-time minstrel number for the governor.

Don Fraser, nationally known cartoonist, a resident of Salem, presented a capital entertainment with a series of deft drawings and cartoons with witty comments.

After another solo by Mr. Connelly, a clever sleight of hand entertainment was given by A. Chester Brown (Professor La Montague), another Salem man, and then Mayor Robbins introduced "the Flying Governor of Connecticut" who has done more than any other governor of recent years to make the name of Connecticut widely known.

Governor Trumbull Speaks

Governor Trumbull, who is an ardent sportsman, addressed his fellow sportsmen in an entertaining way, congratulating the Norwich association upon having so many men who love the great outdoors.

He had not had the opportunity, he said, to get out after trout on the first day of the season but he had been interested to see what the returns had been, as checked up by the game wardens. In 1928 there had been 10,985 trout taken the first day, 8,836 in 1929 and 11,442 this year, but this was probably only about 20 per cent of the fish taken. He went on to say that organizations such as the fish and game club could and should do much towards encouraging the conservation and restocking of our natural resources. The state had put out over 600,000 trout in the past year besides distributing pheasant, partridge, quail, pickerel, bass, perch and other fish.

He went on to speak of some of his own hunting and fishing experiences in New Brunswick, Florida, Wyoming, Maine and Florida, and also of the thrill which he finds in stalking game with a camera, and declared that the true sportsman was not the man who was never satisfied unless he got the limit, but we should have some consideration for those who are to follow us. Governor Trumbull declared his belief that the state's present policy, if continued, would once more make Connecticut a happy hunting ground for its sportsmen.

The state received $48,360 from hunting licenses in 1928, for angling licenses $76,247 and from combination licenses $53,240, he said, and he believed that the fishing license money of $3.35 gives more in value than one gets in any other way from the true sportsman's standpoint. He also advocated fishing with barbless hooks.

The governor's talk was warmly applauded and he was given a rising vote of thanks as the meeting concluded with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

Because of the lateness of the hour the committee in charge decided to postpone the showing of three reels of pictures which had been furnished by the National Sportsman.

Election of Officers

At the annual business meeting, which preceded the banquet, with President Louis J. Ortman presiding, annual reports were made and officers were elected as follows:

President, Hermon O. Gibbs; vice president, Wm. LaRochelle; secretary and treasurer, Kenneth W. Fox; board of directors—Louis Ortmann, Arthur E. Story, George Weller, Dr. W. T. Driscoll, Joseph Harrigan; fish committee—Henry Bates, Frank Lathrop, Charles A. Hagberg; game committee—Frank Rockwood, Paul Higgins, Emil Sweet; nominating committee—P. H. Jahn, H. C. Noyes, Frank Rockwood.

BOY SCOUT SPEAKER FOR C. A. R. CONGRESS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The National C. A. R. congress began Tuesday. The morning session opened at 10:30 o'clock, the pages marching in, followed by the officers, with the U. S. Marine band playing. Greetings were extended to all present by Mrs. Percy Quin, national president of the C. A. R. This was followed by the salute to the flag, prayer, and greetings from various people. The chief feature was the address to the congress, given by Secretary of Labor Davis in person, which was broadcast.

The first part of the afternoon session, which opened at 2 o'clock, was given over to the reading of the reports of the national officers. These were followed by the reports of the state officers, among which was Mrs. Bostwick's, Connecticut's state director. Then came a short program, put on by the Girl Scouts of Washington, which was very interesting. The final feature was a most interesting little talk given by Robert Dick Douglas, one of the three Boy Scouts who went to Africa with Martin Johnson's expedition. He spoke about "Lion Hunting," and describing the lion as the gentleman of the jungle. The meeting closed at 4 p. m., to be followed by a teadance at the home of Mrs. Henry Lenno Sawtelle, 6200 Connecticut avenue.

STATE BUREAUS FOUND MORE JOBS IN MARCH

A slight increase in the total percentage of persons furnished with employment by the state free public employment bureaus during March is noted in the report made public by Commissioner of Labor Harry E. Mackenzie, a total of 3,741 persons being furnished with employment out of the 4,795 applying.

The following are the records for each office: Hartford, 955 persons applied for employment while 598 applications for help were received, of which 570 were filled; Danbury, 244 persons applied for employment and 222 applications for help were received, of which 20 were filled; New Haven, 572 applications for work, 485 for help; 461 persons placed; New London, 113 applications for work, 70 for help, 70 placed; Bridgeport, 831 applications for work, 525 for help, 476 placed; Waterbury, 737 applications for work, 450 for help, 440 placed; Norwich, 676 applications for work, 186 for help, 186 placed; Stamford, 667 applications for work, 333 for help, 338 persons placed; totals, 4,795 applications for work, 2,869 for help, 2,741 persons placed.

Of the female applicants for employment 68 per cent were supplied with work as compared to 65.3 in the previous month, and of the males applying, 48.5 were furnished with work as compared with 47.9 in the previous month. Of all applications for employment, 57.1 were furnished with work as compared with 55.6 in February, and 95.5 of the total number applying were furnished with help as compared with 96.5 during the preceding month.

For Insurance Agents' Renewals

Only two weeks remain for the renewal of insurance agents' licenses by the Connecticut insurance department. The law provides that licenses must be renewed by May 1 of each year. The most recent estimate of the number of agents' licenses in effect in Connecticut was about 30,000. This does not mean that there are 30,000 agents in the state. An agent is required to have a separate license for each company he represents. There are 6,400 agents and 400 brokers now transacting insurance business in Connecticut.

Will Have Outdoor Meeting

Unless there is bad weather on Friday Troop 1, Boy Scouts, is to have an outdoor meeting to start at 8:30 in the morning from the Community house. All wishing to pass tests are to bring the materials. The place for the meeting is not to be announced but the troop plans to arrive at Fort Shantok late in the afternoon for a meeting, supper and campfire. Those attending are to bring all hiking equipment and food for two meals.

DROPPED DEAD IN WEST THAMES STREET

Walter Samokar, 41, of No. 191 West Main street, died suddenly Wednesday morning in West Thames street shortly after 5 o'clock as the result of a heart attack. He had been suffering from stomach trouble for the past few weeks and had been under a physician's care. It is thought that he became deranged from pain, as about 5 o'clock in the morning he suddenly rushed from the house down West Main street to Thames square, and down West Thames street, where he collapsed in the vicinity of the school house.

Michael Samokar, brother of the dead man, set chase after him but was unable to catch him until he reached the spot where he dropped dead. The police were notified and Officer Hanks went to the scene. Medical Examiner C. C. Gildersleeve pronounced death due to heart trouble and gave Undertaker Julian Woitjkowski permission to remove the body. Mr. Samokar was born in Russia, was unmarried and had been living with his brother, Michael Samokar for some time.

ALPHA GAMMA RHO DANCE AT STORRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, April 16.—Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity at Connecticut Agricultural college conducted its annual spring formal dance in the Community house this evening, with an attendance of more than 35 couples. Burton Cook, '32, of Stratford, was chairman of the general committee; Roderick Beaulieu, '32, of Willimantic, of the orchestra committee; Ralph Scott, '31, of Grosvenordale, of the refreshment committee, and Charles M. Dittrich, '30, of Waterbury, of the decorations committee. The decorations were in green and gold, the chapter colors, and music was by a Hartford orchestra.

The patrons were Mr. and Mrs. Harold S. Schwenck, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson, and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel E. Noble.

OLDEST PARISHIONER OF CHRIST CHURCH, NORWICH

As Easter nears and members of churches are accounted for, it is probable that one of the oldest parishioners of Christ Episcopal church, Norwich, if not the oldest is Edward Harland Miller, who has an apartment at 261 West 22nd street, New York. Mr. Miller had a birthday early in March and is past eighty.

He was a member of the Sunday school of the Norwich church when Rev. Dr. William F. Morgan was rector. Dr. Morgan baptized all the children of the Miller family, Mr. Miller, his two sisters and his brother, in 1852. Dr. Morgan left Christ church in 1857, going to New York as rector of St. Thomas' church, then corner of Houston street and Broadway.

Mr. Miller's father was in business on Norwich Town Green and the family lived in the house on Washington street opposite the entrance to Harland road and afterwards for a time the home of former Mayor and Mrs. Frederick L. Osgood. After the death of their parents, Mr. Miller and his sister went to New York, found out St. Thomas' church and the sister was put in the choir by Dr. Morgan, singing there for several years.

When Mr. Miller was a small boy in Christ church Sunday school his teacher was Miss Gertrude Tyler daughter of Gen. Dan Tyler and mother of Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt. Among other members of the class were Augustus C. Tyler later Colonel Tyler, U. S. A., and William Mills.

Mr. Miller is the last of his family. Every summer he spends several months in Norwich; all his relatives rest in Yantic cemetery. He has continued in fine health, but of late years has been hampered by the effects of an accident a few summers ago, when he slipped on the wet asphalt pavement of a New York street while on his way to purchase his ticket to come to Norwich. At that time his hip was badly broken and although nearly recovered, the accident has left him slightly lame.

Mr. Miller belongs to several New York clubs and military organizations and is a former vice president of the Norwich Society in New York. Nothing has ever diminished his ardent love for his native town of Norwich and he retains an equally ardent affection for the church into which he was baptised so long ago.

GEO. MARIE HAARDT TO CROSS ASIA BY AUTO

Georges-Marie Haardt, the "motor car Livingstone of France," who led an amazing expedition of eight automobiles through 15,000 miles of deserts and jungles of darkest Africa, while in Washington this week made the first announcement that he plans a similar expedition, probably with ten cars, across Asia. He will follow to some extent in automobiles the route that Marco Polo took when he brought to Europe its first news of Cathay's coal, paper money, and the incredible pomp and power of Kublai Khan.

Will Take "Talkies" and Send Radio

The Asiatic expedition will have in its equipment one car which will be a powerful short wave radio station on wheels, to keep in daily touch with France. Two other cars will be equipped with sound recording motion pictures cameras.

"Mr. Haardt's motor car expedition crossed the heart of Africa from Algeria to Mozambique, and included a trip through the little known interior of the mammoth island of Madagascar," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Untamed Taureg tribesmen had to be bribed to pilot the automotive caravan across vast stretches of the uncharted Sahara. More than 40,000 natives were put to work blazing a trail through 875 miles of otherwise impenetrable jungles of the Belgian Congo.

"One object of the expedition was to trace a route by which France may project a railroad to link its vast provincial holdings in Africa. It had other official commissions from the French Colonial office, the Air Ministry, and the French Geographic society. This entailed scientists and engineers who made observations in their respective fields, and photographers and sketch artists who made records of inestimable value to scientist and layman alike.

Cars Had Caterpillar Systems

"The expedition had eight 10-horse power Citroen cars, equipped with caterpillar systems in addition to regular front wheels. Each car had a trailer, and both cars and trailers had to carry extra water, gas, and oil tanks.

"The initial stage of the journey was across the great Sahara to Burem, on the Niger River. One area of this part of the trip included the almost unknown Tanezrouft, a country devoid of resources; no wood, no grass, no growing or living thing, no water for 330 miles. Skeletons of previous travelers attested the perils of this area.

"The expedition encountered the Tuaregs, mysterious and marauding desert tribes. The men wear veils which cover the face and suggest the helmets of the Crusaders. Along the Niger, southeast of Burem, the party came across a hunter disguised as a bird.

" 'From a piece of wood he had carved a bird's head and neck, feathered it, and supplied eyes and an open beak,' Mr. Haardt said. 'He placed this device around his forehead and went into the bush on all fours. Moving slowly and stopping at times to peck at the ground or to examine his surroundings, just as a real bird might have done, he was able to approach close enough to birds and hares to kill them with a stick.'

The Man With 100 Wives

"At Tessawa, in the southern Sahara, 3,000 of Sultan Barmou's Hausa riders escorted the motorists into the town amid the din of tom-toms and trumpets. The Sultan is a modern Solomon who is one of the few living men with a hundred wives. He permitted the expedition's photographer to visit his harem and take snapshots of his extensive household.

"The expedition explored the swamp-bordered, island-studded Lake Chad. Many of the islands are floating, made of a light wood used also for boat building.

The "Ugliest Beauties" In The World

"The Peuhl tribe, who practice flagellation of youths as a test of manhood before a youth is granted tribal privileges, was studied. Beyond Lake Chad were found the Mazzas, who mutilate the lips of their women by piercing holes in them and inserting wooden disks.

"Another curious people were the Yondos, who sit in motionless dignity on thronelike stools and have a strange language that resembles a guttural cough.

"Toward the Congo the expedition turned its major attention to obtaining zoological specimens. They made a side trip from Yalinga to the Am Dafok swamp, jungle haunt of antelope, lions and elephants. Then, returning to Yalinga, the explorers found a swamp where 40 hippopotami were playing and a halt was made to photograph and study them.

A Primitive "Wireless"

"In the Belgian Congo the explorers pierced the Equatorial Forest, where they came upon tribes practicing a primitive 'wireless' communication of surprising ingenuity. It is effected by drumlike instruments called goudougoudous, made of wood, hollowed out on the early 'loud speaker' principle, and struck with hammers encased in rubber. Various sounds are made according to the place and strength of the strokes.

"This 'sending station' is placed in the middle of the village, Mr. Haardt explained, just in front of the chief's hut. When a message is to be sent the native operator strikes it off and the sounds can be heard six miles away.

" 'We rather doubted the efficiency of this strange telegraph until we were forced to believe by a personal experience,' continued Mr. Haardt.

" 'When passing through a certain village we asked its chief for four chickens to be brought to us a short distance ahead on the road we were to follow.

" 'As the goudougoudou player struck the message off on his instrument, we drove rapidly away, so that the chief could not cheat by sending runners off ahead of us. Three miles beyond the village a native stood waiting by the roadside with the four chickens we had asked for. We were convinced.'

"When the expedition reached Lake Victoria it split into four sections, each heading for the Indian Ocean by a different route.

"The expedition spent nine months upon its journey, traversed 15,000 miles, crossed 127 water courses, and brought back museum specimens and data which yielded a book, numerous scientific reports, sixteen miles of motion picture films and more than 8,000 still photographs."

FAMOUS STORMY PETREL'S ESTATE PLACED ON MARKET

THOMSON, Ga. — (AP) — Another chapter in the career of Senator Thomas E. Watson, of Georgia, whose political career was reflected throughout the nation, is being written.

"Hickory Hill," famous estate of the stormy petrel, has been placed on the market by his granddaughter, Miss Georgia D. Watson, who is the present owner.

With its natural beauty and numerous varieties of magnificent trees, "Hickory Hill" has been termed by many foresters as one of the most beautiful original growths in the south. The residence of Colonial architecture stands framed in the midst of a miniature forest.

THE PLAUT-CADDEN COMPANY GROWS WITH NORWICH

The story of The Plaut-Cadden Co. is the story of over a half-century of Norwich plus the story of the faith in Norwich of its founder and the perseverance and progressive spirit of his capable business successors. As Norwich grew its stores grew. As Norwich became modern its stores became modern.

In the 58 years since Abraham Plaut (father of Rutherford C. Plaut, president of the company) founded the business it has grown in scope and prominence from a very small store to the present great two-store institution that could well challenge the whole of New England to produce a more complete, more modern and more popular department store of home furnishings, home appliances and musical merchandise.

What made the Plaut-Cadden company survive the competition and business depressions of this long period of growth and change was the character of its leadership and the type of relations with the public of eastern Connecticut which that leadership maintained.

Adelard Morin, vice president, in commenting on the growth of the company said: "Visitors to our stores from everywhere, marvel at the size of our stock. They are apparently astonished that a business of this size selling such high grade, exclusive merchandise can keep thriving and expanding in this community. However, when they learn of the significant things that distinguish The Plaut-Cadden company stores from others, they understand why we have grown and keep growing.

"When an old establishment like this can go along year after year doing an ever increasing business it is conclusive that we must give real values and satisfying service. The public learns to distinguish between real values and mere low prices at our store, and they appreciate the difference is attested by their patronage. Strict adherence to our policy of giving the utmost in value, in satisfaction, and in service is a cardinal principle of our business. Any store doing business likewise cannot help but be successful."

The Plaut-Cadden company also operates a large store in New London.

IT WILL PAY YOU TO VISIT DOWSETT'S HOUSE O' GIFTS

Here, with the fascinating environment of exquisite gifts from the Orient as well as from the most exclusive domestic marts, romance of the Revolutionary days mingles in a happy blending of the loveliest antiques with the most delightful gifts. All that is new and desirable in wedding gifts, birthday gifts, bridge prizes, etc., is to be found always at this old house, made famous by the dashing Ensign Backus during the stirring days of 1776.

The marvelous architectural beauty of this old house attracts countless patrons, and its beautiful carvings and interior, supply a background that is not only alluring, but altogether charming.

Social engraving for wedding announcements, invitations, calling cards and all formal occasions, is promptly supplied from the most reliable and correct bureaus of engraving.

Costume jewelry of the most unique character, delightful French stationery and pottery of the sort that is different, all offer an appeal that is irresistible.

Here you can buy in a leisurely, comfortable way, free from commercial interruptions. Plenty of comfortable chairs, and interested and efficient clerks to help you with your gift problems. Special sales of musical merchandise at attractive prices are offered at regular intervals, due notice of which is given in this paper.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Dowsett, the proprietors, are always on hand to meet their friends and present to them the very latest offerings of the gift markets, as well as the highest types of the most sought for antiques. Prices are lowest consistent with high quality.

PORTEOUS AND MITCHELL CO. HAS HAD STEADY GROWTH

In March, 1873, a new dry goods store opened its doors at 93 Main street in the city of Norwich, Conn. It was a small store in comparison with present day standards, but it was then considered large for Norwich, which at that time had a population of 15,000. There were five clerks to wait on trade besides the three proprietors. The establishment covered 1800 square feet of floor space.

"You have all the room you will ever need," said the owner of the building to the members of the firm.

"Maybe so," they told him.

Then the firm of Hislop, Porteous & Mitchell started to build a reputation.

Several weeks ago the same store celebrated its 57th anniversary in business. One of the founders is still at his desk, actively engaged in the management of the business which is now known as The Porteous & Mitchell Co.

The store has grown considerably in half a century and is the parent store of other larger department stores. It has furnished the sinews and life blood of several retail enterprises in other cities and has produced the men with the requisite merchandising brains and managing ability to make them all successful.

The opening of the store was proclaimed in a newspaper advertisement which today is a highly interesting statement of policy. The opening announcement which appeared in The Norwich Bulletin, April 5th, 1873, stated—Our stock has been carefully selected and will retail at lowest New York and Boston prices. Strictly one price.

The firm's declaration concerning its one price policy was highly significant at that time, for it was an era of bargaining and haggling over the counter between buyer and seller. The practice of marking the price plainly on an article—a price that was uniform for everyone who went into a store—was not general by any means. It was a new thing even in the communities where John Wanamaker, Marshall Field and R. H. Macy were laying the foundations of the great retail enterprises that were to make them famous.

Another cardinal feature of their selling policy was to guard against misrepresentation, not only in dealing with customers over the counter but in describing goods and values in printed advertising, and the concern has been working on this basis ever since.

It was not long before the original Porteous & Mitchell Co. store faced the necessity of expansion, not withstanding the confident prediction of the landlord, who thought that more space would never be needed. An adjoining building was taken over to house the rapidly expanding dress goods department. In subsequent years the store was enlarged from time to time by acquiring various properties nearby; new departments were installed and old ones expanded, and finally it possessed a frontage of 150 feet on Main street. At present the store covers an area more than twenty times as large as the original shop that made its debut in 1873.

Mr. John Porteous, the surviving member of the firm, is still active in the management of the business after 57 years of strenuous service, having always devoted his attention primarily to the buying in which he is generally recognized among experienced department store men as highly competent.

SNAKES, BATS PLAGUE LISTENER IN CAVE TEST

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—(AP)—Australia, England, Holland and scores of American short wave stations were logged by Eric Palmer, jr., in tests conducted 500 feet underground in the Carlsbad caverns in New Mexico.

But it was not the listening that gave him the biggest thrill, young Palmer said. Rattlesnakes and bats did that. The snakes interferred with reception in the nearby camp, and bats covered the short wave transmitter and receiver inside the cave.

Palmer, who was a member of the Nicholson expedition, described reception in the cave as unusually good.

STATION TO ATTEMPT 7 MESSAGES AT ONCE

SAINT ASSISE, France —(AP)— Simultaneous transmission of seven messages from the same transmitting apparatus, each of 100 words a minute, is promised soon by Commandant Garnier, in charge of the station here.

Built ten years ago, the station was equipped for long distance work on waves of from 10,000 to 22,000 meters. Now it works Buenos Aires on 15.45 meters, retaining the long wave equipment for testing.

When present plans are completed, Commandant Garnier says, either seven messages may be sent at once or the apparatus may be used for one telephone conversation and three messages.

WEST CLAN SEES TRIUMPH IN BYRD'S ANTARCTIC TRIP

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Another triumph for the West family is seen by Mrs. Edward C. Stone, Washington genealogist, in the Antartic expedition of Commander Byrd.

Byrd, says Mrs. Stone, is claimed as one of the most distinguished West descendants. She has gone back into the ancient records of the Wests, she herself being a descendant of the line, and found that noted men are thick on the branches of the family tree.

Roy Owen West, Chicago lawyer and former secretary of the interior is another descendant. Senator William E. Borah, James Edward West, executive head of the Boy Scouts of American; Bina M. West, prominent in national Republican politics, Charles H. West, authority on Mississippi flood control and prevention; Judge Du Val West of Texas, who was President Wilson's personal representative in Mexico, in 1915, and others.

3,000 LIGHTS NOW GUARD ATLANTIC COAST SHIPS

WASHINGTON—(AP)—From Maine to Porto Rico, Uncle Sam has placed nearly 3,000 lights to make a white way for ships off the Atlantic coast.

The beams range in candlepower from five to 1,000,000 with visibility, under ordinary conditions, of from five to 27 miles.

There are also 8,500 unlighted aids to navigation which include fog signals, radio beacons, submarine signals, whistling buoys, iron and spar buoys, and day marks.

TOURISTS CARDS TO PERMIT 6-MONTH STAY IN MEXICO

LAREDO, Tex. —(AP)— American tourists this year will be permitted to enter Mexico for a stay as long as six months through issuauce of a tourist card by the Mexican-American Automobile Association.

The cards, costing 50 cents, which is a Mexican government tax, are issued at the Laredo chamber of commerce.

The new cards are expected to prove of great advantage to American tourists, serving the same purpose as a passport.

ASSOLANT, OCEAN FLIER, GOES BACK TO OLD JOB

LE BOURGET—(AP)—Jean Assolant, after a few months of glory for crossing the Atlantic last June, has gone back to his old job as a pilot on the Paris-Strasburg air line.

Assolant still is popular but he also is poor and he has to make a living. He met kings and presidents when he and his companions, Lotti and Lefevre, made a tour of European capitals after their trans-Atlantic flight but there was no salary attached to the job of spreading the fame of France.

Flying is Assolant's trade, his every-day work that puts butter on his bread. His pastime is football.

New Hangars At Atlanta

ATLANTA—(AP)—Candler field, Atlanta's airport, will have three new hangars. One of them will replace a structure recently destroyed by five which ruined 21 planes.

MAKES PLANES SAFE, BUT STAYS ON LAND

RICHMOND, Va.—(AP)—The man who makes flying safe for Virginia aviators has never been off the ground in a plane.

His is James M. Hayes, Jr., newly appointed inspector of aircraft.

However, since his job is to make flying safe—and the experts are agreed that the place to do this is on the ground, not after the plane is in the air—the inspector believes his lack of flying experience will not prove a serious handicap.

WESTERLY

EASTER SUNRISE SERVICE AT CALVARY BAPT. CHURCH

An Easter sunrise service will be conducted Sunday morning at 6 o'clock in Calvary Baptist church, arrangements having been completed by the Westerly Pastors' association, of which Rev. Arnt L. Schoning, pastor of the Broad Street Christian church, is president. The Young People's society of Christian Endeavor and kindred societies of Westerly and vicinity will have charge of the services. The Protestant churches cooperating are the Broad Street Christian, Calvary Baptist, Grace Methodist Episcopal, First Baptist, Pawcatuck Seventh-day Baptist and Pawcatuck Congregational. The program will be for a service of praise and song.

For Sunday evening at the First Baptist church, the pastor, Rev. and Sir Knight Byron U. Hatfield, has extended an invitation to Narragansett commandery, No. 27, K. T., of Westerly, to attend the 7:30 service in a body, in full Templar regalia. Commander Francis M. Johnson at the annual Christmas commandery observance announced that this invitation had been received and later the invitation was voted accepted at a regular conclave. In previous years, with few exceptions, this service has been held in the Commandery asylum, Masonic hall, High street. Special instrumental and vocal music was provided and some well-known speaker or clergyman secured to make the address, in services which were in charge of the commandery prelate.

FAITHFUL TEACHER HONORED—FUNERAL OF MISS McNELLY

Westerly public schools remained closed Wednesday morning and the school flags were at half-mast, out of respect for Miss Annie M. McNelly, Elm street grammar school teacher, who died Sunday afternoon. The funeral service was held at the Church of the Immaculate Conception. The high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. J. F. Vincent, S. M. Burial was in St. Michael's new cemetery. The bearers were Henry J. McNelly, Jr., Dr. Harold F. Doyle, Raymond Garity, William J. Bannon, Bernard J. Lynch and Thomas Shea.

The Westerly Players' club, Wednesday evening, presented two one-act plays in the auditorium of the Public library. The nominating committee reported, but officers for the coming year will not be elected until the next meeting. The plays were directed by Mrs. Charles F. Hammond and Miss Fae Hope, and the members taking part were Miss Dorcas Austin, Joseph Keane, Miss Mildred Taylor, Donald Livingstone, Miss Winnifred Bogle, Miss Louise Coy, Mrs. Ralph Segar and Mrs. Isaac G. Smith.

OBITUARY

Mrs. William G. Cogswell

Mrs. Lizzie H. Cogswell, 78, who died Friday at Los Angeles, was the daughter of William Hutchinson, who lived in Westerly from 1865 to 1885. She was an accomplished musician, having studied not only in this country, but in England and Italy. It was at Milan, Italy, that she married William G. Cogswell, who died 17 years ago. In California she made considerable reputation as a singer and teacher and a few years ago completed the composition of an opera and oratorio. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Susan B. C. Zundel and Mrs. Sarah C. Delm, both well known in Los Angeles musical circles.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Julius C. Gallup

Mrs. Mary E. Harvey Gallup, 85, died Wednesday morning at 5:30 at the home of her sister, Mrs. Antoinette A. Ripley. She had made her home in the Road district for a number of years. She was born in Preston City, Conn., the daughter of Urian and Mary Brackett Harvey. She was the wife of the late Dr. Julius C. Gallup of Bristol, R. I. Surviving her are a son and a daughter residing in Bristol, R. I., a daughter in Norfolk, two sisters, Mrs. Grace H. Stoddard of Mystic and Mrs. A. A. Ripley, and a brother, Allan W. Harvey of Stonington.

Dr. Irving Colby, Westerly osteopath residing in New London, on Tuesday noon underwent a minor operation at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, New London. He was reported Wednesday as recovering favorably, with hospital discharge the last of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Champlin have returned, after the season passed at their winter home, Daytona Beach, Fla., to reopen their Westerly home, 4 Elm street. As has been his custom for a number of years, Mr. Champlin stopped off to attend the first of the season's major league games in Washington.

Alvin A. Ziegler, connected with the sales department of the South County Public Service company of Westerly, accompanied by his wife and mother, were in Providence Wednesday. From the East Providence airport the party enjoyed a 40-minute air trip over Providence and Wickford, as passengers in the cabin monoplane, "Smiling Thru."

MYSTIC

BAILEY-FOLEY WEDDING AT HOME OF THE GROOM

(Special to The Bulletin)

MYSTIC, April 16.—At the home of Frank E. Bailey, Windy Ridge, Stanton lane, West Mystic, Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, his son, Frank Oscar Bailey, and Miss Marjorie Claire Foley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Foley of Dorchester, Mass., formerly of Mystic, were united in marriage by Rev. Byron U. Hatfield, pastor of the First Baptist church, Westerly, of which the groom is a member. The best man was Theodore F. Anderson and the matron of honor was Mrs. Westinus Doer, of Groton, sister of the bride. The bride was married in a traveling suit of brown tweed and pale pink silk blouse, with corsage of sweetheart roses. The matron of honor wore a gown of eggshell crepe and her corsage was pink sweet peas. The color scheme of decorations was yellow and green, daffodils being used. Only near relatives of the bride and groom were present. A wedding luncheon was served, after which Mr. and Mrs. Bailey left on a wedding trip to Washington, D. C., by automobile. On their return they will reside at West View, Willow Point, where a newly-furnished home awaits them. The bride was employed in Peterson's, New London, before leaving Mystic, last February. The groom is employed by the Groton & Stonington Bus Co. The groom's gift to the best man was gold cuff links and the bride's gift to the matron of honor was a string of cut crystals. Both have many friends in Mystic who wish them a long and happy wedded life.

This (Thursday) afternoon, there is to be another hearing in regard to the location of another gas station in town, at the corner of Willow and East Main streets. Some time ago a hearing was held on the same matter, and the selectmen of the town refused to grant the application, on the grounds that under the law the location was not a suitable one, on account of the intersection of Willow and Main streets at this point, proximity to the United States postoffice, width of the highway where there is so much travel on this Boston and New York road, the danger to the traveling public and the lack of public necessity to locate in this particular section. Now the gas company has changed its plans somewhat, but is not eliminating any of the objections raised at the first hearing. There is also a great deal of opposition to the location in this residential district of a Yellow Gas station or, in fact, any other station. A report has it that the selectmen have been under pressure to grant this application, but their integrity has been unshaken.

When the Taxpayers' Protective league of the town of Groton held a meeting in the D. of A. hall, Noank, Monday evening, there was a good attendance from here, much enthusiasm was shown and many matters of interest to the taxpayers were discussed.

Mrs. Gladys Bogue Frink, who died at a hospital in Hartford, Monday, was a native of Mystic and relatives and friends here regret to hear of her death.

The April business meeting and social of the B. Y. P. U. of the Baptist church of Old Mystic was held Tuesday evening with Mrs. Emily B. Holmes. During the business session, it was voted to give some money toward painting the parsonage. Following the business session, refreshments of plum pudding with whipped cream, cake and cocoa were served.

Williams' Woman's Relief corps met in G. A. R. hall Tuesday with a large number of members and guests present. Nine past department officers and members of Sedgwick corps of Norwich were present. At 6 o'clock a chicken pie supper was enjoyed. Following the meeting, an interesting program was carried out.

Mystic grange gave a whist in Grange hall, Tuesday evening, in charge of the economics committee, Mrs. Harriet Neff, Jr., chairman. There were 12 tables in play. High score in straight whist was made by Mrs. Clara Leise and Mr. Musurvy; low by Mrs. Sophie Tyler and Herman Anderson. At bridge, Mrs. Albert Wilson and Floyd Atkins, Mrs. Berkowitz and Joseph McDougal received the prizes. Refreshments were served.

The April meeting of the Mystic Building and Loan association is to be held Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wheeler of Old Mystic have visited the former's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Austin, of Westerly.

Mrs. Nellie H. Davis and Miss Alice Mitchell of New Haven, visited relatives in Old Mystic the first of this week.

Mrs. Ida Crandall is confined to her home by illness.

Mrs. Earl Finney is entertaining her mother, Mrs. Newman, of Preston.

Miss Ruth Dodd has resumed her duties at the Sadonia Mills, having been ill with a severe grip cold.

George Startz with his family visited his brother in Groton recently.

J. M. Whitman is able to be out, after being confined to his home by illness for the past three weeks.

Mrs. Mary Briggs has returned to her home in Old Mystic, after three weeks' visit with relatives in Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Gould have opened their home in the village, after spending the past months at their winter home in Florida.

Mrs. Avis Lawrence of Stonington spent Monday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Hempstead.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Thomas Cummings

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Donahoe Cummings, 60, widow of Thomas Cummings of High street, Mystic, died Monday evening in the New York Polyclinic hospital. She had gone to South Norwalk to visit relatives recently. Her husband died March 31 and was buried Thursday, April 3, exactly two weeks ago. Mrs. Cummings was born in the house in which she had lived here, the daughter of Hugh Donahoe and Anne Ryan. Before her marriage in 1915 she taught school for a number of years. She is survived by three cousins, Mrs. J. Cahill of South Norwalk and Ellen and Edward Smith, who have made their home with Mr. and Mrs. Cummings since the death of their parents.
